ON THE FRONTLINES OF ECOLOGICAL RESISTANCE

ONTARIO, CANADA: ESCALATION IN UNDERGROUND ACTION AGAINST THE FUR INDUSTRY

by Rando

We call on the fur farmers of Ontario to close your animal prisons and find new and rewarding careers. If you do not close these farms down, we will close them down for you.

*The Real Humane Society
Animal Liberation Front*

Thus ends a statement by the Animal Liberation Front (ALF) which, accompanied by undercover footage taken at two fur farms in Ontario, Canada, was released following three Ontario fur farm raids that resulted in thousands of once captive mink running free. There have been few fur farm animal liberations in North America since the summer of 2013, when the ALF carried out at least eleven such actions across the United States. The raids in Ontario are a dramatic increase in pressure on animal exploiters, and—accompanied by other recent underground actions—suggest that momentum is building for a truly strategic attack on the fur industry.

This recent string of actions began on May 30 with a late-night raid of Glenwood Fur Farm in St. Marys. According to media, animals in two sheds were liberated,

June 7, 2015, the ALF planted incendiary devices under trucks belonging to Harlan Laboratories breeding cards were removed, and the gate was left open and surrounding fences cut to provide the animals with a means of escape. As many as 1,600 mink were set free. Another St. Marys fur farm, only minutes from Glenwood, was visited on July 7 and dealt a similar blow. The fences of RBR Fur Farm were cut open, and an estimated 6,800 mink formerly destined for torture were given a chance to live wild. In the third raid of the season, on the night of July 30, around 300 mink were freed from the cages of

NEWS FROM THE ECO-WARS

June 25—Mexico: Incendiary Attack Against Toyota Dealership in Veracruz

A statement claiming responsibility for the attack declared that “war is here and now—that cameras, patrols, bullets and all measures taken to counteract our actions are useless. Against all technology and its poison that murders wild nature! Fire to civilization!”

Approx June 25—France: Nuclear Waste Landfill Project Sabotaged

A site of the National Agency for Radioactive Waste Management was attacked by “a few determined night owls.” Multiple electrical installations were destroyed, and an analysis well was blocked up with concrete. A statement declared: “Attack the infrastructure of power wherever they are... resistance and sabotage!”

July 4—Germany: Hambach Forest Defenders Occupy Excavators

In conjunction with the Climate Games, four giant bucket excavators were occupied in the Hambach open cast mine. Three of the excavators were at the bottom of the pit, which means that for the first time in the Rhenish mining area the coal diggers themselves were occupied.

July 6—Rail Trains Blocked in OR on Anniversary of Disaster

Environmentalists and community members blocked the tracks into an oil transfer and storage facility in northwest Portland for an hour as a memorial service for the 47 people

July 2—Turkey: Mining Road Blocked with Downed Trees

A group of locals and environmental activists blocked the road to an old-growth forest in the Black Sea province of Artvin, preventing Forestry Ministry officials with mining interests from entering the area. Blockaders used trees cut by the forestry service to block the road. Shopkeepers shut down their stores in solidarity with the protest.

killed by an oil train derailment and massive explosion in Lac-Mégantic, Quebec, two years before. A banner was also dropped over an oil car.

July 7—Three Actions Against Fossil Fuel Infrastructure in VT and NY

First, a Vermont Gas Systems construction site was shut down for the day after three people locked down on a ditch-digging machine. Shortly after, TWAC activists blocked a truck carrying fracked gas, with one person locking to its bumper. In the third action, more than a hundred people converged in Ticonderoga, NY, for a boat flotilla, rally, and symbolic blockade against oil trains.

July 15—Mexico: “Wolves” Claim Responsibility for Burning Equipment

Excavators, transport vehicles, industrial tubing, and other construction equipment were burned at the construction site of West Plaza Park, the warehouse of an industrial shipping company in the vicinity of the Primavera Forest. A statement read, “To all those who threaten wild nature and our lives, we say that we will not stop until we see you destroyed...”

