'Supergirl' and 'The Flash' meet in a cross-network episode

By Jay Bobbin
 © Zap2it

If merging two series across different networks seems like a superhuman feat, a couple of shows ideal for that challenge have met it.

The new Monday, March 28, episode of CBS' "Supergirl" also involves the title character of The CW's Tuesday adventure "The Flash." The powerful, DC Comics-based alter egos of Kara Danvers (played by Melissa Benoist) and Barry Allen (Grant Gustin) team up in a story that pits them against villainesses Silver Banshee and Livewire (Italia Ricci, as the evil alias of the Siobhan Smythe role she's been playing on "Supergirl," and Brit Morgan).

In making the crossover happen, it hasn't hurt that the two shows share executive producers. One of them, Andrew Kreisberg, wrote the script with Michael Grassi — with fellow executive producer Greg Berlanti devising the story. "It's so much fun to see those two characters together," Kreisberg says. "It's that same giddy feeling you got when you were a kid and you opened a comic book, and on the last 'splash' page of a Batman comic, Green Lantern showed up.

"Melissa and Grant are both such easygoing, happy, positive hard-working No. 1's on the call sheet," adds Kreisberg, "to watch them work together and have fun and get such a kick out of it, it was a really special few weeks for everybody."

Big production values have to be anticipated from a meeting of two super-icons, and Kreisberg admits, "We saved our shekels for this one.

We took a little bit out of every (episode budget) surrounding it so we could really go to town on this. It feels huge; it feels epic. We shot in the desert, we shot in downtown L.A., and it's been a blast."

With The CW's "Arrow" and "DC's Legends of Tomorrow" also under the same shingle, the producers rarely if ever have a moment that's less than busy ... so they're grateful for all the relationships that facilitated the "Supergirl"/"The Flash" crossover.

Kreisberg reflects, "Because it was The CW and CBS (which share ownerships), and because both shows are produced by Warner Bros. Television — which owns The CW with CBS — it wasn't quite as tricky as it might have been, had we been trying to cross over with a show that was on Fox or NBC.

'Good Wife' ending isn't good news for its fans

BY JAY BOBBIN © Zap2it

Q: Is CBS really canceling "The Good Wife"? I thought it was one of their highest-rated shows. — Kim Miller, Hope, Ind.

A: While it's been one of the network's most prestigious shows, it hasn't been one of its highest-rated ... verified by the week ending Feb. 21, when CBS had the top 11 programs in "live plus same (delayed-viewing) day" ratings, none of which was that week's episode of "The Good Wife." Other factors have been at play to prompt the network to end the series with its current set of episodes, particularly the fact that the deals for several of its key players are coming to an end: star Julianna Margulies, and creators and executive producers Robert and Michelle King. Shortly before the cancellation confirmation, Margulies — who has won two Emmys for the drama — told the crowd at an industry event that she would be "unemployed come April," making it sound unlikely she would have re-upped had the show continued. And while other series have continued without retaining their driving forces behind the scenes, that's rarely the preference. (The Kings are moving on to make a summer show for CBS, the comedy-thriller "Braindead.") Bottom line? In the eyes of many observers, the timing seems right. For those fans who haven't marked their calendars yet, the finale airs May 8.

Q: What are former "Law & Order: Criminal Intent" stars Jamey Sheridan and Courtney B. Vance doing these days? — William Smith, Columbus, Ohio

A: Sheridan recently appeared with Sharon Stone in the TNT series "Agent X," which was canceled after one season, and he also plays a lawyer for the Catholic Church in "Spotlight" ... the latest Oscar winner for best picture. Other shows on which he's been seen lately include "Arrow" and "Suits."

In recent weeks, Vance has been winning critical raves for his own portrayal of an attorney — Johnnie Cochran — in the limited-run FX drama series "The People v. O.J. Simpson: American Crime Story." Among additional credits for him of late have been "Scandal," "Masters of Sex," last season's NBC show "State of Affairs" and the movie "Terminator Genisys."

Q: "NCIS" went to New Orleans a couple of seasons ago, and I really enjoyed that episode, is there any chance that may be a spinoff sometime in the future? — Wendy Shellabarger, Pinetop, Ariz.

A: Um, well ... we only can assume that you haven't looked at television listings much the past two seasons, since the Scott Bakula-starring "NCIS: New Orleans" has followed "NCIS" in CBS' Tuesday lineup since September 2014. It also pops up in repeats on Saturdays sometimes. While the show hadn't been renewed officially for a Season 3 as of this writing, you can pretty well bank on that. Mark Harmon is an executive producer of "New Orleans," and he recently signed a new two-year deal with CBS that also encompasses two more seasons of the parent "NCIS" series.

