Welcome to St. Landry Parish

Bienvenue a la paroisse de Saint Landry

In St. Landry Parish, accordions are cool, boudin is hot and history is not just in textbooks. Our events and festivals celebrate art, Cajun music, catfish, cracklins, étouffée, herbs, spices, yams and zydeco. Annually, we host three cook offs, more than a dozen festivals and cultural celebrations, six yard sales, numerous live music shows and trail rides. Our French heritage takes a front seat at major cultural events like La Semaine Française and Cajun Country Courir de Mardi Gras.

St. Landry Parish's rich culture and history come from the diverse people who have called it home. Acadian, Creole, French, African, Spanish, Italian and Native American people have mixed and matched here for almost three centuries. History not only lives in museums and antique markets, but plantations, schools and churches that have stood for centuries.

Those influences give St. Landry Parish music, food and culture that few can match. Our legislature recognizes the power of these attributes and has accordingly designated four capitals: Eunice - Prairie Cajun Capital; Opelousas - Zydeco Music Capital; Sunset - Rubboard Capital; Grand Coteau - Sweet Dough Pie Capital.

Jam sessions are ongoing with residents and visitors bringing their instruments to Eunice and Arnaudville. French tables are also popular every month in Arnaudville, Opelousas and Eunice with a cross section of people attending to learn how to speak, read and write the language. Taking advantage of the culture builds up an appetite for Cajun and Creole cuisine found in restaurants, grocery stores, diners, truck stops and gas stations.

St. Landry, a 939-square mile parish in south central Louisiana, is also known for its natural beauty and wildlife. Hiking, fishing, hunting, birding, camping, biking, paddling and other outdoor opportunities are possible in two wildlife management areas that cover thousands of acres of both forest and swamp land.

Along with its colorful surroundings and history, the parish is also recognized as a Certified Louisiana Retirement Community. Our warm and welcoming people are ready to make new residents feel right at home and may greet you with a friendly "Comment ça va?" or How are you?

You can respond "toujours bon" because life is always good in St. Landry Parish.

Local Art

The Louisiana Cultural Districts Program was created by Act 298 of the 2007 Regular Session of the legislature and is administered through the Louisiana Department of Culture, Recreation and Tourism. The primary goal of this initiative is to spark community revitalization based on cultural activity through tax incentives. Sales tax is waived on original works of art.

As of July 1, 2014, the total number of Cultural Districts is 75, in 47 towns and 30 parishes. St. Landry Parish is proud to have six Cultural Districts: Deux Bayous - Arnaudville (Oct. 2008), Eunice (Oct. 2008), Grand Coteau (July 2011), Opelousas (July 2012), Sunset (July 2012) and Washington (July 2014).

Cajun & Creole Heritage

Thumb through any St. Landry Parish phone book and you'll see surnames that indicate a gumbo of ethnicities - French, Spanish, German, African, Irish, Native American and more. Yet most residents celebrate their Cajun and Creole heritage.

Cajuns are descendants of the Acadians, French exiles who left Nova Scotia in the mid-1700s. Acadians were evicted from the region after their refusal to swear allegiance to the British crown for religious and other reasons.

Many of these Acadian exiles landed in south Louisiana, where they blended with other groups to have a lasting impact on the state's language, music and food.

Creole has numerous definitions that vary in different regions of the state, country and world. But in St. Landry Parish, Creole mainly refers to descendants of slaves and free people of color. Many trace their lineage to the Caribbean and Africa.

Creoles have heavily influenced the region's culture, especially with zydeco, the accordion-driven, dance music that now has fans across the globe. Accordionist Amédé Ardoin, a native Creole of St. Landry Parish, is widely regarded as a founding father of Cajun and zydeco music.

"Cultural economy" is not just a buzz phrase to a town of 1,400 residents located at the junction of Bayous Teche and Fuselier.

