WHY THE STARS – AND THE CIA – SHOULD HEED PSYCHIC TWINS LINDA AND TERRY JAMISON

CELEBRITIES should learn to listen when identical twins Linda and Terry

Jamison tap into their telepathic and psychic gifts.

Over the past 15 years, their track record has been uncannily accurate.

In December 2004, US-born Linda and Terry, 41, predicted that Kate Moss, 31, would have serious problems with her career this year.

"At the time, the prediction seemed ludicrous," says Terry. "Kate was one of the world's top models."

Even so, they made a note of their message-from-beyond and filed it. So they barely raised an eyebrow when the Daily Mirror's "Cocaine Kate" scandal broke in September.

Now Linda believes Kate is considering an acting career. "She'll have lessons next year," she insists.

The twins have also foreseen many Hollywood break-ups... and gone public prior to the event.

"In 2004, we predicted that Jennifer Lopez and Ben Affleck's relationship was on the rocks," says Terry. "Two weeks later, they announced their wedding was off."

"In 2001, we 'saw' Julia Roberts and Benjamin Bratt breaking up, which they later did. We also give rier marriage to cameraman Danny Moder another two years."

Sadly, their predictions about world tragedies also come true.

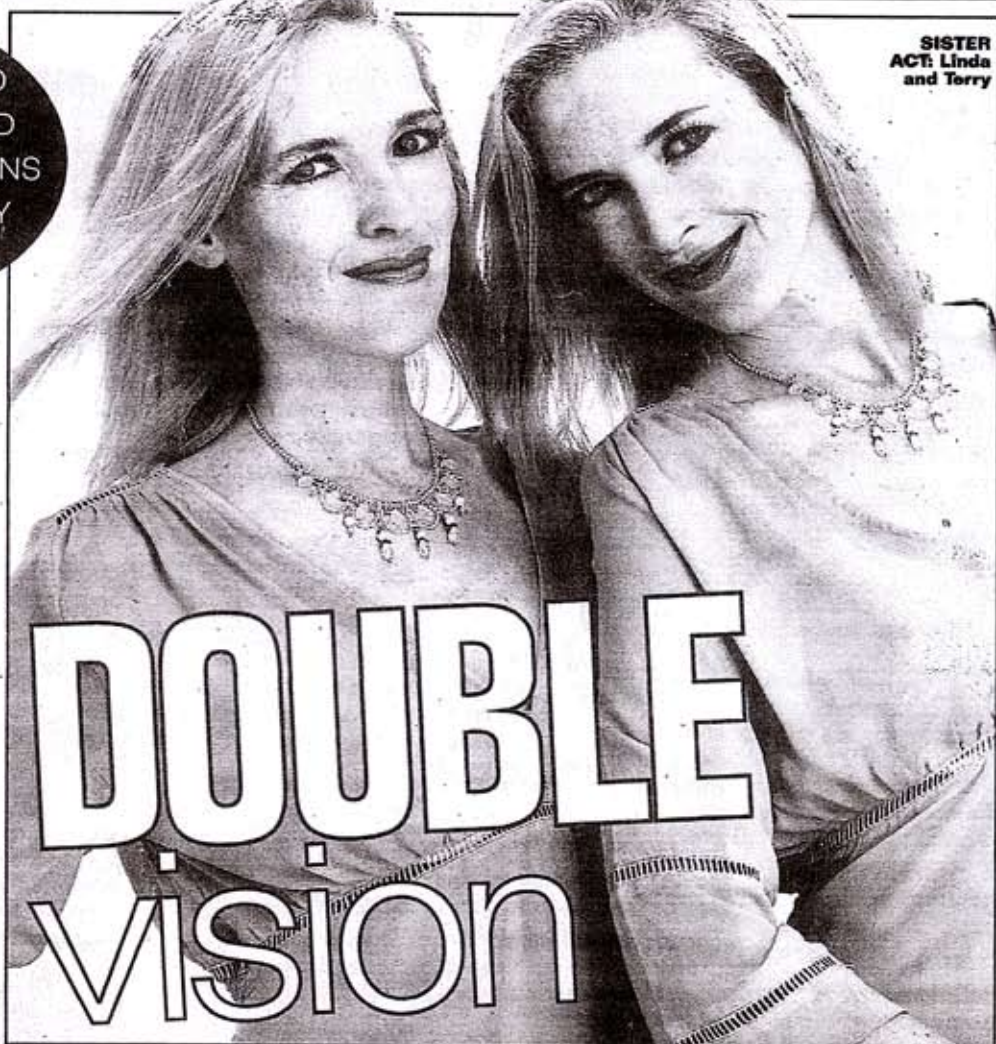

"During a lecture in 1997, we said JFK Jr would die following a plane crash," remembers Linda. "It happened two years later."

"Then in 1999, on a US radio show, we predicted the 9/11 attacks," adds Terry.

"That night, 20 million people heard our predictions. The message we both received was:

'World Trade Center Attack by 2002. Bin Laden. Government and Federal buildings attacked in Washington DC.'

We knew Kate Moss would have serious trouble

Thousands perish.' When the attacks came, we were upset and frustrated that we weren't able to do anything to stop them."

The twins receive their prophetic information by automatic writing.

Terry explains: "We each take an A4 pad, go into a trance by relaxing, then let the information flow clairvoyantly."

"We work independently, in different rooms, and compare notes later."

Linda adds: "Our results are always similar – which doesn't surprise us as we've had the same experiences, illnesses and dreams since childhood."

"I first realised my sister and I had a connection when we were three, because we could communicate without talking."

After high school, the twins went to art school, then later moved to New York.

"In 1983, I started channelling spirits," recalls Linda.

"The first time it happened I was taken over and began speaking in a Scottish accent. It was a major step on our psychic journey and, gradually, I learnt to control the spirits."

As well as foreseeing world events, Linda and Terry now help everyone from housewives to businessmen.

"Our psychic skills are definitely heightened when we work together," says Linda. Those skills haven't gone unnoticed by the authorities either. The CIA employed the twins two years ago, on a counter-intelligence project set up to deal with Iraq.

BOND: As children

"We've had feedback that we've been very accurate," says Terry. "As well as working for the CIA, we've assisted the FBI in solving crimes and the police in finding missing persons."

"We keep this work confidential because official agencies hate admitting that they consult psychics. But I think we've proven that it's worth their while to call us."
