Cardiologist takes knowledge to the air

Larry Santora of Cowan Heights educates through local health show.

By ELYSSE JAMES
THE ORANGE COUNTY REGISTER

NORTH JUSTIN • Cowan Heights resident Larry Santora is a cardiologist with a mission — to educate people about health.

To share his knowledge, he began hosting a half-hour television show, Health Matters, which is filmed at Chapman University and shown locally. The show is in its second season and has had 38 main topics and 19 short topics throughout its airing. Most of the guests are from Orange County.

The health program already has won the 2009 Communicator Award of Distinction from the International Academy of Visual Arts.

"For a new show, for us to get something was quite a shock," said producer Laurie McLaughlin.

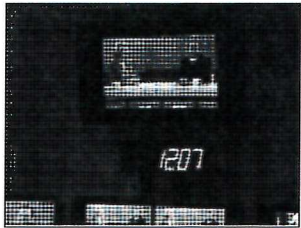

The new episodes, which Santora was filming in late July, will air in the fall. All the episodes also are online at www.chapman.edu/healthmatters.

Q: How did you get started doing the TV show?

A: I have a private practice, and I work at St. Joseph Hospital in Orange and the Orange County Heart Institute. I am an interventional cardiologist. I fix arteries with stents. Dr. (James) Doti, president of Chapman University, presently has a TV show ("Dialogues with Doti & Dodge"). We talked about how a TV show can spread knowledge throughout Orange County. We thought this would be a good medium to spread the word about health care and health issues in Orange County, and about Chapman University. So, I do this to pay back to the community and spread the word about Chapman and possibly save lives by getting information out.

Q: Is this your first time on television?

A: I give community lec-

Tune in

What: Health Matters
When: 8:30 a.m. Wednesdays on KOCE, 8:30 a.m. Sundays and 11 a.m. some Sundays on KOCE-HD

Changes: Starting Oct. 2, the show will air at 1 p.m. on KOCE

Biography

Name: Larry Santora
Town: Cowan Heights
Age: 61

Children: David, Josh and Nikki, and three grandchildren

Education: New York Medical College, UC Irvine and St. Joseph Hospital.

tures and was on The Doctors show and radio shows, and the Science of Steroids on the National Geographic channel.

Q: What do you like about Health Matters?

A: I learn a lot because I research every topic. I get to meet a lot of nice people who are interested in giving back to the community and work with them. It helps me be a better cardiologist because it keeps me abreast of other segments of medicine. I look at it with a little different perspective.

Q: What has the biggest challenge been?

A: Getting funding because it's a public broadcast. I don't get paid, and the guests don't get paid; so we depend on public funds. The economy is affecting sponsorships. Many sponsors have cut back on all philanthropic endeavors indefinitely.

Q: What impact do you hope to make?

A: If people watch the show, they will find out we could explain things in a simple manner they will understand. We really give them the straight facts based on what is happening in the real world to real people and take all the hype out of it. People misinterpret, so we try to sort through the hype and say, "This is what it's really about."

Q: What topics are you filming now?

A: Sudden cardiac death, which is a growing epidemic; sugar and sugar substitutes and childhood obesity. The next episode is fluoroscopy, energy drinks and hand dystonia.

Q: What else should people know?

A: I think people should know that Orange County is a really cutting edge community as far as medical care goes. We're blessed to be in such a fantastic environment and have such health care available to us. We're just blessed to be here, that's for sure.

Five acquaintances charged with faking auto crash

The defendants from Huntington, Westminster filed insurance claims for more than $60,000, prosecutors say.

By RACHANEE SRISAVASDI
THE ORANGE COUNTY REGISTER

SANTA ANA • Five individuals are expected to be arraigned today after they were arrested Wednesday on charges of faking a car crash and then falsely filing an insurance claim for more than $60,000 in damages, county prosecutors said.

Authorities say the five charged — Phuong Nguyen, 29, David Pham, 71, and Tony Nguyen, 53, of Westminster; Hoi Nguyen, 57 and Tracy Nguyen, 50, of Huntington Beach — all knew each other.

The purported faux crash happened the night of June 13, 2008, in Garden Grove.

Tony Nguyen was driving a sedan, and Phuong Nguyen was his passenger, prosecutors said. He pulled out in front of a Nissan Maxima occupied by Tracy Nguyen, her husband Hoi Nguyen and Pham, prosecutors said.

After the collision, the defendants exchanged information, and then filed insurance claims for bodily injury and vehicle damage totaling more than $60,000, prosecutors said.

State insurance investigators found that all five defendants knew each other and once lived together, prosecutors said.

The defendants face a range of five to eight years in prison if convicted of various charges of insurance fraud and grand theft.
