New cast, past events inform Season 2 of ' Fargo '

By Jay Bobbin
 © Zap2it

In moving forward, "Fargo" is going backward.

The Emmy- and Golden Globe-winning FX mystery-drama series inspired by the Coen brothers' Oscar-winning 1996 movie starts its second season Monday, Oct. 12, but it continues in the form of a newly cast prequel to the first round's events. A major link is Lou Solverson, played as a retired lawman in Season 1 by Keith Carradine, but now seen in his younger incarnation — portrayed by Patrick Wilson ("Insidious") — as a Vietnam veteran working as a Midwestern state trooper in the late 1970s.

He becomes enmeshed in a case connecting several states as well as mobsters, smaller-time crooks and a young couple (Kirsten Dunst and "Friday Night Lights" alum Jesse Ple-mons). Numerous other characters factor in, represented by an impressive ensemble that also includes Ted Danson, Jean Smart, Brad Garrett ("Everybody Loves Raymond"), Jeffrey Donovan ("Burn Notice"), Bokeem Woodbine, Nick Offerman ("Parks and Recreation"), Adam Arkin and Kieran Culkin.

In adding South Dakota to Minnesota as a location this season, executive producer Noah Hawley notes North Dakota was used sparingly in the original movie, "but they call it 'Fargo,' in my mind, because the word itself is so evocative of a place ... the sort of tundra where civilization meets the wilderness. So, the name Fargo is not only evocative of a place, it's evocative of a kind of story — a true crime story that isn't true, where truth is stranger than fiction."

Familiar with Minnesota via her many relatives who hail from it, Dunst

(in her first series role since "ER" almost 20 years ago) introduces her "Fargo" alter ego Peggy Blumquist as a small-town beautician with simple wants and needs. However, she ultimately reinforces the franchise's message that not everything is necessarily what it seems.

"Peggy has set goals for herself, and nothing is going to stop her," Dunst explains, "and I don't think (her persona is) about being smart or oblivious. I don't want to call her a little delusional, but she has such a zeroed-in path of what she wants to do and what she wants to be, and then there is this other part that's stopping her. She does come from a small town, and she could live that life and just have kids, and then this wrench is thrown in the middle of it. And I think that it wakes her up to the possibility of not fulfilling any of those things."

Hungry for more 'Hunger' on television

BY JAY BOBBIN © Zap2it

Q: Now that Part 2 of the "Hunger Games" trilogy is being released in theaters, when will Part 1 be shown on TV? — Lisa Sheridan, Moore County, N.C.

A: Just to get the terminology a little more exact, it's Part 2 of the final story in the Jennifer Lawrence-starring "Hunger Games" trilogy — "Mockingjay" — that opens in theaters next month. Part 1 actually has made its TV debut already, since it began its run on the premium channel Epix in July. Admittedly, that isn't as widely available as HBO, Showtime or Starz, but that won't be the film's only stop on the home screen. We'd expect ABC Family, which has the basic-cable rights to the original film and the "Catching Fire" sequel, will acquire and show it eventually.

Q: Why isn't Len Goodman on "Dancing With the Stars" this season? — Allie Collins, via e-mail

A: Goodman also is a judge on the British forerunner of the ABC show, "Strictly Come Dancing," as is Bruno Tonioli — and juggling the two series on two different continents involves a lot of travel, by definition. Goodman decided he didn't want to continue that level of itinerary, and he felt the 20th season (and 10th anniversary) of "Dancing With the Stars" was an appropriate place to end his run ... which doesn't necessarily mean he won't be back to visit.

Q: Someone told me the actor who played Superman on television was in "Gone With the Wind." Is that true? — Ruth Douglas, Providence, R.I.

A: It sure is, and you can spot him pretty quickly. We should point out it was TV's first Superman — George Reeves — since there were several, and he's in the all-time classic's first fully performed scene. He and Fred Crane play the Tarleton brothers, who are desperate to have Scarlett O'Hara (Vivien Leigh) dine with them at a barbecue. When she finally agrees to, the guys are so happy, they dance with each other. Trust us, though his role lasts only a few minutes, you can't miss Reeves in that movie.

Q: Did Mary Tyler Moore do commercials before she became a TV star? — Paul Craft, Glen Burnie, Md.

A: Oh, yes ... and some might contend that the ads she did made her a star on the home screen, one series of them in particular. Moore used her yen for dance to play "Happy Hotpoint," who was clad in a leotard that gave her the image of an elf as she pranced her way through commercials pitching Hotpoint appliances. It'll be interesting to see whether any of those ads are included in "Mary Tyler Moore: A Celebration," a new PBS special debuting this Tuesday, Oct. 13 (check local listings). The program is said to include a wealth of clips of Moore at various stages of her career, so if it really wants to be thorough, it should get "Happy."

SATURDAY EVENING MOVIES

Best Bets

Sunday

America's Funniest Home Videos

6 p.m. on KMBC

One of the longest-running shows currently on broadcast television, this program launches its 26th season with a very significant change — a new host. “Fresh Prince of Bel-Air” alum Alfonso Ribeiro takes over the duty of introducing amusing videos sent in by viewers, and the line of succession is appropriate: Ribeiro won Season 19 of “Dancing With the Stars,” still hosted by Tom Bergeron, who also presided over this series for 15 of its rounds.

