DELMARK CELEBRATES 55 YEARS!

COMPLETE DELMARK CATALOG INSIDE

INSIDE: Remembering Little Arthur Duncan, Rudy Rae Moore, and Studs Terkel. Delmark & Old Town School. Reviews of new blues CDs. Lists of jazz & blues CDs, DVDs, LPs, books and cassettes, plus box sets, t-shirts, and postcards.

New Jazz & Blues CDs for Delmark's 55th Year

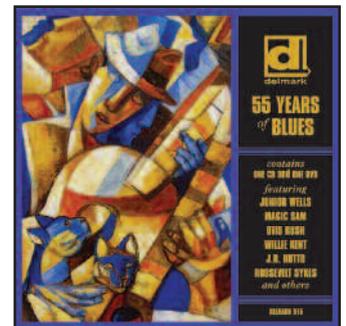

Delmark • 55 Years of Jazz Delmark DE-914

Contains one CD and one DVD! After wearing out Delmark's 2003 set celebrating 50 years of great jazz you probably thought you were going to have to wait at least until 2013 for another such anniversary collection but when you've got a rich catalog like Delmark's and a label head like Bob Koester who is committed to keep expanding that catalog, why not seize every opportunity to throw a party for your enterprise--and all the great artists behind the candles on the cake? CD features Coleman Hawkins, Sun Ra, George Lewis, Curtis Fuller, Deep Blue Organ Trio, Francine Griffin and more. DVD features Nicole Mitchell, Ari Brown, Fred Anderson, Chicago Underground Trio and more.

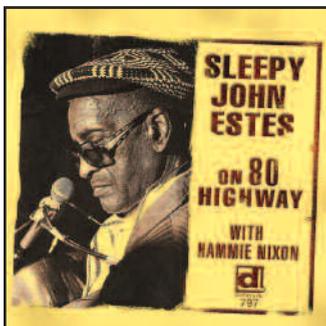

Delmark • 55 Years of Blues Delmark DE-915

Contains one CD and one DVD! Delmark's 55th anniversary blues bash at Buddy Guy's Legends on March 7, 2008 was suitably festive, with most of Delmark's local blues roster on hand and a Delmark Day proclamation from Mayor Daley. The role that Bob Koester, his label and his Jazz Record Mart have played since relocating some fifty years ago from St. Louis in nurturing and furthering the Chicago blues scene have broadened its horizons and benefitted virtually everyone involved in some way. CD features Junior Wells, Magic Sam, Otis Rush, Speckled Red, Willie Kent and more. DVD features Tail Dragger, Byther Smith, Jimmy Burns, Zora Young's performance from the 55th anniversary bash and more.

Sleepy John Estes On 80 Highway Delmark DE-797

John Adam Estes was born on January 25, 1904 in Ripley, Tennessee. His recording career spanned six decades from the '20s until his death on June 5, 1977. "Sleepy John Estes was one of the most individual of all recorded blues singers. He sang with phrasing that fairly dripped with expressiveness in a high crying tone that seemed often like he was speaking to the listener. The songs he wrote were well suited to this treatment, dealing frequently with his and his neighbors' lives in Brownsville, Tennessee." - Gerald Brennan. This session from July 19, 1974 was recorded just before Sleepy John and Hammie Nixon departed for a tour of Japan. None of these performances have ever been issued. Sleepy John Estes, vocals, guitar; Hammie Nixon, vocals, harmonica, kazoo.

John Burnett Swing Orchestra West of State Street / East of Harlem

with special guest RANDY SANDKE Delmark DE-584

In addition to being the host of WDCB's "All Things Jazz" John Burnett is the leader of "maybe the best contemporary swing big band on the planet" -Amazon.com. Formed in 1999 this orchestra is comprised of top-notch Chicago musicians and features guest vocalist Frieda Lee. This live recording was captured at Fitzgerald's in Berwyn, IL (the album title refers to the street location of the venue) and the band is joined by special guest trumpeter Randy Sandke. Groovin' High, Night In Tunisia, Struttin' With Some Barbeque, One O'Clock Jump, Sweet Georgia Brown, April In Paris and more. "His object is to keep the big band alive and swingin'. In this, he has done admirably well." -Louie Bellson.

Delmark Doings

1000 RECORDINGS YOU MUST HEAR BEFORE YOU DIE!

Can you guess which two Delmark landmark recordings were listed in the new essential book "1000 Recordings You Must Hear Before You Die?" No, not Jr. Wells' Hoodoo Man Blues and Roscoe Mitchell's Sound, but Magic Sam's seminal 1967 recording, West Side Soul and Anthony Braxton's For Alto from 1969!!

DELMARK'S BOB KOESTER AND JIMMY BURNS ON TV!

Delmark's Bob Koester, along with one of our favorite blues artists, Jimmy Burns, recently appeared on local PBS TV- WTTW on their highly acclaimed Chicago Tonight with Phil Ponce. Bob was interviewed, talking about his over 55 year passion for the music, and a few blues musicians he regretted not recording (the unsung Chicago blues singer/guitarists Bobby King and Willie James Lyons.) The talented Jimmy Burns performed solo, singing/playing "Boogie Chillen'" (with a shout out to WTTW) and "Drown In My Own Tears!" Thanks Paris and WTTW!

2008 LIVING BLUES AND DOWNBEAT AWARD WINNERS

Delmark recording artist Lurrie Bell continues to win well deserved awards in the Blues world. Lurrie recently won Living Blues magazine Artist of the year in both critics and readers' polls, and most outstanding blues guitarist in the critics' poll. Other Delmark artists who won Living Blues awards were smilin' Bob Stroger for Most Outstanding Bass Musician, Kenny Smith and pops Willie 'Big Eyes' Smith for Most Outstanding Drummer (a tie), and Robert Lockwood, Jr - Steady Rollin' Man for Historical Reissue of the Year. Delmark's latest blues releases from Dave Specter, Mississippi Heat, and Byther Smith, have all been in the top 5 of Living Blues Radio Charts, and #1 on Bill Wax's XM Satellite Bluesville Radio!