In recent years, Arnaudville has become a haven for musicians, artists, dancers, writers, culinary experts and champions of the French language. It has partnered with the Consulate General of France in New Orleans and the town of Redon, France to exchange ideas and business practices that enhance the residents' way of life and the economy.

Arnaudville hosts two annual events - the Étouffée Festival in April and Le Feu et L'Eau (Fire and Water) Rural Arts Celebration in December. Residents and visitors can enjoy breakfast en français on the last Saturday morning of each month at La Table Française, partake in a weekly guilting circle or hear live music monthly at the local potluck social.

Shoppers can browse for bargains during the 7 Mile Plus Yard Sale spanning eastward every third Saturday in March and October.

Cankton, in the Coulee Croche area of St. Landry Parish, takes its name from Dr. Louis Aristide Guidry, who was also known as "Cank." An avid hunter as a boy, Guidry would signal his family that he was home from a hunt with a duck call, "Cank, cank, cank." His folks would say, "Cank est revenu," (Cank is back) and the name stuck.

Tourists from across the globe can always be found in Eunice - international visitors are typical on a Saturday night in the St. Landry Parish town of 12,000.

For almost 25 years, the world has flocked to the "Rendez-vous des Cajuns," a live radio and TV show held Saturday nights at the Liberty Theater. The restored Vaudeville Theatre, built in 1924, comes alive as Cajun country's answer to the Grand Ole Opry, Prairie Home Companion and the Louisiana Hayride. Cajun and zydeco bands perform live on stage, while dancers waltz and two-step where the orchestra pit used to be. This family friendly show is emceed in Cajun French and English.

Other stops on your music tour can include the downtown radio station KBON 101.1 FM, a variety music station that highlights Cajun, zydeco and swamp pop artists. Check out the wall with signatures of legends. Many of these legends are honored at Le Cajun Music Awards, held annually in August. Throughout the rest of the year, stop in at the Cajun Music Hall of Fame and Museum to see the past and present of Cajun music; you may meet one of the greats while there. And make sure you stop at Savoy Music Center, a family whose lives are built around the accordion, their heritage and music.

There's plenty of family fun for campers: fishing, swimming and public barn dances. Those taking a scenic ride can catch a view of the glistening rice fields and crawfish ponds. For the appetite, many local restaurants feature downhome meals, authentic cuisine, live music and a chance to visit with locals.

Courir de Mardi Gras

One of the most widely recognized Louisiana holiday

events is Mardi Gras (Fat Tuesday). The traditional rural Mardi Gras celebration is based on early begging rituals and started here locally in the late 1800s. Riders donned in traditional costumes, masks and hats, also known as capuchons, ride horseback from house to house soliciting "donations" of food items culminating in a community wide gumbo. In Eunice, the celebration takes place with five days of live music, street and barn dances, and art exhibits.

It ends with the Courir de Mardi Gras, the day before Ash Wednesday. This procession or "run" includes chicken chasing and silliness by revelers all day. 2013 Country Roads Magazine Annual Favorite Things Survey -Unexpected Cultural Find: Mardi Gras in Cajun Country

Grand Coteau, French for big ridge, rests on what was the west bank of the Mississippi River some 2,000 years ago. It was settled in 1776 and became home to Acadian, Creole. Irish and German immigrants. The town is one of the primarily few rural districts on the National Register of Historic Places with more than 70 structures designated as architecturally significant. It is noted for its magnificent trees that form alleys, groves and gardens. Creole, French, Acadian, Anglo-American, and Victorian styles are reflected in the houses, stores and religious institutions.

Catholicism and Grand Coteau have been deeply connected for almost 200 years with the establishment of the Academy of the Sacred Heart. Along with the church and retreat centers, spiritual and educational guidance is extended to the local community and visitors from afar.

The town hosts three major events each year: Sweet Dough Pie Festival (October), Festival of Words (November) and the Exit 11 Yard Sale on the third Saturday in March and September.

KROTZ SPRINGS

Around the turn of the 20th century, Ohio native and sawmill owner C. W. Krotz put down the first oil well in St. Landry Parish. Krotz struck water instead of oil, so the town formerly known as Lantania became Krotz Springs.

