Introduction

This manual has been developed by the New South Wales Aboriginal Land Council ('NSWALC') with assistance from the Office of the Registrar of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act to assist Local Aboriginal Land Councils to make Aboriginal Land Claims under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

Since 1998 Aboriginal Land Claims have been the sole form of compensation available under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 to compensate Aboriginal people for the past dispossession of their lands.

In this way Aboriginal Land Claims are the core business of all Aboriginal Land Councils.

3

Disclaimer

The information contained in this manual should be used only as a guide to making Aboriginal Land Claims and should not be used to replace independent advice.

The information provided in this manual is current to January 2009.

Important warning for all Local Aboriginal Land Councils

An Aboriginal Land Council should NOT withdraw an Aboriginal Land Claim without first seeking legal advice in relation to the merits of the land claim and the risks to the Land Council if the claim is withdrawn.

If you require assistance please contact the Legal Services Unit at NSWALC on (02) 9689 4444.

What land can be claimed?

An Aboriginal Land Council can make a claim to Crown land in New South Wales under section 36 of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 ('the Act').

You can access a copy of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 and other NSW Acts of Parliament at www.legislation.nsw.gov.au.

Section 36(1) of the Act provides that land is claimable if at the date of the claim it is:

4

- land vested in Her Majesty,
- able to be lawfully sold or leased, or reserved or dedicated, under the Crown Lands Act 1989,
- not lawfully used or occupied,
- not needed or likely to be needed as residential lands,
- not needed or likely to be needed for an essential public purpose,
- not subject to native title or an application for a determination of native title (other than an unopposed non-claimant application),
- not subject to a lease, licence or permissive occupancy that was granted before June 1983 and continued in operation as at the date of claim (see clause 8 of schedule 4 of the Act).

What land cannot be claimed?

Whilst the issue of whether Crown land is claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 will depend upon the facts in each case and may involve some complex legal issues, there is some land that is clearly not claimable. For example:

- lands that have been vested in a private third party, such as an individual or corporation (including a statutory or Ministerial corporation),
- lands that have been dedicated or reserved as a National Park, State Conservation Area, regional park or nature reserve under the National Parks and Wildlife Act 1974,
- lands that are Crown or public roads, and
- lands that have been dedicated or reserved as a State Forest, timber reserve or flora reserve under the Forestry Act 1916.

How do you find out what land may be claimable in your area?

There are a number of tools available to you to investigate what land may be claimable in your local area and the Land Rights Unit at NSWALC is available to assist you with making claims.

The Land Rights Unit contact details are:

New South Wales Aboriginal Land Council
Level 4, 33 Argyle Street
PO Box 1125
Parramatta NSW 2124

Local knowledge

The 'on the ground' knowledge of the staff and members of a Local Aboriginal Land Council in relation to Crown land in their local area is an invaluable tool in identifying land that may be claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

If you become aware that the use or occupation of any Crown land in your area has ceased you should consider making an Aboriginal Land Claim.

Successful land claims have been made over abandoned and disused buildings, land reserved for a public purpose under the Crown Lands Act 1989 that was not being used or occupied at the date of claim, and other unused Crown land.

If possible we recommend that someone from the Local Aboriginal Land Council inspects the land (ensuring that any inspections comply with the law) before or as soon as possible after making a land claim.

It is important to record the state of the land as at the date of claim.

We therefore recommend that you take dated photographs and make detailed diary or file notes of any inspections of the land.

The importance of record keeping is discussed further under the heading: 'What records should you keep and maintain?'

Street directory

Your local street directory will provide some basic information in relation to land in your area. For example it will sometimes identify reserves and other land that maybe claimable Crown land. It will also indicate land that is not claimable such as National Parks, roads and State Forests.

Whilst the local street directory will act as a good starting point, you will need to verify the status of the land and whether it is claimable through other tools such as parish maps and title searches (see below).

Parish maps

Parish maps are an essential starting point for investigating what Crown land may be claimable in your area.

There are hard copies of Parish, County and Town maps available at the Offices of the Department of Lands. These maps are public records that can be inspected by any member of the public. Therefore no person should be denied access to inspect, and where required photocopy these maps. Please note that there may be some costs associated with taking photocopies of maps.

Some Parish maps are available at the Department of Lands' website at www.lands.nsw.gov.au.

A guide to how to read a Parish map appears at Annexure B to this manual.

