Dear Mark

In the parliamentary year 2008-09 you tabled a parliamentary question asking the Secretary of State for Health

"how many invitations to participate in the national bowel cancer screening programme, have been issued; how many persons have referred themselves to the programme; how many test kits have been (a) sent out and (b) returned; how many people have attended for a colonoscopy; how many polyps have been removed; and how many cancers have been diagnosed in respect of (i) men and (ii) women (A) in each primary care trust, (B) in each screening centre and (C) at each regional programme hub. [298166]"

In my reply of 10 November 2009, published in Column 244W of Hansard, I provided bowel cancer screening information by screening centre and regional hub, and made a commitment to provide the additional information by gender and by primary care trust as soon this became available.

I am pleased to inform you that the information on number of cancers diagnosed by gender, primary care trust, screening centre and programme hub has now been provided by the National Cancer Screening Programmes. I attach this for your information.

A copy of this data has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

ANN KEEN
