Journals from BMJ

BMJ started out over 170 years ago as a medical journal, publishing our first research paper.

Now, as a global brand with a worldwide audience, we help medical organisations and clinicians tackle today's most critical healthcare challenges.

Our vision is to create 'a healthier world'.

BMJ's journals division now publishes more than 50 of the world's leading medical and allied science journals. In doing so, we have pioneered the migration to digital publishing and the development of open access.

Today, our expertise extends to medical education, clinical decision support, data analytics and quality improvement to enhance day to day decision-making and healthcare delivery.

“At BMJ we believe the work we do with individual professionals, their institutions, organisations and governments, really does make a difference to the health of people all around the world.”

Tim Brooks
CEO, BMJ

Providing high quality content for health professionals and researchers across the world. Our journals include not only the BMJ, but some of the most influential speciality journals in their field.

- In the last 12 months, over 50 million unique users accessed our subscription journals online, generating over 107 million page views.
- Nearly 80% of our titles saw Impact Factor rises in 2014.
- 21% of our users view journal content from mobile devices.

What is an Impact Factor?

An Impact Factor (IF) is a measure of the frequency with which the average article in a journal has been cited in a particular year. The annual Journal of Citation Reports impact factor is a ratio between citations and recent citable items published. Thus, the impact factor of a journal is calculated by dividing the number of current year citations to the source items published in that journal during the previous two years.

BMJ Open Access Programme

BMJ offers institutions two Open Access options: Open Access Prepay Accounts and Open Access Memberships. These options allow institutions to support Open Access by removing some or all of the financial cost involved when their authors publish Open Access with BMJ.

For more information on either option or to discuss your individual requirements, please contact:
