How Bona use cookies

Our visitors at bona.com are very important to us. Here we explain how we use cookies and how we protect the privacy of users. If you have any further questions, please feel free to contact us at webmaster@bona.com.

Use of cookies

Bona is an international company with subsidiaries in many countries. We use cookies to facilitate the use of our website, which has several versions depending on which country the visitor live in.

A cookie is a small text file sent from our web server and stored by your browser. The cookie helps the language manager in our CMS to identify in which country a visitor lives so that the visitor gets the correct language independent of the site you are browsing.

We use statistics on users and traffic to our website. Such statistics, however, never contains any kind of personal information. Everything is anonymous. IP addresses are not stored in our database and therefore information about you is never linked to your identity.

Bona use cookies to

• Allow the system to recognize returning users to customize the services.
• Make it easier for you to move on the site.
• Calculate and report the number of users and traffic.

How to prevent cookies from being stored

1) You can erase cookies from your hard drive at any time, but this means that your personal settings may be lost.
2) You can also change the settings in your browser to not allow cookies to be saved on your hard drive. This impairs the functionality, however, on some websites, you can prevent access to the members area and make certain content and features are not available.
3) You can download a blank cookie (" opt-out cookie") so that the cookies at our partner EpiServer cannot be saved.
