
EngageMedia is a video-sharing website for media about social justice and environmental issues in Southeast Asia, Australia and the Pacific. It is a space for critical documentary, fiction, artistic and experimental works that challenge the one-way communication model of the mainstream media.

The growth of digital tools such as peer-to-peer networks, video-podcasting and broadband mean independent video makers can bypass the control of big media conglomerates and create their own distribution networks.

EngageMedia aims to demystify and provide access to these new tools, create an online archive of Creative Commons licensed videos and form a peer network of video makers, educators and screening organisations.

The site is open for publishing and we're looking for content, so start uploading! We offer workshops on a regular basis, so don't forget to contact us if you need any help getting your video online.

upload | download | watch | screen | share | collaborate | act | engage

EngageMedia.org

email us for further info: contact@engagemedia.org

EngageMedia is a video-sharing website for media about social justice and environmental issues in Southeast Asia, Australia and the Pacific. It is a space for critical documentary, fiction, artistic and experimental works that challenge the one-way communication model of the mainstream media.

The growth of digital tools such as peer-to-peer networks, video-podcasting and broadband mean independent video makers can bypass the control of big media conglomerates and create their own distribution networks.

EngageMedia aims to demystify and provide access to these new tools, create an online archive of Creative Commons licensed videos and form a peer network of video makers, educators and screening organisations.

The site is open for publishing and we're looking for content, so start uploading! We offer workshops on a regular basis, so don't forget to contact us if you need any help getting your video online.

upload | download | watch | screen | share | collaborate | act | engage

EngageMedia.org

email us for further info: contact@engagemedia.org

EngageMedia is a video-sharing website for media about social justice and environmental issues in Southeast Asia, Australia and the Pacific. It is a space for critical documentary, fiction, artistic and experimental works that challenge the one-way communication model of the mainstream media.

The growth of digital tools such as peer-to-peer networks, video-podcasting and broadband mean independent video makers can bypass the control of big media conglomerates and create their own distribution networks.

EngageMedia aims to demystify and provide access to these new tools, create an online archive of Creative Commons licensed videos and form a peer network of video makers, educators and screening organisations.

The site is open for publishing and we're looking for content, so start uploading! We offer workshops on a regular basis, so don't forget to contact us if you need any help getting your video online.

upload | download | watch | screen | share | collaborate | act | engage

EngageMedia.org

email us for further info: contact@engagemedia.org

EngageMedia is a video-sharing website for media about social justice and environmental issues in Southeast Asia, Australia and the Pacific. It is a space for critical documentary, fiction, artistic and experimental works that challenge the one-way communication model of the mainstream media.

The growth of digital tools such as peer-to-peer networks, video-podcasting and broadband mean independent video makers can bypass the control of big media conglomerates and create their own distribution networks.

EngageMedia aims to demystify and provide access to these new tools, create an online archive of Creative Commons licensed videos and form a peer network of video makers, educators and screening organisations.

The site is open for publishing and we're looking for content, so start uploading! We offer workshops on a regular basis, so don't forget to contact us if you need any help getting your video online.

upload | download | watch | screen | share | collaborate | act | engage

EngageMedia.org

email us for further info: contact@engagemedia.org
