

One-World Code Words Foreshadow Trouble for Bible Believers

Code words are emerging pointing to the one-world system envisioned by Bible prophecy. A new Ambassador-at-Large for Religious Freedom has been appointed by the U.S. President. David Saperstein is the first Jew to hold the position and wasted no time identifying some of the current threats to religious freedom such as the rising anti-Muslim and anti-Semitic sentiment in Western Europe and the purging of the Christians in Islamic countries.

One of Saperstein's goals stated in his acceptance speech was to "help in shaping policies that contribute to isolating and delegitimizing extremist religious voices." (Emphasis added)

Another voice attempting to speak to the problem of religious freedom is for-

In India, a Window is Closing

India appears to be nearing a change that may seriously affect the gospel. The recent election of a hard-line Hindu president is encouraging attacks on both Christians and Muslims by Hindus. Anti-conversion laws are being passed in many areas.

When we look at the foreign mission field, certain areas are more open to the gospel at any given time. For example, the Philippines has been wide open for several years and tracts have been flooded there numbering in the millions.

Other areas, such as China and Muslim-dominated countries, are

Anti-Israel Campus Groups Lobbying for Hamas

A recent commotion at University of California, Davis, led to a walk-out by pro-Israel students with other students shouting "Allahu Akbar" as they left. The event occurred during a meeting of the Student Government Council who was voting on a Boycott, Divestment, and Sanctions (BDS) resolution.

BDS is a world-wide, pro-Palestinian (thus: anti-Israel) movement seeking to damage the Israeli economy. It has chapters on campuses to pressure the university trust funds to boycott Israeli businesses and investments.

After the walkout, the Student Council voted 8 to 2 in favor of the resolution to boycott and divest, much to the satisfaction of the pro-Hamas group Students for Justice in Palestine (SJP) who had championed the vote. Jewish leaders and their friends on campus knew the situation was serious when a couple of swastikas were painted on a Jewish frat house a few days later.

UC Davis leaders said that the student resolution does not affect their investment strategies which are set by the UC Regents. Nevertheless, this is only one example of a global effort to discredit Israel's right to exist. BDS goals are the return of all Palestinian lands to Arab control and the dismantling of the wall that Israel has built to keep out suicide bombers. Of course, if done,

Israel would simply cease of the campaign is the result of general Western hatred for the Jews fostered by Roman Catholicism's "Replacement Theology." For centuries, Rome has claimed that the "people of God" is now the "church" and God is done with Israel because they rejected their Messiah.

The Holy Land is just the repository of historical relics to be venerated by the "faithful," and the Zionists should go off somewhere like Argentina to build their nation and leave the rest of the world in peace. This "anti-Semitism" has plagued the Jews for centuries culminating in Hitler's attempt to solve the "Jewish problem."

This latent anti-Israel sentiment in the Western World is only present in political and economic pressure on Israel, but a far more sinister dragon is breathing real fire on the neck of this sturdy little country. "Militant" Islam has vowed to eliminate both Israel (little Satan) and the "Great Satan," America.

There are hundreds of pro-Islam groups like BDS dedicated to this larger cause. The rise of ISIS in Syria and Iraq is just the latest expression of the Qur'an-inspired violence that awaits all non-Muslim peoples if Islamists have their way.

So, what should the Bible believer do as we watch the "heathen rage?" World leaders are mostly focused on appeasement or military defeat. But the real solution is elsewhere, largely ignored by those leaders. Bible readers know that this is a cosmic spiritual war. Most of the govern-

Did God Plan a Do-It-Yourself Bible?

By Jack McElroy

Do you think the Lord cared enough about His holy words to preserve them in a book His own children can read and believe today?

I believe he did. But which book?

Most fundamental Bible College and Seminary professors and many pastors trained under them were taught...

1. That the original words God inspired are now lost. But they are now supposedly preserved in a big pile of original language manuscripts, ancient translations and quotations of the text. And...

2. It's the scholars' job to "re-construct" what God originally said —although no one can be 100% certain that any reading is 100% authentic (you'd have to have the original manuscripts to know for sure).

Anyway...

Do you know where you end up when that's the "Bible" you're supposed to "be a serious student of?"