Where possible, all Local Aboriginal Land Councils should obtain copies of the Parish maps that apply within the Council's geographical boundaries. We also recommend that someone within your Land Council be assigned as a contact person for the Department of Lands and that this person be responsible for establishing and developing a professional working relationship in relation to land claims with the relevant person or persons from the Regional Office of the Department of Lands in your area.

A list of the contact details for the Regional Offices of the Department of Lands is set out at Annexure D to this manual.

In 2007 the Department of Lands stopped updating Parish maps. Therefore, wherever practicable, NSWALC recommends that the information contained on Parish maps be verified through other sources, such as a title search, or a through a Cadastral Records Inquiry through the Digital Cadastral Database which can be arranged by the Land Rights Unit or through the Department of Lands.

The Land Rights Unit in NSW has a number of tools available to assist Local Aboriginal Land Councils to verify the information on Parish Maps including aerial photographs and other mapping databases.

Title searches

Where Crown land has been allocated a Folio Identifier and has a Certificate of Title a title search will reveal the registered owner of the land and whether there are other persons who have a legal interest in the land such as the holder of a registered lease.

The title search will indicate whether the land is vested in Her Majesty as required by section 36 of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

Examples of lands vested in Her Majesty include where the words "The State of New South Wales" or "Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth" appears in the First Schedule of a title search.

A guide to reading a title search appears at Annexure C to this manual.

A title search can be done over the counter at the Sydney Head Office of the Department of Lands at:

1 Prince Albert Road
Queens Square,
Sydney NSW 2001

Alternatively, the Land Rights Unit in NSWALC can arrange to carry out a title search for you.

A standard title search costs approximately $10.

Local newspapers

The Crown Lands Act 1989 requires that, before the Minister for Lands can sell or exchange Crown land or lease Crown land for more than 5 years, a notice must be placed in a local or State wide newspaper at least 14 days before the sale, exchange or lease (see section 34 of the Crown Lands Act 1989).

The Minister for Lands may decide to sell, exchange or lease Crown land because the land is not being used or occupied and is not needed for an essential public purpose or as residential land.

Such land may be claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

All Local Aboriginal Land Council should ensure that newspapers are reviewed regularly for any notices relating to Crown land in their area.

Government Gazette

The Crown Lands Act 1989 also requires the Minister for Lands to publish a notice of all revocations of reservations or dedications of land in the Government Gazette (see section 84 of the Crown Lands Act 1989).

The Minister for Lands may decide to revoke a reservation or dedication of Crown land where the land is no longer needed for a public purpose or has ceased to be used for such a purpose. This land may be claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

The Government Gazette can be accessed at www.advertising.nswp.commerce.nsw.gov.au/Gazette/Gazette.htm.

Hard copies of the Government Gazette may also be available at your local library.

The Land Rights Unit in NSWALC regularly reviews the Government Gazette for relevant notices and can provide Local Aboriginal Land Councils with copies of notices.

8

Crown Land Assessments

The Crown Lands Act 1989 provides for a program of assessment of Crown land (see Part 3). A 'Crown Land Assessment' will consider issues such as possible and preferred uses of Crown land and may consider whether the land is required for public purposes. A Crown Lands Assessment is a capabilities study only and will not be determinative of these issues.

A 'Crown Lands Assessment' may provide information that will assist a Local Aboriginal Land Council in identifying Crown land that may be claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

The Minister must place a notice of the preparation of a draft Crown Land Assessment in the Government Gazette and in a local or statewide newspaper (see clause 20 of the Crown Land Regulation 2006).

Some Crown Land Assessments are published on the Department of Lands website to allow for public comment. See www.lands.nsw.gov.au

How do you make a claim?

An Aboriginal Land Claim must be lodged with the Registrar of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983. The Office of the Registrar has a standard form which a Land Council can use to lodge an Aboriginal Land Claim.

A copy of the form is attached at Annexure A to this manual.

Clear description of the land

A land claim needs to be as clear and specific as possible. All land claims should clearly describe the land to which it relates. Where possible a land council should use the official descriptor for the land, for example "Lot # in Deposited Plan XXXX", or "that part of Lot # in Deposited Plan XXXX, as shown by yellow shading on the attached plan". All descriptions should be clear and simple. If the claimed land does not have an official descriptor you should ensure that the claim provides as much detail and explanation of the land area as possible.

In most cases it will be sufficient to include a clear photocopy of a map with the claimed land clearly highlighted.

