PREFACE

On March 1, 2003 the components of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) were subsumed under the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The former INS Statistics Division was reorganized as the Office of Immigration Statistics, under the direction of the DHS Under Secretary for Management. The Statistical Yearbook of the Immigration and Naturalization Service was renamed Yearbook of Immigration Statistics. This is the first edition of the Yearbook published under the auspices of the DHS though all data were derived from the same data systems formerly maintained by the INS. References to the INS and INS data collection systems remain in this edition and will be updated as appropriate in future editions of this publication.

1. INTRODUCTION

The Yearbook of Immigration Statistics presents information on migrants who apply for different legal statuses, immigration law enforcement activities, and the size of the resident unauthorized alien population. Chapters 3-7 focus on the major legal status categories available to aliens in the United States including temporary and permanent residence, refugee status, asylum, and naturalization. Chapter 8 focuses on enforcement actions including apprehensions of persons who violated immigration law; investigations involving criminal cases, work site enforcement, fraud, and anti-smuggling activities; and the removal of aliens refused admission or apprehended within the United States. Chapter 9 focuses on estimates of the unauthorized population residing in the United States in 2000.

Chapters 3-7 — Legal Status Categories

Immigrants (Chapter 3) are aliens who have been granted lawful permanent residence in the United States. They are commonly referred to as “green card” recipients. Refugees (Chapter 4) and asylees (Chapter 5) are aliens who seek residence in the United States to avoid persecution in their country of nationality. Refugees are aliens who applied for admission while outside the United States. One year after their arrival, they are eligible to apply for permanent residence. Some aliens apply for asylum at a port of entry while seeking admission to the United States. Other aliens apply for asylum at some point after their entry to the United States. They are eligible to apply for lawful permanent residence one year after they are granted asylum. Refugees and asylees may stay in the United States indefinitely without becoming permanent residents as long as they do not violate immigration law.

Temporary admissions refer to arrivals of aliens who are authorized to stay in the United States for a limited period of time. These aliens are also known as nonimmigrants. Temporary admissions (Chapter 6) include aliens arriving in the United States with nonimmigrant visas, aliens arriving without visas from countries eligible for the Visa Waiver Program, aliens in specialty occupations (H-1B) approved to work in the United States, and aliens paroled into the United States for humanitarian and other reasons. Although most nonimmigrants enter the United States as tourists, some come to work, study, or engage in cultural exchange programs. Certain aliens admitted for temporary residence are eligible for adjustment of status to permanent residence.

Naturalizations (Chapter 7) refer to lawful permanent residents ages 18 and over who become U.S. citizens. Most immigrants are eligible to apply for naturalization within five years after becoming lawful permanent residents.

The data in Chapters 3-7 measure flows of aliens in each legal status category during a fiscal year. Combining data on annual flows with annual data on emigration, mortality, and transitions to other legal statuses makes it possible to estimate the population in each category at one point in time. Producing accurate estimates for these populations is challenging because not all of the needed information is collected or readily available. The Census Bureau is the primary source of information on the total foreign born population in the United States at one point in time (see www.census.gov). Census data distinguish U.S. citizens from noncitizens but not between legal and undocumented immigrants.

The data for each section come from application or event based automated systems. Data on immigrants (Chapter 3), refugees (Chapter 4), asylees (Chapter 5), and naturalizations (Chapter 7) are obtained from application based case management systems that compile information supplied by aliens on the forms they are required to submit when they apply for a particular legal status. The data consist of applications that reached certain administrative milestones during a fiscal year such as the date of receipt or approval. A count of applications is equivalent to a count of applicants since these legal statuses are essentially once in a lifetime events.

Data for temporary admissions (Chapter 6), excluding H-1B petition workers, are obtained from an information system that maintains a record of certain nonimmigrant arrivals to the United States. Admissions are recorded for all foreign nationals arriving from every country, except for most short-term visitors from Mexico and Canada. The number of Mexican and Canadian short-term admissions not included is estimated at nearly 200 million a year. Counts of admissions in this chapter refer to arrivals rather than individuals. The number of arrivals exceeds the number of individuals entering the United States because many nonimmigrants enter and leave more than once during a fiscal year.

Chapter 8 — Enforcement Activities

The DHS takes action to enforce immigration law at the borders of the United States, in the interior of the country, and at designated sites outside the United States. Certain enforcement activities are executed principally or in whole by the DHS; for example, apprehension of aliens. Some activities must be coordinated with other law enforcement entities. For example, prosecutions in criminal courts are principally the responsibility of U.S. Attorneys. In some cases the determination of which aliens are to be removed from the United States is primarily the responsibility of the Executive Office for Immigration Review, an agency under the Department of Justice. Under certain circumstances the DHS is empowered to make that decision.

Data on apprehensions, voluntary departures, drug seizures, prosecutions, fines, and accomplishments of the Border Patrol and Investigations Programs were obtained from a workload performance system that collects aggregated data from DHS offices each month. Data on alien removals were obtained from a deportable alien case tracking system. These data systems measure events that occurred during the fiscal year. A small but significant number of aliens are involved in more than one enforcement event during the year. For example, an individual alien may be apprehended more than once during the year.

Chapter 9 — Estimates of Unauthorized Immigrants

Illegal aliens are residents of the United States who are present without authorization, either because they enter without inspection or they enter as a nonimmigrant and stay past the time they are required to leave. The estimated size of the unauthorized immigrant population is based on the foreign-born population counted in the 2000 Census, DHS estimates of the lawfully resident foreign-born population in 2000, and previous DHS estimates of unauthorized residents. The estimate of legal residents is derived from DHS data on immigrant and nonimmigrant admissions, refugee admissions, and assumptions about emigration and mortality. Unauthorized aliens staying in the United States for short periods of time are not included in the population estimate.

2. HIGHLIGHTS

The Yearbook of Immigration Statistics provides immigration data for fiscal year 2002 as well as related historical information. The major areas covered include: immigrants admitted for lawful permanent residence; refugees approved and admitted; asylee cases received and approved; nonimmigrants admitted (e.g., tourists, students, etc.); parolees admitted; specialty worker petitions approved; aliens naturalized; and deportable aliens located and removed.

Refugee arrivals declined for the third consecutive year in fiscal year 2002, representing the lowest level since fiscal year 1978. Nonimmigrant admissions declined for the second consecutive year. Also, immigrants, persons naturalized, asylum cases received, and deportable aliens located decreased in 2002.

Highlights for 2002 include:

- ✿ Legal immigration in 2002 (1,063,732) was lower than in 2001 (1,064,318).
- ✿ Thirty-eight percent of all immigrants were born in North America (21 percent in Mexico) and 32 percent were born in Asia.
- ✿ Sixty-five percent of all immigrants intended to reside in six states: California, New York, Florida, Texas, Illinois, and New Jersey.
- ✿ Nearly one of five immigrants intended to reside in New York City or Los Angeles.
- ✿ Refugee arrivals dropped in 2002 by 61 percent to 26,787 from 68,925 in 2001.
- ✿ INS Asylum Officers approved 36 percent of asylum cases adjudicated in 2002.
- ✿ Total nonimmigrant admissions in 2002 (27.9 million) decreased by 15 percent from 2001 (32.8 million). Nearly half were from four countries — the United Kingdom (15.4 percent), Mexico (15.0), Japan (13.1), and Germany (5.0).
- ✿ The largest proportion of H-1B petition workers approved (197,537) was born in India (33 percent); the second largest proportion was born in the People's Republic of China (10 percent).
- ✿ The INS naturalized 573,708 persons in fiscal year 2002; forty-one percent were born in Asian countries, followed by 30 percent from North American countries.
- ✿ California was the intended residence of 26 percent of persons naturalizing, followed by New York with 16 percent.
- ✿ The number of deportable aliens located during 2002 declined 23 percent to 1.1 million.
- ✿ The number of expedited removals declined almost 51 percent; other types of formal removal increased 6 percent.
- ✿ Nearly 71,000 criminal aliens were removed; Mexico lead all countries of nationality with nearly 56,000 (79 percent).

3. IMMIGRANTS

This section presents information on the number and characteristics of persons who come to the United States for permanent residence, including persons arriving with that status and those adjusting to permanent resident status after entry.

Immigrants, as defined by U.S. immigration law, are persons lawfully admitted for permanent residence in the United States. Other terms used in INS reports to refer to immigrants include: aliens who are granted legal permanent residence; aliens admitted for legal permanent residence; immigrants admitted; and admissions. (See Glossary.)

Aliens wishing to become lawful permanent residents follow one of two paths depending on their residence at the time of application. Aliens living abroad apply for an immigrant visa at a consular office of the Department of State. Once issued a visa, they may enter the United States and become legal immigrants when they pass through the port of entry. Aliens already living in the United States, including certain undocumented immigrants, temporary workers, foreign students, and refugees, file an application for adjustment of status to lawful permanent residence with the INS. At the time they apply for adjustment of status, they may also apply for work permits. Adjustment of status applicants are granted lawful permanent residence at the time their applications are approved. New legal immigrants are automatically authorized to work and should receive permanent resident cards ("green cards") soon after becoming lawful permanent residents.

U.S. Immigration Program

U.S. law gives preferential immigration status to persons with a close family relationship with a U.S. citizen or lawful permanent resident, persons with needed job skills, or persons who qualify as refugees. Other categories usually account for few admissions. An exception occurred during 1989-92 when over 2.6 million former illegal aliens gained permanent resident status through the legalization provisions of the Immigration and Reform and Control Act (IRCA) of 1986.

Worldwide immigration subject to numerical limits

The Immigration Act of 1990 specified a worldwide level of immigration for certain categories of immigrants with an annual limit that could range between 421,000 and 675,000 depending on admissions in the previous year. These categories and their limits include family-sponsored preferences (226,000 to 480,000), employment-based preferences (140,000), and diversity immigrants (55,000). The family preference limit is equal to the larger of either 226,000 or a calculation consisting of 480,000 minus 1) the previous year's total of immediate relatives of U.S. citizens, 2) two numerically small categories of children, and 3) certain categories of aliens paroled into the United States in the second preceding fiscal year plus any unused employment preferences from the previous year (see Appendix 1). The employment preference limit can be higher than 140,000 if family preferences go unused in the previous year.

Other categories of immigrants, for example, asylees, are also subject to some form of numerical or time bound limitation. However, these categories typically involve small numbers of aliens and are covered under other sections of immigration law.

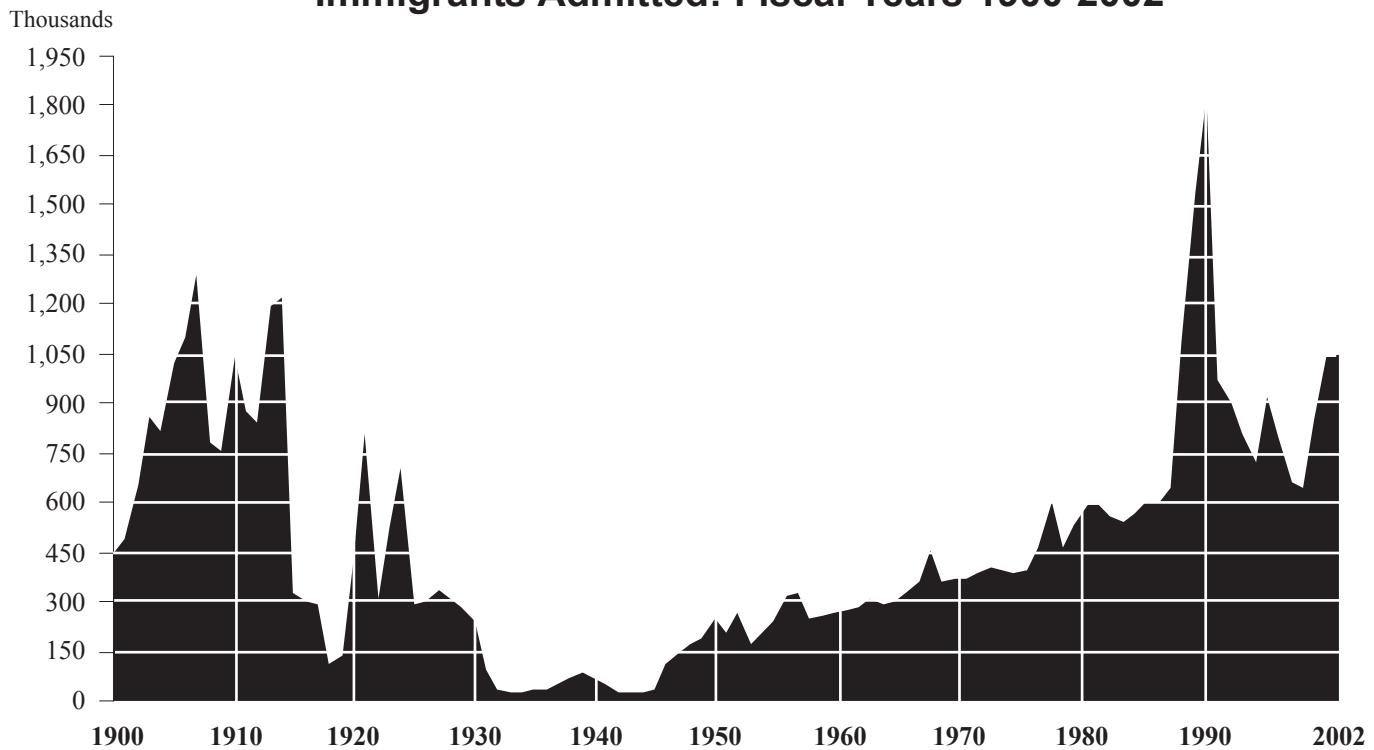

Preference immigrants

Family sponsored preferences consist of four categories: unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens and their children; spouses, children, and unmarried sons and daughters of lawful permanent residents; married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens and their spouses and children; and brothers and sisters, including spouses and children, of U.S. citizens ages 21 and over. The employment-based preferences consist of 5 categories: priority workers; professionals with advanced degrees or aliens of exceptional ability; skilled workers, professionals (without advanced degrees), and needed unskilled workers; special immigrants (e.g., ministers, religious workers, and employees of the U.S. government abroad); and employment creation immigrants or "investors". Spouses and children are also included in the employment preference limit. The 2002 limits are shown in Appendix 1.

The Department of State is responsible for determining the annual limits and visa allocation for preference immigration. A per-country limit is also calculated annually and is limited to 7 percent of the annual total; the limit for dependent areas is 2 percent of the annual total. The maximum number of visas allowed under the preference system in 2002 was 368,632—226,000 for family-sponsored immigrants and 142,632 for employment-based immigrants. Within these overall limits, no more than 25,804 preference visas could be issued to persons born in any independent country and no more than 7,373 to natives of a dependent area.

Diversity Program

A total of 55,000 visas are available annually to nationals of certain countries under the Diversity Program. However, beginning in fiscal year 1999, the limit could be reduced to 50,000 to allow 5,000 visas for use under the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act (NACARA) program. In 2002, the Diversity Program limit was 50,000. Nationals of countries with more than 50,000 numerically-limited admissions during the preceding 5 years are excluded from participating in the Diversity Program. Each of the eligible countries is assigned to one of 6 regions and limits are determined by the INS for each region. The limits are calculated annually using a formula based on immigrant admissions during the preceding 5 years and the population total of the region. The maximum visa limit per country is 3,850.

Immigration exempt from worldwide numerical limits

Immigration usually totals much more than the annual worldwide limit for preference and diversity immigrants because some major categories are exempt from the limits. These categories include:

- ◆ Immediate relatives of U.S. citizens;
- ◆ Refugee and asylee adjustments;
- ◆ Certain parolees from the Soviet Union and Indochina;
- ◆ Cancellation of removal; and
- ◆ Aliens who applied for adjustment of status after having unlawfully resided in the United States since January 1, 1982 and certain special agricultural workers. (The application period ended on November 30, 1988; most recipients of this status gained permanent resident status in fiscal years 1989-92.)

Immediate relatives of U.S. citizens are not subject to any numerical limitation. This has been the single largest category of immigrants since 1986 excluding aliens granted legal permanent residence under IRCA.

Refugees are eligible to adjust to legal permanent resident status after 1 year of residence in the United States without regard to numerical limit. The number of aliens admitted as refugees to the United States each year, however, is established by the President in consultation with Congress

(see Refugee section). Recent ceilings on refugee admissions were 90,000 in 2000, 80,000 in 2001, and 70,000 in 2002. Asylees must wait 1 year after they are granted asylum to apply for lawful permanent residence. Until 1992, there was a limit of 5,000 adjustments per year. The Immigration Act of 1990 increased the limit to 10,000. Small numbers of asylees (539 in 2002) are exempt from this limit. The number of asylees authorized to adjust status in a fiscal year may differ slightly from the number that actually adjust status due to time required for application processing.

More than 1 million immigrants were granted legal permanent resident status during 2002.

Data Overview

The number of immigrants admitted for lawful permanent residence in the United States in 2002 was 1,063,732 (see Chart A). Included in this total were 384,427 aliens previously living abroad who obtained immigrant visas through the U.S. Department of State and became lawful permanent residents upon entry into the United States. The remaining 679,305 legal immigrants, including former undocumented immigrants, refugees, and asylees, had been living in the United States an average of three to four years and adjusted status through the INS.

In recent years, including 2002, the number of immigrants granted lawful permanent residence has been affected by an application backlog at INS. At the end of fiscal year 2002, there were 966,000 adjustment of status cases pending a decision. Because the impact of the backlog is unknown with respect to annual changes in legal immigration and the demographic composition of immigrants, caution should be exercised in drawing conclusions from these data.

Highlights

- ◆ The number of persons granted lawful permanent residence in the U.S. was about the same in fiscal year 2002 (1,063,732) compared to fiscal year 2001 (1,064,318).
- ◆ Sixty-three percent of all legal immigrants in fiscal year 2002 were family sponsored, 16 percent were admitted under employment preferences, 12 percent were admitted as refugees or asylees, and 3 percent were admitted under Sections 202 and 203 of the

- Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act (NACARA) of 1997 (see Table A).
- The classes of admission with the greatest increases in legal immigration between 2001 and 2002 were parents and spouses of U.S. citizens and refugees. The category with the largest decrease was the family second preference (spouses and children of alien residents), due primarily to security checks that affected both INS and Department of State application processing.
- The leading regions of origin of legal immigrants in fiscal year 2002, as in 2001, were North America and Asia. These regions accounted for 38 percent and 32 percent, respectively of all legal immigrants in 2002 (see Chart B and Table B).
- In 2002, as in 2001, the leading source country for legal immigrants was Mexico (219,380). (see Table B). India was second (71,105), followed by the People's Republic of China (61,282), the Philippines (51,308), and Vietnam (33,627). These 5 countries represented 41 percent of all immigrants in 2002.

- ◆ The primary destination states for legal immigrants in 2002, as in every year since 1971, were California (291,216), New York (114,827), Florida (90,819), Texas (88,365), New Jersey (57,721), and Illinois (47,235) (see Table C). Nearly two-thirds (65 percent) of all legal immigrants in 2002 lived in these six states.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

Aliens arriving from outside the United States (new arrivals) generally must have a valid immigrant visa issued by the U.S. Department of State to be admitted for legal permanent residence. Aliens already in the United States in a temporary status who are eligible to become legal permanent residents (adjustments) are granted immigrant status by the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. The source of information on new arrivals is the DS-230 Application for Immigrant Visa and Alien Registration from the U.S. Department of State. Information on adjustments comes from the I-485 Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status from the U.S.

Immigration and Naturalization Service. Immigrant applications from both sources are processed through the Computer Linked Applicant Information System (CLAIMS). Immigrant records for fiscal year 2002 were identified in CLAIMS based on the date the decision was made to grant lawful permanent residence.

Limitations of Data

The number of immigrants admitted for legal permanent residence in a year is not the same as the number of net migrants who entered the United States in that year. The reasons for the difference in counts are:

1) Immigrant adjustments are reported in the year the aliens adjust their status to lawful permanent residence and not in the year they migrate to the United States in a temporary or other (refugee or asylee) status.

2) Some migrants (such as parolees, refugees, and asylees) may never be counted as lawful permanent residents even though they reside permanently in the United States (they are not required to adjust to permanent resident status).

3) Information on emigration (aliens permanently departing the United States) and information on net illegal immigration is not available (see Data Gaps section).

4) Missing values were a problem especially for adjustment of status cases for certain variables including occupation, nonimmigrant class of entry, and nonimmigrant year of entry.

NOTE: Official records on immigration began in 1820 but were not complete until 1908. The early records included only persons who arrived by vessel at Atlantic or Gulf ports. Excluded were arrivals at Pacific ports, slaves of African descent, and arrivals at land borders. The numbers shown are as follows: from 1820-67, figures represent alien passengers arrived at seaports; from 1868-92 and 1895-97, immigrant aliens arrived; from 1892-94 and 1898-2002, immigrant aliens admitted for permanent residence. From 1892-1903, aliens entering by cabin class were not counted as immigrants. Land arrivals were not completely enumerated until 1908. See Glossary for fiscal year definitions.

TABLE 2. IMMIGRATION BY REGION AND SELECTED COUNTRY OF LAST RESIDENCE

- ¹ Data for years prior to 1906 relate to country whence alien came; data from 1906-79 and 1984-99 are for country of last permanent residence; and data for 1980-83 refer to country of birth. Because of changes in boundaries, changes in lists of countries, and lack of data for specified countries for various periods, data for certain countries, especially for the total period 1820-1999, are not comparable throughout. Data for specified countries are included with countries to which they belonged prior to World War I.
- ² Data for Austria and Hungary not reported until 1861.

NOTE: From 1820-67, figures represent alien passengers arrived at seaports; from 1868-91 and 1895-97, immigrant aliens arrived; from 1892-94 and 1898-2002, immigrant aliens admitted for permanent residence. From 1892-1903, aliens entering by cabin class were not counted as immigrants. Land arrivals were not completely enumerated until 1908. For recent changes in geographic definitions for Hong Kong, and the former Czechoslovakia, Soviet Union, and Yugoslavia, see Notice of Special Geographic Definitions. 4. REFUGEES

This section presents information on persons who are admitted to the United States because of persecution abroad, including the number and characteristics of persons applying, approved, arriving, and adjusting to lawful permanent resident status.

A refugee is an alien outside the United States who is unable or unwilling to return to his or her country of nationality because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. (See Glossary.) This definition of refugee is set forth in 101(a)(42) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), as amended by the Refugee Act of 1980, and conforms to the international definition of refugee found in the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees. In addition, the INA allows the President to designate certain nationalities who may be processed for refugee status within their homelands.

The September 11 terrorist attacks

The terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001 significantly affected the number of refugee approvals (-72 percent) and admissions (-61) in fiscal year 2002. Approvals were impacted by the introduction of tighter security procedures for the applicants as well as by heightened safety concerns that delayed the arrival of adjudicators. Admissions declined because safety concerns prevented refugee processing at some overseas locations and newly imposed security requirements postponed the travel of already-approved applicants.

U.S. Refugee Program

The United States has resettled refugees for more than 50 years. The Displaced Persons Act of 1948 brought 400,000 Eastern Europeans to the United States. Between 1953 and 1956, the Refugee Relief Act resulted in more than 200,000 arrivals from what were then "Iron Curtain" countries. These early programs relied on immigrant visa channels to bring refugees to the United States. Beginning with the Soviet invasion of Hungary in 1956, however, U.S. refugee programs began to rely increasingly on the Attorney General's parole authority, culminating in the parole of several hundred thousand Indochinese following the fall of South Vietnam in 1975. It was not until the enactment of the Refugee Act of 1980 that refugees entered the United States in a statutory status.