July 16—Canada: Innu Blockade Hydro-Quebec Construction

Protesters barricaded a road near Havre-Saint-Pierre in eastern Quebec, letting workers out of the area but saying they would not allow anyone into the site until Premier Philippe Couillard spoke with them in person. Hydro-Québec is not respecting an agreement it signed with the community and has flooded basins near the worksite of the project, which if continued will drown more than half the trees in the area.

July 20—Activists Arrested Protesting Faroe Island Whale Slaughter

Sea Shepherd crewmembers were arrested while investigating the grindadráp whale hunt after a whaling boat threw a line into a Sea Shepherd vessel’s propeller, intentionally disabling it. Five crewmembers were found guilty in a Danish court of breaking the Faroe Islands Pilot Whaling Act.

July 13—UK: Climate Change Activists Lock Down on Airport Runway

Protesting proposals to build a new runway, a dozen activists from Plane Stupid cut through a fence and occupied a runway at Heathrow Airport. Several locked their arms together around a tripod, costing the airport millions in diverted flights.

talists marched across the Lanao del Norte province of Mindanao Island to protest the construction of three new coal-fired power plants. The group's "Climate Walk" hopes to highlight the health and environmental hazards posed by the new plants, slated to become operational in 2017.

July 24—Canada: Activists Spill "Oil" on Kinder Morgan Sign

Urban land defenders attacked the sign with black paint at the Westridge Marine Terminal in Burnaby, BC, in a symbolic "spill" remembering the Westridge residents and marine life poisoned by Kinder Morgan's crude oil spill on July 24, 2007. This action was also done to highlight the continuing struggle of indigenous land defenders all along the proposed Kinder Morgan pipeline corridor.

July 25—Canada: Chevron Kicked Out of Unist'ot'en Camp

The company behind the Pacific Trails LNG pipeline attempted to enter Unist'ot'en's unceded territories and insultingly presented an offering of bottled water and industrial tobacco. A statement from the camp reads: "They have no consent from our chiefs and our hereditary governance system, who are standing strong in their stance against all pipelines."

July 28—Fiber Optic Cable Sabotage Continues in CA

In the twelfth incident of its kind in the region this year, saboteurs snipped another fiber optic cable line in the San Francisco Bay area. This latest attack, in Stockton, disrupted internet, mobile phone, and 911 service for tens of thousands of AT&T and Verizon customers in three counties.

July 29-30—Activists Hang from OR Bridge to Block Shell's Arctic Vessel

Thirteen climbers rappelled off the St. Johns Bridge to prevent the Fennica, a key vessel in Shell's Arctic drilling fleet, from leaving the city's port and drilling in the Arctic. Other protesters took to the water in kayaks, linked by ropes, to block the vessel. The Fennica, after being forced to turn back and wait 40 hours, was finally able to pass through a gap between the nine remaining climbers.

Aug 3—Activists Liberate Detroit Mayor's Water and Redistribute to Community

After more than 40,000 households had their water shut off, triggering a UN human rights investigation and prompting residents to demand a "Water Affordability Plan," members of both the Detroit and Michigan Coalitions Against Tar Sands filled jugs from the external spigot of Mayor Duggan's mansion and gave them to residents in need.

Aug 4—Hundreds Rally in AZ to Save Salt River Wild Horses

Several hundred people gathered near Salt River to protest the government's plan to remove, impound, or sell 65-100 horses. Advocates argued that the wild beasts trace their lineage to the 17th century and should be protected under the federal Wild and Free-Roaming Horses and Burros Act. The Forest Service suspended plans for at least 160 days as a result of the protest.

Aug 6—France: Lockdown Against Nuclear Waste

On the 70th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima, nine people covered in fake blood locked their arms together in front of the Ministry of Finance to protest a proposed nuclear waste dump. The Constitutional Council of France responded by scheduling a special debate in 2016 to establish conditions through which a waste site could exist. Activists rejected this compromise.