To get your hands on such a Bible to read and study, you'd be forced to:

1. Master many ancient languages (not just ancient Hebrew & ancient Greek).

2. Master the "science" of textual criticism (assuming that modern textual criticism is a science —which it is not) in order to sift through the entire documentary evidence.

3. Learn how to read and decipher the various and sometimes contradictory readings —all in an attempt to somehow:

4. Reconstruct the "original autographs."

5. Then you're "good-to-go" to create from your own personal opinion a "Bible" to study.

Do you really think these are the hoops the Lord wants you to jump through just to figure out what He said? But this is exactly why there are so many versions of the Bible and why they all say and mean different things.

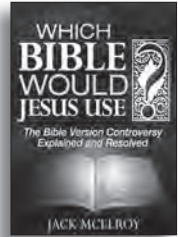

I believe in a real Bible —a book that exists— and it's not hard to find, either. In fact, the Lord has preserved such A BOOK for you.

It's a book that's sold billions of copies and has a 400-year history of eternal results; a book that, according to Winston Churchill, "has been translated into more than seven hundred and sixty tongues."

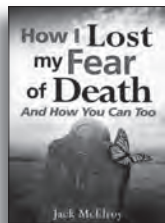

It's a book that's changed countless lives of those who have read it and just believed that it was the very words that God wanted us to have.

Which Book? It's the Authorized Version of 1611, popularly known as the King James Bible.

If JESUS walked into your church, which Bible would HE carry under His arm?
 Which Bible would He QUOTE from?

Interview with the author

www.chick.com/WhyKJV

You know how people get all upset and sometimes angry when someone talks about one Bible version being better than another? It happens a lot in Bible studies because the differences in versions are painfully obvious to all. Item# 147 - 342 pages - $19.95

Here are answers to the biggest, nastiest, and most annoying objections you get when defending the King James Bible. Now when you hear the sarcastic comments, you'll quickly chuckle. You'll feel sorry for those who don't have a Bible they can believe in. But you won't be upset anymore.

Why would JESUS be OFFENDED if you handed him any Bible other than a KJV?

What's in it that is so OFFENSIVE to him?

Church Leaders Worried Over Drop in Baptisms

For decades, the Southern Baptists have tracked baptisms in their churches as a way to measure the effectiveness of their witnessing. Their leaders are becoming concerned as the numbers have been steadily dropping over the last decade.

As the world becomes more “worldly,” witnessing is becoming more rare. While demand for gospel tracts is rising in foreign mission fields, usage in the U.S. is dropping. For more than a century, Europe has been a more difficult mission field than Africa or Latin America. As America drifts politically and culturally toward Europe, the gospel finds less and less fertile soil here.

One encouraging sign found by Barna Research is that the coming generation of 18 to 30-year-olds, known as Millennials, seems to be reversing the trend. Some 65 percent of born-again Millennials shared the gospel in 2013, compared to 56 percent in 2010.

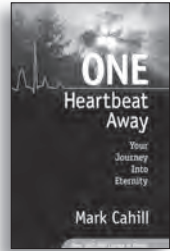

A study by Southern Baptist leadership found a serious lack of a sense of urgency to reach the lost. As a result, few Christians bother to spend time with unbelievers. This has allowed popular opinion in the culture to shift against Bible believers, casting them more by what they are against than what they are for. Satan has successfully labeled Bible believers as judgmental, homophobic, hate mongers.

As a result, many who “name the name of Christ” have switched from sharing the gospel openly, to more incognito roles hoping no one discovers their true identity right away. Leaders are recommending a more subtle approach of “relationship evangelism.” Only after establishing a “relationship,” does one attempt to “evangelize.” Unfortunately, this is not working out very well, because Christian “fellowships” have become more and more inbred, with little contact with unbelievers. Members concentrate on “fellowship” with other believers, seldom inviting unbelievers into the circle. This has all contributed to a loss of concern for those around us who, in reality, are on their way to hell.

Part of the world’s complaint about Bible believers being judgmental has some merit, when we approach them without the “joy of the Lord” in our attitude. If they fail to see that we are genuinely living an “abundant life,” how can they develop a thirst for the Living Water that we are offering? When ments of this world are “secular,” opting out of taking sides on spiritual issues. This leaves them defenseless against nations or movements that are fanatical about a spiritual mission.