Situated on the Atchafalava River, Krotz Springs is a port and refinery center handling almost three million tons of liquid and dry bulk cargo such as oil and grain. The town is also a gateway to the outdoors with the 40,000-acre Sherburne Wildlife Management Area along its eastern border. Krotz Springs offers access to Indian Bayou, a 28,000-acre public access area in the Atchafalaya Basin.

Krotz Springs is well known for its "Mile of Boudin" whose stores are listed on the Boudin Trail.

LEONVILLE

Nestled along scenic Bayou Teche between Opelousas and Arnaudville on Highway 31, the community of Leonville was founded as a settlement of gens de couleur libres, or free men of color. The town took its name from the settlement's first pastor, Father Leon Mailluchet, who built the first church in 1898.

The IFBS Lodge, located just west of town on Highway 31, is available for events and is the frequent headquarters for zydeco trail rides. Built in 2012, the public boat launch provides easy access to Bayou Teche for boating or paddling.

MELVILLE

There's good reason that the town of Melville celebrates the Catfish Festival every October. Much of the town's history and commerce are tied to the Atchafalaya River. Historically, the town made its fortune in river commerce and as a crossing point for the railroad.

Documents also indicate that Melville had several fish docks and ice houses. By the turn of the century, 50 barrels of fish were being shipped from Melville each day. Remnants and photos of those early days can be found at the town's grocery and hardware store, which has been in business since the early 20th century.

Horse Racing - and they're off!

About 200 years ago, horse racing started in Louisiana on bush tracks, which were unregulated and located all over Cajun Country. The last bush track closed in 1997, but horse racing and breeding is alive and well today in St. Landry Parish.

Today, the horse industry is the 4th largest industry in Louisiana contributing more than $1.5 billion to Louisiana's economy. As you drive our scenic byways, you can appreciate the numerous horse farms and sprawling pastures that have long been part of the equine industry, which provides jobs in Acadiana.

Major businesses located here cater to the equine industry providing jobs, tax revenue and events for visitors and residents. Evangeline Downs Racetrack & Casino is the first "Racino" built in this country from the ground up, featuring a one mile oval track. The racing season is open Wednesday-Saturday in the spring and summer for thoroughbreds and in the fall for quarter horses. The entire property rests on 750 acres and features 1,000 stalls, hosts horse sales and has a clubhouse offering spectacular views. Inside, choose from four dining options, a sports bar and slot machines.

Four to six horse sales are hosted per year at Equine Sales of Louisiana. The facility, which rests on 13 acres, opened in 2010 as the first Louisiana facility dedicated to horse sales.

Millions of dollars are transacted at each sale. When not being used for a horse sale, the facility is available for groups to host parties, events, reunions, weddings and live music. Copper Crowne Equestrian Center is adjacent on 200 acres and offers professional services such as breeding, training, stalls, boarding and an onsite yet clinic.

Visions of Art

Art is a precious resource in St. Landry Parish. And it is not just music, dance and cuisine. Visual art is plentiful here, from murals honoring ancestors and music to colorful, oversized fiddles created by area artists. In many of these public exhibits, artists and business joined forces to bring concepts to life, enriching the quality of life in local communities and highlighting a living cultural economy.

A SOUTH LOUISIANA TRADITION

Chicken & Sausage Gumbo

1 (4-5lb.) chicken, cut into pieces 1 green bell pepper, chopped

Season chicken to taste

4 tbsp. oil

4 tbsp. flour

2 large onions, chopped

2 stalks celery, chopped

4 cloves garlic, minced

1 lb. Savoies Smoked Sausage, sliced

3 quarts water

3 tbsp. green onions, chopped

3 tbsp. parsley, chopped

Season chicken to taste. In a large heavy pot or Dutch oven, heat oil until hot and gradually add flour, stirring continuously until well blended. Lower heat and continue stirring until roux is chocolate brown. Add chopped onion, celery, bell pepper and garlic.