Aug 15—Germany: Around 1,500 Activists Shut Down Open-Pit Coal Mine

Over a thousand people from Ende Gelände ("Here and No Further") broke through three lines of riot police and entered the Garzweiler lignite mine to shut down Europe's largest source of CO2 emissions. At least one excavator—capable of digging out 2,400 train carriages of coal per day—was occupied.

Aug 10—Land Defenders Halt Construction of UT Tar Sands Mine

Approximately 40 protesters disrupted work at the Book Cliffs site, where the first US tar sands mine is being built, blocking roads with 25-foot tripods and locking down to cherry pickers. As of October 21, members of Utah Tar Sands Resistance have moved their on-going 24-hour vigil to downtown Salt Lake City, in front of the offices of SITLA (School and Institutional Trust Lands Association), the agency responsible for leasing the lands.

Aug 13 and 20—Lockdowns at RI Fracked-Gas Compressor Station

Two activists locked themselves to the front gate in protest of Spectra Energy's plans to expand infrastructure in NY, CT, MA, and RI. One week later, a member of Capitalism vs. the Climate celebrated his 75th birthday by locking to concrete-filled barrels decorated as birthday cakes.

Aug 14-15—Protesters Chase John McCain Off Navajo Nation

While the senator met with Tucson Electric Power's employees, approximately 30 people gathered outside to protest the Oak Flat Giveaway (a covert "exchange" of sacred Apache land to mining companies), McCain's renewed interest in Navajo and Hopi Water Rights Settlement, and his SB 750 bill, which gives Border Patrol agents access to all federal public and tribal land within 100 miles of the US-Mexico border. The next morning, on Code Talkers Celebration Day, protesters chased the senator off the Navajo Nation lands.

Aug 18 and 26—NY: Methane Gas Storage Facility Blocked, Tankers Kept Out

Protesters formed a human chain at the north entrance of Crestwood Midstream, blocking two tanker trucks from entering the gas storage facility. Eight days later, the action was repeated, again keeping tankers out. Crestwood has indicated that it intends to make Seneca Lake the gas storage and transportation hub for the Northeast. These actions brought the total number of arrests in the We Are Seneca Lake campaign to 372.

Aug 19—ME: Chevron Station's Pump Nozzles Locked Together, Banner Hung

Folks U-locked all gas pump nozzles together at a Chevron station to protest the company's attempted trespass on unceded Unist'ot'en land. Earlier that day, a banner was hung above a busy interstate reading "Support the Unist'ot'en. NO PIPELINES! Unistoten-Camp.com" with an image of the Chevron logo on fire.

Aug 20—France: Police Vehicle Set on Fire Near the ZAD

The vehicle was burned by a distress flare at Notre-Dame-des-Landes when the police attempted to evict a tenant near the site occupied by individuals resisting the construction of an airport. Fifteen people armed with slingshots and sticks attacked the police. The woman facing eviction, as well as her son, were placed in custody.

Aug 23—Greece: Massive Protest Against Resource Extraction and Capitalism

Following the Beyond Europe anti-mining action camp, around 2,000 demonstrators protested against capitalism and the extraction of gold and other metals in the Skouries mountains. Police used tear gas and shock grenades, but the event was viewed as a political success by the activists who expressed in their "No Gold, No Masters" press release that the "impact was felt deeply all over Greece and beyond."

Aug 24—England: Protest Against Dam in Occupied North Kurdistan

Kurdish solidarity activists associated with EF!UK halted traffic and dropped a banner from a bridge in Belper, Derbyshire, outside the offices of Andritz Hydro. Andritz supplies the turbines and other equipment for the Ilisu Dam currently being constructed by the Turkish state on the Tigris River as part of the Southeastern Anatolia Project.