Islam’s mission is to rule the world for Allah. Even “moderate” Muslims are committed by default to this mission, since they know of no other option.

As soul winners, that is where we come in. We have a superior spiritual option. We just need to get it out there where they can see it. Saturation with no-nonsense gospel tracts can help lay the foundation for the revival that we need to get Islam’s (and everyone else’s) attention.

Beheadings by ISIS are mild compared to the brutal tactics used by Hitler and Genghis Kan. Unless we get busy and promote revival, our time will be short before our freedom to do it will be squelched.

Jesus: Creator —or Middle Man?

By David W. Daniels

In February of 1981, Time Magazine described a controversy about a United Church of Christ (UCC) minister named Mansfield Kaseman, who wanted to be ordained Presbyterian. They asked him, "Was Jesus God?"

Kaseman answered, "No, God is God." That's kind of obvious. But is Jesus Christ God? He refused to say that.

Okay, the guy is a heretic. Get rid of him! But no, after fierce debate, the majority decided to ordain him a Presbyterian minister anyway. What would cause a guy to think that Jesus wasn't actually God? It couldn't be the Bible that he read, could it?

Well, let me tell you about something that had once made me think that maybe Jesus was NOT the Creator, after all. You won't believe how tiny it was. Just one single word. Want to know what it was?

I graduated Bible college as a top Greek student. I tested right into Advanced Greek at Fuller Seminary. That would make a person think I really knew something. But all I knew is what I was taught. Think about it: who says my professors and Greek books got it right? And how do I know?

But the meaning of a single tiny word in a well-known verse got me to think that Jesus Christ was not the Creator. I started to think of Him more as a "middle man."

Please look at John 1:3: "All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made." Seems simple enough. "All things were made by him..."

#220 - $12.95
288 pages
paperback

What does that make Jesus? The Creator! Even a 5 year old can tell you that. That is the reading (and I checked it for myself) of every English Bible I could find through history, from Wycliffe in 1384 clear into the 1800s.

They all say: "All things were made BY HIM."

In 1870, a huge Greek inter-linear was published, called the Emphatic Diaglott. In it they made this tiny change. Suddenly, all things weren't made "BY" Him. Now, all things were made "THROUGH" Him. It's not rocket science. If all things are only created THROUGH Him, Jesus isn't the Creator anymore. He's just the middle man.

If God the Father is Creator, Jesus didn't we hand someone a no-nonsense gospel tract, our face must show the genuine joy that we are living and an earnest compassion for that individual. But we must give them the tract, because in our busy lives there is little opportunity to spend time building a "relationship" before sharing the gospel.

So many Bible believers have kind of given up, recognizing that time does not permit reaching the world through a lengthy relationship process. We bemoan that the world seems to be "going to hell in a hand basket," and petition God for revival. But we must not forget that saturations with no-nonsense gospel tracts played major roles in past national revivals.

Tract blitzing is something we can all be involved in and Chick Publications has hundreds of letters and e-mail testifying to the power of the scriptures imbedded in Chick tracts.

much harder and getting tracts in sometimes takes some Holy Ghost strategy. Other countries are unstable and often a window of opportunity may open or close on short notice.

For a long time Chick Publications has found it difficult to print here and ship literature into India because of customs barriers. To overcome this, a national printer agreed to take our printing files and fill orders in the country. He is also able to introduce us to ministries who are most able to use tracts in significant quantities.

Now, with the rising persecution, ministries are issuing urgent pleas for literature while they can still use them. We have been notified of three ministries who have found ways to effectively use large quantities of tracts.

One of them does what they call “guerrilla evangelism.” They use roving teams who camp for a few days near a local church and fan out into the community, quickly putting literature in every home and praying with those who are willing. Then they pack up and disappear leaving the church to disciple those who have responded to the saturation effort. Done quietly, under the radar of the authorities, these teams get out 20,000 to 40,000 gospel tracts a month.

The other two ministries conduct hundreds of Vacation Bible Schools at local churches. They supply tracts and other teaching materials to the churches and guidance in attracting and disciplining the neighborhood children who are mostly Hindu and Muslim backgrounds.