Chart C depicts refugee and asylee admissions for the period 1946-2002. Asylum admissions refers to grants of asylum; some individuals may have been in the United States for some time prior to the grant of asylum. The chart shows the very irregular trend of these admissions throughout the period. To aid in interpreting the chart, Table D lists the major legislation and events affecting the flow of refugees and asylees. Prior to 1980, refugee and asylee admissions fluctuated widely. After the enactment of the aforementioned Refugee Act of 1980, refugee and asylee admissions skyrocketed to unprecedented levels before returning to levels generally both higher and more stable than prior to 1980. For more than 20 years, refugee admissions have been subject to admission ceilings.

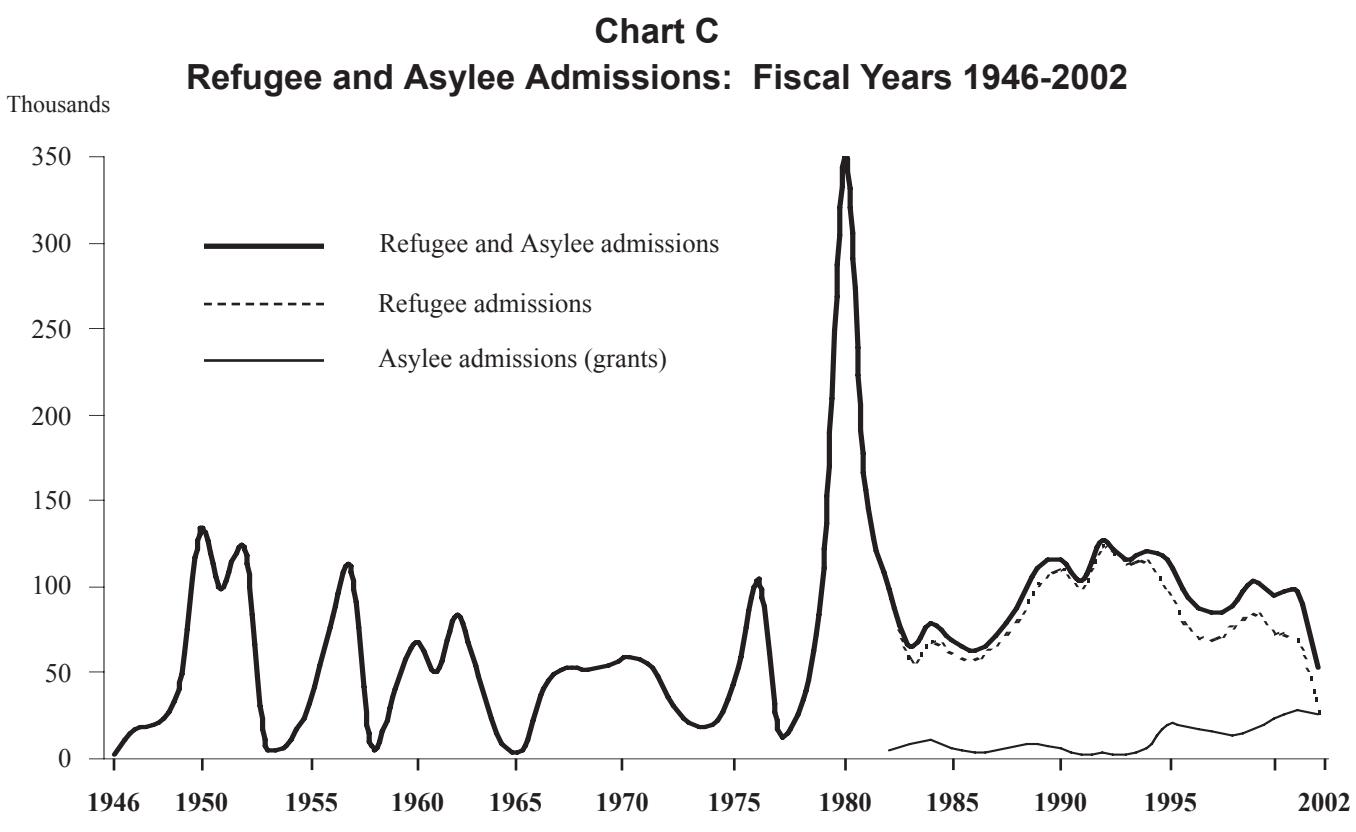

Admission ceilings

At the beginning of each fiscal year, the President, after consultation with the Congress, sets a worldwide refugee admissions ceiling. During the year, changes in the need for resettlement may require an increase in this overall limit on refugee admissions or a reallocation of the geographic or regional subceilings within the worldwide ceiling. For fiscal year 2002, the admissions subceilings were adjusted as follows:

Geographic region of origin	Initial ceiling	Final ceiling
Total	70,000	70,000
Africa	22,000	22,000
East Asia	4,000	4,000
Europe	26,000	26,000
Latin America / Caribbean	3,000	3,000
Near East / South Asia	15,000	15,000
Unallocated	-	-

- Represents zero.

The authorized ceiling was decreased from 80,000 in 2001 to 70,000 in 2002. There was no unallocated and unfunded reserve of admissions numbers placed in the NOTE: In this chart, admissions of asylees means grants of asylum. See Glossary for fiscal year definitions.

2002 ceiling to be used if needed and if funding to support these admissions could be found within existing Departments of State and Health and Human Services appropriations.

The regional subceiling for East Asia includes certain Vietnamese Amerasians, who enter the United States with immigrant visas. Although these aliens are immigrants rather than refugees, they are included in the refugee ceiling since they are eligible for refugee benefits in the United States. Only 347 Amerasians, including their family members, entered the United States in fiscal year 2002. They are included in the immigrant rather than the refugee tables in the Yearbook. Admissions under the Amerasian program are declining, since most of the eligible persons have already been identified and entered the United States.

Criteria for refugee status

During fiscal year 2002, refugees were interviewed and approved for admission to the United States by officers from 12 overseas offices. To qualify for admission to the United States as a refugee, each applicant must meet all of the following criteria: be a refugee as set forth in section 101(a)(42) of the INA; be of special humanitarian concern to the United States; be admissible under the INA; and not be firmly resettled in any foreign country. Spouses and minor children of qualifying refugees derive status and also enter the United States as refugees, either accompanying or following to join the principal refugee. Occasionally, family members arrive in the United States as nonimmigrants independently of the principal refugee's admission. In such cases, they are processed for derivative refugee status without leaving the country. In 2002, 40 persons entered the United States this way.

Data Overview

Applications (Tables E, 14-15)

The number of applications for refugee status filed with the INS decreased by approximately 13 percent between fiscal year 2001 (103,000) and 2002 (90,000) (Table 14). The leading countries of chargeability of the applicants were Somalia with 27 percent of the applications, Ethiopia (16), Liberia (15), Cuba (7), and Bosnia-Herzegovina (6). (Table E and Table 15). Among the nationalities on Table E with at least 1,000 applications filed, the largest percentage increases in 2002 over 2001 were Ethiopia (206), Liberia (119), and Somalia (72). The largest percentage decreases were in applications filed by nationals of Russia (-69), Bosnia-Herzegovina (-68), and Iran (-68). The corresponding decrease for nationals of the former Soviet Union was 70 percent. Overall, among the major geographic regions of chargeability, applications filed by nationals from Africa increased by 60 percent in contrast to Europe, Asia, and North America which decreased 68, 47, and 14 percent, respectively compared to 2001.

Approvals (Tables E, 14-16)

The total number of refugees approved for admission to the United States decreased by 72 percent in 2002 from 66,000 in 2001 to almost 19,000 (Table 16). The large decline was due in part to the implementation of enhanced security measures in the U.S. Refugee Program following the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Concerns about the safety of U.S. government officials also delayed the processing of refugees at several overseas locations.

Bosnia-Herzegovina continued to have the most applications approved despite a 74 percent decline from 2001. Nationals from the republics of the former Soviet Union had more than 3,100 applications approved in 2002 (Table 15). Besides Bosnia-Herzegovina, other leading countries were Cuba, Iran, and Afghanistan. These countries plus the republics of the former Soviet Union accounted for 71 percent of all refugee approvals in 2002.

Of the six countries with more than 1,000 approvals, none grew in approvals in 2002. Declines ranged from 8 percent for Cuba to 82 percent for Sudan in 2002.

All Vietnamese refugee processing centers outside Vietnam were closed at the end of 1997. Residents of former refugee camps were asked to return to Vietnam. Their cases are processed through a special program called the Resettlement Opportunity for Vietnamese Returnees (ROVR) in Vietnam. The number of cases approved by the ROVR program in 2002 was 25.

Dependents

Refugee statistics include spouses and children who are cleared to join principal refugees already in the United States, and they count against the annual ceiling. Overall, 3 percent of the applications and 6 percent of the approvals were family reunification cases in 2002. Just 5 countries account for 68 percent of the applications and 65 percent of the approvals—Bosnia-Herzegovina, Cuba, Ethiopia, Liberia, and Somalia.

Nearly 27,000 refugees arrived in the United States during 2002.

Arrivals (Tables 16-17)

Refugee arrivals into the United States decreased from almost 69,000 in fiscal year 2001 to 27,000 in fiscal year 2002 (Tables E, 16, and 17). This sharp decrease to the lowest level since 1978 was in step with the aforementioned decline in approvals. The decline in arrivals occurred primarily because, in the aftermath of the September 11 attacks, security concerns precluded refugee processing at a number of overseas locations and new security requirements delayed the travel of already-approved refugee applicants.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

The Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on refugees at three points during processing: when they apply for refugee status abroad; when they are admitted to the United States; and when they adjust to lawful permanent resident status. The INS overseas offices collect data on applicants for refugee status. Each office completes INS Form G-319, Report of Applicants for Refugee Status under Section 207, which reports refugee casework by the country to which each applicant is chargeable.

Both the Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration (Department of State) and the Office of Refugee Resettlement (Department of Health and Human Services) collect data on refugees admitted to the United States. The Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration collects data through the International Organization for Migration, which is a nongovernmental organization that arranges the transportation of refugees to the United States. The Office of Refugee Resettlement, responsible for the disbursement of funds for refugee benefits, collects detailed data on the characteristics of refugees at the time they are initially admitted to the United States.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on refugees adjusting to lawful permanent resident status as part of its immigrant data series gathered by the Computer Linked Application Information Management Systems (CLAIMS). The data collected include demographic variables as well as immigration-oriented variables (see Immigrants section). The adjustment stage is the only point in the refugee process where the INS collects detailed information about the characteristics of refugees.

Limitations of Data

After careful consideration of the reporting requirements and limitations of data collected by the INS, it was decided that the Yearbook would present refugee arrival statistics from the Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration,

Department of State. This source counts the actual number of refugees arriving in the United States in each fiscal year. Comparison of refugee arrival data from editions of the Yearbook prior to 1996 with the present edition must be made with caution. From 1987 to 1995 refugee arrival data presented in the Yearbook were derived from the INS's Nonimmigrant Information System (NIIS). This system compiles refugee arrival data by country of citizenship on a monthly basis from INS Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Record (see Nonimmigrants section). However, since this system records each entry of a person with nonimmigrant status, a refugee traveling abroad and returning to the United States may be counted more than once during a fiscal year. Country data were not available within the Department of State for all of fiscal year 2002 for refugee arrivals because of the transition between data-processing centers.

Unlike fiscal years 2000 and 2001, refugee data on the status of applications for Vietnam are complete in 2002. Data include not only Vietnamese processed by the Resettlement Opportunity for Vietnamese Returnees (ROVR) program but also refugees processed under other Vietnamese in-country programs that dealt with former reeducation camp detainees and adult children of formerly admitted refugees.

Refugee detailed tables are located at the end of the Asylees text section.

5. ASYLEES

This section presents information on persons who come to the United States to seek asylum from persecution abroad, including the number and characteristics of persons who filed, were granted asylum, and adjusted to lawful permanent resident status.

An asylee is an alien in the United States who is unable or unwilling to return to his or her country of nationality because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. (See Glossary.) An asylee must meet the same criteria as a refugee; the only difference is the location of the person upon application—the potential asylee is in the United States or applying for admission at a port of entry, and the potential refugee is outside the United States. The Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended by the Refugee Act of 1980, regulates U.S. asylum policy as well as governing refugee procedures. The Act, for the first time, established a statutory basis for granting asylum in the United States consistent with the 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees.

The September 11 terrorists attacks

The attacks resulted in an immediate decline in applications filed. Additional security checks were implemented in fiscal year 2002. Cases could not be approved until the checks were completed.

U.S. Asylum Program

Filing of claims

Any alien physically present in the United States or at a port of entry may request asylum in the United States. According to the Refugee Act, current immigration status, whether legal or illegal, is not relevant to an applicant's asylum claim. Aliens may apply for asylum in one of two ways: with an INS asylum officer; or, if apprehended, with an immigration judge as part of a removal hearing. Traditionally, aliens who appeared at ports of entry without proper documents and requested asylum were referred for exclusion hearings; however, the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA) of 1996 made major revisions to the procedure, effective on April 1, 1997. Under the new law, such aliens are referred to asylum officers for credible fear interviews. These interviews are not formal asylum hearings. The purpose of the interviews is to determine whether aliens have credible fear of persecution or torture and are thus eligible to apply for asylum or withholding of removal before an immigration judge. In credible fear interviews, aliens only need to show that there is a significant possibility that they might establish eligibility for asylum. To be granted asylum, aliens must show they have been persecuted in the past or have a well-founded fear of persecution. An alien may request that an immigration judge review a negative determination by the INS on a credible fear claim. The data reported in this section pertain only to asylum cases filed with INS asylum officers. Aliens denied asylum by the INS may renew asylum claims with an immigration judge once they are in removal proceedings.

Adjudication of claims

On April 2, 1991 the Asylum Officer Corps (AOC) assumed responsibility within the INS for the adjudication of asylum claims that were filed with the INS. Before that date, examiners had heard such claims in INS district offices. During fiscal year 2002, asylum officers worked from eight sites in the United States—Arlington (VA), Chicago, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, New York City, Newark (NJ), and San Francisco. Asylum officers traveled to other INS offices to interview applicants who did not live near these locations.

In January 1995 the INS published regulations designed to streamline the asylum decision process, discourage the filing of frivolous claims, and in cases of claims that do not appear to meet the standards for granting asylum, integrate the work of asylum officers with the work of the immigration judges in the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR), an independent Justice Department agency.

Under asylum reform, the INS standard is to conduct the asylum interview within 43 days after the claim is filed, and to identify and grant those cases that have merit

(generally in 60 days from the date of filing the application). If the INS asylum officer does not grant the claim, the applicant is referred immediately for removal proceedings before EOIR (unless the alien is still in a legal status). The immigration judge may grant the claim or may issue a denial and an order of removal. Under this system, INS asylum officers issue relatively few denials, but an interview followed by a referral to EOIR represents the asylum officer's judgment that the application is not readily grantable. The INS will issue a denial (and cannot refer the case) when the applicant is still in a legal status. An applicant who fails without good cause to keep a scheduled appointment for an asylum interview is referred immediately to EOIR for removal proceedings, one type of case closure.

Beginning in 1997, the AOC also began conducting credible fear interviews as required by IIRIRA and interviewing applicants for refugee status at INS overseas locations.

More than 63,400 applications for asylum in the United States were received during 2002.

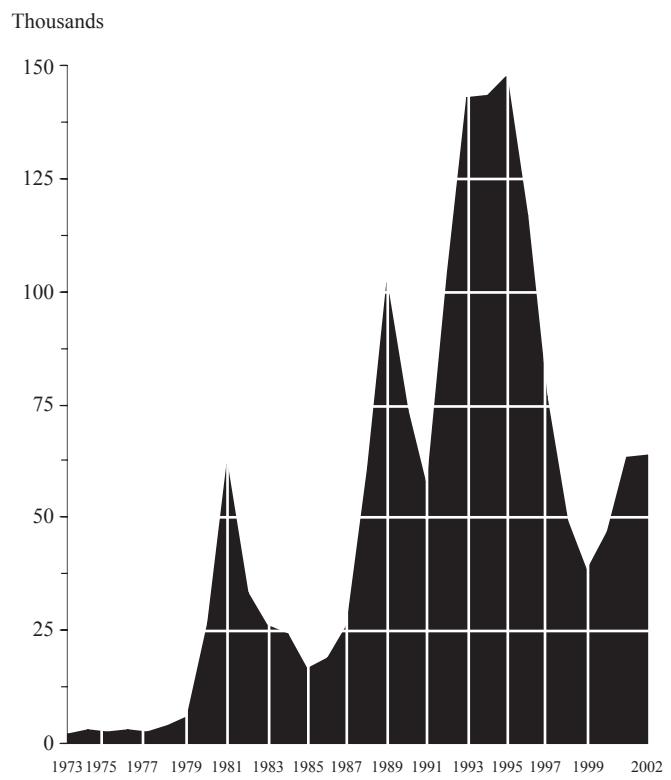

Data Overview

Applications filed (Chart D, Tables 18, 20)

The annual number of asylum applications (cases) filed with the INS has fluctuated greatly since the effective date of the Refugee Act of 1980, as shown in Chart D. In fiscal year 2002, 63,400 asylum cases were filed or reopened (received) covering 86,597 principals, spouses, and children. The number of cases increased by 4 percent in 2002 from 63,200 in 2001 (Table 18) while the number of individuals included in these cases grew in 2002 by 1 percent.

In fiscal year 2002, 58,439 new claims (cases) for asylum were filed with the INS. Principals from the People's Republic of China made the most new claims (10,522), followed by Mexico (8,977), Colombia (7,967), and Haiti (3,562) (Table 20). New claims in 2002 grew the most from the People's Republic of China (2,385), Cameroon (780), and Colombia (660). The largest declines in new claims were experienced by nationals of Haiti (-1,474), Somalia (-1,264), and Burma (-863). Principals from the former Soviet Union filed 3,641 new claims, 20 percent fewer than in 2001—38 percent were from Armenia and 24 percent from Russia.

A male was the principal in 62 percent (36,235) of the new claims filed in 2002. The median and mean ages of asylees were 34 and 35, respectively. Females had median and mean ages of 34 and 36, respectively, while the corresponding numbers for males were 33 and 35.

More than 6,100 asylum cases were reopened in 2002 (including 1,161 cases that were both new and reopened during the year). The number of reopened cases in fiscal year 2002 was 25 percent more than the number of cases reopened in 2001. Cases that were administratively closed are automatically reopened when aliens apply for renewal of their employment authorization. These reopened cases were applications filed prior to the asylum reforms of 1995, where the cases were administratively closed due to a failure to appear for the asylum interview. An interview is automatically rescheduled at the same time the cases are reopened. Some of these reopened cases may qualify under the terms of the American Baptist Churches (ABC) vs. Thornburgh settlement, the result of a class action lawsuit permitting many nationals of El Salvador and Guatemala to file or renew their claims for asylum.

With respect to principals, spouses, and children on applications filed (new and reopened) during 2002, the largest increases were from the People's Republic of China (2,471) and Cameroon (803). On the other hand, nationals from Somalia (-1,446), Armenia (-1,412), and Haiti (-1,324) experienced the largest decreases. About 57 percent of all individuals involved in new or reopened claims were male.

Trends in asylum applications filed by nationals from Central America

For over a decade, nationals from Central America dominated the annual number of asylum applications filed in the United States. From 1986 to 1992, Central Americans filed about half of all asylum applications. By 1993 and 1994 that percentage had fallen to about 40 percent of total applications filed. Then, the number of applicants from Central America surged to new heights in the next two years, with well over half of all asylum applicants. Beginning in 1997, the numbers started a sharp decline largely due to the termination of the filing period under the terms of the American Baptist Churches vs. Thornburgh settlement. As a result, Central American principals accounted for only about 2 percent of new claims and 1 percent of claims filed and reopened in 2002.

During the 1990s, the trend in asylum claims filed or reopened from Central America has been driven in large part by ABC cases. Under the terms of this 1991 class action lawsuit settlement agreement [American Baptist Churches vs. Thornburgh, 760 F. Supp. 796 (N.D. Cal. 1991)], many nationals of El Salvador and Guatemala were allowed to file or renew their claims for asylum. Nationals of Guatemala had a filing deadline of March 31, 1992, which was the peak year for claims from this country (although the INS allowed them to file until January 3, 1995). The 187,000 Salvadorans who had registered for Temporary Protected Status (TPS) in 1991 became eligible to file for asylum at the expiration of their TPS period in 1992. They were later granted additional time under deferred enforced departure periods which extended until December 1994, and they ultimately had until January 31, 1996 to apply for asylum under the ABC agreement. The number of ABC claims filed by principals from El Salvador surged during fiscal year 1996 before the filing deadline. These claims are heard under the pre-reform regulations as well as other stipulations of the settlement agreement. Applications filed after the ABC filing deadline were processed as reform filings, except those ABC cases that were closed by the EOIR or federal courts and were not previously filed with the INS. Under the settlement, once the INS identifies the latter cases, they are treated as ABC filings instead of reform filings. During fiscal year 2002, 476 cases were identified as either filed or reopened as ABC cases, compared with 573 in 2001.

On November 19, 1997 the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act (NACARA) was signed into law. Section 203 of the NACARA permits certain Guatemalans, Salvadorans, and nationals of former Soviet bloc countries to apply for suspension of deportation or special rule cancellation of removal under the more generous standards in effect before the 1996 immigration law. Individuals granted relief under NACARA 203 are permitted to remain in the United States as lawful permanent resident aliens. All persons eligible for ABC benefits with asylum applications pending with the INS, also are eligible to apply for the NACARA benefits with the INS Asylum Program. Certain qualifying family members may also apply for NACARA benefits. In fiscal year 2002 there were 17,601 applications filed under NACARA 203 provisions compared to 30,107 in 2001. There were 21,325 cases granted and 66,871 pending applications at the end of the fiscal year compared to about 18,012 and 72,121, respectively, in 2001.

Cases completed (Tables 18, 20, 21)

During fiscal year 2002, the Asylum Officer Corps completed work on 83,034 claims and adjudicated about 63 percent (52,607) of them (Table 18). The remaining 37 percent were administratively closed or referred to an immigration judge with or without an interview prior to the expiration of the filing deadline. The number of cases approved in 2002 was 18,998, representing 36 percent of the cases adjudicated. The corresponding approval rate was 43 percent in 2001. The cases approved represented 25,919 individuals—principals, spouses, and children (Tables 20 and 21). The number of individuals accounted for by the cases approved were in rank order by nationality: the People's Republic of China (5,713 individuals granted), Columbia (4,958), India (1,081), and Ethiopia (1,044) (Table 20).

There are special procedures for adjudicating cases based on coercive population control. Section 601 of the IIRIRA stipulates that a person qualifies as a refugee or asylee persecuted for political opinion if forced to undergo, has a well founded fear of being compelled to undergo, or resists a coercive population—control procedure. It sets a combined annual ceiling of 1,000 persons who may be granted refugee or asylee status under this provision. Both the INS and the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) grant conditional asylee status to qualified applicants each year under this provision—status that is not subject to the 1,000 annual ceiling (as of the end of fiscal year 2002, there were 2,392 conditional grants issued by the INS and EOIR combined). At the beginning of a new fiscal year, the INS Asylum Division issues 1,000 final grants—counted toward the annual ceiling of the previous year—to those who have received a conditional asylee status from either agency in previous fiscal years. The selection criterion for final grants is the date of the conditional grants. Those who received their conditional grants earlier would receive their final grants first. By the beginning of fiscal year 2003, the INS completed the issuance of the 1,000 fiscal year 2002 final grants for asylum status. The People's Republic of China was the country of origin of all grants.

