Hold Banks Liable for Terrorism

Banks say they are the pillar of the modern society – ruling the streams of money across the globe and keeping a tight grip on the world's economy. What is going on in offices of top level management is kept in a most valuable secret. Even governments are afraid to get in confrontation with these enormous financial giants. However, the reality is that these banks have knowingly been financing and supporting many various terrorist networks around the world and its time for the people to stop them now.
