

the Lowitja
INSTITUTE

Australia's National Institute
for Aboriginal and Torres Strait
Islander Health Research

Incorporating the Cooperative Research Centre for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health

Healthy Start, Healthy Life Program

CALL FOR EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST

Impact and evaluation of resources that enhance end-user utilisation of interventions

Closing date: Friday, 15 March 2013

The Lowitja Institute, Australia's National Institute for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Research, is an innovative research body that brings together Aboriginal organisations, academic institutions and government agencies to facilitate collaborative, evidence-based research into Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health. The Lowitja Institute hosts the Cooperative Research Centre for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health (CRCATSIH).

As part of its commitment to better outcomes in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health, the Institute supports a portfolio of projects administered by our essential partner organisations. Some of these projects involve the development of tools and/or resources to enhance end-user utilisation and best practice models for chronic diseases, child and maternal health, cancer and quality of care.

The Lowitja Institute is seeking expressions of interest to evaluate the impact of resources, specifically networks, and implementation of tools.

Selection Criteria

- Experience in undertaking evaluations in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander health contexts
- Experience in measuring impact within a health context
- Experience in working collaboratively with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people
- Quality of proposal (see below).

Documents required

- A relevant CV
- Proposal
 - Describe up to three relevant evaluation projects with which you have been involved, including the aim and the outcomes (250 words for each project)
 - Briefly outline your approach to conducting the evaluation (maximum 2 pages)
 - Outline your working plan including methodology, budget and timeline (maximum 2 pages).

Please return this application by email to Liz Izquierdo, Program Manager, e: liz.izquierdo@lowitja.org.au

For further enquires, please phone (07) 3409 3414 or 0447013058

Closing date: Friday, 15 March 2013

The Cooperative Research Centres program is an Australian Government Initiative