Cases pending

The number of asylum cases pending adjudication decreased about 6 percent between the beginning (326,000) and the end (307,000) of fiscal year 2002. Of total pending cases, approximately 263,000 will potentially qualify the asylum applicants for lawful permanent resident status under NACARA or the Haitian Refugee Immigration Fairness Act (HRIFA) of 1998. Cases filed by nationals of El Salvador (49 percent of total pending) and Guatemala (30) accounted for about 79 percent of the pending cases as of the end of September 2002. The ABC cases, which can be handled under the NACARA provisions, comprised 98 percent of the Salvadoran and 95 percent of Guatemalan cases filed, and 76 percent of all pending cases as of the end of September 2002. As many as 9,600 Nicaraguan and 1,700 Cuban nationals with pending cases also will be eligible for NACARA benefits. Not more than 13,000 Haitian nationals with pending cases are eligible for benefits under HRIFA.

Credible fear interviews

During fiscal year 2002, 9,763 aliens appeared at ports of entry without proper documents and requested asylum. Most of these aliens were subsequently referred to asylum officers for credible fear interviews. Nationals of the People's Republic of China submitted the most applications (2,326), followed by Cuba (2,195), Colombia (1,230), and Haiti (759). These four countries accounted for about 67 percent of all applications in 2002. Some applicants change their mind and decide to withdraw their request for a credible fear interview before an interview takes place. The Asylum Officer Corps made 9,084 credible fear determinations in 2002, and found sufficient evidence of credible fear in 99 percent of the cases. These cases were referred to immigration judges for adjudication.

The cohort of aliens who requested asylum based on credible fear in fiscal year 2002 had the following outcomes as of January 2003: asylum for 2 percent; ordered removed for 18 percent; closed by EOIR for 2 percent; pending at EOIR for 72 percent; and pending or closed at the INS for 6 percent. Of those ordered removed, 56 percent had actually been removed.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

Prior to April 1, 1991, data on asylum applicants reflect cases filed with INS district directors and, subsequently, cases filed with INS asylum officers on Form I-589 (Request for Asylum in the United States). A centralized, automated data system (Refugee, Asylum, and Parole System—RAPS) supports the processing of the existing caseload and new asylum applications. The system supports case tracking, schedules and controls interviews, and generates management and statistical reports. The system reports asylum casework by nationality and other characteristics of asylum applicants. Data can be reported by case or by the number of persons covered, since a case may include more than one person. Data on asylum applicants have been collected by the INS for selected nationalities since July 1980, and for all nationalities since June 1983.

As with refugees, the Immigration and Naturalization Service collects data on asylees adjusting to lawful permanent resident status in the Computer Linked Application Information Management Systems (CLAIMS)

(see Immigrants section). Adjustment to immigrant status was the only point at which detailed characteristics of asylees were collected prior to 1992. The RAPS system provides data on selected characteristics of asylum seekers and asylees at an earlier time.

The number of asylum applications filed is defined here as the sum of new applications received and applications reopened during the year. Tables 20 and 21 show the number of applications that were reopened during the year. Most of these are cases that had been closed earlier without a decision. The tabulations also show the number of cases referred to immigration judges, with and without an interview. A referral due to failure to keep an appointment for an interview without good cause is considered comparable, for statistical purposes, to a closed case. The approval rate is calculated as the number of cases granted/approved divided by the number of cases adjudicated, which is defined as the cases granted/approved, denied, and referred to EOIR following an interview (including referrals under the filing deadline).

The data on credible fear claims are collected in the Asylum Pre-screening System (APSS). These data are not stored in RAPS and are not reflected in the detailed tables for this section.

Limitations of Data

The statistics shown here for fiscal year 2002 differ slightly from preliminary statistics released by the INS Asylum Division in October 2002. The data presented in this section were tabulated from the RAPS system three months after the close of fiscal year 2002 and incorporate late additions and corrections to the database. Since asylum claimants can reopen a case, some of the decisions categorized in the detailed tables in this edition of the Yearbook are possibly a change from a completion category in some previous fiscal year. In addition, technical limitations of the data file used to produce these tables preclude a precise count of the number of pending applications at either the beginning of a fiscal year or the end of the year. That is because reopened cases in the data file do not indicate the date the cases were previously considered complete.

Data on applicants for asylum collected by the Immigration and Naturalization Service historically have covered only cases filed with the INS. Data have been incomplete on cases filed by aliens after the INS has placed the alien in removal proceedings before an immigration judge in the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR). The two agencies are working to integrate their data systems to provide these data in the future. Asylum was granted by EOIR to 8,638 individuals in fiscal year 2002; therefore, the total number of individuals granted asylum by both agencies was about 34,600 compared to 38,500 in 2001.

Principal applicants whose asylum applications are successful can apply for their spouses and minor children, whether they are in the United States or abroad, and these relatives also receive status as asylees. The RAPS system collects information on the spouses and children of asylum applicants only if they are included on the principal's application. Information regarding relatives whose principals petition for them after receiving asylum is collected by CLAIMS and is not included in any table in this publication. The data collected by the INS at the time asylees adjust to permanent resident status include all aliens who adjust regardless of whether they were granted asylum by the INS, immigration judges, or the Board of Immigration Appeals. Adjustment data also include all spouses and children of persons granted asylum.

In Table 20 several countries show individuals granted asylum without any corresponding cases granted asylum. This situation can occur whenever a dependent in an asylum case was born in a different country than the principal. The dependent is eligible for derivative asylum status in this case. It is also possible that an asylum officer incorrectly categorized the nationality of a dependent, given the complex rules governing citizenship in many countries.

² Data for Vietnam are incomplete. Data represent Vietnamese processed by the Resettlement Opportunity for Vietnamese Returnees Program only. Data are unavailable for refugees processed under other Vietnam in-country programs that deal with former reeducation camp detainees and adult children of formerly admitted refugees.

NOTE: The geographic areas used in this table are unique in the Yearbook and are based on the classification used by the Department of State in its reports on refugees. The corresponding country composition of the geographic areas used is also based on the same Department of State classification. The objective of using the Department of State classification was to make approval data comparable on a regional basis with authorized admission and arrival data.

NOTE: Prior to 1996, refugee arrival data were derived from the Nonimmigrant Information System of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Beginning in fiscal year 1996, arrival data for all years are from the Bureau of Population, Refugees, and Migration, Department of State. Any comparison of refugee arrival data prior to 1996 must be made with caution. Arrivals may be higher than approvals because of the arrival of persons approved in previous years.

⁵ The three-month period—July 1 through September 30, 1976—between fiscal year 1976 and fiscal year 1977. At that time, the fiscal year definition was changed from July 1-June 30 to October 1-September 30.

⁶ Data for 1997-2001 have been updated.

NOTE: The Refugee Act of 1980 went into effect April 1, 1980. Data for fiscal years 1982 and 1983 have been estimated due to changes in the reporting procedures during those two periods. Since April 1, 1991, authority to decide most asylum claims has resided with the INS Asylum Officer Corps. See Glossary for fiscal year definitions.

6. TEMPORARY ADMISSIONS

This section presents information on the number and characteristics of persons who come to the United States on a temporary basis (nonimmigrants), with subsections on parolees—persons allowed temporary entrance under special circumstances, and H-1B workers—persons allowed temporary entrance to perform services in “specialty occupations.”

Nonimmigrants

A nonimmigrant is an alien admitted to the United States for a specified purpose and temporary period but not for permanent residence. (See Glossary)

Although the typical nonimmigrant is a tourist who visits the United States for a few days to several months, there are numerous classes of nonimmigrant admission, ranging from students to ambassadors. More than 27.9 million nonimmigrant admissions were counted in the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Nonimmigrant Information System during fiscal year 2002. This represents a decrease of more than 4.9 million since 2001, or 15.0 percent. This is the second consecutive annual decrease, and the largest percent decrease since 1982-83.

Collection of an INS Form I-94 is the basis of nonimmigrant admission counts. Such counts are for all temporary visitors arriving by air except most Canadian and Mexican citizens who arrive as visitors for business or pleasure (B1 and B2 classes). These travellers may be required to submit an I-94 at the discretion of the immigration inspector. Most citizens of Canada and Mexico who cross land borders for brief periods of time are not required to submit an I-94 (use of the I-94 has been increased in recent years for Mexican admissions; see Table 24). Therefore, millions of Canadian and Mexican visitors are not represented in the admission counts presented in this section (see Data Collection section). It is estimated that there were more than 192 million nonimmigrant admissions during fiscal year 2002. The vast majority are Canadian and Mexican commuters crossing the border for business or pleasure, typically to shop or to visit family and friends.

Since nonimmigrant admissions data are collected for each arrival and an individual might enter more than once in a fiscal year (e.g., students), the count of admissions exceeds the number of individuals arriving (see Data Collection section).

The September 11 terrorist attacks

Due mainly to the continuing global economic downturn, nonimmigrant arrivals during fiscal year 2001 were approximately the same as for 2000 until the September 11 terrorist attacks. The impact of the attacks on foreign travel to the United States was immediate and substantial. This was reflected in the severe reduction of arrivals during September, resulting in a small decrease between 2000 and 2001 (-2.6 percent). The full impact of the attacks can be seen on arrivals for fiscal year 2002—during the first several months admissions were measurably below levels for the previous year, recovering slowly as time passed, but never equaling the total for the previous year.

U.S. Nonimmigrant Program

Nonimmigrants were first defined in the Immigration Act of 1819, but the Act of 1855 was the first to require the reporting of “temporary arrivals” separately. The Act of 1924 defined several classes of admission that have been expanded in subsequent legislation. Though “tourists” (temporary visitors for pleasure) have consistently been by far the most numerous nonimmigrant class of admission to the United States, a wide variety of temporary visitors now fall within the nonimmigrant classification. Second in volume to tourists are business people coming to the United States to engage in commercial transactions (though not for employment in this country). (See Table 26.)

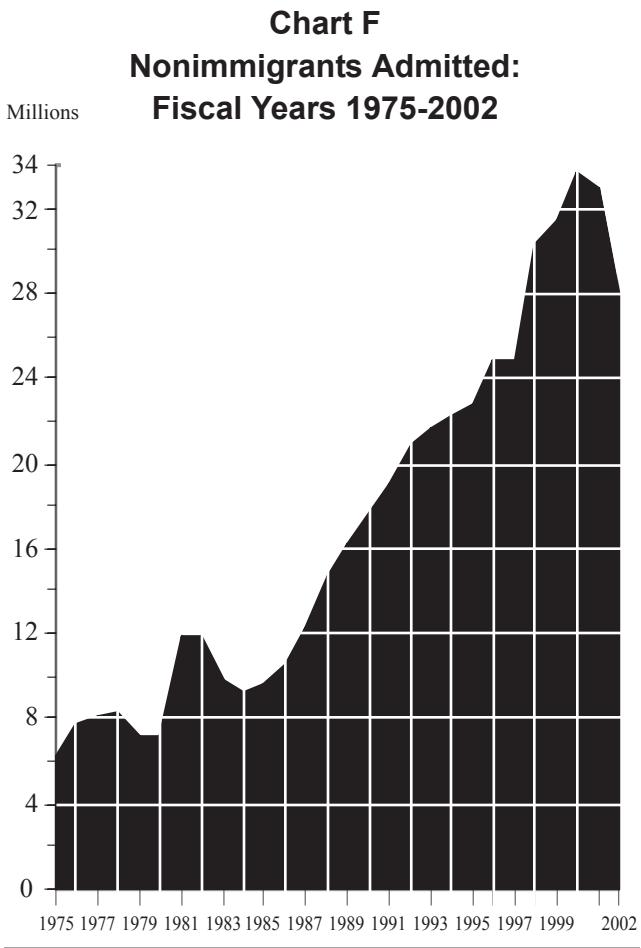

Nonimmigrant categories (Tables 24-27, 30, 32)

Other categories of admission make up a much smaller share of the nonimmigrant total, such as foreign students and temporary workers. Temporary workers are admitted to the United States with “specialty occupations” (such as computer systems analysts and programmers) or to perform temporary services or labor when persons capable of performing such services or labor cannot be found in this country (such as agricultural laborers). Others who are granted authorization to work temporarily in the United States include: exchange visitors who enter to study, teach, or conduct research; intracompany transferees, to render managerial or executive services in the United States to international firms or corporations; entertainers and athletes; and industrial trainees. Though not strictly considered as employed in the United States, treaty traders and treaty investors enter temporarily to conduct trade or to invest substantially in enterprises under the provisions of treaties of commerce and navigation between the United States and foreign states.

Nonimmigrants also include several types of temporary visitors who are connected in some way with a foreign government or who represent an international organization. Ambassadors, public ministers, diplomats, and consular officers serve temporarily in this country, bringing with them members of their immediate families as well as personal employees, attendants, and servants. Officers and employees of international organizations such as the United Nations add to the list of nonimmigrant visitors entering the United States each year.

Recently designated classes of nonimmigrant admission were established in prior years that resulted in entries starting in 2001 and reflect a complete year of admissions in 2002 (Table 26). The Nursing Relief for Disadvantaged Areas Act of 1999 (see Glossary) established nonimmigrant entry for a limited number of nurses to fill short-term needs in medically underserved areas in the United States. The Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act of 2000 and its amendments (see Glossary) authorized nonimmigrant admission to allow the spouse or child of a U.S. citizen to complete processing for permanent resident status while in the United States. Similar nonimmigrant admission was granted to a spouse or child (or dependent of a spouse or child) of a legal permanent resident who has had a petition for an immigrant visa pending for more than 3 years. The Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 (see Glossary) authorized nonimmigrant admission to an individual (and spouse, child, or parent) who is or has been the victim of a severe form of trafficking. Also, this enactment authorized admission to an individual (and spouse, child, or parent) who has suffered substantial physical or mental abuse as a victim of a criminal activity.

NOTE: Data estimated for last quarter of 1979 and no data available for 1980 and 1997. See Glossary for fiscal year definitions.

The Glossary contains a detailed definition of nonimmigrants, a listing of each of the nonimmigrant classes of admission, and a detailed definition of each class.

Admission policy

The U.S. government has an “open door” policy for most nonimmigrant classes of admission. There is no set limit on the total number of admissions each year; indeed, tourists (the majority of nonimmigrants) are encouraged to visit as a boon to the U.S. economy. There are exceptions for the number of petitions approved for initial employment for certain categories of temporary workers as well as numerical limitations on a few other categories. Annual ceilings have been set by U.S. law on the number of petitions approved each year for admission categories H-1B (specialty occupations—see the H-1B Temporary Workers section) and H-2B (occupations in which persons providing services or labor cannot be found in this country). Aliens suffering physical or mental abuse as a result of being a victim of criminal activity are limited to 10,000 persons per year who may be issued visas or otherwise provided nonimmigrant status; victims of severe forms of trafficking (and dependent family members), 5,000 per year; Mexican workers (and spouses and children) qualifying under the North American Free-Trade Agreement, 5,500 per year (limit will be removed in 2004); participants in the Irish Peace Process Program, 4,000 admissions per year; registered nurses in the Nursing Relief for Disadvantaged Areas Program, 500 visas issued per year; and visitors (and immediate family members) under a special program to provide certain critical information to federal or state courts, 250 per year.

Regulations govern additional areas such as the grounds for nonimmigrant admission, length and extension of stay, employment in the United States, accompaniment by family members, travel restrictions within the United States, and change of admission status. For example, ambassadors are allowed to remain in the United States for the duration of their service, students to complete their studies, visitors for business for a maximum of 6 months (plus 6-month extensions), and aliens in transit through the United States for not more than 29 days (with no extensions).

In response to the terrorist attacks in September 2001 the INS initiated the policy of inspecting transit aliens who previously had not been inspected, but rather had waited in secure U.S. airport “transit lounges” for their connecting flights through the United States from one foreign country to another. This policy has greatly increased the count of aliens in transit without visas because this admission classification is most often used for inspection of transit lounge aliens. While this policy change had a minimal effect on the count of aliens in transit without visas during fiscal year 2001, the impact on the count for 2002 was substantial—an increase of 66 percent over 2001 (Table 26).

Employment, family members

(Tables 25-27, 30, 32)

Most types of nonimmigrants are not allowed employment while in the United States, though exceptions may be granted, for example, to students and to family members of international representatives. On the other hand, temporary workers come to the United States expressly for purposes of employment. Most nonimmigrant aliens may bring immediate family members with them; the exception is transit aliens other than foreign government officials. Some nonimmigrant aliens are prohibited from changing to another nonimmigrant category while in this country: transit aliens (except certain diplomats); crewmen; Visa Waiver Program visitors; fiance(e)s coming to the United States to marry U.S. citizens; visitors under a special program to provide certain critical information to federal or state courts; and certain exchange visitors, non-agricultural workers, industrial trainees, vocational students, NATO personnel, and Irish Peace Process aliens.

Visa Waiver Program (Tables 26, F)

The Visa Waiver Program was established by the Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) of 1986 and made permanent by the Visa Waiver Permanent Program Act of 2000. This program permits entry to the United States on a temporary basis without nonimmigrant visas for certain nonimmigrants from qualified countries. The program (see Glossary) extends only to approved countries that offer a reciprocal waiver of visas to U.S. citizens and adhere to other statutory and regulatory requirements. These include development of machine-readable passports and the condition that designation in the program will not compromise U.S. law enforcement or national security. Entry is limited to the visitor for pleasure and for business classes, with admission not to exceed 90 days. At the beginning of fiscal year 2002, 29 countries were members of the Visa Waiver Program. Argentina was removed in February 2002. Entries for current participant countries during fiscal year 2001 and 2002 are shown in Table F. Data for business and pleasure are not available separately for 2001 due to the expiration of the Visa Waiver Pilot Program before it was made permanent. From May 1 through October 30, 2000 all visa waiver entries were inspected using parole provisions and were not differentiated as to visitors for business or pleasure.

Guam Visa Waiver Program

Under the Visa Waiver Program, certain visitors from designated countries may visit Guam for up to 15 days without first having to obtain nonimmigrant visitor visas. The table below shows the countries participating in this program and entries for fiscal year 2002.

agreement, enacted in December 1993, known as the North American Free-Trade Agreement (NAFTA) (see Glossary). This law superseded the United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement, and established a special, reciprocal trading relationship among the United States, Canada, and Mexico. This agreement extended to the citizens of Mexico (with certain stipulations) and Canada the nonimmigrant class of admission exclusively for business people entering the United States to engage in activities at a "professional" level. Additionally, the agreement facilitates entry for Mexican as well as Canadian citizens seeking temporary entry as visitors for business, treaty traders and treaty investors, and intracompany transferees. Entries under NAFTA began in February 1994. Data for fiscal year 2002 are shown for NAFTA in Table 26.

million I-94 documented nonimmigrant admissions represents a decrease of more than 4.9 million (15.0 percent) from fiscal year 2001. Total nonimmigrant admissions numbered about 6.3 million during 1975 and steadily increased to about 11.8 million in both 1981 and 1982. The number stabilized at about 9.5 million from 1983 to 1985 (recording a low in 1984), then began a steady increase that continued from 1985 to 2000. The decrease from 2000 to 2001 was the first since 1983-84, with the decrease from 2001 to 2002 continuing that trend (Chart F).

More than 27.9 million I-94 documented nonimmigrants were admitted to the United States in 2002.

Class of admission (Tables 24-27, 30, 32)

Of the 27.9 million nonimmigrant admissions in fiscal year 2002, a large majority (87.2 percent) entered as visitors for pleasure (tourists) or visitors for business. There were more than 646,000 foreign student admissions recorded, entering to pursue a full course of study (predominantly in academic institutions) in addition to more than 41,000 associated spouse and children admissions (Chart G and Table 25). Nearly 326,000 persons entered as exchange visitors to study, teach, or conduct research in the United States, bringing with them nearly 45,000 spouses and children (Chart H and Table 27).

Nearly 253,000 representatives of foreign governments (less than 1 percent of total entries) entered the United States as nonimmigrants in 2002. This figure consists of: nearly 141,000 foreign government officials (including ambassadors, public ministers, career diplomats, and consular officers), family members, and attendants; more than 99,000 foreign representatives to international organizations (including families and attendants); and nearly 13,000 officials serving the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) (including family members).

Country of citizenship (Tables 25, 27-29, 31)

Nearly half of all nonimmigrants arriving in fiscal year 2002 were citizens of one of four countries: the United Kingdom (15.4 percent), Mexico (15.0), Japan (13.1), and Germany (5.0). Both the United Kingdom and Mexico surpassed Japan in total admissions for the first time in 2002.¹ Though all four countries sent fewer arrivals during 2002 than in 2001 Japan showed the largest percent decrease, at -28.0 percent (more than 1.4 million fewer). Other countries with a significant number of arrivals that showed a decrease of 20 percent or more between 2001 and 2002 were Argentina (-53.0 percent), Sweden (-26.0), Switzerland and Brazil (-21.1), and Italy (-20.1). Countries with a significant number of arrivals that showed an increase include Honduras (12.4 percent), New Zealand and Poland (9.0), and Ecuador (6.3). New Zealand was the only country that exhibited an increase in Visa Waiver Program admissions (11.2 percent).

Port of entry (Table 28)

Just as four countries dominated nonimmigrant admissions to the United States in 2002, so did four ports of entry. Miami (13.5 percent), New York and Los Angeles (10.8), and Honolulu (5.3) together accounted for 40 percent of all entrants. The share of these four ports decreased slightly in 2002, due almost entirely to a significant reduction for New York (12.2 percent in 2001).

While total admissions declined significantly from fiscal year 2001 to 2002, several ports with substantial numbers of admissions showed increases, including Philadelphia (18.6 percent), El Paso (14.1), Nogales (7.4), and Houston (4.5). New York and Newark, NJ each were down about 25 percent.

State of destination (Tables 30, 31)

Five states were most often the destination of temporary visitors to the United States: Florida (16.1 percent of total admissions, 27 percent from the United Kingdom); California (12.9 percent of the total, 17 percent from Mexico and 13 percent from the United Kingdom); New York (10.2 percent of the total, 19 percent from the United Kingdom); Texas (6.7 percent of the total, 59 percent from Mexico); and Hawaii (5.3 percent of the total, 83 percent from Japan).

For females the predominant age group is 25-29 years (12.9 percent of females); for males 30-34 (13.4 percent of males). Males account for 53.3 percent of total nonimmigrant admissions; more than 85 percent of intracompany transferees; nearly 76 percent of visitors for business; 75 percent of temporary workers and trainees; more than 73 percent of foreign government officials; and more than 70 percent of foreign information media. Females show a slight edge in arrivals as visitors for pleasure (51 percent) and for a category with fewer arrivals—the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act (60 percent).

Parolees

A parolee is an alien, appearing to be inadmissible to the inspecting officer, allowed to enter the United States under urgent humanitarian reasons or when that alien's entry is determined to be for significant public benefit.

(See Glossary)

Authority to grant parole

The Attorney General has the authority to allow the temporary admission of an alien on a case-by-case basis who may appear inadmissible but who enters the United States for urgent humanitarian reasons or when that alien's entry is determined to be for significant public benefit. Parole does not constitute formal admission to the United States. It confers only temporary status, and parolees are required to leave when the conditions supporting their admission are ended.

U.S. Parole Program

Parolees are treated as nonimmigrants at port processing, but their numbers are not reported in the nonimmigrant admission data (Tables 24-32). They are classified into six categories: deferred inspections; port-of-entry paroles; advance paroles; humanitarian; public interest; and overseas paroles. To simplify presentation, some of these categories are combined in Table G. In fiscal year 2002 the total number of parole entries was slightly less than 245,000, continuing a decline from the record high of nearly 300,000 reached in fiscal year 2000.

Categories of parole

Deferred inspection is used when an alien does not appear to be clearly admissible based on the evidence at hand. The parole is issued and an appointment is made for the alien to appear at another INS office, where more information is available and the inspection can be completed. These cases are usually resolved within two weeks, and, if admissible, the alien is admitted in the appropriate category. Parole may also be granted by advance application to an INS District Office. Advance parole is issued to an alien residing legally in the United States in other than lawful permanent resident status who has an unexpected need to travel abroad and return, and whose conditions of stay do not otherwise allow for readmission after temporary departure. Most commonly, parole is extended at ports of entry. These parole admissions comprised 70 percent of all paroles in fiscal year 2002. These cases are most common at the land border ports and often involve the reentry of lawful permanent residents who are not carrying their documents. Again, these cases are typically resolved rapidly when the documents are produced.