Aug 25—Vermonters Halt Keystone XL Contractor at Pipeline Site

Over a dozen people entered the Addison-Rutland Natural Gas Pipeline site in Essex, disrupting work and demanding that Michels—a company under scrutiny for flawed work on the southern leg of the Keystone XL—immediately cease operations and terminate its contract with Vermont Gas. Employees continued to operate heavy machinery dangerously close to the protesters for over ten minutes before shutting down. Disruptions continued throughout the day.

Aug 25—Protesters Lock Down at John Kerry's House in DC

Using lockboxes, MidWest Unrest protesters blocked the sidewalk in front of the Secretary of State's home for four hours, calling on him to stop Enbridge Energy from expanding its Alberta Clipper oil sands pipeline. Twenty arrests were made.

Aug 25—Chile: Coordinated Incendiary Attacks Against Telecommunications Infrastructure

Several affinity groups installed incendiary devices with chemical delay mechanisms into a cell phone tower and the underground wiring of the fiber optic network of Entel, Chile's main telecom company. All three detonated successfully.

Aug 27—England: ATM Superglued to Protest Badger Cull

ALF activists inserted a card covered in super glue into Sainsbury's supermarket ATM. The card was swallowed, sticking to the inside of the machine, and causing thousands of dollars in damage. The store sells milk from the badger cull areas, and the ALF warned that they will attack any business or individual involved in the cull "in any way we can."

Aug 29—Ireland: Massive Right2Water Protest in Dublin

Over 100,000 people protesting

Ireland's second water tax gathered in mass action, resulting in one arrest. A few weeks prior, 23 people were arrested for a November 2014 direct action in Jobstown Tallaght where the Deputy Prime Minister was forced to sit in her car for two hours while surrounded by water activists.

Sept 1—Peru: Indigenous Land Defenders Seize 11 Oil Wells

Achuar demonstrators shut down the wells and took control of a runway to demand clean water, reparations for oil pollution, and more pay for the use of native land after multiple spills over the past several years. Pluspetrol, who operate the wells, said the daily output of about 8,500 barrels was stopped.

Sept 2—Canada: Enbridge Line 9B Site in Port Hope Disrupted

About 15 protesters from Rising Tide Toronto set up signs demanding an end to tar sands extraction and fracking. Workers were sent to other sites after the protesters arrived. Rising Tide noted that the reversal of flow will allow for the expansion of the oil sands in Alberta, and that not all of those affected were consulted about the project.

Circa Sept 9—Canada: Victory after Ahousaht Blockade Salmon Farm

After a nine-day occupation and boat blockade, meetings between Ahousaht First Nation and Cermaq leadership, and support from hundreds of people throughout Canada and beyond, the international fish farming group Cermaq made a commitment to move their cage system away from the area of Yaakswiis. The Ahousaht Fish Farm Committee strongly opposes any fish farms.

Sept 9—Eight Arrested in Protest Against Mauna Kea Telescope in HI

In the latest round of resistance against the construction of a 30-meter telescope atop a mountain many native Hawaiians consider sacred, police enforced an emergency rule created to stop people from camping on the mountain. Protesters were hauled away while praying. This was the fourth time telescope opponents have been arrested on the mountain.

Circa Sept 10—Canada: Oil Railway Sabotaged Twice in Montreal

From the anonymous statement: "We placed a copper wire connecting both sides of the tracks, thus sending a signal indicating a blockage on the tracks and disrupting circulation until the tracks were checked and cleared. This train line in particular is being worked on in order to facilitate the transport of oil eastward to the port of Belledune in New Brunswick ... This simple act is easily reproducible, and demonstrates the vulnerability of their infrastructure."

Circa Sept 13—Chile: Mapuche Territorial Resistance Group Sabotages Logging Equipment

The equipment and machinery owned by Mininico Forestry Incorporate was monkeywrenched in response to the continued development on Mapuche Territory and unjust laws passed by the Chilean state.

