

Pelican Bay State Prison

Located on 275 acres in the northwest corner of California, just 13 miles from the Oregon/California Border. Pelican Bay State Prison (PBSP) is designed to house the State's most serious criminal offenders in a secure, safe and disciplined institutional setting. The prison opened in December 1989 to accommodate a need for a growing population of maximum-security inmates. Pelican Bay has an approximate budget of $180 million, more than 1,292 employees and houses approximately 3,240 inmates.

Half of the prison houses maximum-security inmates in a General Population (GP) setting. The other half houses inmates in the Security Housing Unit (SHU) designed for inmates presenting serious management concerns.

The SHU is a modern design for inmates who are difficult-management cases, prison gang members, and violent maximum-security inmates. PBSP operates a 392-bed, Level I Minimum Support Facility, which houses non-violent offenders outside of the secure perimeter of the main institution, and a Firehouse with 7 full-time inmate firefighters.