Nearly 245,000 parolees were admitted to the United States during 2002.

The more exceptional instances of parole arise in emergencies or special situations. People may be admitted under humanitarian parole to receive medical treatment or because they are injured or acutely ill. They may be brought to the United States under public interest parole to take part in legal proceedings as witnesses or defendants, or as part of a special overseas program undertaken in an agreement with another government. The latter category is the only one that may result in a long-term admission to the United States.

Country of citizenship

Table G displays the total number of parolees admitted from fiscal year 1998 through fiscal year 2002 by major categories of parole. Within the deferred inspections, advance parole, and port-of-entry categories, the 5 countries accounting for the largest number of parole admissions in fiscal year 2002 are shown. Total parole admissions declined by 10.6 percent in fiscal year 2002 compared to fiscal year 2001, and by 18.3 percent compared to the all-time high reached in fiscal year 2000. As in previous years our neighboring countries, Canada and Mexico, account for the largest number of paroles in the deferred inspections, port-of-entry, and advance parole categories.

Deferred inspections decreased by nearly half in 2002 compared to 2001, while advance paroles increased to more than 28,000, more than four times the level observed in 2000 and earlier years. The growth in the use of advance parole is thought to be caused in part by the backlog of applications for adjustment to lawful permanent resident status in 2001 and 2002. In addition, tightened security measures taken following September 11, 2001 may have been partly responsible for the drop in the use of deferred inspection and the increase in advance paroles by aliens wanting to ensure their readmission after departure. The major decline in the use of parole came in the port-of-entry category (a 29.2 percent decline since 2000) and was observed among most countries, including Mexico and others with many parole admissions.

Table H presents more detail for the same years regarding admissions in the overseas and humanitarian parole categories, in which admissions fell, and the public interest parole category, which increased slightly. Cubans accounted for two-thirds of the public interest parole admissions and were also the largest single nationality in the overseas parole category. Most Cubans continued to be admitted under the 1994 migration agreement with Cuba. Many of the overseas paroles were extended to persons from Ukraine, Russia, and other former Soviet republics; if the former Soviet Union were counted as one country, it would have been the largest in the overseas parole category, with 803 admissions in fiscal year 2002. Most of the parolees from Vietnam, Cambodia, and the former Soviet Union arrived under special legislation after being denied refugee status.² These persons are allowed to adjust to immigrant status after one year of residence in the United States.

More than 46 percent of the humanitarian parole admissions granted in fiscal year 2002 for medical and related reasons were from Canada and Mexico, and humanitarian parole was also used to admit significant numbers from Honduras and El Salvador. The rest came in small numbers from many other countries. A number of the annual admissions under public interest parole for legal and related reasons are also from Canada and Mexico, but the major increase in this category in 2002 was among Cubans. If counted as one country, the former Soviet Union had 1,073 public interest parole admissions.

² The Foreign Operations Act of November 21, 1989. This provision is commonly known as the Lautenberg Amendment.

Notes on the parole data

Several changes were made in the presentation of the parole data in fiscal year 2000 and continued in subsequent years. The corresponding changes were made retroactively in the data for fiscal years 1998 and 1999 in Tables G and H. First, the data for the independent republics of the former Soviet Union are no longer combined. This affects the ranking of the countries in the tables, since the former Soviet Union as a whole accounted for a significant share of the paroles in some categories. Second, the practice of combining the humanitarian and public interest parolees from countries with special programs into the overseas parole category is no longer being followed, and the data are presented without this editing step. Most Cubans admitted under the 1994 migration agreement are now being classified under public interest parole, but Cubans appear in significant numbers in other parole categories as well. Parolees from Vietnam and the republics of the former Soviet Union may be classified under overseas or public interest parole. Third, from May 1 through the end of October 2000, the public interest parole authority was used to admit more than 9 million temporary visitors after the Visa Waiver Pilot Program expired without being reauthorized. Although procedures were adopted to distinguish these paroles from ordinary public interest paroles in the data, analysis indicates that the distinction was not made correctly in every case. For this reason, interpretation of the public interest parole data for fiscal year 2000, and to a lesser extent fiscal year 2001, should be made with caution.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

The Nonimmigrant Information System (NIIS) is designed to provide for each nonimmigrant entry a record of legal admission and departure. The system also produces statistics for such variables as age, gender, country of citizenship, class of admission, visa-issuing post, port of entry, and destination in the United States.

As mentioned, many nonimmigrants enter and leave the United States more than once each year, and the NIIS system records each entry (and departure) separately. The data system records each arrival/departure event via collection of a separate INS Form I-94; thus, admission data represent each arrival event during the year rather than the actual number of individuals admitted. Nonimmigrants in several classes of admission often enter (and leave) many times in any given year, especially students, intracompany transferees, and visitors for business.

A description of the principal steps in the process of nonimmigrant admission to the United States is useful for understanding the data produced by the NIIS system. A nonimmigrant visa is secured at a U.S. Consulate abroad (except for those entering under the Visa Waiver Program—see Visa Waiver Program section). These visas may be valid for multiple visits to the United States. Prior to departing for the United States, nonimmigrants are screened initially by the transportation company to ensure that their documents are in order. During the trip, INS Form I-94 is distributed to non-U.S. citizens.

At the port of entry, each arriving nonimmigrant presents a visa (or proof of visa waiver status), which usually is stamped in the passport, and a completed INS Form I-94 to an immigration inspector. Among other actions, the inspector checks the form for completeness, determines the length of admission, and stamps the class of admission and port of entry on the form. The arrival portion is torn off and sent to a central data processing facility. The matching departure section of the form, usually stapled into the passport, is the nonimmigrant's proof of legal admission to the United States. This section of the I-94, collected at departure, also is sent to the data processing facility where it is processed and matched electronically to the arrival section of the form.

Other temporary visitors

The Nonimmigrant Information System also includes information on parolees (see Parolees section), withdrawals, stowaways, refugees, and crewmen. Data for crewmen have historically been a very limited subset of arrivals. Improvements in collection and processing of forms during fiscal year 2002 have produced more complete counts for all types of crewmen (air and sea, cargo and pleasure conveyances). However, procedures for inspecting and documenting crewmen admissions render such counts incomplete. Data are not shown in the nonimmigrant tables for any of these classes of admission but are included in footnotes to the appropriate tables.

Temporary visitor information not collected

The Nonimmigrant Information System does not include data for permanent resident aliens returning to the United States after short visits abroad or for most of the millions of citizens of Canada and Mexico who cross U.S. land borders for brief periods of time. Most Canadian and Mexican citizens and certain other aliens, including those residing in some Caribbean islands, do not require documentation in the NIIS system.³ Canadians may travel for business or pleasure without travel restrictions for a period of six months without obtaining nonimmigrant visas. Mexicans crossing the border frequently may apply for border crossing cards, which can be used for admission to the United States for business or pleasure within 25 miles of the Southwestern border for a period not to exceed 72 hours. Many Mexican visitors obtain Form I-94s that allow multiple visits and are valid for 6 months (mostly those whose travel in the United States will exceed 25 miles or whose stay will exceed 72 hours). Inspection policy for Mexican temporary visitors has changed over the past several years leading to the collection of the I-94 for a greater proportion of visitors from that country. However, visitation without benefit of this form remains vastly larger.

Limitations of Data

Counts for unknown class of admission increased sharply in fiscal year 2002 (Tables 24-26, 30, and 32) due to a processing change in the data base. Certain class of admission codes previously assigned to the visitors for pleasure category were designated as unknown class for fiscal year 2002.

The tables on parole admissions in fiscal year 1998 reflect a later edition of the data than was available for production of the report entitled, Use of the Attorney General's Parole Authority Under the Immigration and Nationality Act: Fiscal Years 1997-1998.

Missing information

There are gaps in the historical nonimmigrant data series due to the unavailability of arrival and departure records for July to September 1979, all of 1980, and for most characteristics for 1981 and 1982. Country of last residence and class of admission are the only variables available for 1981 and 1982. No reliable data are available for 1997.

H-1B Temporary Workers

An H-1B temporary worker is an alien admitted to the United States to perform services in "specialty occupations," based on professional education, skills, and/or equivalent experience. (See Glossary)

³ Exempt from the use of INS Form I-94 are: certain British, French, and Netherlands nationals residing in certain Caribbean islands and arriving from the Western Hemisphere; citizens of Bermuda; and citizens of the Republic of the Marshall Islands and Federated States of Micronesia.

H-1B Program

The Immigration and Naturalization Service is responsible for the processing and approval of H-1B petitions submitted by domestic employers and their representatives on behalf of nonimmigrant workers seeking temporary employment within the United States. The H-1B nonimmigrant classification permits foreign professionals to enter the United States on a temporary basis to work in their field of expertise.

Under the H-1B program, specialty workers are permitted to be employed for as long as three years initially with extensions not exceeding three years. The maximum stay is six years. In order to perform services in a specialty occupation, an employee must meet one of the following criteria: 1) hold a U.S. baccalaureate or higher degree as required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university; 2) possess a foreign degree determined to be equivalent to a U.S. baccalaureate or higher degree as required by the specialty occupation from an accredited college or university; 3) have any required license or other official permission to practice the occupation (for example, architect, surveyor, physical therapist) in the state in which employment is sought; or 4) have, as determined by the INS, the equivalent of the degree required by the specialty occupation acquired through a combination of education, training, and/or experience. Specialty occupations include computer systems analysts and programmers, physicians, professors, engineers, and accountants.

In order to sponsor a foreign worker under the H-1B program, an employer must first file an application with the Department of Labor specifying the job, the salary, and the length and site of employment. In addition, the employer must agree to pay the prevailing salary and provide proof that the pay is fair. Once the Department of Labor certifies the application, U.S. employers file the petition with the INS to sponsor an alien worker as an H-1B nonimmigrant. This petition may be filed to sponsor an alien for an initial period of H-1B employment or to extend the authorized stay of an alien as an H-1B nonimmigrant. Additionally, an employer may file the petition to sponsor an alien who currently has status as an H-1B nonimmigrant working for another employer or to seek an amendment of a previously approved petition. In the case of a petition to amend a previously approved petition, no corresponding request might be made to extend the authorized stay of the H-1B worker. For example, an employer may file an amended petition notifying the INS of a different location where the H-1B worker will be employed or a material change in the H-1B worker's job duties. Therefore, the total number of approved petitions exceeds the actual number of aliens who are provided nonimmigrant status as H-1B.

The Immigration and Naturalization Act, as amended by the Immigration Act of 1990 and the American Competitiveness and Workforce Improvement Act of 1998 (ACWIA), regulates H-1B policy as well as guides H-1B procedures. Under ACWIA, the annual ceiling of H-1B petitions valid for initial employment was increased from 65,000 to 115,000 in fiscal years 1999 and 2000 and 107,500 in 2001. The enactment of the American Competitiveness in the Twenty-first Century Act (AC21) in October 2000 raised the limit on petitions in fiscal year 2001 from 107,500 to 195,000 and in fiscal year 2002 from 65,000 to 195,000.

More than 215,000 H-1B petitions were filed and nearly 198,000 approved during 2002.

Data Overview

Petitions filed and approved (Table I)

The terms initial employment and continuing employment are used throughout this section on H-1B petitions to identify two types of petitions. Petitions for initial employment are filed for first-time H-1B employment with employers, only some of which are applied to the annual cap.⁴ Continuing employment petitions refer to extensions, sequential employment, and concurrent employment, which are filed for aliens already in the United States. Extensions are filed for H-1B workers intending to work beyond the initial 3-year period up to six years, the maximum period permissible under law during fiscal year 2001.⁵ Sequential employment refers to petitions for workers transferring between H-1B employers within the six-year period. Finally, petitions for concurrent employment are filed for H-1B workers intending to work simultaneously for a second or subsequent H-1B employer.

The number of H-1B petitions filed in fiscal year 2002 was approximately 215,000, of which 109,000 or 51 percent were for initial employment.⁶ The remaining 106,000 or 49 percent were for extensions of status, and sequential or concurrent employment. The corresponding numbers for fiscal year 2001 were 342,000 petitions filed, of which 202,000 (59 percent) were for initial and 140,000 (41 percent) were for continuing employment. The number of petitions filed decreased by 37 percent in 2002 over 2001.

⁴ H-1B petitions approved for initial employment with non-exempt employers, adjusted for multiple petitions for individuals and revocations, count against the annual cap.

⁵ Enactment of AC21 amended the 6-year limitation for certain aliens (Public Law 106.313, Sec. 104(c) and 106).

During the same period, the INS approved about 198,000 H-1B petitions submitted by employers on behalf of alien workers. In some cases, more than one U.S. employer submitted a petition on behalf of an individual H-1B worker (multiple petitions); therefore, the number of approved petitions exceeds the number of individual H-1B workers. The references in the tables and chart to beneficiaries (see definition 1 of H-1B Beneficiary in Glossary) represent petitions approved (rather than individual workers approved). In fiscal year 2001, approximately 331,000 petitions were approved.

Of the petitions approved in fiscal year 2002, about 104,000 petitions or 52 percent were for initial employment.⁷ Approximately 65 percent of the beneficiaries of initial employment were in the United States in another nonimmigrant status.⁸ The corresponding number of petitions for continuing employment was 94,000.⁹ In fiscal year 2001, 61 and 39 percent of the petitions approved were for initial and continuing beneficiaries, respectively.

The number of H-1B petitions approved presented in this section and the number of H-1B temporary workers admissions reported previously in the Nonimmigrants section are not comparable because they measure different populations. Petitions approved pertain to H-1B petitions authorizing temporary employment for specialty workers, whether they are in the United States or overseas, while admissions represent H-1B workers arriving from abroad. H-1B petitions can be approved for aliens changing nonimmigrant status without leaving the United States. Most significantly, H-1B workers can be admitted multiple times using a single petition, and admitted with a petition approved in a prior fiscal year.

Common characteristics of beneficiaries

The typical H-1B beneficiary whose petition was approved in fiscal year 2002 had the following characteristics: born in India; 30 years old; holding a bachelor's degree; working in a computer-related occupation; and receiving an annual compensation of $53,000. Twenty-four percent of all beneficiaries were born in India, had either a bachelor's or master's degree, and were employed in a computer-related occupation.¹⁰ The corresponding percentage in fiscal year 2001 was 41 percent. The beneficiaries continuing in H-1B status were one year older and earned $15,000 more annually than the typical initial beneficiaries.

⁸ In a report covering May 1998 to July 1999 an estimated 58 percent of aliens already in the United States in a nonimmigrant status were here as academic students. The report, Characteristics of Specialty Occupation Workers (H-1B)—May 1998 to July 1999, is available at the H-1B and statistical reports section of the Bureau of Citizenship and Immigration Services website (<http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/index.htm>).

⁹ Neither AC21 nor prior legislation establishes a cap on H-1B petitions for continuing employment.

Profile of beneficiaries by country of birth

(Table J)

The relative share of beneficiaries from India in the H-1B program declined sharply in fiscal year 2002 in relation to 2001 from one half to one third of the total. A distant second were beneficiaries from the People's Republic of China, accounting for almost 10 percent. In fiscal year 2001, approximately 49 percent and 8 percent of beneficiaries were from India and the People's Republic of China, respectively.

As indicated in Chart J and Table J, 85 and 71 percent of beneficiaries born in the People's Republic of China and Taiwan, respectively had at least a master's degree, the highest percent among countries listed. On the other hand, 15 and 29 percent of beneficiaries born in the Philippines and Colombia, respectively, had a master's degree or higher.

The youngest beneficiaries, with a median age of 29, were born in India while the oldest, with a median age of 34, were born in Canada and Korea. In fiscal year 2001, the median age of Indians was also 28 years. The median age of beneficiaries in all countries was 30 years, one year more than in fiscal years 2000 and 2001.

Median income ranged from $38,000 for beneficiaries born in Colombia, Japan, and the Philippines to $70,000 for beneficiaries born in Canada. The median income was $53,000 for beneficiaries from all countries, 3 percent lower than the overall median income in fiscal year 2001.

Ninety-seven percent of beneficiaries of all countries held a bachelor's degree or higher, and 47 percent at least a master's degree. The corresponding percents in fiscal year 2001 were 98 and 41. Seventy-three percent of beneficiaries born in India had a computer-related occupation. For beneficiaries of all countries, the percentage was 38, a decline from 58 percent in fiscal year 2001. Of the top 10 countries, only beneficiaries from India and Pakistan (39) exceeded the average percentage. Without India, the percentage of beneficiaries employed in computer-related occupations drops to 14 percent. In 2001, the corresponding percentage was 32.

Profile of beneficiaries by occupation

(Table K)

Sixty-three percent of H-1B beneficiaries in computer-related occupations were born in India, down from 71 percent in 2001. In no other occupation did a country have a majority of beneficiaries. Other characteristics of beneficiaries in computer-related occupations were a median age of 29 and a median income of $60,000. The corresponding numbers in 2001 were 28 and $58,000. Additionally, 48 percent held at least a master's degree and 28 percent were employed in computer systems design and related services.

Besides computer-related occupations, India-born beneficiaries held the lead in other numerically-significant occupations: architecture, engineering, and surveying (23 percent); administrative specializations (13 percent); medicine and health (20 percent); managers and officials not elsewhere classified (11 percent); social sciences (13 percent); and miscellaneous professional, technical, and managerial (14 percent).

Besides computer-related occupations and computer systems design and related services, close relationships existed between other occupations and industries. Two-thirds of educators were employed in colleges, universities, and professional schools, and 80 percent of beneficiaries in law and jurisprudence were employed in legal services (not shown).

Profile of beneficiaries by industry (Table L)

Of the top 10 industries, only colleges, universities, and professional schools, elementary and secondary schools, and general medical and surgical hospitals increased their employment of H-1B beneficiaries between 2001 and 2002, by 20, 20, and 22 percent, respectively. In sharp contrast, the number of petitions approved for work in computer systems design and related services dropped by 64 percent.

Twenty-eight percent of all beneficiaries were employed in computer systems design and related services, a big drop from 47 percent in fiscal year 2001. The percentage of initial beneficiaries among these workers declined from 60 percent in 2001 to 33 percent in 2002. Sixty-eight percent of these beneficiaries were born in India. These beneficiaries had a median age of 29, earning a median income of $60,000. Additionally, 36 percent held at least a master's degree and 90 percent were in computer-related occupations.

The least compensated beneficiaries, with a median income of $33,000, were employed in elementary and secondary schools, and the most compensated, with a median income of $75,000, were employed in securities, and commodity contracts intermediation and brokerage.

Ninety-three percent of H-1B employees in colleges, universities, and professional schools held at least a master's degree, the highest of any top 10 industry. The lowest percent was 31 in elementary and secondary schools.

Annual compensation by age and occupation of beneficiaries (Table M)

For all beneficiaries median annual compensation was $53,000, with a peak at $56,000 for workers in their thirties.

For any occupation and age group the highest compensated beneficiaries, at a median level of approximately $75,000, were managers and officials not elsewhere classified and over 39 years old. The lowest, compensated at about $30,000, were education workers under age 25.

Education by occupation of beneficiaries

(Table N)

Ninety-seven and 47 percent of all beneficiaries held at least a bachelor's or master's degree, respectively. Five percent had a professional degree and another 12 percent had a doctorate degree. The big shift from 2001 was the increase from 7 to 12 percent of beneficiaries with a doctorate degree and from 3 to 5 percent with a professional degree.

For beneficiaries in computer-related occupations, 62 percent had no more than a bachelor's degree and 98 percent no more than a master's degree.

Annual compensation by education and occupation of beneficiaries (Table O)

Beneficiaries with a bachelor's degree—the most numerous group—had a median income of $50,000, 6 percent lower than in fiscal year 2001. Their income was lower than all other education levels, except beneficiaries with a doctorate. The doctorate holders had a relatively low median income ($47,000) because so many (42 percent) were employed as low-paid educators.

Beneficiaries with at most a master's degree fared better. Their median income was $58,000, $2,000 less than in fiscal year 2001. Median compensation for H-1B workers with professional degrees and doctorates decreased in fiscal year 2002 over fiscal year 2001 by $7,000 to $58,000, and by $8,000 to $47,000, respectively.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

Petitions for obtaining H-1B nonimmigrant status for alien workers are submitted by their prospective employers on INS form I-129 Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker and the addendum I-129W H-1B Data Collection and Filing Fee Exemption. The petitions are mailed to one of four INS Service Centers for processing, depending on the location of the sponsoring employer: St. Albans, Vermont; Lincoln, Nebraska; Dallas Texas; and Laguna Niguel, California.

Upon receipt, each petition is stamped with its date of arrival at the Service Center. File assembly clerks create a paper file that contains the original petition as well as all supporting documentation. This file becomes the official file of record for all activities connected with the petition.

Biographical data such as name, date of birth, and country of birth are entered from the petition by data entry clerks into the Computer-Linked Application Information Management System (CLAIMS3) case-tracking system. The computer system generates a unique number for the file, known as a receipt number. The files are distributed to adjudicators after being sorted into potential cap and non-cap cases.

After being received, the files are reviewed by adjudicators who determine whether they have adequate information in the file on which to base a decision to approve or deny the petition. If sufficient evidence is available, a decision is made by the adjudicator and the corresponding information is entered into the tracking system. Otherwise, additional information is sought by the adjudicator from the sponsoring employer. A response from the employer must be made within a set period of time or the petition will be denied.

After petitions have been adjudicated, the associated paper files are forwarded for storage to the INS records center in Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Limitations of Data

Historical data on H-1B petitions filed and approved is incomplete before fiscal year 2000. The availability of comprehensive H-1B data does not begin until fiscal year 2000,¹¹ a direct response to the aforementioned ACWIA.

The tables in this report have been tabulated from an extract file created at headquarters from INS service center files. Errors in this extract file could have occurred in several ways. For example, petition data might have been inaccurate on petitions, miskeyed into computers at the service centers, or improperly transferred electronically between the service centers and headquarters. Very little editing has been done in this report. Impossible or very improbable values have been defined as unknown. Examples are beneficiaries younger than 16 (except for fashion models) or those beneficiaries working without compensation.

Industry data was collected using the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS). Unlike country of birth, age, education, and occupation, INS does not verify the NAICS code because the sponsor does not provide supporting documentation.

In fiscal year 2002 the percentage of petitions with unknown information was not more than 1.2 percent for every characteristic except industry. The percentage of petitions approved with missing data remained at 9.0 percent for industry in fiscal year 2002, the second year of its availability. For the other characteristics, the percentages of approved petitions with missing data remained low: age (.2 of 1 percent); country of birth (.2 of 1 percent); and education (.1 of 1 percent), major occupation (.7 of 1 percent), detailed occupation (.8 of 1 percent), and compensation (1.2 percent).

7. NATURALIZATIONS

This section presents information on the number and characteristics of persons who naturalize in the United States.

Naturalization refers to the conferring of U.S. citizenship, by any means, upon a person after birth. (See Glossary.) There are five ways of becoming a U.S. citizen: naturalization in a court ceremony; naturalization through an administrative hearing; derivation through the naturalization of parents; acquisition at birth abroad to citizen parents; and legislation conferring citizenship upon certain groups of persons (see Limitations of Data). As part of the naturalization process, applicants pledge an oath of allegiance to the United States, thereby renouncing allegiance to their former countries of nationality.

U.S. Naturalization Program

To naturalize, an immigrant must fulfill certain requirements set forth in the Immigration and Nationality Act concerning age, lawful admission, and residence in the United States. These general naturalization provisions specify that an alien must: be at least 18 years of age; have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence; and have resided in the country continuously for at least 5 years. Additional requirements include the ability to speak, read, and write the English language; knowledge of the U.S. government and U.S. history; and good moral character. In fiscal year 2002, immigrants naturalizing under the general provisions accounted for 92 percent of those for whom the nationality law provision was reported. (Provision of the law was not reported for 4 percent of naturalizations.)