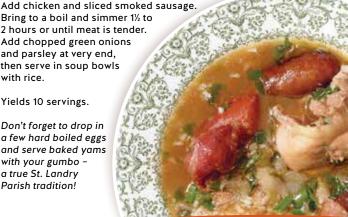

Stir well and let vegetables begin to wilt. Slowly add water stirring to dissolve roux.

Bring to a boil and simmer 11/2 to 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add chopped green onions and parsley at very end, then serve in soup bowls with rice.

Yields 10 servings.

Don't forget to drop in a few hard boiled eggs and serve baked yams with your gumbo a true St. Landry Parish tradition!

OPELOUSAS

C.J. Chenier Zydeco Musician

Founded in 1720, Opelousas is Louisiana's third oldest city. Take a walk through downtown and see some of the original architecture, Historic District homes and public art. Some of the parish's oldest buildings survive at Le Vieux Village. Nearby historic structures include Louisiana's oldest governor's mansion (1848) and the Michel Prudhomme Home (late 1700s).

In 2000, when the state legislature proclaimed Opelousas as the Zydeco Music Capital of the World, the government was only making official what locals already knew. Generations of local families have witnessed this Creole house party music, once called "la la," grow into Grammy-winning music that is celebrated around the world. Opelousas, a Main Street Community, is the birth place of Clifton Chenier, a master accordionist hailed as the King of Zydeco and recipient of the Grammy Lifetime Achievement award.

Terence Simien is another native, who is a two Grammy winner, and world renowned music ambassador of zydeco music. Every week, visitors can enjoy zydeco music. Every week, visitors can enjoy live music throughout the venues and restaurants.

In the spring and fall on Friday evenings, zydeco, Cajun and a variety of bands perform at the Opelousas Music & Market Series. Before, after or during live music performances, enjoy flavorful Cajun and Creole cuisine that can only be found here.

Renowned Chef Paul Prudhomme and seasoning entrepreneur Tony Chachere are both Opelousas natives. Restaurants throughout the city satisfy appetites with signature dishes such as fried chicken salad and Catfish Opelousas.

Besides music, food and history, Opelousas is home to the Father Joseph Verbis Lafleur Monument and a cemetery with graves of Civil War soldiers and Gov. Jacques Dupré. Every October, the lives of those buried in St. Landry Catholic Cemetery are vividly recreated through cemetery tours.

Fiddle Mania features oversized fiddles designed and painted by local artists, around the St. Landry Parish Courthouse Square. The designs display Louisiana's rich heritage depicting wildlife and waterways, diverse people, food, music and places.

For more than 10 years, some of America's finest thoroughbreds and quarter-horses have raced at Evangeline Downs Racetrack, which houses a casino offering slot machines and a luxury hotel. Try your luck or catch one of the performances at the event center.

A city overflowing with culture and diversity, Opelousas easily lives up to its motto: Perfectly Seasoned.

PALMETTO & LEBEAU

Located on Hwy. 10, between Melville and Hwy. 71, Palmetto earned its name from the plentiful plants that grow in the area. Before a sign was made for the train depot, fronds of palmetto plant were nailed to the building. The spirit of early Palmetto is still felt at the community's general store, which has been open since the 1930s. On the Saturday before the Fourth of July, thousands head to Lebeau for its annual Zydeco Festival, a fundraiser for the local catholic church.

Sixty percent of St. Landry Parish acreage (almost 600 square miles) is used for agricultural purposes. Crops grown for the commodity and consumer markets include corn, cotton, crawfish, hay, produce, rice, soybeans, sugarcane, sweet potatoes and wheat. Louisiana's economy reaps close to $1 billion in commodity contributions.

Visitors and residents enjoy the weekly local farmers markets in Eunice, Opelousas, and Washington. Vendors sell an abundance of homegrown produce such as beets, blueberries, figs, green onions, okra, pecans, sweet corn, and tomatoes.