Lurrie Bell's recent Delmark recording with his father, the late blues singer/harp legend Carey Bell, Getting' Up Live was also recently listed as one of the best blues albums of the year from DOWNBEAT's 73rd Annual Readers' Poll. Other Delmark related DownBeat Readers' award nominees were Eric Alexander (tenor sax), David Murray (tenor sax, bass clarinet, and album of year), Curtis Fuller (trombone), Anthony Braxton (alto sax), Gary Bartz (alto sax), the late Cecil Payne (baritone sax), Hamiet Bluiett (baritone sax), Nicole Mitchell (flute), William Parker (acoustic bass), Kahil El' Zabar (percussion), Hamid Drake (percussion), Billy Bang (violin), and Buddy Guy (blues artist).

DELMARK JAZZ ARTISTS IN THE PRESS

Delmark trumpet masters Brad Goode and Corey Wilkes, along with jazz flute star, Nicole Mitchell, continue to be featured prominently in the press. Please check out the recent Jazz Times with a wonderful feature on Corey by John Murph, "Chi-City Swagger- Wilkes hip-hops from straight-ahead to free-jazz and back again." Brad Goode and Nicole Mitchell were both featured in Cadence magazine with interesting interviews by Ludwig Van Trikt. Also, check out our West coast friend Leroy Downs' website, JazzCat.net, for features on Delmark/Jazz Record Mart and many fascinating interviews, including Mr. Fred Anderson.

The Chicago creative/avant jazz scene is holding their annual Umbrella Festival in November, with many adventurous and challenging collaborations between local and international jazz heavies, including Delmark recording artists Keefe Jackson, Josh Berman, Frank Rosaly, Hamid Drake, Jeff Parker, Jim Baker, Nicole Mitchell, Josh Abrams, and more.

Look for Delmark 55th Anniversary tribute features in upcoming issues of Signal to Noise and JAZZIZ! Happy 76th Birthday, Bob Koester!

On a sad note, Delmark artists Little Arthur Duncan (traditional Chicago blues singer/harp player), Phil Guy (funky blues guitar/vocalist w/ Jr Wells), Pete Allen (unsung Chicago blues guitarist w/ Zora Young), and Andy Goodrich (Memphis/Chicago jazz saxophonist) all recently passed away, and will all be dearly missed.

In these tough economic times, don't forget that music heals! We are blessed to be rich with amazing and inspiring music to nourish and heal our souls. Please go out and support your local live music scene!

Morris Holt (aka Magic Slim) was born in Torrence, Mississippi on August 3rd 1937. Magic Slim was eventually given his nickname by the late great Magic Sam, whom he had traveled with to Chicago. Slim is keeping the Chicago Blues sound and feel alive on his latest release with covers of classic Muddy Waters and Magic Sam songs as well as fine originals. Check out the country Blues number, "Goin' Down The Road Feelin' Bad". If you haven't experienced Magic Slim live then you're missing out on one of the last great Chicago Bluesmen.

LITTLE WALTER

Blowin' The Blues

(BLUES BOULEVARD 250169)

Featuring Otis Rush, Willie Dixon, Jimmy Rogers, Muddy Waters, Johnny Shines, Fred Below, Bo Diddley & more!

Marion Walter Jacobs (aka Little Walter) was born in Marksville, La on May 1, 1930 and died on February 15, 1968 in Chicago. Little Walter made his first recordings in 1947 for the Ora-Nelle record label, which was operated out the back of a record store in the heart of the legendary Maxwell Street in Chicago. These recording were made before he had joined Muddy Waters' band. Little Walter revolutionized the way Blues harmonica could be played by using a microphone and plugging it in into an electric guitar amplifier thus creating loud distorted sounds with controlled feedback effects. Walter continued to record with Muddy Waters and appeared as a harmonica sideman with many Bluesmen on the Maxwell Street scene including Johnny Young, Floyd Jones and Robert Nighthawk. Walter toured Europe in 1964 and 1967 before dying of complications from a fight that occurred during a break at a south side club in Chicago.

This 3-CD set Blowin' the Blues contains 2 discs with 40 tracks under Walter's leadership, and a third disc with another 20 tracks of Walter as a sideman with Muddy Waters, John Brim, Johnny Shines, Jimmy Rogers and Otis Spann. This CD set is essential for the ultimate Little Walter listening experience.

Delmark: 55 Years of Jazz

(excerpted liner notes for the CD & DVD set, Delmark #914)

After wearing out Delmark's 2003 set celebrating 50 years of great jazz--trad, modern big, small, now, then--you probably thought you were going to have to wait at least until 2013 for another such anniversary collection. That's how these things go, don't they? Your Uncle Al and Aunt Etta may make a big deal of marking their 55th, but record labels don't usually go for in-between years.

When you've got a rich catalog like Delmark's, though, and a label head like Bob Koester who is committed to keep expanding that catalog, why not seize every opportunity to throw a party for your enterprise--and all the great artists behind the candles on the cake? The beauty of marking a mid-milestone like 55 is you can depart convention in other ways. You don't have to worry about including all the usual suspects. Instead, you can serve history with a looser, less predictable and more up-to-the-minute overview--with an equal emphasis on view...

