

PRIVACY STATEMENT

This is not a privacy policy. The purpose of this statement is to inform you about the way personal information may be collected and used by your use of this website. This statement applies only to this website, not to our business.

Personal Information - Collection

- We may collect information you choose to submit in your use of the website or during any registration process. You can always choose not to submit personal information through the website. However, you may not be able to make use of all our website functions without submitting some personal information.
- We do not collect identifiable personal information about you if you only browse this website. However, we may use common internet technologies such as 'cookies' on our websites and emails in order to deliver a personalised service.
- For more information about our information collection practices or to request access to personal information we hold about you (if any), please contact us.

Use & Disclosure

- We only use the information you submit to provide you with the service you request, not for other unrelated purposes.
- We do not share, trade or sell information about you with other marketers without your permission. We may share your information with people who will, on our behalf, provide you with the services you asked for.