Sept 17—Pheasants Liberated in OR

Approximately 100 ring-necked pheasants were released from the EE Wilson Game Management Area into a surrounding safe zone where hunting is prohibited. The animals were slated to be killed in an Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife-sponsored pheasant hunt. The ALF claimed responsibility.

Circa Sept 18—Canada: Indigenous Land Defenders Block LNG Terminal Construction

Sept 20—England: Sabs Prevent Kills at Two Hunts

Hunt saboteurs paid a visit to the Berkeley and the Cotswold Vale Farmer's Hunts and harassed hunters until they went home. The latter fox hunt has been obstructed all season.

Sept 21—Grandparents Blockade Vermont Gas Systems Pipe Yard

The six members of the Upper Valley Affinity Group stalled operations by blocking traffic between the company's staging site and construction zones. The grandparents, accompanied by about 20 supporters, took action to call attention to the proposed Colchester-Rutland pipeline.

Sept 22—Anti-War and Climate Activists Arrested Blockading White House Gates

Beyond Extreme Energy and The National Campaign for Nonviolent Resistance marched from the World

Sept 29—"Climate Profiteers" Shut Down as CA Activists Flood Financial District

Protesters marched down San Francisco's main thoroughfare, halting morning commuters for nearly an hour. Demonstrators blocked and painted an intersection and obstructed the entrances of the Bank of the West headquarters, prompting police to shut down the entire building. Seven demonstrators were arrested for remaining in the street, with reports of 15 arrests overall. The demonstration was organized as part of Flood The System, a decentralized series of actions taking place in the months leading up to the COP 21 in Paris.

Bank to the gates of the White House and demanded a meeting with the president to discuss the impact of Obama's war on climate change. In response to being ignored they blocked the White House gates. Over a dozen people were arrested.

Sept 23—Canada: First Nations Women Shut Down Tar Sands Pipeline Hearing

Chanting "No tar sands on stolen native lands," the women shut down the public hearing in Montreal. Four took the stage and hoisted a banner reading, "No consent, no pipelines" as dozens of protesters cheered them on.

Sept 24—Mexico: Parcel Bomb Delivered to OHL Development Company

"The Pagan Cult of the Mountain," a small group carrying out acts against civilization and its frenetic development, placed a parcel bomb in the parking lot of the company. OHL is responsible for building the Bicentennial Viaduct, a raised highway in Mexico Valley.

Sept 26—Spain: 3,000 Pheasants Released from Farm

Aviaries were damaged and 3,000 pheasants released from the Don Faisan Hunting Farm in Macotera. "Frente de Liberación Animal" ("Animal Liberation Front") was painted on a wall.

Sept 28—Activists Arrested at SC Headquarters of Biotech Company

Two activists attempting to inform Andrew Baum, President and CEO of ArborGen, that over 250,000 people signed letters and petitions rejecting genetically engineered (GE) trees, were arrested outside of ArborGen facilities. Demonstrators did a guerrilla theater skit demanding that ArborGen "Tear Down the Wall" of secrecy surrounding their projects.

Sept 28—Peru: Police Open Fire on Mining Protesters, Killing Three

Police opened fire on Peruvian highland farmers protesting a $7.4 billion Chinese-owned copper mining project when they entered part of Las Bambas mine where the plant is being built.

By the end of the day, three were dead and 23 injured—15 civilians and eight police officers. Thirty protesters were arrested. Ambulances could not reach the nearest clinic because police shot at a vehicle carrying doctors.

Sept 29—Canada: Lax Kw'alaams Continue to Disrupt Test Drilling

Unauthorized drilling on Flora Bank by Los Angeles contractor vessel Quin Delta was stopped for two hours. Lax Kw'alaams members followed a boat with three surveyors to a dock at Port Edward where the land defenders told drillers that they were not permitted on Lelu Island. Workers refused to identify which company they worked for and aggressively insisted that they were authorized to be there. ✂

SHOW YOUR SOLIDARITY!!!