...First to the wide-ranging CD included here, and the treasures it contains:

Yves Francois, "Lester Leaps In." In the early '80s, determined to better expose under-recorded Chicago saxophone greats Franz Jackson and Eddie Johnson, young trumpeter Yves Francois instigated studio dates with them. For the 2005 re-release of these rare recordings, he re-did some of his own solos on them. Was that kosher? Well, he sounds great. And the chance to hear Jackson, mainly a clarinetist in recent years, swagger on tenor through "Lester Leaps In" further renders all nits and pics null and void.

Deep Blue Organ Trio, "Goin' to Town." There may be no better organ trio currently at work than that of guitarist Bobby Broom, organist Chris Foreman and drummer Greg Rockingham. The aural equivalent of comfort food, their soulful jazz can always be counted on to soothe and satisfy with its simmering warmth and flavorful accents. But as classic as their sound is, it can shake up your expectations with its power and reach, as revealed on this title track from their 2007 CD, recorded at their longtime weekly spot, Chicago's Green Mill.

King Curtis, "Dynamite at Midnight." At 22, Curtis Ousley was years away from his Memphis soul triumphs, and still not yet honking with the Coasters. But as demonstrated by this 1956 track from Volume Two of "Honkers & Bar Walkers," he was already a full-blown blower, never letting up for the duration of "Dynamite." If you like your R&B steeped with rock 'n' roll, this has your name on it.

Ted Sirota's Rebel Souls, "Saro-Wiwa." On their 2004 album, "Breeding Resistance," drummer Sirota and band let their politics hang out on subjects ranging from the death penalty factory of Huntsville, Tex., to Nigerian human rights, which inspired this folk-based tune. But with its lilting melodies, resounding choruses and Afro-funk-studded grooves, the music is as infectious as it is angry. And with a cutting-edge cast including Tortoise guitarist Jeff Parker, the Souls argue for a brighter musical as well as political future.

Curtis Fuller, "Equinox" Forty-six years after gracing John Coltrane's "Blue Train," revered trombonist Curtis Fuller teamed with distinctive trumpeter Brad Goode on a spell-casting treatment of Trane's "Equinox." With an easy shared intensity, the horn men recast the song as a loping vehicle, Fuller applying his deepest tones and Goode ringing out a vibrant message of hope. From the 2004 CD "Up Jumped Spring."

Francine Griffin, "It's Crazy." After hearing this exquisite treat from 1999's "The Song Bird, which shows off Griffin's Carmen-like directness and Sarah-like flair, you might say it's crazy this was the veteran singer's first album--and the first vocal jazz album ever released by Delmark. A native of Cincinnati who sang with a Who's Who of bop stars, she here elevates an exceptional band including Ed Petersen and Art Hoyle on the front line and Brad Williams and Wilbur Campbell in the rhythm section.

George Lewis, "DoctorJazz." Back to 1953 we go for this lesson in New Orleans jazz--past, present and future--by Prof. Lewis and a sextet including trumpeter Kid Howard on and trombonist Jim Robinson. Featured on the album, "Hello Central...Give Me Doctor Jazz," the performance seamlessly blends styles, chasing nostalgias from the room with its modern thrust.

Malachi Thompson & Africa Brass, "Black Metropolis." Jazz lost one of its most determined souls when trumpeter Malachi Thompson passed in 2004, having repeatedly overcome illness and other setbacks to score with his longstanding Freebop Band and more expansive Africa Brass. Part of a suite from his 2003 album "Blue Jazz", the limber "Black Metropolis" breathes hope through the righteous testifying of Thompson and two special guests, saxophonists Gary Bartz and Billy Harper.

Kalaparush, "In My Morning Song." An early AACM stalwart who recorded for Delmark in the '60s, Kalaparush Maurice McIntyre reunited with the label for 2004's "Morning Song" after years of performing on the streets of New York. Most of the album features him with two young cohorts in an unusual tenor-tuba-drums setting. On "In My Morning Song," it's just the leader showing off the purer, quieter side of his talent: no multiphonics or raising of volume, just the deepest spiritual expression and shimmering tonality.

Eric Alexander, "Mode for Mables." Tenor saxophonist Eric Alexander's salute to his mentor and bandmate, pianist Harold Mabern, resounds with good feeling. Alexander is known for his big, old-school tenor sound, but as he shows on this title track from his 1998 release, he's among the smartest of contemporary stylists. His sextet, including trumpeter Jim Rotondi and trombonist Steve Davis, suggests a much larger unit with its dynamic harmonies. Flipping through McCoy Tyner's modal playbook with his jaunty, swirling phrases, Mabern...is mabelous.

Coleman Hawkins, "Bu Dee Daht." Ever open to new sounds, the mighty Hawk enlisted young bebop inventors Dizzy Gillespie and Max Roach for this jaunty riff tune from 1944, performed by an amazing orchestra featuring Don Byas, Budd Johnson and Oscar Pettiford. Nodding to bop here, Ellington's "Perdido" there, Hawkins unified styles with his surpassing authority on this unearthed Apollo recording, his trilling tenor beyond category. (From the CD "Rainbow Mist.")

Sun Ra, "Brainville." One of the giddiest, and giddy-uppiest, Sun Ra performances, "Brainville" was dedicated by him to "scientists, space pilots, those of the medical profession and all others who are of daring mind." While deciding how many of those job descriptions apply to this great visionary, you can get off on John Gilmore's tenor solo, the toy horn effects and so much more. Originally released in 1957 on "Jazz By Sun Ra" and reissued by Delmark on "Sun Song."

Art Hodes, "Panama Rag." On which piano legend and trad jazz champion Hodes ushers clarinetist Volly DeFaut, an unjustly forgotten luminary of early Chicago jazz, back into the spotlight. At the time of this 1972 recording (included on the album "Friar's Inn Revisited"), the clarinet was seriously out of fashion. But listening to the sharp, animated, blues-dappled take on "Panama Rag," featuring Chicago legends Truck Parham and Barrett Deems, you may well think you're hearing tradition reborn.

