Fail of Incident

Students were disrupted by a family being brought into the IHMS bay, supposedly with cuts and blood all over their bodies. One student spoke to interpreters and came into the class to tell the [REDACTED] students what was happening. Many interpreters were observing from the balcony. Students rushed outside to check also. We found out later that this was actually a 'mass casualty' simulation however we had no prior notification of this. The incident prompted every student to start talking about incidents of self-harm they had witnessed. They did not know this one was fake and so were thus forced to experience another incident at school, which should be a safe, distracting environment.
