

Has your AAWL membership lapsed?

Please consider renewing your membership with Australia Asia Worker Links (AAWL).

Workers have common interests no matter which country they live in. AAWL builds solidarity by making links between workers' organisations, so that we can support each other more effectively. AAWL is serious and effective. We build solidarity to help workers in struggle, not because we want to sell more newspapers.

organisation

AAWL is a labour movement solidarity organisation, and many trade unions and trades and labour councils are affiliated. AAWL members belong to different unions, political parties, tendencies and other labour movement organisations on the left, although many AAWL members do not belong to any other political organisation.

AAWL General meetings set policy directions. The Executive is responsible for implementing policy. Members of AAWL can participate in all meetings. These meetings are useful and interesting if you are an activist, if you are pro-union and if you agree that international workers solidarity is crucial.

information

AAWL is a reliable source of information about democratic, genuine workers movements in our region. AAWL maintains an active website www.aawl.org.au, an email news bulletin, and a monthly mail-out (members only). AAWL also presents a weekly radio program Asia Pacific Currents 9.00 to 9.30am on 3CR 855AM in Melbourne, and streamed live on www.3cr.org.au.

campaigns

We work to free jailed trade unionists, and build support for workers engaged in struggle in Australia and overseas.

membership

If you join AAWL you will have the opportunity to learn about unions and working class politics in Australia and in the Asia Pacific region. You also get to meet lots of interesting and busy people and find out how we can work together across industries, languages and countries. To join AAWL fill out the form of the back of this page.

support

Your financial contribution is vital to our solidarity work. Not everyone has the free time to be very active. You can support AAWL by donating money. That is very valuable. International solidarity is built with international phone calls and air fares, so it is very expensive. Please contact AAWL to make a regular donation to our work.