And now, to the DVD offerings, which put you smack dab in the front row, the better to enjoy artists representing the city's stellar jazz scene--and, in one notable case, German jazz.

Nicole Mitchell's Black Earth Ensemble, "The Creator Has Other Plans for Me." Mitchell is more than a rising star among jazz flutists--her star has risen, as she demonstrates on this vibrant excerpt from the "Black Unstoppable" DVD (2007), recorded at the new Velvet Lounge. Where some flute players settle for airiness, she signs her improvisations with a gutty rhythmic approach and spiritual intensity. "I was just going to do things the way I felt natural about doing them," says Nicole. "Now, it seems to be OK." Amen to that. The bright, freewheeling David Young is featured on flugelhorn.

Ari Brown, "Richard's Song." More than 40 years into his career as one of Chicago's finest inside/outside players, tenorist Brown here dusts off the first song he wrote (he went by Richard then). Listen to this tuneful, smartly unfolding postbop vehicle, on which Brown and trumpeter Pharez Whitted match each other in lyrical intensity. From the 2007 DVD "Live at the Green Mill."

Jazz O'Maniacs, "My Baby." Trad jazz doesn't get more reverential than this: a veteran eight-man band from Hamburg, Germany, performing in the Meyers Ace Hardware store on Chicago's South Side--not because Gunther Andernach needed a new washboard, but because that's where their hero Louis Armstrong played in the 1930s during the store's previous incarnation as the Sunset Cafe. Taken from the DVD, "Sunset Cafe Stomp," which also documents the Maniacs' visit to the annual Bix fest in Racine, WI, "My Baby" is early jazz at its wooliest.

Fred Anderson, "Flashback." For those who never made it to Anderson's original Velvet Lounge, this clip from the "Timeless" DVD is essential viewing. Shot in 2005, not long before the club was forced to close, it finds the tenor legend (and barkeep) in his element in every way: uncovering melodic shades and shadows of the blues and beyond, in the company of his phenomenal longtime percussionist, Hamid Drake, and ace bassist Harrison Bankhead.

Kahil El'Zabar's Ritual Trio, "Big M." Legendary bassist Malachi Favors, an original member of the Ritual Trio as well as the bottomless anchor of the Art Ensemble Chicago, is remembered on this energized epic from Delmark's inaugural DVD, "Live at the River East Art Center." Leading a revamped 2004 edition of the group, El'Zabar plays spiritual instigator, interrogator and inventor on kalimba, traps and hand drums while tenor Ari Brown digs to the center of the earth on tenor and the Rituals' frequent plus-one, Billy Bang, soars skyward on violin.

Chicago Underground Trio, "Power." Rob Mazurek's infatuation with cinema long has been reflected in his work with various Chicago Underground units. How cool and appropriate it is then, to have the Underground Trio's experimental, post-space age music inspire visuals by gifted filmmaker Raymond Salvatore Harmon. This excerpt from "Power," the epic centerpiece of the 2007 DVD, "Chronicle," offers an onslaught of arresting images, as fed by Mazurek's cornet, computer and Moog, Chad Taylor's drums and Jason Ajemian's bass.

Will there be a 60th anniversary Delmark set? That could depend on whether compact discs will still exist in the year 2013. Rest assured that however jazz fans acquire recorded music in the future, the glories of Delmark's jazz and blues will continue to be celebrated. But right now, there's such a wealth of fabulous music to immerse yourself in here, you won't be wondering about Uncle Bob Koester's next anniversary set for many listenings to come.

Little Arthur, Artesia's and 'the scene'

A remembrance by blues fan Bill Rody

(Bill Rody began listening to live blues in Chicago in 1979 and became a close friend of Little Arthur Duncan in the ensuing years. His reminiscences of that time are definitely part of the tapestry that is Chicago's blues legacy.)

I'd met Little Arthur and his band, The Backscratchers, in the winter of 1979. Classic bluesman John Brim had a place up North called the Broadway Blues Club or as he called it "West Side Blues on the North Side." The bar was large and split into two parts - if you wanted to drink and shoot pool, that was one area. If you wanted to hear music you paid Stanley the Bartender or Grace (John Brim's wife) $5 to walk into an area the size of a Quonset Hut, where there were various tables. (none of which seemed to match, including picnic tables). The place was never filled. In fact for the six weeks, I was going there, I don't think there were more than 10 or 12 people there on any given night.

At the time I was still digesting a lot of different music. I was still deep into a lot of pre-war "classic blues" like Bessie Smith, my tastes mirrored my parents who spent a lot of time at Bill Reinhart's Jazz Ltd. On West Grand. The first time I was at John Brim's I met Big Walter Horton, Eddie Taylor, Floyd Jones, Pete Crawford and Kansas City Red. Because of the small crowd, John Brim made the audience introduce themselves to each other and to the band. It was one of the first cool "music" moments I had, that I could claim as my own and not resulting from my parents influence. I loved the entire feel of the situation and talking to the other folks there, like they were neighbors.

That Saturday I went to a record store about a half mile from my house that just happened to be having their "quarterly clearance sale." I went back twice, the second time with a box to carry my purchases all back with me. In my stack were seven of the eight of the Best of Chess two-fers. I spent the rest of that gloomy rainy afternoon listening to Jimmy Rogers and Little Walter. I also made sure I'd saved $20.00 to spend at John Brim's that evening. When I went to the club Little Arthur and the Backscratchers were playing. Since I'd listened to Little Walter just hours before, Little Arthur's harmonica playing had the same effect on me, it kind of vibrated my spine. and I knew I was on to something.

