

COE Speaker Series--October 3 at 4PM
Hedge Funds Are Not Mutual Funds
By Sanford J. Grossman, Ph.D.

Sanford Grossman is one of the leading financial economists in the world. He has held academic appointments at Chicago, Stanford, Princeton, and the Wharton School. Currently, he is the Chairman Connecticut-based Quantitative Financial Strategies, Inc. and affiliated entities that together manage about $5 billion in assets for institutions and high net-worth investors.

On October 3rd he will speak to the Brown community on the differences between hedge funds and mutual funds, including managers' incentives, investment strategies, and regulations.

Come, and learn about this facet of financial markets from this unique practitioner and intellectual leader.
