Dear Alan:

By way of explanation of the attached manuscript:

Jeffrey Idle, a friend of mine, a member of the Scientific Advisory Board to CTR and other organizations, and a potential Nobelist (in my view), is seeking financial support to establish what he calls a Laboratory of Cancer Pharmacogenetics. The proposal is fully described beginning on page 10 of the document.

Jeffrey is hopeful of attracting interest from industrial companies and sought my advice. I have counselled him on approaching certain companies; I also thought, and I hope not presumptuously, to ask if you can think of any UK names that I might pass on to him.

I assure you of total anonymity in this situation, in the event that some names do occur to you. While I have been able to provide a personal introduction for Jeffrey in a few instances, I am seeking mostly to give him some leads and let him carry on by himself (at least for now).

Jeffrey's proposal is quite good. He has gotten considerable encouragement from one of the UK's leading universities in regard to facilities and other support necessities.

I'd appreciate any comments you might have, and I assure you again that your name will not be mentioned.

Hilda and I hope you and Fay are well and that 1988 will be a healthy and happy time for you.

With kindest personal regards.

Sincerely,

Leonard S. Zahn