The special provisions of naturalization law exempt aliens from one or more of the requirements of the general provisions. Spouses and children of U.S. citizens and military classes constitute the main categories of special naturalization. The majority of people naturalizing as spouses of U.S. citizens may do so in 3 years rather than the 5 years prescribed under the general provisions. Of all new citizens in 2002 with naturalization law provision reported, 8 percent naturalized under the special provisions. Under the Child Citizenship Act of 2000, foreign-born children under 18 years of age, including adopted children, acquire U.S. citizenship automatically if they meet certain requirements. Among the requirements, the children must be lawful permanent residents and have at least one U.S. citizen parent. Acquisition of citizenship means citizenship acquired by law without the need to apply for citizenship. Previously, adopted children were required to apply for citizenship while children who immigrated with their parents derived U.S. citizenship through the naturalization of their parents. Under certain conditions, aliens who served honorably during war time and other conflicts may naturalize without prior admission to permanent resident status. Also, they need not have resided in the United States for a particular length of time. Aliens with lawful permanent resident status who have served honorably in the Armed Forces of the United States also are entitled to certain exemptions from the general naturalization requirements.

Every applicant for naturalization (age 18 and over) must file an application, Form N-400, Application for Naturalization. All aliens filing these applications who meet the preliminary documentary requirements must be interviewed by INS officers to determine their eligibility to naturalize. During the interview the officer discerns the applicant's knowledge and understanding of the English language, as well as of the history and government of the United States. Recently, applicants have been allowed to take standardized tests that are used to determine knowledge and reading and writing capabilities. Those applicants found qualified are scheduled for an oath ceremony before a judge or district director.

Data Overview

The INS naturalized 573,708 persons in fiscal year 2002. This figure was six percent less than the number of naturalizations in 2001 (608,205) although the number of applications for naturalization received by the INS increased between the two years. Since fiscal year 1996, the trend in the number of persons naturalizing has not always tracked the trend in application receipts because of an application backlog and related workflow issues. At the end of 2002, there were 623,000 naturalization applications pending a decision. Because the impact of the backlog with respect to the annual number of naturalizations and demographic composition of new citizens cannot be determined with certainty, caution should be exercised in drawing conclusions from the data.

Nearly 574,000 people were naturalized during 2002.

Between 1908 and 1990, the number of persons naturalizing each year exceeded 300,000 only twice, in 1943 and 1944, during World War II (Chart K and Table 34). Since 1990, naturalizations have exceeded 300,000 in every year except 1992.

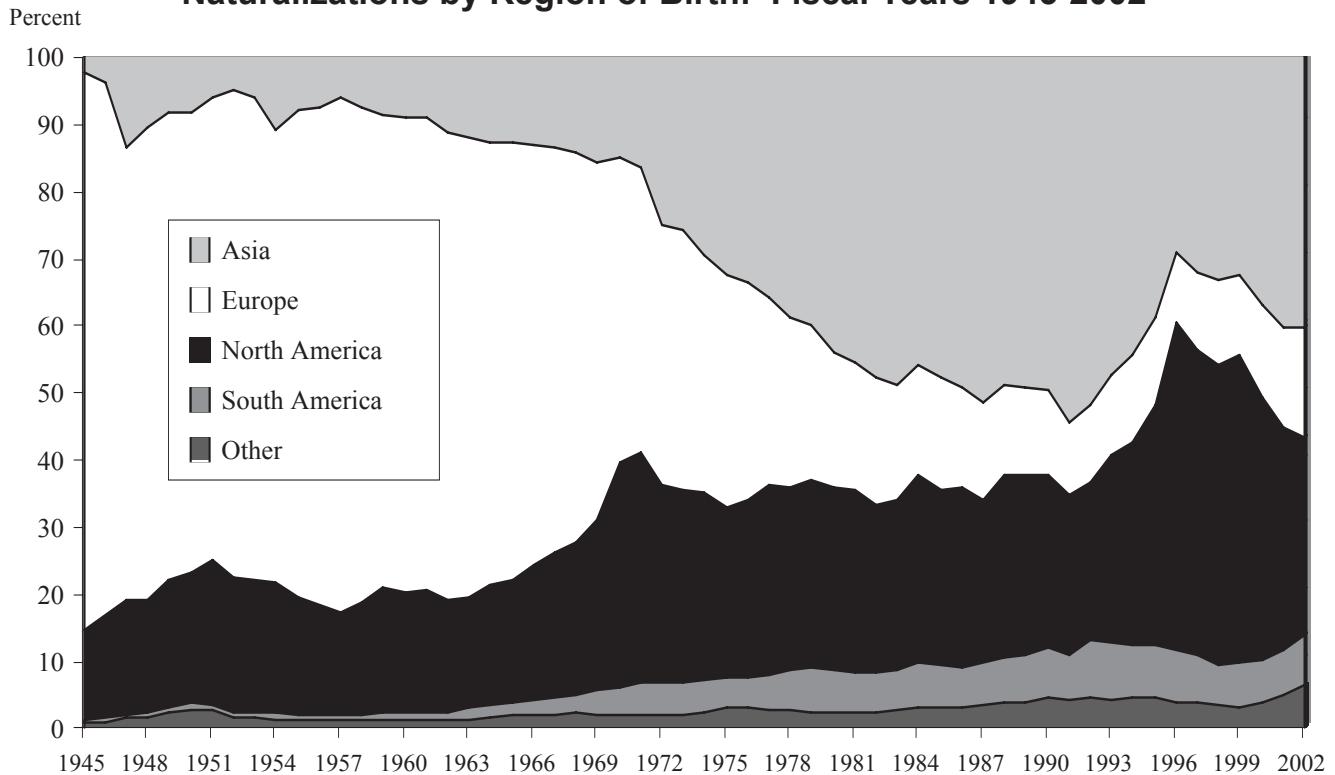

Naturalizations rose sharply during the 1990s due to several factors. A mandatory Green Card Replacement program put into effect in 1992 led some permanent residents to naturalize who otherwise might not have done so. In 1994 the first of the 2.7 million illegal aliens who were granted legal permanent residence under the provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) of 1986 became eligible to naturalize. Also during the mid 1990s, an unknown number of immigrants naturalized in response to legislative efforts restricting public benefits for the noncitizen population, including Proposition 187 in California (1994), the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Act (1996), and the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA, 1996).

Region and country of birth (Chart L and Table 35)

Until the 1970s, the majority of persons naturalizing were born in Europe because the country quotas in immigration law favored those countries. Once the quotas ended with the INA amendments in 1965, the regional origin of persons immigrating and naturalizing shifted from European to Asian countries. Asian immigrants also had historically higher naturalization rates than other immigrants. Between 1976 and 1995, Asia was the leading region of birth among persons naturalizing. With increased legal immigration from North American countries, especially due to IRCA, the share of naturalizations from that region increased during the 1990s, peaking at 49 percent in 1996. Since 2001, Asia has been the leading region of naturalizations. In 2002, 41 percent of persons naturalizing were born in Asian countries compared to 30 percent for North American countries. The number of naturalizations of persons born in European and African countries increased between 2001 and 2002 despite the overall decrease in naturalizations between the two years.

Mexico was the leading country of birth of persons naturalizing in 2002. However, the number of new Mexican-born citizens decreased to 76,531 (13 percent of the total) in 2002 from 103,234 (17 percent of the total) in 2001 as the number of IRCA-legalized aliens naturalizing declined (see the Immigration Reform and Control Act section below). Other major countries of birth for persons naturalizing in 2002 were Vietnam (36,835), India (33,774), the People's Republic of China (32,018), the Philippines (30,487), Korea (17,307), the Dominican Republic (15,591), Jamaica (13,973), Poland (12,823) and Ukraine (12,110). These 10 sending countries (including Mexico) represented 49 percent of new citizens in 2002.

State and metropolitan area of residence

(Table 36)

California was the residence of 149,554 or 26 percent of persons naturalizing in 2002 followed by New York with 94,276 or 16 percent. Other top states of residence included Florida, Texas, Illinois, and New Jersey. These six states were home to 68 percent of new citizens in 2002. They were the same top destination states for persons naturalizing in 2001.

Ten metropolitan areas accounted for the residence of 48 percent of persons naturalizing in 2002. These areas included New York, NY (81,421), Los Angeles, CA (55,892), Chicago, IL (30,808), Houston, TX (19,641), Miami, FL (18,270), Orange County, CA (15,985), Oakland, CA (14,976), San Jose, CA (13,805), San Diego, CA (13,023), and San Francisco, CA (12,723). These were the same top destination metropolitan areas for new citizens in 2001.

Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA)

Naturalization among aliens legalized under IRCA declined from 74,869 (12 percent of the total) to 43,164 (8 percent of the total) in fiscal year 2002. The annual number of naturalizations among IRCA legalized aliens peaked in 1996 (227,905). Of all IRCA legalized aliens who naturalized in 2002, 68 percent were born in Mexico. By the end of 2002, 932,000 or 35 percent of the total 2,688,000 IRCA legalized aliens had naturalized.

Years in immigrant status (Table P)

The median number of years of residence between the date of legal permanent residence and the date of naturalization was 8 years among aliens who naturalized in 2002. European and African born immigrants spent the least time in immigrant status (7 years), followed by immigrants from Asia and South America (8 years), Oceania (9 years), and North America (11 years).

Gender, age, marital status, and occupation

(Table 37)

As in previous years, the majority (53 percent) of persons naturalizing in 2002 were female. Nearly 42 percent of new citizens were ages 30-44 years. Two-thirds (65 percent) were married. Among those reporting an occupation, the largest number were operators, fabricators or laborers (10 percent), followed by professionals (8 percent). The former were predominantly male while the latter included nearly equal numbers of men and women.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

The INS compiles two types of data on naturalizations: workload statistics and demographic statistics on the characteristics of persons who naturalize. Workload data include the number of naturalization applications received, the number of petitions filed, and the number of aliens approved for naturalization during a fiscal year.

Demographic data come from the N-400 application for naturalization for persons ages 18 and over and include: date and country of birth, gender, marital status, state and metropolitan area of residence, occupation, date of admission for permanent residence, and section of naturalization law. These data are obtained from either an automated case-tracking system in operation in the larger INS offices, manually coded records from the smaller offices, and, if not otherwise available, from the Central Index System (CIS) of the INS.

Limitations of Data

The 2002 naturalization data do not necessarily reflect the demand to naturalize because of the backlog of applications pending a decision. The demographic characteristics of aliens whose cases were in the backlog are unknown.

Data prior to 2001 included small numbers of records for persons under age 18, most of which came from the N-600 application for certificate of citizenship. The N-600 form is used to provide evidence of citizenship for children under age 18 who derive or acquire citizenship through their parents. The N-643 form is used for adopted children. Most N-600 records were excluded beginning in 1998. Persons ages 17 and under have been excluded from naturalization Yearbook tables since 2001.

Occupation was not reported for more than one-third of all records in 2002. This is somewhat higher than the level of nonreporting in previous years. In addition, data are missing on about 3 percent of all records for state and metropolitan area of residence, marital status, provision of naturalization law, and country of former allegiance. The Central Index System (CIS), which does not maintain information on these variables, was the source of data for these records.

8. ENFORCEMENT

This section provides information about actions taken by the Immigration and Naturalization Service to prevent illegal entry into the United States and to apprehend and remove deportable aliens from the United States.

Enforcement of Immigration Laws

The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) has the initial responsibility of determining who may be admitted to the United States. The INS also has the responsibility of enforcing immigration laws within the United States and on the borders. These responsibilities include locating and arresting aliens who are in violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA), i.e., aliens attempting an illegal entry, aliens who successfully complete an illegal entry, and aliens who entered the United States legally but have since lost their legal status. The arrests are known as apprehensions. Almost all of the work involved in locating and arresting aliens is done by either Border Patrol agents or Investigations special agents. Immigration inspectors work to prevent the entry of inadmissible aliens at a port of entry. The custody and processing of apprehended aliens and certain aliens refused entry are a joint effort involving arresting agents, INS attorneys, and detention and deportation officers. Aliens refused admission or apprehended may be removed from the United States as described below.

The September 11 terrorist attacks

The September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks impacted the enforcement work done by the INS, which is reflected in the statistics reported in this section. Notable among these impacts are a change in the types of cases worked by investigators, and increased controls on migration—both at ports of entry and between ports of entry. These impacts are discussed in the sections below.

Border Patrol

The primary mission of the U.S. Border Patrol is to secure the 8,000 miles of land and water boundaries of the United States between ports of entry. The major objectives of the Border Patrol are to prevent illegal entry into the United States, interdict drug smugglers and other criminals, and compel those persons seeking admission to present themselves legally at ports of entry for inspection. The INS “prevention through deterrence” strategy calls for deploying Border Patrol agents along the border to prevent and deter illegal entry, rather than apprehending undocumented immigrants after they have entered the United States. Border Patrol operations are divided into 21 sectors. The southwest border covers four states (California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas) and divides into nine sectors: San Diego and El Centro in California; Yuma and Tucson in Arizona; El Paso sector covering New Mexico and the western-most portion of Texas; and Marfa, Del Rio, Laredo, and McAllen in Texas. The remaining 12 sectors are: Livermore, California; New Orleans, Louisiana; Miami, Florida; Havre, Montana; Blaine and Spokane in Washington; Grand Forks, North Dakota; Buffalo, New York; Swanton, Vermont; Detroit, Michigan; Ramey, Puerto Rico; and Houlton, Maine.

Investigations Program

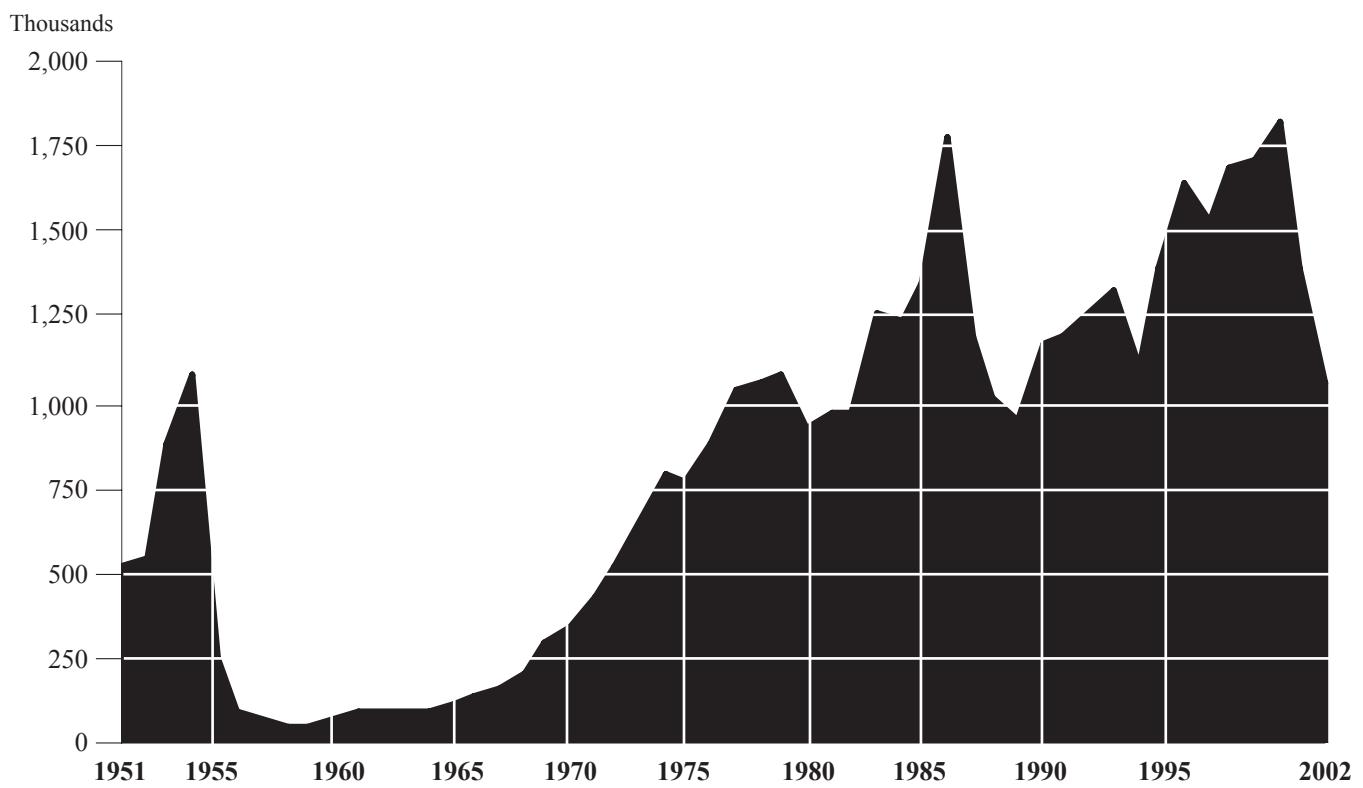

The Investigations Program focuses on the enforcement of immigration laws within the interior of the United States. Special agents plan and conduct investigations of persons and events subject to the administrative and criminal provisions of the INA. Agents use both traditional and modern technological methods, including forensic science, to investigate violations of immigration law and aliens involved in criminal activities. They often work as team members in multi-agency task forces against terrorism, violent crime, document fraud, narcotic trafficking, and various forms of organized crime. They also seek to identify aliens who are incarcerated and deportable as a result of their criminal convictions. In addition, agents monitor and inspect work sites to apprehend unauthorized alien workers and to impose sanctions against employers who knowingly employ them. Apprehensions at places of employment may result in removal from the workplace and also can result in removal from the United States.

Inspections Program

Immigration inspectors determine the admissibility of aliens who have arrived at a designated port of entry. There are approximately 300 such ports in the United States. Inspectors may permit most inadmissible aliens the opportunity to withdraw their application for admission or, in some cases, inspectors will refer an alien to an immigration judge for removal proceedings. Since April 1997, inspectors have had the authority to order certain aliens removed under expedited removal proceedings without further hearings or review by an immigration judge. The expedited removal order carries the same penalties as a removal order issued by an immigration judge. Immigration inspectors also prepare cases for criminal prosecution by United States Attorneys, including cases involving alien smuggling, document fraud, and attempted illegal entry.

Detention and Removal Program

Officers and staff of the Detention and Removal Program are responsible for monitoring the cases of aliens in removal proceedings. In addition, the program provides detention funding and positions in most Border Patrol sectors. Officers assume custodial responsibility for alien detainees providing for their needs including food, shelter, medical care, access to counsel, and recreation. The officers determine appropriate release conditions and facilitate release of detained aliens on parole, bond, and recognizance or pursuant to orders of supervision where appropriate. Officers enforce the departure from the United States of deportable and inadmissible aliens under final removal orders. This activity requires securing travel documents and related liaison with foreign governments, making travel arrangements, and providing escorts as required.

The Removal Process

Removal proceedings encompass the actions that lead to the formal removal of an alien from the United States when the presence of that alien is deemed inconsistent with the public welfare. The INS has several options in removing an alien from the United States. Traditionally, these options included deportation, voluntary departure, and exclusion; however, the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA) of 1996 made major revisions to these procedures, effective April 1, 1997. Deportation and exclusion proceedings were consolidated as removal proceedings (with voluntary departure continuing as an option at government convenience). The most significant change was the new authority for expedited removals.

Nearly 71,000 criminal aliens were removed during 2002.

Most removal proceedings are conducted before an immigration judge. Possible outcomes of an immigration hearing include removal, adjustment to a legal status, or a termination of proceedings. Some aliens abscond before or after the hearing. Decisions of the immigration judge can be appealed to the Board of Immigration Appeals.

Under expedited removal an immigration officer may determine that an arriving alien is inadmissible because the alien engaged in fraud or misrepresentation or lacks proper documents. The officer can order the alien removed without further hearing or review unless the alien states a fear of persecution or an intention to apply for asylum. Officers refer aliens who make such pleas to an asylum officer and the case may eventually be argued before an immigration judge.

The penalties associated with formal removal include not only the removal but possible fines, imprisonment for up to 10 years for aliens who do not appear at hearings or who fail to depart, and a bar to future legal entry (the bar is permanent for aggravated felons and up to 20 years for other aliens). The imposition and extent of these penalties depend upon the circumstances of the case.

Voluntary departure

In some cases, an apprehended alien may be offered a voluntary departure. This procedure is common with non-criminal aliens who are apprehended by the Border Patrol during an attempted illegal entry. Aliens agree that their entry was illegal, waive their right to a hearing, remain in custody, and are removed under supervision. Some aliens apprehended within the United States agree to voluntarily depart and pay the expense of departing. These departures may be granted by an immigration judge or, in some circumstances, by an INS District Director. Aliens who have agreed to a voluntary departure can be legally admitted in the future without penalty. Although such departures are called "voluntary departures," they are required and verified.

Data Overview: Apprehensions

(Tables 38-42)

Aliens are apprehended under two INS programs—Border Patrol and Investigations. The largest of these programs by far is the Border Patrol. In fiscal year 2002, the INS apprehended 1,062,279 aliens. Of this number, the Border Patrol made 955,310 apprehensions, of which 97 percent were made along the southwest border. During the fiscal year 1986-2002 period, the Border Patrol accounted for 90 to 97 percent of total apprehensions, and Investigations for 3 to 10 percent. Technically, the Inspections Program does not apprehend aliens and their interceptions of inadmissible aliens are not reported in the apprehension statistics.

Southwest border apprehensions (Table 40)

Southwest border apprehensions previously reached a high of 1,615,844 in fiscal year 1986 and then decreased 3 consecutive years immediately following enactment of the Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) of 1986. This legislation allowed 2.7 million formerly illegal aliens to become legal immigrants, established sanctions against employers who hire illegal aliens, and authorized an increase in the size of the Border Patrol. The number of apprehensions reached a low of 852,506 in 1989 and then began increasing. The number of southwest border apprehensions in 2000 set a new record high at 1,643,679, and declined nearly 25 percent to 1,235,717 in 2001. In fiscal year 2002 southwest border apprehensions declined another 25 percent to 929,809.

Border Operations (Tables 40, 41)

Several major INS operations have had an impact on apprehensions over the years. These operations typically deploy agents nearer the border at strategic locations in order to deter illegal entry. The number of apprehensions tends to decrease in the targeted areas and increase in surrounding sectors.

The first initiative was Operation Hold-the-Line, in El Paso, beginning in September 1993. The second, Operation Gatekeeper, began in San Diego in October 1994. These two sectors accounted for two out of every three apprehensions along the southwest border in fiscal year 1993. The percentage dropped to 50 percent of the total in 1995, and was approximately 21 percent in fiscal year 2002.

The number of apprehensions in El Centro, CA and Tucson, AZ, the sectors east of San Diego, increased following introduction of Operation Gatekeeper. The number of apprehensions in Tucson increased from 139,473 in fiscal year 1994 to 616,346 in 2000 and then declined to 333,648 in 2002. El Centro increased from 27,654 in fiscal year 1994 to 238,126 in 2000 and then declined to 108,273 in 2002. Both Tucson and El Centro had a larger percentage decrease between 2000 and 2002 than San Diego and El Paso. McAllen surpassed El Paso as the leading sector in number of apprehensions in Texas following Operation Hold-the-Line in 1994, going from 124,251 in 1994 to 243,793 in 1997. Reacting to the increases, the INS began a new operation in McAllen in August 1997 called Operation Rio Grande. Apprehensions declined to 89,927 in fiscal year 2002, a 63 percent decrease compared to 1997. El Paso again has the largest number of apprehensions along the Texas/Mexico border.