Just like the previous night, I wasn't shy and automatically introduced myself to Little Arthur and the Band. Arthur and I hit it off immediately. All of a sudden after a couple of drinks, Arthur kept saying to anyone with earshot. "That's my man Rody. Rody you can be my manager and I'll take care of you!" It was such a head trip for me. Not even shaking hands with Muddy Waters and the Blue's Brothers at Chicago Fest earlier that summer compared.

Thus began my blues addiction; it was infinitely on the scale of sex, drugs and Rock 'n Roll, only marginally rationalized by the plain fact that I was perpetuating my bloodlines, and my parents were cool about it.

By the time I was 21, I had a "respectable" record collection of almost 400 LPs, various mixtures of jazz, blues, soul, disco and folk music. I didn't care if I had another girlfriend, I spent about $100.00 a week on records. I also believed in my own personal approach to the music, being part of it, even if you weren't actually a musician. Little Arthur nurtured a lot of that, never forgetting to remind me that I was part of the "family" - much to the mild chagrin of my father (his hobby was photography and he did give me a 35mm camera and said "Go forth and shoot").

John Brim's club didn't last long after that, we had a surprise 14" snowstorm on New Year's Eve that year, freezing the pipes and pretty much that was that. So Arthur would call my house and always let me know if he had a gig or was sitting in somewhere. He always let my Dad know where I'd be, who I'd be hanging with but never what time I'd be home. My Dad was pretty used to my late hours, especially after some of my late night sojourns with Bob Koester over at Theresa's.

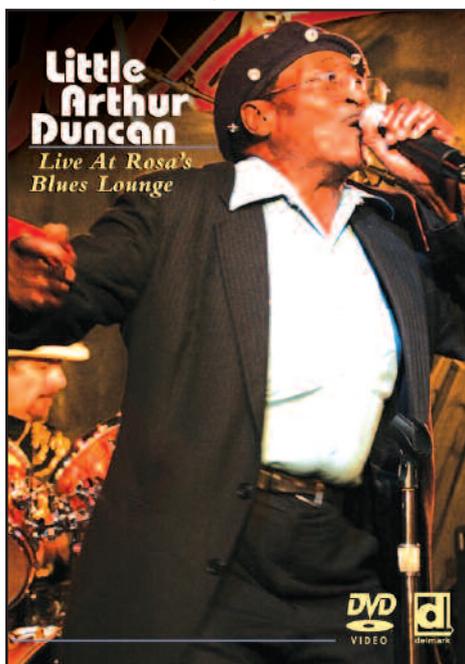

One of my personal beliefs is that when you have chances to see live music in its "home grown setting" - up close and personal - you're are witnessing living history and you'd better take advantage of these opportunities when they present themselves.

Arthur Buys The Artesia Lounge

So flash forward about 10 years. Arthur and I had been in sporadic, but regular contact. In 1989, after my father passed away, I'd moved to the Northwest side of Chicago. Arthur called me and told me he had bought this club at Hamlin and Lake. It was called the Artesia Lounge and had to be that last gasp of Blues Bars in a neighborhood that had seen better days.

Arthur talked me into buying a tape-deck which he could hook up with a turntable and speakers, and voila all of a sudden I was a DeeJay. That first time I was there, my hair stood on end for the better part of the night! I would have felt better if the Green Line had a stop right there, but no such luck. I had to walk about 5 blocks, the trek consisted of a CTA Maintenance Yard, abandoned warehouses and a couple of suspicious looking houses where there always seemed to be shady people lurking.

The Artesia Lounge was one short step from being a dive, but God I loved it. It was the atmosphere, my piece of the Rock as it were. After the first couple of times, I was a trooper about the whole scene. I always realized that the bands at the Artesia were living and breathing musical history, and Little Arthur made no bones about the fact he wanted me to tape every band he had there. If someone bitched, well they could go see him. He was especially passionate about this after his guitarist James Scott passed away.

Every week was different at the Artesia. In fact, the weekend usually started on Thursday Nights. He'd have Smokey Smothers Band and Little Huck and the Ghetto Blasters play a set or two for about 10 people with Little Arthur playing the last set, usually doing his trademark songs, "Scratch My Back" and "Leaving Mississippi," which was his version of Little Walter's "Thunderbird."

Friday's and Saturday's were fun. Little Arthur had his regular working "Band," which was Prez Kenneth on bass, Lovie Lee on keyboards, Mort Dukes or Twist Turner on drums. On guitar, well that was by committee - anybody who Arthur called, or anyone who walked through the door. Mostly it was Sonny Carter, but it could be Johnny Littlejohn, Pete Crawford, Little Smokey Smothers, or a one-legged guy named Little Alf.

I realized from the get-go that the Artesia had a special sort of audience that only blues folk can understand. If you hung on the West Side or South Side enough, there was always that certain feeling. Don't get me wrong, going over there and coming home every night - even if Arthur got me a ride home - I still felt like a fugitive from the Law of Averages, but once I stepped foot on Arthur's turf, I was one of the regulars and therefore 'special.'

After a couple of months, Arthur made me his early shift bartender from whatever time I got over there until his regular bartender and hostess showed up. Most of the time I shot pool, answered the phone and served the walk-in customers who were a bit loopy before they walked through the door. It was bizarre, and I loved every second of it. There were those nights when anarchy was in charge. I went along with whatever was happening. One night when Arthur had gone to Sportsman's Park to chase a couple of hot horses, he left Sonny Carter and Prez Kenneth in charge. It was cool, until this guy pulled up in a van with a tuxedoed but obviously stoned BB Jones and demanded we give him the stage. He kept announcing "Here he is the Great BB Jones" as we waited and waited while the guitar was tuned. Then, he started to play a medley of early BB King and slowly, one inch at a time, he fell to the floor and went to sleep.