Over 5,000 churches in North India are served by one of these ministries helping them conduct more than a thousand VBSs a year. They are requesting a minimum of 100,000 tracts.

Chick Publications' contact writes that the government is actively striving to make conversion to Christ a crime: “They are trying to get anti-conversion laws passed across India and very likely they will come in force because of the overwhelming majority of the Hindutva crowd. "So we need to use the time available to us to make the best use of time while we still can. They are also curbing the media from reporting attacks against Christians, so a lot of these persecutions are not even getting media coverage. Last week, one of the Christian pastors was picked up by Naxalites in Chattisgarh and tortured and beheaded. The pastor was 32 years old. None of the main-line media covered it. Not even a mention of it. So no protest or hue or cry."

These are examples of missions organizations who have found a way, by reaching the children and operating in the shadows of the growing darkness in India. While the window is open, it is still possible to saturate whole areas with gospel literature in the local languages. They have requested a total of 380,000 tracts as soon as possible. The first 80,000 has been completed, and work has begun on the next 100,000 for children in VBS programs. If you would like to help, 100 percent of your donations to the Chick Mission Fund goes to put literature in their hands.

mer British Prime Minister Tony Blair. Since leaving office he has established the Tony Blair Faith Foundation. It is founded on the belief that “religious ideology would become the pre-eminent driving force of global events this century.” The Foundation’s goal is to “provide the support required to prevent religious conflict and extremism in order to promote open minded and stable societies.” Foundation projects include education of international leaders on ways to “challenge and uproot the ideology of religious extremists.”

All of this sounds like wonderful endeavors to try to nullify some of the “ideologies” that, today, cause beheading, sexual bondage, poverty and injustice in more than half of the world. But Blair’s promotion of “open minded and stable societies” by uprooting the “ideology of religious extremists” carries an ominous overtone for Bible believers who are regularly labeled extremists. Take for example, Pope Francis’ recent remarks: “In ideologies there is not Jesus... And ideologies are rigid, always... But it is a serious illness, this of ideological Christians.”

The dictionary defines ideology as a belief system that guides an individual or group. The term is coming to the front with even the U.S. president vowing, in his 2015 State-of-the-Union address, to stand up against “the bankrupt ideology of violent extremism.”

It is becoming a common global buzz word for all the evil people in the world.

CHICK MAIL BAG

Of all the various tracts I’ve ever read, none come close to the appeal of Chicks. My kids had a ministry they invented back in the 90s they called CHOW... Christian Homeless Outreach Workforce. They’d drive to a notorious homeless hangout public park location near downtown Phoenix AZ, stop the van and begin handing out hot hardboiled eggs, peanut butter sandwiches, hot cups of tea and Chick tracts to homeless folks. Sometimes it included donated blankets and coats when available, but it ALWAYS had to be Chick tracts.

then they’d find a curb to sit on and start reading the tracts and eating. Then, more often than not, they’d start swapping the tracts with each other so they could read as many as possible.

We purchased the sample package back then so we had a huge assortment, instead of all of one topic. For pretty much all our kids’ growing up years I had a big basket full of Chick tracts in the living room and whenever my kids had friends over, there was always someone who wanted to just sit and read Chicks. I still have a Chick tract basket in my living room, in fact. Sometimes now it’s grandkids and their friends who are reading them. K.G., AZ

Homeless people would line up when they saw the van pull up, all orderly and polite, and gratefully accept the food, exactly do the creating. Doesn't that lower Jesus a little bit?

Almost all Bibles say it now. Fifty-two modern Bibles all took away "by Him" and added "through Him." The New American Standard actually got it right, originally. But then they switched to "through" in their 1995 update.

Don't look to the New King James to rescue you. It says "through." So does one of the first King James look-a-likes, the King James II, as well as the just-published Modern English Version!

After years of researching, I found that God had kept His promise and preserved His words for us in English in the King James Bible. Jesus Christ IS the Creator. All things were made BY Him. He's also the judge. I don't want to be there when He judges those modern version Bible-changers. Do you?

You may not have this problem, yourself. But there is a new generation, called the Millennials. Many of them agree more with Mansfield Kaseman. They think, "Jesus was a nice guy, but he wasn't God."