Nationality (Table 39)

Nationals of 186 countries were apprehended in fiscal year 2002—aliens from Mexico predominated, accounting for 94 percent of the total. The next largest source countries were Honduras, El Salvador, Guatemala, Brazil, Canada, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, the People's Republic of China, Jamaica, Colombia, Pakistan, Haiti, and Ecuador.

Data Overview: Investigations

(Table 42)

Investigations work is composed of five major categories—criminal, work site enforcement, fraud, anti-smuggling, and entered without inspection/status violators.

Criminal

Criminal cases have historically represented the largest proportion of the total Investigations workload. In fiscal year 2002 they account for 72 percent of cases completed that are shown in Table 42. These cases steadily increased over the years from 46,236 cases in 1994 to 100,044 in 1999, an increase of 116 percent. In fiscal year 2002 completed criminal investigations decreased by 12 percent when compared to fiscal year 2001. The targets of these investigations include large-scale organizations engaged in ongoing criminal activity in violation of Title 8 or Title 18, U.S.C. or similar laws, including those pertaining to narcotics and terrorism. Criminal cases also include individual aliens convicted of a crime or crimes rendering them subject to INS action, aliens arrested for the commission of an aggravated felony, aliens involved in activities considered contrary to the security of the United States, and aliens involved in certain immoral activities. Defendants prosecuted in 2002 decreased 22 percent compared to the number in 2001, and the number of defendants convicted was down 33 percent.

Work site enforcement

The focus of work site enforcement is employers of aliens who are not authorized to work. Immigration law prohibits the unlawful employment of aliens and provides for penalties and fines against employers who hire, recruit, or refer aliens for employment for a fee. Employer cases may involve criminal or administrative investigations as well as general inspections. Employer cases may also originate as referrals from the Department of Labor. Total work site cases completed dropped annually from 7,053 cases in fiscal year 1992 to 5,149 cases in 1996, then rose to a high of 7,788 in 1998. Between 1998 and 2001 the number of cases completed declined 80 percent. In fiscal year 2002, completed cases increased by 29 percent to 2,061. The number of arrests rose significantly from 7,554 in fiscal year 1994 to a high of 17,552 in 1997, an increase of 132 percent. The number of arrests declined sharply in the next four years, dropping to 418 in 2001, then increased 8 percent in 2002.

Fraud investigations

Fraud investigations seek to penetrate fraud schemes of all sizes and complexity that are used to violate immigration and related laws, or used to shield the true status of illegal aliens in order to obtain entitlement benefits from federal, state, or local agencies. Fraud cases completed in fiscal year 2002 decreased by 1,182 cases or approximately 32 percent compared to 2001. Of the 2,539 fraud cases completed in fiscal year 2002, 64 percent pertained to individuals involved in immigration fraud. These cases involve aliens misrepresenting themselves through the misuse or absence of documents.

Smuggling investigations

INS smuggling investigations include the detection, apprehension, and prosecution of alien smuggling operations. The targets of these investigations are persons or entities who bring, transport, harbor, or smuggle illegal aliens into or within the United States. The targets include violators with a substantial volume of smuggled aliens or revenues from the smuggling activity, e.g., organized conspiracies consisting of four or more persons, individuals such as freelance operators who smuggle infrequently or independently, and non-professional violators who smuggle relatives, household employees, or employees of small businesses. The INS completed 2,395 smuggling investigations cases in fiscal year 2002, a 17 percent decrease from the 2,885 cases completed in 2001. In 2002, the INS arrested 19,278 smuggled aliens, a 72 percent decrease from the high of 68,203 in 1995.

Summary of fiscal year 2002 investigations activities

For the five investigative categories shown in Table 42, there was an overall decrease of 11 percent in case completions in fiscal year 2002 when compared to the previous year. This was in part due to a shift in investigative priorities and resources following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks in New York City and Washington, D.C. This shift was defined by an increased emphasis on more complex criminal terrorist and absconder cases. Completions for criminal terrorist cases increased 304 percent from 298 cases in fiscal year 2001 to 1,205 cases in 2002. Special agent terrorist resource expenditures also increased from 115,000 hours in fiscal year 2001 to 293,000 hours in fiscal year 2002.

In addition, the Absconder Apprehension Initiative was implemented in fiscal year 2002 with an increased emphasis on locating, apprehending, and interviewing aliens with unexecuted orders of removal. As a result, absconder case completions rose from 1,249 cases in fiscal year 2001 to 3,688 cases completed in 2002, a 195 percent increase. Also, special agent hours dedicated to absconder cases increased from 9,000 in fiscal year 2001 to 118,000 in fiscal year 2002.

Data Overview: Detention

The INS detained approximately 202,000 aliens during fiscal year 2002. Approximately 103,000 of these aliens had criminal records. The average daily detention population was 20,282. Although 50 percent of all detainees were aliens from Mexico, their relatively short stays in detention meant that they accounted for only 24 percent of detention bed days. The other leading countries were: Cuba (9 percent of bed days); El Salvador (6 percent); Guatemala, Honduras, and China (each with 5 percent); Jamaica (4 percent); and Haiti and the Dominican Republic (each with 3 percent).

Data Overview: Removals (Tables 43-50)

The most complete picture of adverse actions involving individual aliens includes aliens who withdraw their application for admission when presented with evidence of their inadmissibility, aliens who are allowed to voluntarily depart, and aliens who are formally removed with consequent penalties. The following table summarizes the activities in fiscal year 2002:

	Number of aliens
Withdrew application for admission	485,274
Accepted offer of voluntary departure	933,555
Formally removed (with penalties)	148,619

Withdrawal of application for admission and other actions at ports of entry

An immigration inspector makes the decision to permit a withdrawal of an application for admission at a port of entry. The inspector also has the authority to place an arriving alien in expedited removal proceedings (discussed below). The INS has very little data on the characteristics of those who are permitted to withdraw. In addition to withdrawals and expedited removal actions, inspectors referred an additional 9,005 aliens to hearings before an immigration judge during fiscal year 2002.

Voluntary departure (Tables 43, 44, 50)

More than 99 percent of voluntary departures involve aliens who are apprehended by the Border Patrol and removed quickly. This statistic includes recidivists and thus is a measure of events rather than unique individuals. The INS does not currently have a centralized automated information system with the characteristics of most of these aliens. From 1997 through 1999 the INS compiled data about the approximately 65,000 aliens a year who admitted that they had been in the United States illegally for longer than 3 days and agreed to a witnessed departure. Of this group, approximately 99 percent were aliens from Mexico; their median age was 24 years, and 92 percent were male. These aliens are probably similar to the rest of the voluntary departures but they have been in the United States for a longer period; 26 percent had been here longer than a year and another 38 percent had been here longer than a month but less than one year. One other characteristic distinguishes this longer-staying group (but not all voluntary departures)—the INS located 25 percent of these aliens in institutions (generally, county jails). Those found in incarceration were granted a witnessed voluntary departure because their crimes were minor or local authorities declined to prosecute.

Formal removal (Tables 43-49)

In fiscal year 2002, the number of formal removals decreased about 16 percent from fiscal year 2001. This decrease resulted from a decrease of almost 51 percent in expedited removals. Non-expedited removals increased almost 6 percent. The following table illustrates the impact of expedited removals (a subset of total removals):

Fiscal year	Total removals	Expedited removals
2002	148,619	34,326
2001	177,452	69,785
2000	185,731	85,836
1999	180,760	89,144

1997	114,432	23,242
1996	69,680	X
1995	50,924	X
1994	45,674	X

X Not applicable.

Expedited removal

Expedited removals were 23 percent of all formal removals in fiscal year 2002. Expedited removal procedures allow the INS to quickly remove certain inadmissible aliens from the United States. In fiscal year 2002, the INS used these procedures with aliens arriving at ports of entry who illegally attempted to gain admission by fraud or misrepresentation, or with no entry documents, or by using counterfeit, altered, or otherwise fraudulent or improper documents. Aliens placed in the expedited removal process have the opportunity to claim a fear of persecution, or an intention to apply for asylum, or they may claim to have certain legal status in the United States. All cases are reviewed by a supervisor and aliens who have made certain claims may be referred to an asylum officer and ultimately to an immigration judge.

The number of expedited removals decreased significantly in fiscal year 2002 as a result of actions taken by the INS after the September 11 attacks. In part, tightened border security may have been a deterrent to those seeking admission at a port of entry without proper documents or with fraudulent documents. Part of the decrease may also have been attributed to changes in the inspections process. Because of the heightened security level and more extensive primary inspection, the INS had fewer staffing resources to devote to the more complex and time-consuming expedited removal process. Many inadmissible aliens who could have been placed in expedited removal were instead permitted to withdraw their application for admission and return to their country of origin. The number of aliens refused admission who could have been placed in expedited removal increased 21 percent over fiscal year 2001.

Inspectors determined that about 542,000 arriving aliens in fiscal year 2002 were inadmissible. Of these about 203,000 were inadmissible for reasons that made them subject to expedited removal. However, 155,000 of those aliens were allowed to withdraw their application for admission. The remaining 48,000 were placed in expedited removal. Only about 10,000 of these aliens expressed a fear of being returned to their country of origin if denied admission; they were referred to an asylum officer. About 93 percent of those 10,000 aliens were found to have a credible fear of persecution, and were taken out of the expedited removal process, and scheduled for hearings before an immigration judge.

Aliens from Mexico accounted for over 75 percent of expedited removals in fiscal year 2002. The next largest countries are Brazil, the Dominican Republic, Jamaica, Peru, and Guatemala (all with three percent or fewer of total expedited removals). Approximately 61 percent of all expedited removals occurred at ports of entry in one of three southwest Districts: San Diego, CA (34 percent); Phoenix, AZ (18); and Harlingen, TX (9).

Country of nationality (Table 46)

Aliens with a formal removal came from 179 countries in fiscal year 2002; 49 countries had more than 100 aliens removed from the United States. However, just 9 countries accounted for almost 90 percent of all formal removals. These 9 countries have been the top countries for several years with approximately 88 percent or more of all formal removals each year since 1993.

Country	Number removed	Number of criminals
Mexico	108,643	55,638
Guatemala	4,790	1,164
Honduras	4,680	1,396
El Salvador	3,817	1,712
Dominican Republic	3,473	1,990
Brazil	2,510	127
Colombia	2,186	1,470
Jamaica	2,122	1,517
Canada.....	978	549

Criminal activity (Table 46)

The passage of the Immigration Reform and Control Act in 1986 helped the INS focus on the removal of those aliens determined to be the greatest threat to society. In fiscal year 1986 the INS removed 1,978 aliens for criminal violations (about 3 percent of all removals). The removal of criminal aliens has increased greatly since then. The 2002 removals of 70,759 criminals is a decrease of slightly less than 2 percent from the 2001 removals of 71,994 criminals, the largest total ever. The countries that account for most of the removals also account for 93 percent of criminals the INS removed from the United States in 2002. They have been the leading countries in this category for several years, with 91 percent or more of all criminals removed each year since 1993. The INS continues to increase cooperation with other law enforcement agencies by using the Institutional Removal Program to insure that incarcerated criminal aliens are placed in removal proceedings. The program seeks to eliminate or minimize the time an alien must be detained by the INS after release from prison and before removal. In 2002, the INS removed 29,659 criminal aliens using this program.

The ten most common categories of crime in fiscal year 2002 include:

Crime	Number removed	Percent of total crimes
Dangerous drugs	28,908	41

Administrative reason for removal

(Tables 45, 47-49)

The administrative reason for removal is the primary charge cited by an immigration judge in the order to remove an alien. There are more than 100 charges that might form the basis for a removal in 2002, but most fall into one of three main categories. Aliens who were present in the United States after making an illegal entry account for 37 percent of all aliens formally removed. Those who attempted entry without proper documents, or through fraud or misrepresentation, account for 28 percent. Aliens with criminal charges account for 25 percent. A criminal alien, as defined in the previous section, may not have a criminal charge as the reason for removal if, for example, the immigration judge did not have appropriate documents from the relevant criminal justice system. This distribution is very different than the years before 1998 because of the large number of expedited removal cases; those cases are classified as attempting entry.

Immigration status at entry to the United States

At least 61 percent of all aliens with a formal removal attempted (and perhaps completed) an illegal entry between designated ports of entry. Approximately 24 percent attempted to enter at a port of entry without proper documents or through fraud or misrepresentation. The remainder made legal entries but then failed to maintain status; parolees, tourists, and legal permanent residents are the largest groups in this category.

Aliens removed from the interior

The INS defines “interior” removals as the removals of aliens who had been in the United States for longer than 3 days. In fiscal year 2002, about 83,000 formal removals met this definition—about 56 percent of all formal removals. In addition, as noted previously, about 60,000 aliens were allowed an escorted voluntary departure from the interior. Another 8,000 had other types of voluntary departure. At least 39,000 aliens with formal removals had been in the United States for longer than a year. Aliens apprehended in work site operations and subsequently removed from the United States are a subset of aliens removed from the interior. There were about 400 such aliens formally removed in 2002.

Gender and age

The median age of aliens with a formal removal in fiscal year 2002 was 28 years. The median age of women who were removed in 2002 was 27 years. Between 1992 and 1995 the proportion of women was about 6 percent. The proportion of women rose to 12 percent in 1996, and increased steadily to 24 percent in 2000. Most of that increase is attributable to women from Mexico who attempted entry without proper documents or through fraud. In 1996 the special “Port Court” processing at the San Diego ports provided the resources necessary to put more arriving aliens into proceedings than had been possible before. This special processing continued until the implementation of expedited removal procedures in April 1997. In either case, larger numbers of women were intercepted as they attempted entry in the San Diego area. As noted above the number of expedited removals decreased significantly in 2001 and 2002. One result of the decrease is that the proportion of women declined to 21 percent in fiscal year 2001 and further declined to 14 percent in 2002. Women are 42 percent of all expedited removals in fiscal year 2002.

Understanding the Data

Data Collection

Apprehension and voluntary departure

Apprehension data are collected on INS Form I-213, Record of Deportable/Inadmissible Alien. Much of the data collected establishes the identity of the individual and the circumstances of the apprehension. Some demographic data are available, including country of birth, country of citizenship, gender, date of birth, and marital status. However, the Performance Analysis System (PAS) (the principal automated data system for a variety of INS workload measures) captures only aggregated data on country of citizenship, location of apprehension, status at entry, length of time in the United States, and limited information on employment status. Individual INS offices report these data once a month. Statistics on the number of voluntary departures also are based on data captured on Form I-213. The data on most voluntary departures are aggregated and reported in PAS. The only data element collected is whether the alien was a Mexican national.

Voluntary departure (interior)

Data on aliens granted a voluntary departure who had been in the United States for longer than 3 days are collected from the Form I-213s for those aliens. The data captured for this special subset of aliens is not aggregated to the office level but rather maintained at the individual alien level.

Individuals detained, removed

The data on individuals detained or removed with a formal order of removal or given a voluntary departure under docket control are more extensive. These data are collected via the INS' automated Deportable Alien Control System (DACS). The data captured include immigration status, type of entry into the United States, reasons for removal, history of criminal activity, limited employment information, and basic demographic information such as date of birth, gender, marital status, country of birth, country of citizenship, and country to which deported. In general, these data are entered in DACS over a period of time that begins with the placing of an apprehended alien in docket control. In some INS offices most of the data entry is done at the time of case closure (removal, adjustment of status, etc.).

Other data

Data on drug seizures, accomplishments of the Border Patrol, accomplishments of the Investigations Program, prosecutions, fines, convictions, and judicial activities are captured in PAS. As noted above, these are aggregated data updated once a month by INS offices.

Limitations of Data

Case tracking

The INS' current data systems cannot link an apprehension to its final disposition (removal, adjustment of status, etc.). Therefore, analysts should use caution when comparing apprehension and removal data. Apprehended aliens who choose to use the available appeals procedures will spend several months and perhaps several years in the process before final disposition of their cases. In other words, aliens apprehended in any given fiscal year are quite likely to be removed (or adjusted to legal status, etc.) in some future fiscal year. In addition, INS statistics on apprehensions and removals relate to events, not individuals. For example, if an alien has been apprehended three times during the fiscal year, that individual will appear three times in the apprehension statistics.

Time lags in data entry

The data on removals under docket control (formal removals) reported in this and other editions of the Statistical Yearbook should be used cautiously. One problem is the time lag in reporting removals. The data in this Yearbook have been adjusted to reflect the actual year of removal. The data for each fiscal year require updating, and cannot be considered complete for at least 3 years. This Yearbook includes revised statistics for fiscal year 1999 through 2001.

Changes in definitions

Another area of caution involves changes in definitions across years. For example, the INS has expanded the information about the crimes of aliens removed in recent years. This change allows the INS to more accurately count the number of criminals that it removes. The statistics in this Yearbook reflect these changes and update the data on criminals from fiscal year 1990 onward.

Changes in definitions and new reporting requirements may also explain some of the variations in the data concerning Investigations activities. In particular, there have been significant changes in the reporting requirements for anti-smuggling and work site enforcement activities.

¹ Aliens apprehended were first recorded in 1925. Until 1960 those statistics did not include crewmen who violated the conditions of their stay in the United States because their vessel did not leave the United States within 29 days. Beginning in 1960 the statistics for apprehensions include the counts of those crewmen. For purposes of statistical reporting there is no difference between the terms "apprehension" and "deportable alien located". ² The three-month period—July 1 through September 30, 1976—between fiscal year 1976 and fiscal year 1977.

¹ Criminal alien cases include large-scale organizations engaged in ongoing criminal activity and individual aliens convicted of crimes such as terrorism or drug trafficking.

² Employer investigations target employers of unauthorized aliens and include criminal investigations, administrative investigations, auxiliary investigations, INS Headquarters Investigation Project, and Department of Labor ESA-91.

³ Fraud investigations seek to penetrate fraud schemes of all sizes and degrees of complexity which are used to violate immigration and related laws or to shield the true status of illegal aliens in order to obtain entitlement benefits. The fraud schemes may be related to marriage fraud, immigration benefit fraud, employer sanctions document fraud, other document fraud, and entitlement fraud.

⁴ At the start of fiscal year 1996, Performance Analysis System (PAS) Anti-smuggling reporting was merged with PAS Investigations. Smuggling cases involve those which target persons or entities who bring, transport, harbor, or smuggle illegal aliens into or within the United States.

⁵ Includes Entry Without Inspection (EWI), such as stowaways, or landed crewmen who were ordered detained on board, and status violators. The latter category pertains to alien apprehensions for violating the terms of admission, e.g., staying longer in the United States than permitted. Frequently, such aliens are not themselves investigative targets, but are located during other investigations.

9. ESTIMATES OF UNAUTHORIZED IMMIGRANTS

This section presents estimates of the unauthorized immigrant population residing in the United States in January 2000, by state of residence and country of origin.

More detailed information about these estimates is available on the Department of Homeland Security website, Immigration Statistics page at: <http://www.immigration.gov/graphics/shared/aboutus/statistics/llegals.htm>

Unauthorized immigrants refer to foreign-born persons who entered the United States without inspection, or who violated the terms of a temporary admission and who have not acquired lawful permanent resident status or gained temporary protection against removal by applying for an immigration benefit. The following foreign-born persons are not considered to be unauthorized residents in these estimates: refugees; asylees; parolees; and aliens who are allowed to remain and work in the United States under various legislative provisions or court rulings.

In general, the definition of the unauthorized resident population corresponds to the U.S. census definition of usual residence (where a person spends more nights during a year than any other place) and the United Nations definition of immigrants (residents in a country for more than one year). Although the estimates refer predominantly to residents, temporary unauthorized migrants are included in these estimates if they were enumerated in the 2000 Census.

Background

This is the third in a series of detailed national estimates developed by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) (see previous Yearbooks). The estimates rely primarily on data from two sources: 1) annual INS statistics (immigrants admitted, deportable aliens removed, and nonimmigrant residents admitted); and 2) data for the foreign-born population from the 2000 Census. Questions on country of birth, citizenship, and year of immigration were asked on the "long form," which was used to collect detailed information from approximately one-sixth of the total U.S. population in the 2000 Census. Census data are the most complete and reliable data available for the foreign-born population because of the national scope of the data collection, the large sample size, and the extensive preparation and follow-up activities involved in conducting the decennial census.

An estimated 7 million unauthorized immigrants were residing in the United States in January 2000.

Estimated total unauthorized population

(Table Q)

The estimated total unauthorized resident population was estimated to be about 7.0 million in January 2000, twice the size of the population of 3.5 million in January 1990.¹ Average annual population growth in the 1990s was estimated to be 350,000, about 75,000 higher than INS' previous estimate. The estimated 7 million unauthorized immigrants living in the United States in 2000 constituted 2.5 percent of the total U.S. population of just over 281 million.

The previous INS estimate distinguished between the share of the unauthorized resident population that enters the United States by crossing the border without inspection

¹ The estimate for 2000 includes 105,000 Hondurans who were granted temporary protected status in December 1998.

(EWIs) from those who enter legally with a temporary visa and stay beyond the valid time limits (nonimmigrant overstays). In these estimates, roughly 2.3 million, or 33 percent, of the 7.0 million unauthorized immigrants residing in the United States in January 2000 were estimated to be nonimmigrant overstays. The comparable figure in the previous report was 41 percent as of October 1996.

Estimated population by state of residence

(Table Q)

About 4.5 million of the 7.0 million unauthorized residents lived in the five states with the largest unauthorized resident populations in January 2000—California, Texas, New York, Illinois, and Florida. The estimated number of unauthorized residents in California was about 2.2 million, or nearly 32 percent of the total in January 2000. Texas became the second State, after California, to have more than 1 million unauthorized residents. The 15 states with the largest unauthorized resident populations in January 2000 are shown in Table Q.

California and Texas had the largest numerical increases in the number of unauthorized residents in the 1990s. In addition to California and Texas, seven states—Illinois, Arizona, Georgia, North Carolina, New York, New Jersey, and Colorado—had increases of more than 100,000 in the number of unauthorized residents between 1990 and 2000. Chart N shows estimates of the population in 1990 and 2000 for the 10 states with the largest unauthorized resident populations in January 2000.

The increase of the population of states that had relatively few unauthorized residents in 1990 was a significant trend

Estimates of the Unauthorized Immigrant Population in the Top 10 States of Residence: January 1990 and 2000

(ranked on January 2000 population) in unauthorized population change for states in the 1990s. Three principal examples are Georgia, North Carolina, and Colorado. Each of these states had unauthorized resident populations in the 25,000 to 35,000 range in 1990. In January 2000, the estimated unauthorized resident population in Georgia was 228,000, North Carolina, 206,000, and Colorado, 144,000 (Table Q). Seven states that had 10,000 or fewer unauthorized residents in 1990 also had rapidly growing unauthorized resident populations (1990 population listed first): Alabama, 5,000 to 24,000; Arkansas, 5,000 to 27,000; Iowa, 5,000 to 24,000; Nebraska, 6,000 to 24,000; South Carolina, 7,000 to 36,000; Tennessee, 9,000 to 46,000; and Wisconsin, 10,000 to 41,000.

Estimated population by country of origin

Table Q shows estimates of the unauthorized resident population in 1990 and 2000 from the 15 largest source countries. Mexico continued to be the leading source of unauthorized immigration to the United States in the 1990s. The estimated unauthorized resident population from Mexico increased from about 2.0 million in 1990 to 4.8 million in January 2000. Mexico accounted for nearly 69 percent of the total unauthorized resident population in January 2000; the top fifteen countries of origin, including Mexico, accounted for 89 percent of the total.

The estimated unauthorized immigrant population from El Salvador dropped in the 1990s because many unauthorized residents from El Salvador were granted temporary protected status (TPS) early in the decade. In 1997, many long-term illegal residents from Cuba, Guatemala, Nicaragua, El Salvador, and the former Soviet Union were allowed to stay and work in the United States under provisions of the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act (NACARA). Unauthorized residents from Central American and other countries were effectively shifted from unauthorized to lawfully resident by other legislative changes and judicial decisions in the latter part of the 1990s.

