Part A has two main aims: to show (a) which dialects belong together as variant forms of the same language, and (b) which languages belong together as related members of a group; and to provide information about the current state of these languages, and a guide to the resources available for language revitalisation, including a bibliography. It covers 14 language groups, with additional chapters on contact languages, sign languages and terms used in kin classification, as well as two bibliographic appendices: one on placenames, the other based on the work of N. B. Tindale. Part B presents a word-list for each language, with an account of the sources used in compiling it, and an overview of the languages phonology."--Provided by publisher, annotation pending

Abstract: Website of The First Australians: Aboriginal Culture & Heritage, established by the late Uncle Allan Carriage; his view was that life on the Woronora will dramatically change if better methods of protecting the environment against longwall mining aren't adopted. Allan had seen massive damage wrought on the rivers and creeks of his tribal lands by the mining industry. He felt that not only the flora and fauna will suffer, so would the people of Sydney, Southern Highlands, Sutherland Shire and the Illawarra. As the mining industry expands its operations under the Woronora Plateau and Dharawal State Recreation Area (SRA) the water supply will decrease by disappearing through cracks in the rock under the swamps, creeks and rivers. These cracks are caused by the mining industries longwall mining process. The responsibility for protecting our environment against such damage rests with the NSW government which seems incapable of developing guidelines and legislation to control the activities of the mining industry [taken from home page]
