A SOCIAL CO-OPERATIVE CONGRESS.

For a long time past there has been a general feeling that we are not doing what we might to settle the social problems which, it is on al-hands admitted, are daily becoming more pera-

hands admitted, are delly becoming more preating.

The present with this view, a few certical willwishers of humanity have devised a absence for holding a Social Co-operative Congress in Sydney for the purpose, as far as possible, of finding a common ground for activity, and for discovering prectical remedies for the prevailing depression.

It is intended to invite the various religious,
philanthropic, track, benefit, and other scoteries
each to send a delegate.

As soon as possible arrangements will then be made for a public meeting in the Protestant Hall to inaugurate the Congress.

The future meetings of the Congress will probably be held in the evening in order to secure at large an atmadance of delegates as possible.

The following has been suggested as the

There are very few female "tourists." I have seen a few. One was a stort, old Scotchwoman who for years did a tramp from Sydney to Malbourne and back. She had more or less regular stages, where women gave her supper and bed is return for gamin. When she passed through our town, she always divided her patronagy; from nifferant stores. The was a thrifty dame, and so, of course, did not pay for them, but called agrain next year and got some more of the sense kind at the same figure. She was a claim old lady, wore men's heavy both, and carried an enormous bundle tide up in white called. On her last trip she told people that she was going to bonny fouchaid, when he got to Melbourne. Poor roul, she went to some other place, as also was found dead on the track between Balizant and Melbourne, and in her high tundle were 400 sovereigns, the reward of her theft.

on country roads you will see a vast number of all sorts on framp. They have all sorts and naive of all sorts on framp. They have all sorts and how it is carried, road experience. Weary faces on most of them indicate that they are men annual to avaid becoming parasite. They seek for opportunity to earn their living honesty. They have not yet lost manbood and yet bunger forces them to beg. The equatter has closed his kitchen, but it is fortunate that other people are more humans, and so a man can get enough to keep hody and soul together. But, od: how sad it is, and how degrading. Day after day a weary march in a ride country unwrited, past shops and stores over-supplied, and yet no chance. Wife and little ones left in cides or forms, and has la-seen straid to receive from or write to them a letter because of the misery it causes. Forced against his will into the ranks of the parasites who live on the few who are permitted to toil, and thus increase the latter's burden when the wished to lighten it.