Three South American countries—Colombia, Ecuador, and Brazil—had relatively large increases in estimated unauthorized residents in the United States from 1990 to 2000. The estimated unauthorized resident population from Colombia increased from 51,000 to 141,000 in the 1990s; Ecuador, from 37,000 to 108,000; and Brazil, from 20,000 to 77,000.

Three countries accounted for much of the growth of the unauthorized resident population from Asia in the 1990s. The estimated unauthorized resident population from China increased from 70,000 in 1990 to 115,000 in 2000. For India, the estimated population increased from 28,000 to 70,000 in the 1990s; for Korea, the estimated population grew from 24,000 in 1990 to 55,000 in January 2000.

Understanding the Data

The first step to estimate the unauthorized resident population was to use 2000 Census data to determine the total number of foreign-born who moved to the United States in the 1990s—13.5 million (includes a total of 860,000 estimated by the INS to have been missed in the 2000 Census).²

Next, the INS used data from its statistical systems to estimate how many of the 13.5 million were living here legally in 2000—8.0 million.

In its total legally resident population, the INS includes aliens admitted for lawful permanent residence, refugees, and long-term nonimmigrant residents. In addition, INS' legal population includes refugees, asylees, parolees, and aliens who are allowed to remain and work in the United States under various legislative provisions or court rulings.

The difference—5.5 million—is the number who moved to the U.S. in the 1990s and were living here illegally in 2000.

An additional 1.5 million were estimated to have entered before 1990 and were still living here illegally in 2000—thus, the total unauthorized resident population was 7.0 million in 2000.

² The Census Bureau's revised preliminary estimate of net undercount for the total U.S. population in the 2000 Census was about 0.6 percent, or 1,700,000 (Source: U.S. Census Bureau, "Revised A.C.E. Estimates Memorandum Series PP-2," April 4, 2002).

Estimates were derived for the total population, each state of residence, and 75 countries of origin, for each year from 1990 to 2000.

The complete report, Estimates of the Unauthorized Immigrant Population Residing in the United States: 1990 to 2000, (available on the DHS website) provides further details of the estimation procedure.

Limitations of Data

The 2000 Census data for the foreign-born population are based on a sample of the population, and therefore the estimates of the unauthorized resident population in January 2000 are subject to sampling variability. Also, the estimates for some components of the population, primarily the emigration rates, undercount rates, and the size of the resident nonimmigrant population, are subject to other kinds of error. Thus, relatively small differences should be disregarded, and the actual population numbers might be somewhat higher or lower than those shown.

Substantial net internal migration (moves from state to state) of lawful residents after admission could affect the accuracy of the estimates of unauthorized immigration for states. For example, if relatively more lawful residents (who arrived in the 1990s) moved out of California than moved into California in the 1990s, then INS' estimate of lawful residents in California in 2000 would be too high. Consequently, the unauthorized resident population in California would be underestimated.

The effects of net internal migration of lawful residents might be relatively small because: 1) the majority of lawful permanent residents are admitted on the basis of close kinship with U.S. relatives, possibly reducing the probability of subsequent out-of-state moves; and 2) a majority of the lawfully resident population already had a residence in the United States at the time they entered the INS data systems, for example by adjusting from temporary to permanent lawful residence.

The figures used here for the total foreign-born population that entered in 1990 to 1999 are relatively straightforward: they are 2000 Census counts of the foreign-born population, adjusted for estimated undercount. Estimating the lawfully resident population was considerably more complex. In addition to those admitted for lawful permanent residence and refugee arrivals, it was necessary to make reliable estimates for a number of difficult-to-estimate populations, including:

- ◆ nonimmigrant residents (temporary workers, students, etc.);
- ◆ unauthorized residents who have pending, and likely to be approved, applications for lawful permanent resident status in the INS processing backlog;
- ◆ asylees and parolees who have work authorization but have not adjusted to lawful permanent resident status; and
- ◆ aliens, mostly from Central American countries, who otherwise would be unauthorized residents but are allowed to remain and work in the United States under various legislative provisions or court rulings.

All of these groups have been included in the legally resident population used to derive the estimates shown here; the total for these groups is nearly 2.1 million. A total of 1.5 million of these were nonimmigrant residents, the first category listed above.

Despite these limitations, the high-quality sets of data used to construct these estimates—detailed data on the foreign-born population from the 2000 Census, along with the INS' most reliable sets of data—make it likely that the estimates presented here more accurately reflect the actual unauthorized resident population than the relatively higher estimates that were reported following the release of the initial total population count in the 2000 census.

10. GLOSSARY

Acquired Citizenship — Citizenship conferred at birth on children born abroad to a U.S. citizen parent(s).

Adoption — See Orphan.

Adjustment to Immigrant Status — Procedure allowing certain aliens already in the United States to apply for immigrant status. Aliens admitted to the United States in a nonimmigrant, refugee, or parolee category may have their status changed to that of lawful permanent resident if they are eligible to receive an immigrant visa and one is immediately available. In such cases, the alien is counted as an immigrant as of the date of adjustment, even though the alien may have been in the United States for an extended period of time.

Agricultural Worker — As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States to perform agricultural labor or services, as defined by the Secretary of Labor.

Alien — Any person not a citizen or national of the United States.

Amerasian Act — Public Law 97-359 (Act of 10/22/82) provides for the immigration to the United States of certain Amerasian children. In order to qualify for benefits under this law, an alien must have been born in Cambodia, Korea, Laos, Thailand, or Vietnam after December 31, 1950, and before October 22, 1982, and have been fathered by a U.S. citizen.

Amerasian (Vietnam) — Immigrant visas are issued to Amerasians under Public Law 100-202 (Act of 12/22/87), which provides for the admission of aliens born in Vietnam after January 1, 1962, and before January 1, 1976, if the alien was fathered by a U.S. citizen. Spouses, children, and parents or guardians may accompany the alien.

Application Support Centers — INS Offices fingerprint applicants for immigration benefits. Some INS applications, such as the Application for Naturalization or the Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status, require the INS to conduct a FBI fingerprint background check on the applicant. Most applicants that require a background check will be scheduled to appear at a specific Application Support Center (ASC) or Designated Law Enforcement Agency (DLEA) for fingerprinting.

Apprehension — The arrest of a removable alien by the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Each apprehension of the same alien in a fiscal year is counted separately.

Asylee — An alien in the United States or at a port of entry who is found to be unable or unwilling to return to his or her country of nationality, or to seek the protection of that country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Persecution or the fear thereof must be based on the alien's race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. For persons with no nationality, the country of nationality is considered to be the country in which the alien last habitually resided. Asylees are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent resident status after one year of continuous presence in the United States. These immigrants are limited to 10,000 adjustments per fiscal year.

Beneficiaries — Aliens on whose behalf a U.S. citizen, lawful permanent resident, or employer have filed a petition for such aliens to receive immigration benefits from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Beneficiaries generally receive a lawful status as a result of their relationship to a U.S. citizen, lawful permanent resident, or U.S. employer.

Border Crosser — An alien resident of the United States reentering the country after an absence of less than six months in Canada or Mexico, or a nonresident alien entering the United States across the Canadian border for stays of no more than six months or across the Mexican border for stays of no more than 72 hours.

Border Patrol Sector — Any one of 21 geographic areas into which the United States is divided for the Immigration and Naturalization Service's Border Patrol activities.

Business Nonimmigrant — An alien coming temporarily to the United States to engage in commercial transactions which do not involve gainful employment in the United States, i.e., engaged in international commerce on behalf of a foreign firm, not employed in the U.S. labor market, and receives no salary from U.S. sources.

Cancellation of Removal — A discretionary benefit adjusting an alien's status from that of deportable alien to one lawfully admitted for permanent residence. Application for cancellation of removal is made during the course of a hearing before an immigration judge.

Certificate of Citizenship — Identity document proving U.S. citizenship. Certificates of citizenship are issued to derivative citizens and to persons who acquired U.S. citizenship (see definitions for Acquired and Derivative Citizenship).

Child — Generally, an unmarried person under 21 years of age who is: a child born in wedlock; a stepchild, provided that the child was under 18 years of age at the time that the marriage creating the stepchild relationship occurred; a legitimated child, provided that the child was legitimated while in the legal custody of the legitimating parent; a child born out of wedlock, when a benefit is sought on the basis of its relationship with its mother, or to its father if the father has or had a bona fide relationship with the child; a child adopted while under 16 years of age who has resided since adoption in the legal custody of the adopting parents for at least 2 years; or an orphan, under 16 years of age, who has been adopted abroad by a U.S. citizen or has an immediate-relative visa petition submitted in his/her behalf and is coming to the United States for adoption by a U.S. citizen.

Country of —

Birth: The country in which a person is born.

Chargeability: The independent country to which an immigrant entering under the preference system is accredited for purposes of numerical limitations.

Citizenship: The country in which a person is born (and has not renounced or lost citizenship) or naturalized and to which that person owes allegiance and by which he or she is entitled to be protected.

Former Allegiance: The previous country of citizenship of a naturalized U.S. citizen or of a person who derived U.S. citizenship.

(Last) Residence: The country in which an alien habitually resided prior to entering the United States.

Nationality: The country of a person's citizenship or country in which the person is deemed a national.

Crewman — A foreign national serving in a capacity required for normal operations and service on board a vessel or aircraft. Crewmen are admitted for twenty-nine days, with no extensions. Two categories of crewmen are defined in the INA: D1, departing from the United States with the vessel or aircraft on which he arrived or some other vessel or aircraft; and D2, departing from Guam with the vessel on which he arrived.

Criminal Removal — The deportation, exclusion, or removal of an alien who has 1) been charged under a section of the Immigration and Nationality Act that requires a criminal conviction and that charge is the basis for the removal or 2) a criminal conviction noted in the Deportable Alien Control System (DACS) for a crime that renders the alien removable. An alien with an appropriate criminal conviction is considered a criminal alien regardless of the section of law under which the alien was removed.

Cuban/Haitian Entrant — Status accorded 1) Cubans who entered illegally or were paroled into the United States between April 15, 1980, and October 10, 1980, and 2) Haitians who entered illegally or were paroled into the country before January 1, 1981. Cubans and Haitians meeting these criteria who have continuously resided in the United States since before January 1, 1982, and who were known to the INS before that date, may adjust to permanent residence under a provision of the Immigration Control and Reform Act of 1986.

Deferred Inspection — See Parolee.

Departure Under Safeguards — The departure of an illegal alien from the United States which is physically observed by an Immigration and Naturalization Service official.

Deportable Alien — An alien in and admitted to the United States subject to any grounds of removal specified in the Immigration and Nationality Act. This includes any alien illegally in the United States, regardless of whether the alien entered the country by fraud or misrepresentation or entered legally but subsequently lost legal status.

Deportation — The formal removal of an alien from the United States when the alien has been found removable for violating the immigration laws. Deportation is ordered by an immigration judge without any punishment being imposed or contemplated. Prior to April 1997 deportation and exclusion were separate removal procedures. The Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996 consolidated these procedures. After April 1, 1997, aliens in and admitted to the United States may be subject to removal based on deportability.

Derivative Citizenship — Citizenship conveyed to children through the naturalization of parents or, under certain circumstances, to foreign-born children adopted by U.S. citizen parents, provided certain conditions are met.

District — Geographic areas into which the United States and its territories are divided for the Immigration and Naturalization Service's field operations or one of three overseas offices located in Rome, Bangkok, and Mexico City. Each District Office, headed by a District Director, has a specified service area that may include part of a state, an entire state, or many states. District Offices are where most INS field staff are located. District Offices are responsible for providing certain immigration services and benefits to people resident in their service area, and for enforcing immigration laws in that jurisdiction. Certain applications are filed directly with District Offices, many kinds of interviews are conducted at these Offices, and INS staff is available to answer questions, provide forms, etc.

Diversity — A category of immigrants replacing the earlier categories for nationals of underrepresented countries and countries adversely “affected” by the Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1965 (P.L. 89-236). The annual limit on diversity immigration was 40,000 during fiscal years 1992-94, under a transitional diversity program, and 55,000 beginning in fiscal year 1995, under a permanent diversity program.

Docket Control — The INS mechanism for tracking the case status of potentially removable aliens.

Employer Sanctions — The employer sanctions provision of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 prohibits employers from hiring, recruiting, or referring for a fee aliens known to be unauthorized to work in the United States. Violators of the law are subject to a series of civil fines for violations or criminal penalties when there is a pattern or practice of violations.

Exchange Visitor — An alien coming temporarily to the United States as a participant in a program approved by the Secretary of State for the purpose of teaching, instructing or lecturing, studying, observing, conducting research, consulting, demonstrating special skills, or receiving training.

Exclusion — Prior to the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996, exclusion was the formal term for denial of an alien's entry into the United States. The decision to exclude an alien was made by an immigration judge after an exclusion hearing. Since April 1, 1997, the process of adjudicating inadmissibility may take place in either an expedited removal process or in removal proceedings before an immigration judge.

Expedited Removal — The Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996 authorized the INS to quickly remove certain inadmissible aliens from the United States. The authority covers aliens who are inadmissible because they have no entry documents or because they have used counterfeit, altered, or otherwise fraudulent or improper documents. The authority covers aliens who arrive in, attempt to enter, or have entered the United States without having been admitted or paroled by an immigration officer at a port-of-entry. The INS has the authority to order the removal, and the alien is not referred to an immigration judge except under certain circumstances after an alien makes a claim to lawful status in the United States or demonstrates a credible fear of persecution if returned to his or her home country.

Fiance(e)s of U.S. Citizen — A nonimmigrant alien coming to the United States to conclude a valid marriage with a U.S. citizen within ninety days after entry.

Files Control Office — An Immigration and Naturalization Service field office—either a district (including INS overseas offices) or a suboffice of that district—where alien case files are maintained and controlled.

Fiscal Year — Currently, the twelve-month period beginning October 1 and ending September 30. Historically, until 1831 and from 1843-49, the twelve-month period ending September 30 of the respective year; from 1832-42 and 1850-67, ending December 31 of the respective year; from 1868-1976, ending June 30 of the respective year. The transition quarter (TQ) for 1976 covers the three-month period, July-September 1976.

Foreign Government Official — As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States who has been accredited by a foreign government to function as an ambassador, public minister, career diplomatic or consular officer, other accredited official, or an attendant, servant or personal employee of an accredited official, and all above aliens' spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Foreign Information Media Representative — As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States as a bona fide representative of foreign press, radio, film, or other foreign information media and the alien's spouse and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Foreign State of Chargeability — The independent country to which an immigrant entering under the preference system is accredited. No more than 7 percent of the family-sponsored and employment-based visas may be issued to natives of any one independent country in a fiscal year. No one dependency of any independent country may receive more than 2 percent of the family-sponsored and employment-based visas issued. Since these limits are based on visa issuance rather than entries into the United States, and immigrant visas are valid for 6 months, there is not total correspondence between these two occurrences. Chargeability is usually determined by country of birth. Exceptions are made to prevent the separation of family members when the limitation for the country of birth has been met.

General Naturalization Provisions — The basic requirements for naturalization that every applicant must meet, unless a member of a special class. General provisions require an applicant to be at least 18 years of age and a lawful permanent resident with five years of continuous residence in the United States, have been physically present in the country for half that period, and have established good moral character for at least that period.

Geographic Area of Chargeability — Any one of five regions—Africa, East Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean, Near East and South Asia, and the former Soviet Union and Eastern Europe—into which the world is divided for the initial admission of refugees to the United States. Annual consultations between the Executive Branch and the Congress determine the ceiling on the number of refugees who can be admitted to the United States from each area. Beginning in fiscal year 1987, an unallocated reserve was incorporated into the admission ceilings.

H-1B Beneficiary — 1) the approved petition associated with a specialty worker admitted on the basis of professional education, skills, and/or equivalent experience (the H-1B subsection uses this definition); 2) a specialty worker whose petition to work temporarily in the United States has been approved by the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

H-1B Petition — An application form used by employers seeking permission for an alien to work temporarily in the United States. An H-1B petition must be approved by the Immigration and Naturalization Service before an alien specialty worker is authorized to begin or continue working in the United States. This requirement is true regardless of whether the alien is residing overseas or within the United States at the time of application. After a petition is approved, an H-1B worker is said to be a beneficiary.

Hemispheric Ceilings — Statutory limits on immigration to the United States in effect from 1968 to October 1978. Mandated by the Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1965, the ceiling on immigration from the Eastern Hemisphere was set at 170,000, with a per-country limit of 20,000. Immigration from the Western Hemisphere was held to 120,000, without a per-country limit until January 1, 1977. The Western Hemisphere was then made subject to a 20,000 per country limit. Effective October 1978, the separate hemisphere limits were abolished in favor of a worldwide limit.

Immediate Relatives — Certain immigrants who because of their close relationship to U.S. citizens are exempt from the numerical limitations imposed on immigration to the United States. Immediate relatives are: spouses of citizens, children (under 21 years of age and unmarried) of citizens, and parents of citizens 21 years of age or older.

Immigrant — See Permanent Resident Alien

Immigration Act of 1990 — Public Law 101-649 (Act of November 29, 1990), increased the limits on lawful immigration to the United States, revised all grounds for exclusion and deportation, authorized temporary protected status to aliens of designated countries, revised and established new nonimmigrant admission categories, revised and extended the Visa Waiver Pilot Program, and revised naturalization authority and requirements.

Immigration Judge — An attorney appointed by the Attorney General to act as an administrative judge within the Executive Office for Immigration Review. They are qualified to conduct specified classes of proceedings, including removal proceedings.

INA — See Immigration and Nationality Act.

Immigration and Nationality Act — The Act (INA), which, along with other immigration laws, treaties, and conventions of the United States, relates to the immigration, temporary admission, naturalization, and removal of aliens.

Immigration Marriage Fraud Amendments of 1986 — Public Law 99-639 (Act of 11/10/86), was passed in order to deter immigration-related marriage fraud. Its major provision stipulates that aliens deriving their immigrant status based on a marriage of less than two years are conditional immigrants. To remove their conditional status the immigrants must apply at an Immigration and Naturalization Service office during the 90-day period before their second-year anniversary of receiving conditional status. If the aliens cannot show that the marriage through which the status was obtained was and is a valid one, their conditional immigrant status may be terminated and they may become deportable.

Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) of 1986 — Public Law 99-603 (Act of 11/6/86), was passed in order to control and deter illegal immigration to the United States. Its major provisions stipulate legalization of undocumented aliens who had been continuously unlawfully present since 1982, legalization of certain agricultural workers, sanctions for employers who knowingly hire undocumented workers, and increased enforcement at U.S. borders.

Inadmissible — An alien seeking admission at a port of entry who does not meet the criteria in the INA for admission. The alien may be placed in removal proceedings or, under certain circumstances, allowed to withdraw his or her application for admission.

Industrial Trainee — See Temporary Worker.

Intracompany Transferee — An alien, employed for at least one continuous year out of the last three by an international firm or corporation, who seeks to enter the United States temporarily in order to continue to work for the same employer, or a subsidiary or affiliate, in a capacity that is primarily managerial, executive, or involves specialized knowledge, and the alien's spouse and minor unmarried children.

IRCA — See Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986.

Irish Peace Process Cultural and Training Program Act of 1998 — Amended the INA to establish new nonimmigrant classes (Q2 and Q3) to allow temporary admission to young people (and their spouses and minor children) of disadvantaged areas in Northern Ireland and certain counties of the Republic of Ireland for the purpose of developing job skills and conflict resolution abilities, so that those young people can return to their homes better able to contribute toward economic regeneration and the Irish peace process. Period of temporary admission not to exceed 36 months; program repealed, effective October 1, 2005.

Labor Certification — Requirement for U.S. employers seeking to employ certain persons whose immigration to the United States is based on job skills or nonimmigrant temporary workers coming to perform services for which qualified authorized workers are unavailable in the United States. Labor certification is issued by the Secretary of Labor and contains attestations by U.S. employers as to the numbers of U.S. workers available to undertake the employment sought by an applicant, and the effect of the alien's employment on the wages and working conditions of U.S. workers similarly employed. Determination of labor availability in the United States is made at the time of a visa application and at the location where the applicant wishes to work.

Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act of 2000 — Public Law 106-553 (Act of 12/21/2000) temporarily reinstated Section 245(i) of the INA to allow persons who were qualified for permanent resident status but had immigration status violations to pay a penalty fee and apply for adjustment of status at an INS office; these persons were required to have been beneficiaries of an immigrant petition or labor certification filed no later than April 30, 2001. Application for adjustment of status was also allowed for certain persons who had filed for class membership in one of three lawsuits challenging the implementation of IRCA legalization by INS. The Act also created nonimmigrant classes of admission allowing entry of spouses and children (and dependent children of spouses and children) of U.S. citizens and permanent resident aliens who had had petitions for immigrant visas pending for three years or more; adjustment to permanent resident status is afforded when the immigrant visa has been approved.

Legalization Dependents — A maximum of 55,000 visas were issued to spouses and children of aliens legalized under the provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 in each of fiscal years 1992-94.

Legalized Aliens — Certain illegal aliens who were eligible to apply for temporary resident status under the legalization provision of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. To be eligible, aliens must have continuously resided in the United States in an unlawful status since January 1, 1982, not be excludable, and have entered the United States either 1) illegally before January 1, 1982, or 2) as temporary visitors before January 1, 1982, with their authorized stay expiring before that date or with the Government's knowledge of their unlawful status before that date. Legalization consists of two stages—temporary and then permanent residency. In order to adjust to permanent status aliens must have had continuous residence in the United States, be admissible as an immigrant, and demonstrate at least a minimal understanding and knowledge of the English language and U.S. history and government.

Medical and Legal Parolee — See Parolee.

MSAs are generally counties (cities and towns in New England) containing at least one city or urbanized area with a population of at least 50,000 and a total metropolitan population of at least 100,000 (75,000 in New England).

MSAs of one million or more population may be recognized as Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Areas (CMSAs). Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas (PSMAs) are component areas within MSAs. New England County Metropolitan Areas (NECMAs) are the county based metropolitan alternative of the New England states for the city and town based MSAs and CMSAs.

Migrant — A person who leaves his/her country of origin to seek residence in another country.

NACARA — Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act, Public Law 105-100 (Act of 11/19/97). Pertains to certain Central American and other aliens who were long-term illegal residents in the United States when hardship relief rules were made more stringent by the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act (IIRIRA). Provisions: 1) allowed approximately 150,000 Nicaraguans and 5,000 Cubans adjustment to permanent resident status without having to make any hardship showing; 2) allowed approximately 200,000 Salvadorans and 50,000 Guatemalans as well as certain aliens from the former Soviet Union to seek hardship relief under more lenient hardship rules than existed prior to IIRIRA amendments.

National — A person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

NATO Official — As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States as a member of the armed forces or as a civilian employed by the armed forces on assignment with a foreign government signatory to NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization), and the alien's spouse and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Naturalization — The conferring, by any means, of citizenship upon a person after birth.

Nonimmigrant — An alien who seeks temporary entry to the United States for a specific purpose. The alien must have a permanent residence abroad (for most classes of admission) and qualify for the nonimmigrant classification sought. The nonimmigrant classifications include: foreign government officials, visitors for business and for pleasure, aliens in transit through the United States, treaty traders and investors, students, international representatives, temporary workers and trainees, representatives of foreign information media, exchange visitors, fiance(e)s of U.S. citizens, intracompany transferees, NATO officials, religious workers, and some others. Most nonimmigrants can be accompanied or joined by spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children.