Land claims do not have to conform to existing property boundaries. In some cases it may be advisable to lodge separate claims over an area of land where the claim over part of the land may involve more complex issues.

If you require any legal advice in relation to a land claim you can contact the Legal Services Unit at NSWALC.

The Legal Services Unit contact details are:

New South Wales Aboriginal Land Council
Level 7, 33 Argyle Street
PO Box 1125, Parramatta NSW 2124
Telephone: (02) 9689 4444
Fax: (02) 9687 1234

Lodging the claim form

The claim form can be posted, hand delivered faxed or emailed to the Registrar at:

Office of the Registrar
Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983
11-13 Mansfield Street
GLEBE NSW 2037
Telephone: (02) 9562 6327
Fax: (02) 9562 6350

All land claims should be signed by a Land Council's Chairperson.

If the Registrar is satisfied that the claim complies with the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 the Office of the Registrar will allocate the claim an Aboriginal Land Claim number and send you a written confirmation that the claim has been accepted.

The Office of the Registrar will then forward the claim to the Department of Lands.

Who will determine your claim?

Your Aboriginal Land Claim will be referred to the relevant regional office of the Department of Lands for investigation.

Once the investigation is complete the regional office will provide a report to the Aboriginal Land Claims Unit within the Department of Lands.

The report from the regional office may provide the basis of a recommendation to the Minister for Lands in relation to whether the land claim should be granted.

At this stage it is for the Minister for Lands to determine whether the land is claimable under the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

If the Minister determines that the land is not claimable a land council can consider appealing to the Land and Environment Court.

The right to appeal is discussed further below under the heading 'What assistance is available if your land claim is refused?'

10

When will your claim be determined?

There are approximately 9,000 undetermined Aboriginal Land Claims in NSW.

It may take some time for your land claim to be investigated and for the Minister for Lands to determine your claim.

If you have any concerns about delays in the determination of your claim you can contact the Legal Services Unit at NSWALC or the Aboriginal Land Claims Unit within the Department of Lands (see Annexure D for the contact details for the Department of Lands).

What records should you keep and maintain?

Each Local Aboriginal Land Council should maintain complete written records relating to all of its Aboriginal Land Claims.

Files

For each Aboriginal Land Claim we recommend that you open and maintain a file containing:

- a copy of the Aboriginal Land Claim as registered by the Registrar of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983,
- copies of all relevant maps,
- any relevant public notices taken from newspapers or the government gazette,
- any title searches,
- any records relating to the inspection of the land,
- all correspondence relating to the claim, including any correspondence from or to the Registrar of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 and the Department of Lands, and
- all files notes of conversations or meetings with the Department of Lands or other relevant parties such as NSWALC.

11

It is important that these files are kept in a secure place and are accessed only by authorised persons within the Land Council.

Land Claims Register

We also recommend that a Land Council develop and maintain a 'Land Claims Register' which contains the following details in relation to all Aboriginal Land Claims:

- the Aboriginal Land Claim number,
- the date the claim was made,
- a description of the land,
- details of the outcome of the claim if it has been determined, and
- details of any appeals and their outcome.

A Local Aboriginal Land Council can request a copy of an Aboriginal Land Claim from the Registrar of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 and if required a summary of all the land claims lodged in your area.

What can you do if your land claim is refused?

A Local Aboriginal Land Council has a right to appeal to the Land and Environment Court against the refusal of an Aboriginal Land Claim, pursuant to 36(6) of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983.

Any appeal MUST be filed within 4 months of the date of the Minister's refusal of the claim (see Rule 6.1 of the Land and Environment Court Rules 2007).

The NSWALC receives notice of all Aboriginal Land Claims determined by the Minister for Lands.

The Land Claims Unit and the Legal Services Unit at NSWALC review all claims refused on behalf of Local Aboriginal Land Councils, and where appropriate obtain advice in relation to the prospects of appealing against the Minister's refusal of a claim.

In appropriate cases, the NSWALC will assist a Local Aboriginal Land Council in legal proceedings and any negotiations relating to the Minister's refusal of an Aboriginal Land Claim.

Can you lodge a repeat land claim?

Whether land is claimable under section 36 of the Aboriginal Land Rights Act 1983 must be determined as at the date the claim is made.

If you become aware of changes to the land there is nothing to prevent a Land Council from lodging a fresh claim over land that has already been claimed, even if the previous claim was refused by the Minister or the previous claim has not yet been determined by the Minister.