Sunday

Grease: Live

6 p.m. on WDAF

NBC has returned to live telecasts of popular stage shows, and Fox got into the act with this production (first shown in January) of the nostalgic musical about the romance of vastly different high-schoolers Danny and Sandy — played here by Aaron Tveit (“Graceland”) and Julianne Hough, both of whom admittedly are beyond their teen years, but so were many others who have had those roles. Vanessa Hudgens, Keke Palmer (“Scream Queens”) and Carly Rae Jepsen also star.

Madam Secretary

7 p.m. on KCTV

Veteran television journalist Jane Pauley becomes the latest personality to portray herself on this show in the new episode “On the Clock.” She apparently brings her “A” game, since she conducts what’s described as a “grueling” interview with Elizabeth (Tea Leoni) — who has other worries here, since a plane crash affects the peace talks she’s staging with the prime ministers of Israel and Pakistan. Henry (Tim Daly) tries to help find a terrorist.

Secrets of Selfridges

7 p.m., 12 a.m. on KCPT

With the final season of “Mr. Selfridge” about to launch, it’s a good time to revisit this special, originally shown in conjunction with the drama’s first season in 2013. It delves into the life of the real Harry Selfridge (played in the series by Jeremy Piven), an American who transposed his native country’s blueprint for shopping on the British retail industry. Selfridge was the person who devised the much-used phrase, “The customer is always right.”

Little Big Shots

7 p.m. on KSHB

What do twin tap dancers, a ventriloquist, a boxer and a poet have in common? In the case of the new episode “A One, Two Punch,” they’re all children — and they’re all showcased by host Steve Harvey in this edition of the series he executive-produces with Ellen DeGeneres.

Not only do the youngsters display their respective talents, they all sit with Harvey to offer new evidence of the phrase “kids say the darndest things.”

Hoarders

7 p.m., 11:01 p.m. on A&E

Maggie’s shopping addiction is so out of control that her granddaughter is forced to sleep on piles of purchases and shower outside with a garden hose, prompting a family member to move both of them out of the house until it gets cleaned up, in this new episode. Elsewhere, Ann, a former spa owner, is about to lose her partner after a decade of empty promises that she will de-clutter their home of her towering hoard of junk.

The Real Housewives of Atlanta

7 p.m., 10:30 p.m., 1:32 a.m. on BRAVO

In the new “Reunion Part Two,” the women reflect on the drama during their trip to Jamaica, which included the making of Cynthia’s commercial and her downplaying her relationship with Kenya. NeNe Leakes addresses the group’s concerns about Porsha’s anger management issues, then sits down with Sheree to look back on their own shaky personal history. The men join the conversation to discuss the allegations surrounding Kim’s husband, Chris.

Masterpiece Mystery!

8 p.m. on KCPT, KTWU

“Grantchester Season 2” offers new mysteries for Reverend Sidney Chambers (James Norton) and Inspector Geordie Keating (Robson Green), and “Episode One” poses one concerning Sidney himself. He becomes a murder suspect, putting Geordie in a quandary as he investigates the crime. However, others could be the killer — and frankly, one is more likely to be. They include another clergyman, a photographer, and someone who went to school with the victim.

All-Star Academy

8 p.m., 11 p.m. on FOOD

In the new episode “Literature,” visiting professors Richard Blais and Haylie Duff put the cooks through three rounds of a literature-centric game called “Win and You’re In,” with the winner in each round automatically advancing to the finale. Round one tasks the chefs with making a dish inspired by a genre (romance, horror, etc.), while round two involves dishes evoking assigned nouns, adjectives and verbs. For the pass/fail final round, the cooks make a dish with pantry ingredients that start with the letters p or f.

When Calls the Heart

8 p.m. on HALL

Abigail (Lori Loughlin) is distraught when an aunt (Anne Marie DeLuise) of Becky and Cody (Ali Skovbye, Carter Ryan Evancic) unexpectedly announces she is taking the children away from Hope Valley in the new episode aptly entitled “Heartbreak.” Elizabeth (Erin Krakow), meanwhile, worries that this change of plan will set back Becky’s recovery and keep her from shining at the science fair. On a happier note, Jack and Bill (Daniel Lissing, Jack Wagner) find the evidence they need to arrest Gowen (Martin Cummins).

8 p.m., 11:30 p.m., 1:30 a.m. on SHOW