Nonpreference Category — Nonpreference visas were available to qualified applicants not entitled to a visa under the preferences until the category was eliminated by the Immigration Act of 1990. Nonpreference visas for persons not entitled to the other preferences had not been available since September 1978 because of high demand in the preference categories. An additional 5,000 nonpreference visas were available in each of fiscal years 1987 and 1988 under a provision of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. This program was extended into 1989, 1990, and 1991 with 15,000 visas issued each year. Aliens born in countries from which immigration was adversely affected by the Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1965 (Public Law 89-236) were eligible for the special nonpreference visas.

North American Free-Trade Agreement (NAFTA) — Public Law 103-182 (Act of 12/8/93), superseded the United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement as of 1/1/94. It continues the special, reciprocal trading relationship between the United States and Canada (see United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement), and establishes a similar relationship with Mexico.

Numerical Limit, Exempt from — Those aliens accorded lawful permanent residence who are exempt from the provisions of the flexible numerical limit of 675,000 set by the Immigration Act of 1990. Exempt categories include immediate relatives of U.S. citizens, refugees, asylees (limited to 10,000 per year by section 209(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act), Amerasians, aliens adjusted under the legalization provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, and certain parolees from the former Soviet Union and Indochina.

Nursing Relief Act of 1989 — Public Law 101-238 (Act of 12/18/89), provides for the adjustment to permanent resident status of certain nonimmigrants who as of September 1, 1989, had H-1 nonimmigrant status as registered nurses; who had been employed in that capacity for at least 3 years; and whose continued nursing employment meets certain labor certification requirements.

Nursing Relief for Disadvantaged Areas Act of 1999 — Public Law 106-95 (Act of 11/12/1999), enacted as a short-term solution for nursing shortages in a limited number of medically underserved areas. Established a new nonimmigrant class of admission (H-1C) for temporary admission of 500 nurses annually for 4 years in health professional shortage areas. Sets forth admission requirements, including a maximum 3-year stay. Petitioning hospitals have to be in shortage areas defined by the Department of Health and Human Services, have at least 190 acute care beds, and have specified percentages of Medicare and Medicaid patients. Subject to fewer restrictions than the previous, expired H-1A provisions.

Occupation — For an alien entering the United States or adjusting without a labor certification, occupation refers to the employment held in the country of last lawful residence or in the United States. For an alien with a labor certification, occupation is the employment for which certification has been issued.

Orphan — For immigration purposes, a child whose parents have died or disappeared, or who has been abandoned or otherwise separated from both parents. An orphan may also be a child whose sole or surviving parent is incapable of providing that child with proper care and who has, in writing, irrevocably released the child for emigration and adoption. In order to qualify as an immediate relative, the orphan must be under the age of sixteen at the time a petition is filed on his or her behalf.

To enter the United States, an orphan must have been adopted abroad by a U.S. citizen (and spouse, if married) or be coming to the United States for adoption by a citizen.

Panama Canal Act Immigrants — Three categories of special immigrants established by Public Law 96-70 (Act of 9/27/79): 1) certain former employees of the Panama Canal Company or Canal Zone Government, their spouses and accompanying children; 2) certain former employees of the U.S. Government in the Panama Canal Zone who are Panamanian nationals, their spouses and children; and 3) certain former employees of the Panama Canal Company or Canal Zone Government on April 1, 1979, their spouses and children. The Act provides for admission of a maximum of 15,000 immigrants, at a rate of no more than 5,000 each year.

Parolee — A parolee is an alien, appearing to be inadmissible to the inspecting officer, allowed into the United States for urgent humanitarian reasons or when that alien's entry is determined to be for significant public benefit. Parole does not constitute a formal admission to the United States and confers temporary status only, requiring parolees to leave when the conditions supporting their parole cease to exist. Types of parolees include:

- 1) Deferred inspection: authorized at the port upon alien's arrival; may be conferred by an immigration inspector when aliens appear at a port of entry with documentation, but after preliminary examination, some question remains about their admissibility which can best be answered at their point of destination.
- 2) Advance parole: authorized at an INS District office in advance of alien's arrival; may be issued to aliens residing in the United States in other than lawful permanent resident status who have an unexpected need to travel and return, and whose conditions of stay do not otherwise allow for readmission to the United States if they depart.
- 3) Port-of-entry parole: authorized at the port upon alien's arrival; applies to a wide variety of situations and is used at the discretion of the supervisory immigration inspector, usually to allow short periods of entry. Examples include allowing aliens who could not be issued the necessary documentation within the required time period, or who were otherwise inadmissible, to attend a funeral and permitting the entry of emergency workers, such as fire fighters, to assist with an emergency.

4) Humanitarian parole: authorized at INS headquarters for “urgent humanitarian reasons” specified in the law. It is used in cases of medical emergency and comparable situations.

5) Public interest parole: authorized at INS headquarters for “significant public benefit” specified in the law. It is generally used for aliens who enter to take part in legal proceedings.

6) Overseas parole: authorized at an INS District or suboffice while the alien is still overseas; designed to constitute long-term admission to the United States. In recent years, most of the aliens the INS has processed through overseas parole have arrived under special legislation or international migration agreements.

Per-Country Limit — The maximum number of family-sponsored and employment-based preference visas that can be issued to citizens of any country in a fiscal year. The limits are calculated each fiscal year depending on the total number of family-sponsored and employment-based visas available. No more than 7 percent of the visas may be issued to natives of any one independent country in a fiscal year; no more than 2 percent may be issued to any one dependency of any independent country. The per-country limit does not indicate, however, that a country is entitled to the maximum number of visas each year, just that it cannot receive more than that number. Because of the combined workings of the preference system and per-country limits, most countries do not reach this level of visa issuance.

Permanent Resident Alien — An alien admitted to the United States as a lawful permanent resident. Permanent residents are also commonly referred to as immigrants; however, the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) broadly defines an immigrant as any alien in the United States, except one legally admitted under specific nonimmigrant categories (INA section 101(a)(15)). An illegal alien who entered the United States without inspection, for example, would be strictly defined as an immigrant under the INA but is not a permanent resident alien. Lawful permanent residents are legally accorded the privilege of residing permanently in the United States. They may be issued immigrant visas by the Department of State overseas or adjusted to permanent resident status by the Immigration and Naturalization Service in the United States.

Port of Entry — Any location in the United States or its territories that is designated as a point of entry for aliens and U.S. citizens. All district and files control offices are also considered ports, since they become locations of entry for aliens adjusting to immigrant status.

Pre-inspection — Complete immigration inspection of airport passengers before departure from a foreign country. No further immigration inspection is required upon arrival in the United States other than submission of INS Form I-94 for nonimmigrant aliens.

Preference System (prior to fiscal year 1992) — The six categories among which 270,000 immigrant visa numbers were distributed each year during the period 1981-91. This preference system was amended by the Immigration Act of 1990, effective fiscal year 1992. (see Preference System—Immigration Act of 1990). The six categories were: 1) unmarried sons and daughters (over 21 years of age) of U.S. citizens (20 percent); 2) spouses and unmarried sons and daughters of aliens lawfully admitted for permanent residence (26 percent); 3) members of the professions or persons of exceptional ability in the sciences and arts (10 percent); 4) married sons and daughters of U.S. citizens (10 percent); 5) brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens over 21 years of age (24 percent); and 6) needed skilled or unskilled workers (10 percent). A nonpreference category, historically open to immigrants not entitled to a visa number under one of the six preferences just listed, had no numbers available beginning in September 1978.

Preference System (Immigration Act of 1990) — The nine categories since fiscal year 1992 among which the family-sponsored and employment-based immigrant preference visas are distributed. The family-sponsored preferences are: 1) unmarried sons and daughters of U.S. citizens; 2) spouses, children, and unmarried sons and daughters of permanent resident aliens; 3) married sons and daughters of U.S.

citizens; 4) brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens. The employment-based preferences are: 1) priority workers (persons of extraordinary ability, outstanding professors and researchers, and certain multinational executives and managers); 2) professionals with advanced degrees or aliens with exceptional ability; 3) skilled workers, professionals (without advanced degrees), and needed unskilled workers; 4) special immigrants; and 5) employment creation immigrants (investors).

Principal Alien — The alien who applies for immigrant status and from whom another alien may derive lawful status under immigration law or regulations (usually spouses and minor unmarried children).

Refugee — Any person who is outside his or her country of nationality who is unable or unwilling to return to that country because of persecution or a well-founded fear of persecution. Persecution or the fear thereof must be based on the alien's race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion. People with no nationality must generally be outside their country of last habitual residence to qualify as a refugee. Refugees are subject to ceilings by geographic area set annually by the President in consultation with Congress and are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent resident status after one year of continuous presence in the United States.

Refugee Approvals — The number of refugees approved for admission to the United States during a fiscal year. Immigration and Naturalization Service officers in overseas offices make refugee approvals.

Refugee Arrivals — The number of refugees the Immigration and Naturalization Service initially admits to the United States through ports of entry during a fiscal year.

Refugee Authorized Admissions — The maximum number of refugees allowed to enter the United States in a given fiscal year. As set forth in the Refugee Act of 1980 (Public Law 96-212) the President determines the annual figure after consultations with Congress.

Refugee-Parolee — A qualified applicant for conditional entry, between February 1970 and April 1980, whose application for admission to the United States could not be approved because of inadequate numbers of seventh preference visas. As a result, the applicant was paroled into the United States under the parole authority granted the Attorney General.

Regional Offices — The three INS Regional Offices that supervise the work of INS Districts and Border Patrol Sectors. The Regional Directors report to the Executive Associate Commissioner for Field Operations in INS Headquarters, Washington, DC. The three Regional Offices are located in (Eastern Region) Burlington, VT, (Central Region) Dallas, TX, and (Western Region) Laguna Nigel, CA.

Registry Date — Aliens who have continuously resided in the United States since January 1, 1972, are of good moral character, and are not inadmissible, are eligible to adjust to lawful permanent resident status under the registry provision. Before the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 amended the date, aliens had to have been in the country continuously since June 30, 1948, to qualify.

Removal — The expulsion of an alien from the United States. This expulsion may be based on grounds of inadmissibility or deportability.

Required Departure — See Voluntary Departure.

Resettlement — Permanent relocation of refugees in a place outside their country of origin to allow them to establish residence and become productive members of society there. Refugee resettlement is accomplished with the direct assistance of private voluntary agencies working with the Department of Health and Human Services Office of Refugee Resettlement.

Safe Haven — Temporary refuge given to migrants who have fled their countries of origin to seek protection or relief from persecution or other hardships, until they can return to their countries safely or, if necessary until they can obtain permanent relief from the conditions they fled.

Service Centers — Five offices established to handle the filing, data entry, and adjudication of certain applications for immigration services and benefits. The applications are mailed to INS Service Centers—Service Centers are not staffed to receive walk-in applications or questions.

Special Agricultural Workers (SAW) — Aliens who performed labor in perishable agricultural commodities for a specified period of time and were admitted for temporary and then permanent residence under a provision of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Up to 350,000 aliens who worked at least 90 days in each of the 3 years preceding May 1, 1986 were eligible for Group I temporary resident status. Eligible aliens who qualified under this requirement but applied after the 350,000 limit was met and aliens who performed labor in perishable agricultural commodities for at least 90 days during the year ending May 1, 1986 were eligible for Group II temporary resident status. Adjustment to permanent resident status is essentially automatic for both groups; however, aliens in Group I were eligible on December 1, 1989 and those in Group II were eligible one year later on December 1, 1990.

Special Immigrants — Certain categories of immigrants who were exempt from numerical limitation before fiscal year 1992 and subject to limitation under the employment-based fourth preference beginning in 1992; persons who lost citizenship by marriage; persons who lost citizenship by serving in foreign armed forces; ministers of religion and other religious workers, their spouses and children; certain employees and former employees of the U.S. Government abroad, their spouses and children; Panama Canal Act immigrants; certain foreign medical school graduates, their spouses and children; certain retired employees of international organizations, their spouses and children; juvenile court dependents; and certain aliens serving in the U.S. Armed Forces, their spouses and children.

Special Naturalization Provisions — Provisions covering special classes of persons whom may be naturalized even though they do not meet all the general requirements for naturalization. Such special provisions allow: 1) wives or husbands of U.S. citizens to file for naturalization after three years of lawful permanent residence instead of the prescribed five years; 2) a surviving spouse of a U.S. citizen who served in the armed forces to file his or her naturalization application in any district instead of where he/she resides; and

3) children of U.S. citizen parents to be naturalized without meeting certain requirements or taking the oath, if too young to understand the meaning. Other classes of persons who may qualify for special consideration are former U.S. citizens, servicemen, seamen, and employees of organizations promoting U.S. interests abroad.

Stateless — Having no nationality.

Stowaway — An alien coming to the United States surreptitiously on an airplane or vessel without lawful status of admission. Such an alien is subject to denial of formal admission and return to the point of embarkation by the transportation carrier.

Student — As a nonimmigrant class of admission, an alien coming temporarily to the United States to pursue a full course of study in an approved program in either an academic (college, university, seminary, conservatory, academic high school, elementary school, other institution, or language training program) or a vocational or other recognized nonacademic institution.

Suboffices — Offices found in some Districts that serve a portion of the District's jurisdiction. A Suboffice, headed by an Officer-in-Charge, provides many services and enforcement functions. Their locations are determined, in part, to increase convenience to INS' customers.

Subject to the Numerical Limit — Categories of lawful immigrants subject to annual limits under the provisions of the flexible numerical limit of 675,000 set by the Immigration Act of 1990. The largest categories are: family-sponsored preferences; employment-based preferences; and diversity immigrants.

Temporary Protected Status (TPS) — Establishes a legislative basis for allowing a group of persons temporary refuge in the United States. Under a provision of the Immigration Act of 1990, the Attorney General may designate nationals of a foreign state to be eligible for TPS with a finding that conditions in that country pose a danger to personal safety due to ongoing armed conflict or an environmental disaster. Grants of TPS are initially made for periods of 6 to 18 months and may be extended depending on the situation. Removal Temporary Resident — See Nonimmigrant.

Temporary Worker — An alien coming to the United States to work for a temporary period of time. The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 and the Immigration Act of 1990, as well as other legislation, revised existing classes and created new classes of nonimmigrant admission. Nonimmigrant temporary worker classes of admission are as follows:

- 1) H-1A—registered nurses (valid from 10/1/1990 through 9/30/1995);
- 2) H-1B—workers with “specialty occupations” admitted on the basis of professional education, skills, and/or equivalent experience;

Transit Alien — An alien in immediate and continuous transit through the United States, with or without a visa, including, 1) aliens who qualify as persons entitled to pass in transit to and from the United Nations Headquarters District and foreign countries and 2) foreign government officials and their spouses and unmarried minor (or dependent) children in transit.

Transition Quarter — The three-month period—July 1 through September 30, 1976—between fiscal year 1976 and fiscal year 1977. At that time, the fiscal year definition shifted from July 1-June 30 to October 1-September 30.

Transit Without Visa (TWOV) — A transit alien traveling without a nonimmigrant visa under section 233 of the INA. An alien admitted under agreements with a transportation line, which guarantees his immediate and continuous passage to a foreign destination. (See Transit Alien.)

the maximum allowed under the country limitations (20,000 for independent countries and 5,000 for dependencies) in fiscal year 1988. (See Diversity.)

United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement — Public Law 100-449 (Act of 9/28/88) established a special, reciprocal trading relationship between the United States and Canada. It provided two new classes of nonimmigrant admission for temporary visitors to the United States-Canadian citizen business persons and their spouses and unmarried minor children. Entry is facilitated for visitors seeking classification as visitors for business, treaty traders or investors, intracompany transferees, or other business people engaging in activities at a professional level. Such visitors are not required to obtain nonimmigrant visas, prior petitions, labor certifications, or prior approval but must satisfy the inspecting officer they are seeking entry to engage in activities at a professional level and that they are so qualified. The United States-Canada Free-Trade Agreement was superseded by the North American Free-Trade Agreement (NAFTA) as of 1/1/94.

Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 — Public Law 106-386 (Act of 10/28/2000), enacted to combat trafficking in persons, especially into the sex trade, slavery, and involuntary servitude, and to reauthorize certain Federal programs to prevent violence against immigrant women and children. Created nonimmigrant classes of admission allowing temporary status to individuals (and spouses, children, and parents) in the United States who are or have been victims of a severe form of trafficking or who have suffered substantial physical or mental abuse as victims of criminal activity. Afforded the same immigrant benefits as refugees, with allowance for adjustment to permanent resident status.

Visa Waiver Program — Allows citizens of certain selected countries, traveling temporarily to the United States under the nonimmigrant admission classes of visitors for pleasure and visitors for business, to enter the United States without obtaining nonimmigrant visas. Admission is for no more than 90 days. The program was instituted by the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (entries began 7/1/88). Under the Guam Visa Waiver Program, certain visitors from designated countries may visit Guam only for up to 15 days without first having to obtain nonimmigrant visitor visas. The Visa Waiver Program was made permanent in 2000.

Voluntary Departure — The departure of an alien from the United States without an order of removal. The departure may or may not have been preceded by a hearing before an immigration judge. An alien allowed to voluntarily depart concedes removability but does not have a bar to seeking admission at a port-of-entry at any time. Failure to depart within the time granted results in a fine and a ten-year bar to several forms of relief from deportation.

Withdrawal — An arriving alien's voluntary retraction of an application for admission to the United States in lieu of a removal hearing before an immigration judge or an expedited removal. Withdrawals are not included in nonimmigrant admission data.

PREFERENCE IMMIGRATION LIMITS: FISCAL YEAR 2002

The Immigration Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-649) restructured the immigrant categories of admission and made other modifications to the Immigration and Nationality Act. The 1990 Act divided the preference classes into two general categories: family-sponsored and employment-based. Limits on the number of visas issued in these two categories are determined annually.

Family-sponsored limits — The worldwide level for family-sponsored preferences is calculated as:

480,000
minus the number of aliens who were issued visas or adjusted to legal permanent residence in the previous fiscal year as
 1) immediate relatives of U.S. citizens;
 2) children born subsequent to the issuance of a visa to an accompanying parent;
 3) children born abroad to lawful permanent residents on temporary trips abroad; and
 4) certain categories of aliens paroled into the United States in the second preceding fiscal year (2000) plus unused employment preferences in the previous fiscal year.

The 1990 Act specifies that the family-sponsored limit may not fall below a minimum of 226,000 in any year. The number of legal permanent residents issued visas or who adjusted in fiscal year 2002 under categories 1-3 listed above was 446,979. The number of unused employment-based visas in 2001 was 5,511. The exact number of parolees in 2000 was unknown but INS estimates it was less than the 38,532 that would have been needed in order that the limit exceed 226,000 ($480,000 - 446,979 + 5,511$). The 2002 family-sponsored limit, therefore, was set to 226,000. The limits for each of the family-sponsored preferences and their descriptions are shown on the following page.

Employment-based limits — The 1990 Act specifies that the worldwide limit on employment-based preference immigrants is equal to 140,000 plus unused family-sponsored preference visas in the previous year. The limit for fiscal year 2002 was set to 142,632 ($140,000 + 2,632$ unused family preference visas in 2001).

Per-country limits — The per-country limit on preference immigration for independent countries is set to 7 percent of the total family and employment limits ($226,000 + 142,632 = 368,632$), while dependent areas are limited to 2 percent of the total. The 2002 limit for independent foreign states was 25,804 (7 percent of 368,632) and the limit for dependencies was 7,373 (2 percent of 368,632).

Diversity limits — The annual limit for 2002 is 50,000. The limit was set at 55,000 effective in fiscal year 1995, but reduced to 50,000 if necessary beginning in fiscal year 1999 to allow 5,000 visas for use under the Nicaraguan Adjustment and Central American Relief Act of 1997 (NACARA) program.

APPENDIX 1

Fourth	Brothers and sisters of U.S. citizens (at least 21 years of age)	65,000 ³	65,000 ³

Fourth	Special immigrants	9,940	10,127
Fifth	Employment creation ("Investors")	9,940	10,127
Diversity		55,000	50,000

Note: The annual limits are adjusted based on visa usage in the previous year.

¹ The number of immediate relatives of U.S. citizens included in these figures is assumed to be 254,000. Immediate relatives may enter without any limitation; however, the limit for family-sponsored preference immigrants in a fiscal year is equal to 480,000 minus the number of immediate relatives admitted in the preceding year. The limit of family-sponsored preference visas cannot fall below a minimum of 226,000—the worldwide limit of 480,000 minus 254,000.

² Plus unused family 4th preference visas.

³ Visas not used in higher preferences may be used in these categories.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL GEOGRAPHIC DEFINITIONS

Changes in the political and geographical definitions of the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and Ethiopia have led to inconsistencies in the reporting of data. Information for these republics and the independent states emerging from them are presented in this edition of the Yearbook as follows:

Soviet Union — On January 1, 1992, the United States formally recognized 12 independent republics within the former Soviet Union: Armenia; Azerbaijan; Belarus; Georgia; Kazakhstan; Kyrgyzstan; Moldova; Russia; Tajikistan; Turkmenistan; Ukraine; and Uzbekistan. The Soviet Union has officially dissolved as an independent state. The independent republics have been assigned nationality codes in the various INS data bases and data are presented for them when available. However, a code has been retained for the Soviet Union because data for some data series are not available for the independent republics and continue to be reported for the Soviet Union.

Yugoslavia — On April 7, 1992, the United States formally recognized three independent states within the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia: Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, and Slovenia. On February 9, 1994, The Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia (FYROM) was recognized as an independent state. In the view of the United States, the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia has officially dissolved; however, the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia formed as its self-proclaimed successor (consisting of the republics of Serbia and Montenegro). On February 5, 2003, the United States recognized the new constitution adopted by the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia's Parliament establishing the republics of Montenegro and Serbia. The independent states of Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Slovenia, and Macedonia have been assigned nationality codes in the various INS data bases and data are presented for them when available. However, a code has been retained for Yugoslavia (though none have been established for either Serbia or Montenegro) because data for some data series are not available for the independent states and continue to be reported for Yugoslavia.

Czechoslovakia — On January 1, 1993, the United States formally recognized two independent republics within the Czech and Slovak Federal Republic (CSFR, or Czechoslovakia): the Czech Republic and Slovak Republic (Slovakia). Czechoslovakia has officially dissolved as an independent republic. The independent republics have been assigned nationality codes in the various INS data bases and data are presented for them when available. However, a code has been retained for Czechoslovakia because data for some data series are not available for the independent republics and continue to be reported for Czechoslovakia.

Ethiopia / Eritrea — On April 27, 1993, the United States formally recognized Eritrea as a sovereign country, independent of Ethiopia. Data for Ethiopia exclude Eritrea unless otherwise indicated.

Name changes for the following countries are reflected in this edition of the Yearbook:

Zaire — On May 30, 1997, Zaire was formally recognized as the Democratic Republic of the Congo. This country is shown as Congo, Democratic Republic.

Congo — The conventional long form name for the Congo is the Republic of the Congo. With the change of Zaire to the Democratic Republic of the Congo, the long form names are used for both countries. Congo is shown as Congo, Republic.

Hong Kong — On December 19, 1984, the United Kingdom and China signed a joint declaration on the question of sovereignty over Hong Kong. Under that declaration, China resumed the exercise of sovereignty over Hong Kong on July 1, 1997. Since the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region government enjoys a high degree of political and economic autonomy, Hong Kong continues to be shown separately.

Western Samoa — On August 4, 1997, Western Samoa was formally recognized as Samoa. This country is shown as Samoa.

People's Republic of China / Taiwan — Though officially considered by the United States as part of the People's Republic of China, Taiwan retains a statistical code and is shown separately unless otherwise noted.

In addition, there are known cross-reporting problems for certain pairs of countries with similar names or historical associations. These pairs of countries are: the People's Republic of China and Taiwan; the Dominican Republic and Dominica; Nigeria and Niger; Australia and Austria; Netherlands and Netherlands Antilles; and Mauritania and Mauritius. For each pair, persons from one country may be reported as being from the other country.