For the most part, I looked at every weekend like I was getting away with something. I was part of a crowd and an existence that was starting to fade into history. If the weekend was slow, we wouldn't even start rearranging stuff for the band to set up until 11 pm. Prez Kenneth or Lovie Lee would instruct me to throw a 120-minute cassette into the deck and Arthur's son would man the turntable, then we'd go to Necktie Nate's, Big Dukes or the infamous Rose Lounge on Madison, where it was always Pimps and Players Night. By the time we got back, Arthur was waiting. It would be about 12:30 and he'd just play one long set until closing or until everybody just cut out.

Somewhere along the line, Arthur got gas for cooking. We started having a menu of what I referred to as "West Side Ghetto Fast Food." It was great - collard greens, chicken wings, ribs and salt port - he loved corned beef and cabbage but couldn't make corned beef to save his life. When we had birthdays and special occasions, he'd let the women do their thing and he'd just supervise or as he put it just make sure the place didn't blow up! Actually the Artesia did come to its noble end because of a gas leak/explosion.

So then flash forward a couple years to around 1993, I get that phone call and that familiar voice "Hey Rody, my man Rody, I got a new place on Madison and Cicero." Arthur called it the "Backscratchers Social Club." I had gotten a part-time job at Out of the Past records at Madison and Kostner. So I had two part-time jobs. The last one I finished straight at midnight - so I'd go over to Arthur's and hang out.

His regulars from the Artesia had followed him over there. He didn't have as much music at the Backscratcher's Social Club as he had at the Artesia but he did have a pool table and Mickey's Bar BQ where bluesman Willie Buck did the honors. Arthur said the reason he had the bar was so he'd always have a place to play. He could do serious touring and still have a steady gig to come back to.

Arthur hadn't given up music. He didn't have it often at the Social Club but he worked down the street with Tail Dragger at The Beverly Social Club or at the 5105 on North Avenue. When the weather was warm, we'd get lawn chairs and sit in front of the place like we were waiting for the sun to rise over the Pacific. To this day, I still miss those strange nights/early mornings between midnight and 3 am, when we were just hanging out in our 'beach chairs' on notorious West Madison Street - watching the traffic go by like it was the most natural thing in the world.

The one thing I did know about Backscratchers was that Arthur was just barely surviving. I'll never know exactly when he decided to chuck the whole thing and just retire from the bar business. That neighborhood is still a holy land to me. Whenever I travel around Chicago, I'm always nostalgic for the Artesia Lounge and Backscratchers - the vibe was welcoming and tolerant - of course, due to Arthur's generous personality. I probably saw Arthur lose his temper maybe twice in all those years. Most of the time it didn't get that serious. You'd hear about a shooting somewhere else in the neighborhood but most of the time Arthur's clientele were on their best behavior.

Prez Kenneth was Arthur's bass player for as long as I knew Arthur. He had a total sense of balance. Time to work, time to play, time to drink and always time to have faith as he saw fit. When he died of pancreatic cancer, we held our own wake at Backscratcher's through the late night and early morning. Few words were exchanged.

I thought that night about how musicians like Little Arthur, Prez Kenneth, Willie James Lyons, James Scott Jr., Tyrone Davis and all the great musicians I've met in my 50 years on earth should never be forgotten and instead relegated to the genius/legendary pantheon, their spirits immortalized.

Arthur passed away August 20, 2008.

Rudy Rae Moore

Comedian Rudy Ray Moore passed October 19th, at 81, in Akron, Ohio of complications of diabetes. If you haven't heard him, you have missed some great comedy! His LP's and CD's had titles that indicate how much he was steeped in black folk humor: The Dirty Dozens, Peetie Wheatstraw, and the Signifying Monkey -- characters appearing in blues from the 20's and 30's but probably go back to the 19th century. His work preceded rap but he influenced many rap artists.

His naughtiness might have made Redd Foxx blush. His Dirty Dozens and the Speckled Red boogie woogie tune came from a common ancestry: a children's game: you insult my family twelve times, then I insult yours -- whomever throws the first punch loses the game. Yes, Rudy knew some of the naughty verses that we included when we built out Speckled Red's LP to CD length -- two takes of the unexpurgated tune that might have gotten us arrested if they'd been on the LP.

According to Speckled Red, Peetie Wheatstraw was a legendary gambler and low-life from whom guitarist and pianist William Bunch got his nickname. Of course Bunch's tunes The Devil's Son In Law and Petey Wheatstraw neatly coupled on a Bluebird 78 issued some years after its 1931 session date had also to be cleaned up but there are some allusions to the lyrics in Moore's Kent LP as well as from the two Peetie Wheatstraw Stomp's on Decca in 1936.

The 1930 recording by Lonnie Johnson The Monkey And The Baboon may not be the first time we heard of these two animals in the blues, but the story continued to be told over the years. It went from Okeh thru Vocallion to Columbia and was in print until they stopped pressing 78's! (Lonnie also recorded the Dirty Dozens as well as Monkey And The Baboon-Part 2 and Bull Frog And The Toad later the same year.) I presume these have all been reissued by Document if not elsewhere.

So all of these old folk tales and probably others were grist for Rudy Rae Moore's comedy routines. They sold because they were blatant and real but, really, (as was the case with Redd Foxx) because he was a great and hilarious comedian.

With the profits from his records Rudy produced and acted in Dolemite which also may have stemmed from a folk character. If not, it certainly created one when several sequels followed.

Here's a list of most of his records. Some may not be available on CD but every one I ever heard was great!

