ECONOMICS

The Evolution of Great World Cities: Urban Wealth and Economic Growth
Christopher Kennedy

What are the key factors distinguishing cities that become wealthy from those that don't? In this study Kennedy examines how geography, technology and the infrastructure of urban economies allow cities to develop and thrive. This unique study offers an illuminating introduction to urban economies that 'will change the way you think about cities.'

"One of the most truly original takes on cities and their economic development that I've read in quite a while." From the Foreword by Richard Florida

EDUCATION

"To Serve a Larger Purpose": Engagement for Democracy and the Transformation of Higher Education

Edited by John Saltmarsh and Matthew Hartley.
Foreword by David Mathews

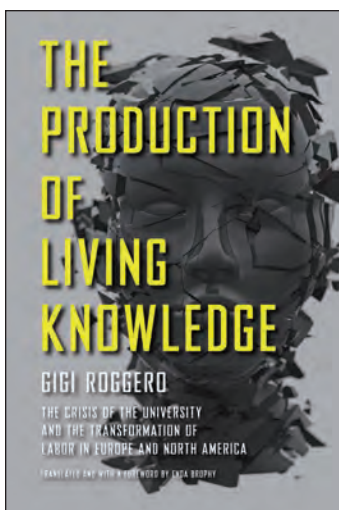

"To Serve a Larger Purpose' is an extremely timely, important work... By consciously linking the movement for civic education and engagement (for democracy) to the need to transform our educational institutions, this work articulates what many of us who work in higher education know, but can rarely summon the knowledge or time to understand. One finishes this powerful book much better informed about the state of both the civic engagement movement and the very significant problems confronting universities.”—John Wooding, University of Massachusetts, Lowell

SAT Wars: The Case for Test-Optional College Admissions
Joseph A. Soares, editor
David Hawkins, Foreword

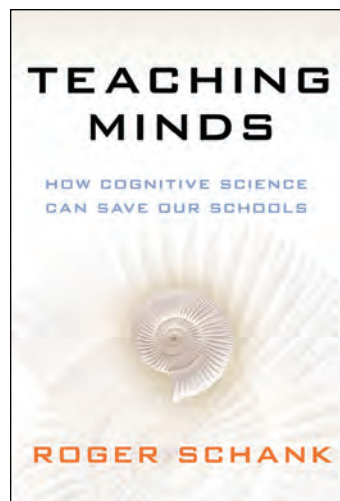

Are the best and the brightest students the ones who can check off the most correct boxes on a multiple-choice exam? Or are there better ways of measuring ability and promise? In this revealing book, Joseph Soares demonstrates the mostly negative impact of standardized admissions tests on American life. SAT Wars features contributions by experts, including a piece from Daniel Golden, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his reporting in the Wall Street Journal on admissions, and a chapter on alternative tests from Robert J. Sternberg, who is the world’s most-cited living authority on educational research.

Picturing the Scientific Revolution
Volker R. Remmert
 Translated by Ben Kern

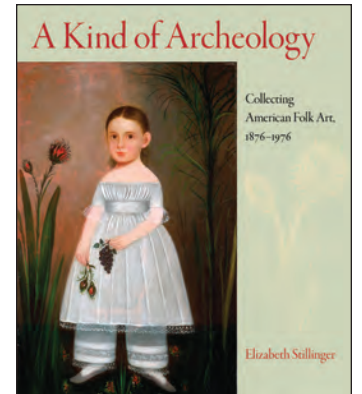

“Remmert’s meticulous and closely-argued study of a particular class of images—the engraved title pages, title page vignettes, and frontispieces of seventeenth-century mathematical texts—shows just how much they mattered in the reconfiguration of early modern disciplines, and how much they can convey to us now.”

POLITICAL SCIENCE/ PUBLIC AFFAIRS

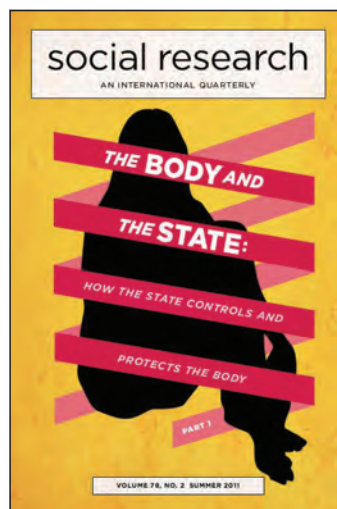

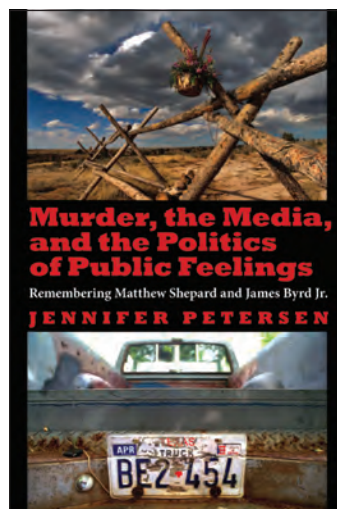

FDR, Dewey, and the Election of 1944
 David M. Jordan

“David Jordan has produced a lucid, highly engrossing account of a fateful but little chronicled episode in American presidential politics. His narrative of the 1944 election campaign—written with savvy and encyclopedic range and featuring a large cast of personalities rendered in deft cameos—deserves a place alongside Theodore White’s histories of how high and low character, fierce ambition, and dumb luck play their part in the nation’s choice of its chief executive.” —Richard Kluger, Pulitzer Prize-winning historian

Murder, the Media, and the Politics of Public Feelings: Remembering Matthew Shepard and James Byrd Jr.
 Jennifer Petersen

In 1998, intense media coverage of the horrific hate crime murders of Matthew Shepard and James Byrd Jr. played a large role in cultivating, shaping, and directing the public and political response. Tracing the emotional exchange from news stories to the creation of law, the author calls for an approach to media and democratic politics that takes into account the role of affect in the political and legal life of the nation. “Petersen makes use of an intriguing thesis and presents an insightful source for journalism and broadcasting students.” —Library Journal
