

Full list of BSF schools status by local authority

On 5 July 2010, Education Secretary Michael Gove announced he was scrapping the previous government's Building Schools for the Future programme. The Department for Education published a list of about 1,500 schools included in the programme, stating whether the rebuilding project was now "open", "unaffected", "under discussion" or "stopped". It later emerged that the list contained about 30 errors, with some schools initially told their rebuilding project would continue, only to discover later that it was among those being axed.

The list below is the list supplied by the Department for Education. Mr Gove said on 19 July that, to the best of his knowledge, he believed it to be correct. The DfE says the list "has been produced by Partnerships for Schools (PfS) after validation at senior level in Local Authorities and rigorously checked by the Department for Education, including by making telephone contact with every Local Authority listed and with all affected Academy sponsors".

However, the BBC has edited the list, highlighting in red and with a * the main revisions that have been made as the errors have emerged.

Notes from DfE:

Schools listed as 'Open' in this list are those in which the procurement has delivered the planned new building, refurbishment, extension or ICT. For simplicity, 'open' is used for all complete projects, even where the project was for ICT only.

Schools listed as 'Unaffected' in this list are those which are within initial LEP or Academy Framework procurements which have reached 'Financial Close'; or which for BSF are within a repeat wave of investment which was approved prior to 1 January 2010.

Schools listed as 'Stopped' in this list are those which are within initial LEP procurements which had not yet reached 'Financial Close' (other than the 'sample' schools in projects which had passed the 'Close of Dialogue' point) or are Academy Framework projects, which had not achieved Financial Close, and where there is no funding agreement in place and the Academy is not open or about to open; or which were to have been in a repeat wave of investment, but which had not received approval prior to 1 January 2010.

Schools listed as 'For Discussion' in this list are either:
those which were to have been 'sample' schools in projects which were at an advanced stage in the procurement process (that is, they had passed the 'Close of Dialogue' point described above), but which had not yet reached 'Financial Close'; or b. academies where the building projects have not reached financial close, but are either already open, have a signed Funding Agreement, are due open in the next academic year or are making completely new provision.

Errors highlighted here and listed in full below.
