Promoting Integrity

Evaluating and Improving Public Institutions

Edited by Brian W. Head, University of Queensland, Australia, A.J. Brown, Griffith University, Australia and Carmel Connors, Griffith University, Australia

'At last ... an up-to-date, well-documented book written by leading experts on integrity systems and how to achieve them. Drawing mainly on Australian experience, this book elucidates knowledge and practical solutions for any country seeking to combat corruption in public life. This masterful book is a priority for governments seeking to ensure that their system of integrity is workable.' – Rosamund Thomas, Centre for Business and Public Sector Ethics, UK

'This is as good as it gets for those searching for international lessons on integrity in public decision-making. The contributors know what readers need to know and they deliver. Should be compulsory reading for all involved in managing public integrity.' – John Uhr, The Australian National University, Australia

Taking Australia as a case study that is relevant to all countries where public integrity is an issue, this collection reviews a variety of existing efforts to understand, 'map' and evaluate the effectiveness of integrity policies and institutions, not just in the government sector but across all the major institutions of modern society. It will be of interest to those in governance, politics, law and public policy.