Eat Out More Often, House Party-Dirty Dozens, and Peetie Wheatstraw on Kent; This Pussy Belongs To Me, Delemite 4 President, Dolemite Is Another; I Can't Believe I Ate The Whole Thing, Player Hustle, Sweet Peter Jeeter, The Cockpit, The Steaker, Zodiac Album on Nashboro; Return of Dolemite on RKO; This Ain't No White Christmas on Capitol.

He was born in Fort Smith, Arkansas March 17, 1927, moved to Cleveland at 15, served in the army in the early 50's.

He made some soul singles under the name Rudy Moore before he became a comedian.

Oh yes, back him up with Speckled Red's Dirty Dozens, Delmark 601.

Studs Terkel

As we go to press, we learn that Studs Terkel passed away October 31st at the age of 96.

If you're a blues fan, you might have first encountered Studs as the author of the liner notes of the first Chess LP's or perhaps as the guy who brought blues to the loop by involving Big Bill Broonzy, Brother John Sellers and Memphis Minnie in his Monday night "I Come For To Sing" shows at the legendary Blue Note on the corner of Madison and Clark. Also on the show was Studs' sidekick Win Stracke who later founded the Old Town School of Folk Music which has expanded over the years and is now also a concert venue for all kinds of great music.

Studs was best known for his Pulitzer Prize winning books, culled from years of interviews on his shows on WFMT. Studs vies with his buddy Nelson Algren as the author who delineates the soul of Chicagoland. One of his earliest books dealt with jazz and its history. (At least seven of them are stocked by After Words Books, 23 E.Illinois (312/464-1110). That's right next door to the Jazz Record Mart.)

Studs' Place was one the legendary Chicago TV shows in early days of Television. Clips from it were shown on TV news shows after his passing.

Studs is also remembered for his long-running music and interview show on WFMT-FM which added folk music, blues, jazz and whatever the tasteful Studs felt like playing, to the city's leading classical station. He used to play an unintentionally funny record: Go Go Sox by Paul Mall & The Bleacher Boys

(with George Zack on piano) on Seymour Schwartz's label to kick off the baseball season every year.

(Seymour's Loop Jazz Record Mart was JRM's predecessor and Joe Segal's first job in the record business when he attended Roosevelt U. in the Auditorium Bldg.)

Studs outspoken political views were often a bit too left for some people. I assume the McCarthyists had opened a file on him. It was a badge of honor as far as I am concerned.

Several Folkways albums by Big Bill Broonzy and Pete Seeger came from the WFMT show. When Roscoe Mitchell and other AACM artists were interviewed by Studs, they were amazed at his unexpected hipness.

Louis "Studs" Terkel was born on May 16h, 1912 in New York and brought to Chicago at an early age. The family operated a small 2nd-story hotel at Wells and Division.

Someone in a Sun Times article said that "with his wondrous smile, red checked shirt, stogie and tape recorder, he was one of Chicago's all time greats"

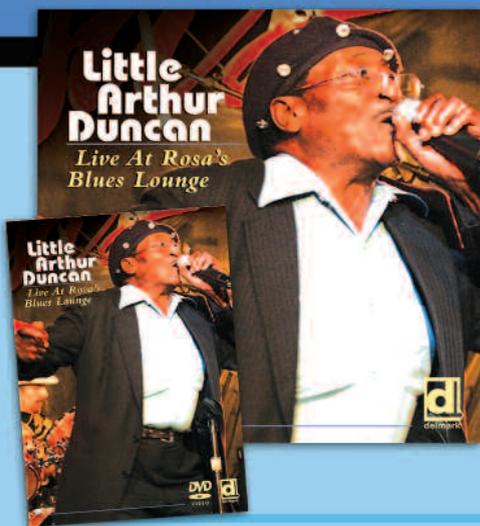

It's a pity he didn't live to witness Barak Obama's election.

LITTLE ARTHUR 1934-2008 DUNCAN

Gone But Not Forgotten...
Little Arthur's Memory Preserved
on Delmark CD & DVD!

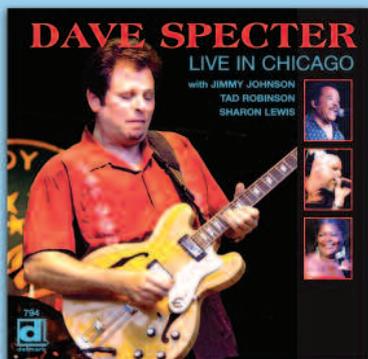

LITTLE ARTHUR DUNCAN & THE BACKSCRATCHERS

Live at Rosa's Blues Lounge (DVD 1793/CD DE 793)

The blues world recently lost vocalist/songwriter/bandleader/harmonica player Little Arthur Duncan, but on this classic August 2007 recording, Arthur's performance is powerful and amazing. He is accompanied by his band The Backscratchers—Illinois Slim and Rick Kreher on guitar; Michael Azzi on bass; and Twist Turner on drums. Recorded and videotaped at one of Chicago's friendliest blues clubs, Rosa's Blues Lounge. DVD special features include Little Arthur commentary/interview track.

Also available on Delmark Records: Little Arthur Duncan, Singin' With The Sun (DE 733), with the Rockin' Johnny Band and special guests Eddie Taylor, Jr. and Billy Flynn.