Port Barre is the birthplace of the Bayou Teche. Settled as a French trading post in the early 1800s, Port Barre sits at the point where Bayou Courtableau flows into the historic Bayou Teche.

In October, hundreds gather for the Tour du Teche, a 133-mile staged marathon for canoes and kayaks of all sizes. The course is the length of the Bayou Teche from Port Barre to Berwick. The race snakes through St. Landry, St. Martin, Iberia and St. Mary parishes, woods, swamps and cane fields.

Mouth-watering bread made with jalapenos, sausage and cheese may be the town's most famous food export. In November, crunchy pork skins take center stage at the Port Barre Cracklin Festival.

Legend has it that Sunset received its name from railroad workers who were building tracks in the late 1800s. The workers named new train stops as they reached them. Apparently, they arrived in Sunset at the end of the day.

Today, the town's sun is rising, especially in the arts community. Old buildings have been revived into restaurants and stores for antiques, collectibles, leather goods, furniture and memorabilia.

The Exit 11 Yard Sale, which includes the neighboring community of Grand Coteau, is host to thousands of shoppers the third Saturday of March and September.

Surrounded by fertile fields and horse farms, Sunset was once billed as the sweet potato capital of the world. It has also become known for herbs. Each spring, A Celebration of Herbs & Gardens takes place. This one day festival showcases yard art, native plants, fresh herbs and flowers.

Attend the 2nd Saturday in Sunset along Corridor des Arts (Sunset to Henderson) celebrating a different theme each month. The events are family friendly and highlight various aspects of our culture.

WASHINGTON

Washington, first named Church Landing, was the site of the first Catholic Church (built in 1770) in St. Landry Parish.

Located on Bayou Courtableau, and a thriving steamboat town in the 1800s, Washington served as the largest port between New as the largest port between New Orleans and St. Louis. Steamers worked their way through a maze of bayous and rivers to carry cargo to New Orleans.

Plantation homes, cottages, warehouses and other buildings from

Plantation homes, cottages, warehouses and other buildings from those steamboat days are still standing serving as restaurants, bed and breakfast inns, and shops. Much of the original town is included in the Washington Historic District, which is on the National Register of Historic Places.

Trolley car tours provide an enjoyable way to see the town's historic sites. Antique lovers can spend hours browsing through treasures at the numerous shops along Main Street.

The Old Schoolhouse Antique Mall, which is a former high school built in the 1934, is now host to more than 100 antique dealers and open every weekend. The second weekend in April and October is the Semi-Annual Antique Fair & Yard Sale that attracts thousands of shoppers.

Nature walks and birding are popular activities in the hardwood forest of the Thistlethwaite Wildlife Management Area.

Traditions of living off the land are celebrated at the Rabbit Cookoff and the annual Catfish Festival, featuring arts, crafts and musicians.

Immaculate Conception Catholic Church

Did you know?

- Established on April 10, 1805 by a legislative act, St. Landry Parish became the largest parish in the Louisiana state. 12 municipalities make up the parish with Opelousas serving as the parish seat.
- According to the 2010 census, the population is slightly under 84,000.
- Water covers 10 square miles and is home to many wildlife habitats and offers adventures and activities for outdoor enthusiasts.
- Music is part of our culture and has been recognized with Grammy Awards.
 Terrance Simien & The Zydeco Experience have earned two (2008 & 2014) and Clifton Chenier (1925-1987) earned a Lifetime Achievement Award in 2014.
- A The word zydeco evolved from the French phrase les haricots sont pas salés. Literally translated it means "the snapbeans are not salty," a metaphor for times being so tough that people could not afford salt meat to season their food. Zydeco now refers to a specific genre of music.

The Opelousas-Eunice Library offers many resources for local genealogy searches.

St. Landry Parish is fortunate to have archival records dating back to the early 1800s and welcomes visitors to search for ancestry through several resources open to the public.