The Great British Baking Show

6 p.m. on KCPT

The title “Sweet Dough” promises tasty treats aplenty, and as the new episode begins, tea loaves are the fare that the bakers prepare. In doing so, they rely on elements they know from their respective homes, so tastes representing such locales as Oxford and Devonshire are represented distinctively. Later in the hour, it's all about buns as the Showstopper round encompasses everything from traditional cinnamon buns to French brioches.

Bob's Burgers

6:30 p.m. on WDAF

The prospect of increased business excites Bob (voice of H. Jon Benjamin) in the new episode “The Land Ship,” until he learns that during the related parade, portable restrooms will be set up right in front of the restaurant. Tina (voice of Dan Mintz) tries to change her allegedly dull image by teaming with a school vandal — and the two plots come together when Tina has to decide whether to help disrupt the parade. Kristen Schaal also is in the voice cast.

The Simpsons

7 p.m. on WDAF

Twin sisters Selma and Patty (both voiced by Julie Kavner) receive shocking information about their father's death, prompting them both to give up smoking, in the new episode “Puffless.” It turns out to be only lip service on Selma's part, though, since she continues to light up ... and Patty is so upset about it, she moves out and seeks shelter with Marge and Homer (voices of Kavner and Dan Castellaneta). Famed cellist Yo-Yo Ma voices his animated likeness.

Masterpiece Classic

7 p.m., 12 a.m. on KCPT, KTWU

In “Episode Two” of the new drama “Home Fires,” the rivalry between Frances and Joyce (Samantha Bond, Francesca Annis) becomes more pronounced as each pushes her own agenda during a meeting of the Women's Institute. The arrival of Royal Air Force personnel poses promising prospects for some of the local ladies, though Claire (Daisy Badger) already has her eyes on someone. Pat (Claire Rushbrook) remains a domestic-abuse victim.

MLB Baseball

7 p.m. on FS1

MLB playoff action continues today with Game 3 of the American League Division Series between the Toronto Blue Jays and the homestanding Texas Rangers. The winner of this best-of-five series advances to the American League Championship Series later this week against the winner of the other ALDS. Of course, the World Series is the ultimate goal, and that begins Oct. 27 on Fox.

NFL Football

7:20 p.m. on KSHB

After recovering from two ugly season-opening losses, the New York Giants get what could be an easy opponent tonight at MetLife Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J., where Eli Manning and his mates will host Colin Kaepernick and the San Francisco 49ers. Playing behind a leaky offensive line, Kaepernick has hardly looked like the athletic playmaker who burst onto the scene three years ago, getting sacked 14 times in four games and appearing hobbled and lost.

Brooklyn Nine-Nine

7:30 p.m. on WDAF

Boyle's (Joe Lo Truglio) love life is getting a lot of attention in the comedy's new season, and that continues with the new episode “Boyle's Hunch,” featuring guest star Mary Lynn Rajskub (“24”) as the next woman who's possibly in line for the police detective's affection. Her character is an art-gallery owner, and Jake (Andy Samberg) tries to help make a match of the couple. Holt (Andre Braugher) tries for an image upgrade with Amy's (Melissa Fumero) assistance.

Madam Secretary

7:30 p.m. on KCTV

A real Secretary of State meets a fictional one, as former officeholder Madeleine Albright appears as herself in the new episode “The Doability Doctrine.” She advises Elizabeth (Tea Leoni) on retrieving a State Department worker who's been kidnapped in Afghanistan, resulting in Elizabeth clashing with President Dalton (Keith Carradine) on how to proceed. Henry (Tim Daly) wants to make one of his students (guest star Chris Petrovski) a spy for the U.S.

Family Guy

8 p.m. on WDAF

Brian's jokes irritate Stewie (both characters voiced by Seth MacFarlane) to the extent that they have a fight, prompting Stewie to create a companion in the new episode “Robot Guy.” As might be expected from that title, the pal is mechanical — and too smart for his inventor's good, since he (it?) then unfriends Stewie. Peter (also voiced by MacFarlane) has to go mattress shopping at Lois' (voice of Alex Borstein) insistence. Patrick Warburton also is heard.

Blood & Oil

8 p.m. on KMBC

Hap and Wick (Don Johnson, Scott Michael Foster) patch things up and strike a business deal in the new episode “Hustle and Flow,” and the arrangement prompts Billy (Chace Crawford) to try to cut himself in. Wick feels the heat when Tip (Delroy Lindo) makes an arrest in the Briggs Oil robbery. AJ (Adan Canto) has secret motives for getting closer to Lacey (Miranda Rae Mayo). Hap renews his romance with Jules (India de Beaufort). Wilson Bethel guest stars.

Masterpiece Classic

8 p.m., 1 a.m. on KCPT, KTWU

9 p.m., 11:30 p.m., 2:20 a.m. on HBO

In her first HBO stand-up special, the Emmy- and Peabody Award-winning comic regales an audience at one of New York's most iconic theaters with unfiltered, self-effacing and usually fairly raunchy stories about her life.