DAVE SPECTER

Live In Chicago (DVD 1794 / CD 794)

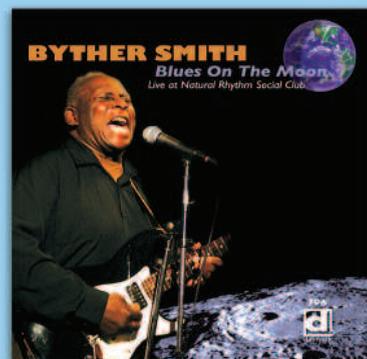

Recorded live at Buddy Guy's Legends and Rosa's Blues Lounge. Spector's distinct signature guitar instrumentals are always a highlight, along with his in-the-pocket backing rhythm/lead guitar for very special guests, vocalist/guitarist Jimmy "Bar Room Preacher" Johnson, vocalist/harpist Tad "Mr. Blue Eyed Soul" Robinson and vocalist Sharon "Texas Fire" Lewis.

MISSISSIPPI HEAT

Hattiesburg Blues (CD 795)

Pierre Lacocque has always surrounded himself with the cream of the crop of Chicago blues players. Lurrie Bell, who appeared on Heat's One Eye Open (DVD 1783, CD 783) is back again as is lead vocalist Inetta Visor, and guitarist Carl Weathersby plays throughout. The Chicago horns and Latin percussionist Ruben Alvarez also add some very nice touches to this varied disc.

BYTHER SMITH

Blues On The Moon / Live At The Natural Rhythm Social Club (DVD 1796 / CD 796)

Byther Smith came to Chicago in the mid-'50s and by the early '60s was playing at Theresa's Lounge, where he backed Junior Wells. He also worked with Big Mama Thornton, George "Harmonica" Smith and Otis Rush. This is his fourth Delmark CD—his first live album. DVD contains bonus track & Byther Smith commentary.

Bob Koester and the Old Town School

Speech given before Delmark 55th Anniversary Blues & Jazz Program at OTS, 9/26/08

Bob Koester has been an enormously influential figure in the blues and jazz worlds over the past half-century. The list of artists who have appeared on Delmark Records, the label he began in 1953, includes some of the most significant musicians and ensembles in 20th century – and now 21st century - American music. But what's less well known about Bob is his effort to bring blues to the Old Town School community in the school's earliest years.

The story began when Bob moved to Chicago from St. Louis in the summer of 1958, less than a year after the Old Town School first opened its doors. Once here, he started to search for the blues musicians who made Chicago their home. Over the next several years, he located nearly two dozen of them, including some of the most talented artists who had recorded in Chicago in the years before World War Two.

At the same time, Bob was observing the steady stream of students heading to the School at its original location on North Avenue. It occurred to him that the folk music fans who were coming to learn the history of the blues might enjoy hearing the music played by some of its most gifted performers.

Bob decided to launch a series of concerts in the Blind Pig coffeehouse, just downstairs from the school. He called it "Blues and Barrelhouse," and when he printed up flyers to advertise the series, he made sure to list the performers he planned to invite.

And so in June of 1961, for the admission fee of one dollar, you could go to the Blind Pig on Tuesday nights and hear performers like guitarist Walter Vinson, who played with the legendary Mississippi Sheiks. Maybe harmonica star Jazz Gillum, who had the first hit version of "Key to the Highway", would show up, or perhaps Washboard Sam, whose song "Mama Don't Allow" would later become a staple of the repertoire of Old Town alum Steve Goodman. Or you might be treated to one of the legendary barrelhouse piano players who had played in actual barrelhouses, like Little Brother Montgomery or Roosevelt Sykes.

When you hear this roster of extraordinary talent, it's hard not to wish for a time machine to go back and sit in the front row on one of those Tuesday nights. In fact, if you were to do that, you might have had the row to yourself. It turned out that Bob was a little ahead of his time, and the turnouts were disappointing. After a few months, he discontinued the series.

But a year or so later Bob tried his hand again as a promoter, booking some of the same artists at a North Side club called the Fickle Pickle. Perhaps it was because people had by then seen some of the performers at one of the early University of Chicago Folk Festivals, or because guitarist Mike Bloomfield's enthusiasm in promoting the shows had gotten the word around, or maybe just because the folk revival was gathering momentum, but for whatever reason, the Fickle Pickle series had more success in drawing a crowd. Soon other North Side venues were presenting blues artists to white audiences, and a new chapter in blues history began.

In the years since then, Bob and the Old Town School have each become internationally recognized leaders in their fields. As we celebrate Delmark on 55 years - and counting - of great music, we salute Bob in particular for his steadfast determination to give the artists he believes in the chance to reach audiences who might appreciate them. From the Blues and Barrelhouse series to the terrific show here tonight, we are still benefiting from his vision and his tenacity.

JAZZ & BLUES ON DVD

The number in parentheses is the APPROXIMATE time in minutes, where known. "+" indicates bonus material not included in the running time. Capital letters refer to the following.

P Performance video— Usually a 2-3 camera set-up in a television studio or a club: straight performance, not much filler.

D Documentary— Mixes interviews and usually narration to tell a story about the featured performer.

T Television show— Some, like the Nat King Cole videos are from actual TV series or specials, others from either public television series or documentaries.

A Audio-only DVD - No video, get it just for DVD's superior audio.

F Feature Film

I Instructional video - for aspiring musicians.

The Ralph Bass Series

In 1977, Ralph Bass recorded, at the culmination of a brilliant career, a series of ten very brief and informal sessions—a survey of then lesser known talent on the Chicago blues scene. Bass had launched careers by T-Bone Walker, James Brown, Little Esther and others. Delmark is proud to add these sessions, many previously available only as imports, to its blues catalog.

"Sun Ra and his Arkestra have been, for nearly 40 years, the renegade big band, as we are reminded on the new reissue of their Sun Song. Bizarre pianist-bandleader-composer Ra infused this session, recorded in the 1950s, with such distinction and surprise that it still opens the ears. Still, fans of traditional big band jazz will not be at a loss..."