“It is important that the people inside the prison know they're not alone! And that we won't accept the injustice that our comrades are in jail without a fight. If you were thinking about doing an action against coal mining and climate destruction, do it now! Spontaneous demonstrations, sabotages, banner drops—be creative. And show your solidarity to the 3 prisoners in your action declarations.”

ZAD FACING EVICTION THREAT — CALL FOR SOLIDARITY

Over the past month the French Prime Minister, President, and pro-airport lobby have been increasingly vocal and clear about their desire to evict the ZAD (Notre-Dame-Des-Landes) and begin work on the airport as soon as they can. The time frame of January-March is recurrent in their public declarations. These are threats, not inevitabilities.

The anti-airport movement is strong and determined, but to avoid the hassle of an eviction attempt we need to show our force beforehand, locally and internationally, so the State understands that they'll only fail again. You're invited to make actions, spread the word, have big demos, and show up at French embassies/consulates and offices/worksites of Vinci (the airport contractor).

If you've been waiting for the right moment to do something to support the zad, make an info night, blockade a police station, send us lots of money, come visit and get to know the terrain, get into a public argument with a diplomat—now is the time! And also send us pictures at ZAD@RISEUP.NET.

No statements were released by the ALF or anyone else claiming responsibility for these three raids, and no one has been caught or accused of carrying them out. However, a message was sent out with the undercover footage that was released shortly after the third raid. A four-minute clip of the footage went online in early October. It begins with the text, “ALF, Studies & Observations Group, Operation Infinite Justice,” and then pans across seemingly endless rows of caged mink. According to their statement, at Willow Pond Mink Farm ALF members “witnessed injured mink with gaping wounds crammed into small cages that were covered in dirt and feces,” and at Chesterfield Mink Ranch they “documented [the animals] being fed foul rotting food covered in maggots.”

Animal liberation and economic sabotage are powerful on their own, as evidenced this summer by the thousands of lives saved directly through liberation. But strategically employing a diversity of tactics can have an even greater effect. The release of this footage—revealing to the media and the general public the conditions on fur farms—coupled with the liberation of fur farm animals, has the potential to strike a much more damaging blow against Ontario’s fur farms than raids alone.

The liberations and capturing of undercover footage are not the only clandestine actions for animals that have taken place in the Ontario region in recent months. In September, a Canadian animal testing laboratory’s website was taken over by activists. In July, businesses owned by the Ontario Livestock Alliance were graffitied and their locks were glued. And in June, a statement was released taking responsibility for an arson against Harlan Laboratories in Mississauga, Ontario, and claiming solidarity with the recent mink raids:

Early in the morning of June 7, 2015, the Animal Liberation Front planted incendiary devices under trucks belonging to Harlan Laboratories. Harlan is a company owned by Huntingdon Life Sciences. They are responsible for supplying research animals and animal feed to vivisectionists. This action was undertaken in order to eliminate this evil company’s means of transportation, to disrupt the systematic torture and murder of innocent animals, and to cause as much monetary damage as possible. Fortunately, news reports have said that the devices ignited successfully, damaging one truck and completely destroying the other. Our only regret is that the flames were extinguished before they had a chance to spread to Harlan’s offices. In solidarity with those fighting the oppression of mink on fur farms in St. Mary’s - A.L.F.

These recent actions offer hope for the animals suffering on fur and factory farms and in animal testing laboratories: Individuals are freeing wild animals from captivity, sabotaging equipment to undermine the profit motive of animal exploiters, and taking advantage of the recent increase in such activity to carry out actions in ways that have greater potential for shutting down the industry altogether. Let’s hope this momentum holds, in Ontario and elsewhere. ✂

There are four activists in North America facing prison time for AETA charges related to fur farm liberations. Find out how you can support them at SUPPORTNICOLEANDJOSEPH.COM and SUPPORTKEVINANDTYLER.COM.

A special thanks to Bite Back (DIRECTACTION.INFO) for posting animal liberation information and statements diligently and with integrity.