Louisiana is the only state to have parishes rather counties because it was officially Roman Catholic under both France and Spain's rule. These land territories coincided with church parishes until 1807. At that time, the legislature adopted the ecclesiastical term.

The Imperial St. Landry Genealogical & Historical Society has an active membership that meets monthly with periodic workshops and seminars. The public is invited to attend. Members are happy to assist with research that may answer some of your family's questions about roots of origin. (imperialstlandrygenealogy.org and facebook.com/ImperialStLandry)

On the first and second weekends of October, St. Landry Catholic Church conducts Cemetery Tours in order to help preserve the gravesites. Plan your trip to see some of the parish's "older" residents come to life and tell their story through reenactments.

Tour du Teche Racers

Explore Bayou Teche, part of the Atchafalaya National Heritage Area, by canoe, kayak, stand up paddle or small boat. What the Chitimacha Indians once claimed was a large poisonous snake is actually a 135 mile long bayou, perfect for paddling, birding, fishing, and host to several events and races. The bayou starts in Port Barre, St. Landry Parish, flows through St. Martin and Iberia Parishes ending in Berwick, St. Mary Parish (bayoutechecorridor.com).

What started as cleanup projects has blossomed into a nonprofit organization called the TECHE Project (techeproject.com). Through their efforts, the bayou is now recognized as a Paddle Trail featuring 13 established access points for paddle trips. In 2015, it helped bring recognition to Louisiana as the first waterway to be listed as a National Water Trail. This designation places the Teche in an elite group of rivers across the nation and will increase recreational tourism for the visitors and residents in the 15 communities and the four parishes.

Be sure to bring binoculars; more than 250 species of birds visit this area annually like the Little Blue Heron, Downy Wood Pecker, Prothonotary Warbler, Northern Water Thrush, Wood Duck, and Red Tailed Hawk. Pack a pole and fishing net as well because the Teche is home to more than 90 species of fish, crawfish, crabs and shrimp.

Several events occur on Bayou Teche starting in the spring - Top of the Teche, Petit Tour du Teche, Chitimacha, and Tour du Teche - the three day marathon race from Port Barre to Berwick (tourduteche.com).

Enjoy a variety of culture, art, food and music festivals held throughout the year.

VISITOR INFORMATION CENTER

The 4,600 sq. ft. St. Landry Parish Visitor Center, located at 978 Kennerson Rd in Opelousas, opened its doors in May 2011. The Center was constructed utilizing sustainable practices and many LEED certified materials. It was designed to incorporate both old and new practices, many relating back to those used by our Cajun ancestors. Such examples are a water cistern, gabion baskets, vertical axis wind turbine, reclaimed materials (brick, wood, and asphalt).

The landscape design features indigenous plantings and trees that reflect Louisiana's ecosystems and can survive in our (sometimes) extreme seasons.

Staying true to the sustainability goal, construction scrap was kept out of the landfill and materials were collected to be repurposed by local artists. These artistic, visual pieces are proudly displayed.

The Center is also known as a working classroom for students interested in architecture, landscape design, environmental science, soil conservation, and construction. School groups of all ages are welcome – from elementary to university.

These tours reference much of our culture and also feature outdoor kiosks that are also translated in French. The Center has earned the gold status of the Franco-Responsable Certification by CODOFIL, Council for the Development of French in Louisiana, through its deployment of French speaking staff and translated visitor information. CODOFIL's mission, as Louisiana's French language agency, is to support and grow Louisiana's francophone communities through scholarships, French immersion schools and various other community - and language skill-building programs.

The Visitor Center is warm, welcoming and serves our area by spreading news about St. Landry Parish and surrounding areas. It has won numerous awards since its completion and we congratulate our architectural firms Ashe, Broussard, Weinzettle and Environmental Designs. Now if we can brag a bit:

- 2012 Gold Winner, Architecture-Commercial by The Independent, INDesign Awards
- 2012 Honor Award and the Member's Choice Award by the American Institute of Architects, Louisiana Affiliate
