— EMMA GOLDMAN

“Friends and Comrades . . . if they . . . intend to prosecute women from talking, they will have to begin with their mothers, wives, sisters, and sweethearts, for they will never stop women from talking. . . It was the right of free speech that was prosecuted . . . not little Emma Goldman.”

*This season let us celebrate free expression

*Cheers from all of us at the
EMMA GOLDMAN PAPERS
A source of inspiration from the past*

*Candace Falk, Barry Pateman, Susan Wengraf, Leon Litwack, and Robby Cohen;
dedicated volunteers, June Brumer, Rae Lisker, and Beth Wilson; and our wonderful student assistants, Yara Alas, and Xuan An Thi Ho; and the many talented student research apprentices over the years.*

We hope you can support the Project as we work to meet our deadlines, the timing of which unfortunately precludes my writing personal notes this year. Many thanks, as always. (Please see back side of this card for details).
