“The Night That Changed America: A Grammy Salute to the Beatles” airs Sunday on CBS.

One of the 'Broke Girls' is unbroken singer

BY JAY BOBBIN © Zap2it

Q: I was surprised to hear Beth Behrs sing on the People's Choice Awards. What's her background in that? — Emily Strauss, Baltimore

A: The "2 Broke Girls" star actually had classical training in singing, and she performed in musicals during her time at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco. Also in that city, she portrayed Sandy in a staging of "Grease" ... all of which contributed to her being able to cut loose on Miley Cyrus' "Wrecking Ball," among other tunes, during the CBS award show telecast last month.

Q: It's interesting to see Woody Harrelson doing a series again with "True Detective." Has he done any other series since "Cheers"? — Margaret Anderson, Rio Rancho, N.M.

A: Only guest roles or parts in TV movies. He was featured in episodes of "The Simpsons" (in voice only, of course), "Spin City," "Ellen," "Will & Grace" (in a multiple-episode arc) ... and the "Cheers" spinoff "Frasier," on which he reprised the role of Woody. Harrelson also had success with HBO in 2012, getting good notices for his work in the film "Game Change."

Q: On the soap opera "Days of our Lives," a new club called Club TBD opened in Salem. What do the initials stand for? — Mitty LeCrone, Ormond Beach, Fla.

A: Since no other name had been given for the club at the time of this writing, we're assuming it's the standard definition for that acronym: "To Be Determined." Which, if they couldn't decide what else to call it, was pretty clever on the part of the writers of the long-running NBC daytime drama.

Q: Is "NCIS: Los Angeles" coming back this season? It is noticeably absent from Tuesday nights. — Elizabeth Itle, Reading, Pa.

A: Perhaps you tuned in on a night when there was a rare pre-emption recently — as when CBS premiered "Intelligence" in that slot last month, to give the new show the advantage of an "NCIS" lead-in. "Los Angeles" has pretty much been in its usual place most of this season, though, to the extent that it remains one of television's highest-rated drama series.

Q: Now that Dan Stevens is off "Downton Abbey," what is he doing? — Judy Scott, Columbus, Ohio

A: Seen in last fall's movie "The Fifth Estate," the actor has made several other films since appearing onstage opposite Jessica Chastain in a revival of "The Heiress" last winter. "A Walk Among the Tombstones," "The Guest" and "The Cobbler" are scheduled for release this year, and Stevens also will play Lancelot in "Night at the Museum 3," slated to be in theaters on Christmas Day. Additionally, he can be heard as the voice of the computer TIM in The CW's version of the series "The Tomorrow People."
