General Note: Extras include features on Japanese pearlers in Torres Strait -- art under Native Title -- totemism -- the sign language of Torres Strait fisherfolk -- director Frances Calvert's remarks.

Credits: Writer, director, producer: Frances Calvert.; narrator : Philip Bani

Annotation: The Tombstone Opening is a joyous ceremony performed years after the funeral to release the spirit of the deceased. Also called an Unveiling, it has nothing to do with exhumation, but refers to the moment when the last veil is unsheathed from the tombstone for everyone to see for the first time Frances Calvert, long-time friend and film-maker to Torres Strait, returned to Thursday Island at the request of the family of Ephraim Bani, protagonist of her award-winning film "Cracks in the Mask", to record this unique if costly ceremony. Lyrically narrated by Ephraim Bani's grandson, the film explains and contextualises the ceremonies, protocols and songs for an outside audience. The film explores traditional obligations, attitudes to death and hopes for Torres Strait culture to survive in modern, secular Australia."--Container annotation pending
