Hi Brian,

In the absence of direct info to suggest disorder we are not in a position to object. It is now a matter for the Local Authority to balance the volume of objection from local residents / businesses against the necessity for the event to take place. Whichever way the Authority decides it will set a precedent for future similar events.

Regards,

Jim.

Jim

Thanks for the email.

Does this mean then that the Metropolitan Police will not be objecting to the event taking place, or does the email of 1 April still have a bearing?

The decision will not be made at my level anymore on this matter, as it is being referred to a higher authority, but just need to know your (police) position.

regards

Hi Ava, Brian, Rob.

Just in case you have'nt had sight of this I have forwarded Mr Smith's Event Management Plan. Having read through it they appear to have covered all necessary requirements for running an event of the nature proposed by them. At the moment there is no intelligence to suggest that this event will be attended by organised groups intent on disorder, however this situation is being continuously monitored by our colleagues in CO11. I assume Mr Smith will be reporting back to yourselves once he has consulted with residents / businessess. Once known, could you please let me know if there were any strong objections.

Regards,

Jim.

Hi Jim

As discussed late last week our Event Management Plan is attached. As you can see this is a fun and simple party designed to engage with the local and wider communities. We have given appropriate consideration to all eventualities and have assessed crowd management and capacity.

If there are any issues you think we have not addressed or details you'd like to know please do get in touch.

The council have said that if the police are satisfied there are no public order concerns they will allow the party to go ahead. I can't see how such an event would have any such concerns, so please do let me know your response as soon as you can.

I've been in touch with local businesses through Shaftesbury PLC and have spoken to the chair of the local association. I will be speaking personally to businesses today also.

All the best

Graham