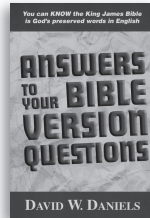

Are you going to give them a Bible that only feeds their doubt?

Or are you going to give them a Bible to put their faith in, that testifies of Jesus in His rightful place, as Creator?

You want one that correctly says: "All things were made BY him". Make your choice. And be responsible for the outcome.

In another quote, it is clear that the pope equates his despised ideological Christians with someone else he hates: fundamentalists.

On June 13, 2014, he said: "A fundamentalist group, although it may not kill anyone, although it may not strike anyone, is violent. The mental structure of fundamentalists is violence in the name of God."

On November 30, 2014, he said: "You ... can't say that all Christians are fundamentalists. We have our share of them (fundamentalists). All religions have these little groups." So, if an ideology is a belief system, then the pope is saying that these bad "ideological Christians" are anyone who disagrees with him.

All these voices are talking up a world with "open minded and stable societies," using Blair's terms. This is a utopia where "we all just get along." But anyone who threatens this "harmony" by calling someone a sinner or suggesting that another's "ideology" might consign him to hell in the afterlife, threatens the stability of society. Open-mindedness will not be "open" to anyone who expresses God's closed minded opinion about marriage being just between a man and woman.

A recent example of "voices" that Saperstein wants to "isolate" took place in Singapore where a Christian bookstore owner was threatened with prosecution under local "harmony laws" for carrying Chick tracts for sale.

Satan knows the power of words. But we know the power of God's Words. Soul winners, we must work while we can. We must saturate the culture with the truth to counter the pope's false gospel and Blair's one-world pipe dream.

A MESSAGE FROM JACK CHICK...

Dear Ones in Christ:

Years ago, I met a sweet little old lady named Mary Wilhite. She walked with the Lord and she became one of my heroes. Mary told me that, as a young teen, she fled Mexico bringing her little sisters and brother to save their lives. At that time, Poncho Villa's blood thirsty gang was blocking any chance to get across the border. She prayed for help. When she saw all the soldiers sleeping on the ground, she took her little group and tiptoed over a sleeping army to safety. What a brave little girl!

Later, she and her husband would visit prisons in Mexico. Mary would go down into the dungeons where even the guards were afraid to enter. She won many souls and faithfully wrote to them for years. They called her Mother Mary. The prisoners respected and loved her.

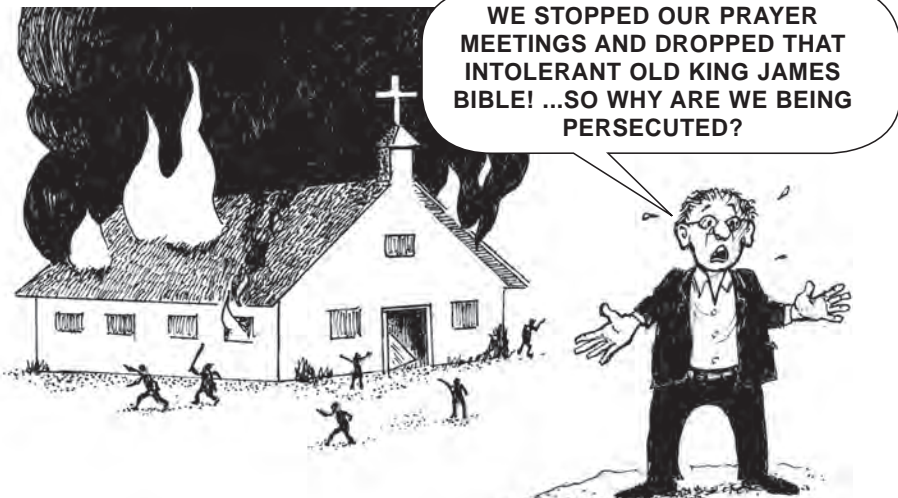

Before Mary died, she reached everyone in her hometown by hanging a Chick tract on their doorknob with a rubber band. She did this three different times and it took her two years. She had warned every family and their blood was not on her hands. (See Ezek 3:18-19).

Little Mary served faithful unto the end. I hope what Mary did might inspire you also.
