Khlaifia and Others v. Italy

15.12.2016

The case concerned the holding, in a reception centre on the island of Lampedusa then on ships in Palermo harbour (Sicily), of irregular migrants who arrived in Italy in 2011 following the "Arab Spring" events in their country, and their subsequent removal to Tunisia.

Violation of Article 5 § 1 (right to liberty and security)

Violation of Article 5 § 2 (right to be informed promptly of the reasons for deprivation of liberty)

Violation of Article 5 § 4 (right to a speedy decision on the lawfulness of detention)

No violation of Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment) as regards the conditions in the Lampedusa reception centre

No violation of Article 3 as regards the conditions on the ships in Palermo harbour

No violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 to the Convention (prohibition of collective expulsion of aliens)

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) taken together with Article 3

No violation of Article 13 taken together with Article 4 of Protocol No. 4

Cases dealing with inhuman or degrading treatment (Article 3)

Saadi v. Italy

28.02.2008

Decision to deport the applicant to Tunisia, where he claimed to have been sentenced in his absence for terrorism.

Violation of Article 3 if the deportation went ahead

Enea v. Italy

17.09.2009

Applicant had been subjected to a special prison regime (under section 41 bis § 2 of the Prison Administration Act) then placed in a high supervision unit.

No violation of Article 3

Violation of Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair trial) concerning his right to a court during the period of the special regime

No violation of Article 6 § 1 as regards his right to a court during his placement in the high supervision unit

Violation of Article 8 (right to respect for correspondence)

Hirsi Jamaa and Others v. Italy

23.02.2012

The case concerned Somalian and Eritrean migrants travelling from Libya who had been intercepted at sea by the Italian authorities and sent back to Libya.

Violations of Article 3 because the applicants had been exposed to the risk of ill-treatment in Libya and of repatriation to Somalia or Eritrea

Violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 (prohibition of collective expulsions)

Violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) taken in conjunction with Article 3 because the applicants had been unable to lodge their complaints with a competent authority and to obtain a thorough and rigorous assessment of their requests before the removal measure was enforced

Violation of Article 13 taken in conjunction with Article 4 of Protocol No.4 because the remedy under the criminal law against the military personnel on board the ship did not satisfy the criterion of suspensive effect

The Court found that the applicants had fallen within the jurisdiction of Italy for the purposes of Article 1 of the Convention because they had been under the continuous and exclusive control of the Italian authorities.

Cases dealing with Article 6

Right to a fair hearing/trial

Perna v. Italy

06.05.2003

Journalist convicted of aggravated defamation for publishing an article accusing the Chief Public Prosecutor of Palermo (G. Caselli) of abuse of authority, without attempting to prove the veracity of his allegations.

No violation of Articles 6 or 10 (freedom of expression)

01.03.2006

Applicant convicted in his absence without having had the opportunity to present his defence.

Violation of Article 6

Scoppola v. Italy (no. 2)

17.09.2009

Question whether, in convicting the applicant for murder according to the summary procedure, the Italian courts should have applied the most lenient criminal-law provision out of all those in force in the period between the commission of the offence and the final judgment.

Violation of Articles 6 and 7 \(no punishment without law\)

Right to a fair trial within a reasonable time

Scordino v. Italy (no. 1)

29.03.2006

Effectiveness of the "Pinto Act", which introduced the possibility of lodging a complaint with the Italian courts in respect of excessively long proceedings. The case also concerned the right to receive compensation for expropriation.

Cases concerning the right to respect for private and family life (Article 8)

Guerra and Others v. Italy

19.02.1998

The Italian authorities had not provided the applicants with sufficient information about the risks and about what to do in the case of an accident in a chemical factory with a "high risk" classification.

Violation of Article 8

Parrillo v. Italy

27.08.2015

The case concerned a ban under Italian Law no. 40/2004, preventing Ms Parrillo from donating to scientific research embryos obtained from an in vitro fertilisation which were not destined for a pregnancy.

No violation of Article 8

Paradiso and Campanelli v. Italy

24.01.2017

The case concerned the placement in social-service care of a nine-month-old child who had been born in Russia following a gestational surrogacy contract, entered into with a Russian woman by an Italian couple who had no biological relationship with the child.

Lautsi v. Italy

18.03.2011

The case concerned the presence of crucifixes in State-school classrooms in Italy.

No violation of Article 2 of Protocol No. 1 \(right to education\).

The Court held in particular that the question of religious symbols in classrooms was, in principle, a matter falling within the margin of appreciation of the State - particularly as there was no European consensus as regards that question - provided that decisions in that area did not lead to a form of indoctrination. The fact that crucifixes in State-school classrooms in Italy conferred on the country's majority religion predominant visibility in the school environment was not in itself sufficient to denote a process of indoctrination. Moreover, the presence of crucifixes was not associated with compulsory teaching about Christianity; and there was nothing to suggest that the authorities were intolerant of pupils who believed in other religions, were non-believers or who held non-religious philosophical convictions.

Lastly, Ms Lautsi had retained her right as a parent to enlighten and advise her children and to guide them on a path in line with her own philosophical convictions.

Giuliani and Gaggio v. Italy

24.03.2011

Death of demonstrator in clashes between anti-globalisation protesters and law-enforcement officers during 2001 G8 summit in Genoa.

No violation of Article 2 (right to life) concerning four different complaints: use of lethal force; legislative framework governing the use of lethal force / weapons issued to the law-enforcement agencies at the G8; organisation of the policing operations at the G8; alleged lack of an effective investigation.

No violation of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy). No violation of Article 38 (adversarial examination of the case).

Scoppola v. Italy (n° 3)

22.05.2012

The case concerned the applicant's disenfranchisement following his criminal conviction.

No violation of Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 (right to free elections)

The Court found that the disenfranchisement of convicted prisoners provided for under Italian law was not like the general, automatic, indiscriminate measure that led it to find a violation of Article 3 of Protocol No. 1 in the Hirst \(no. 2\) v. the United Kingdom case. Italian law took care to adapt the measure to the particular circumstances of a case, particularly the length of the sentence.

Centro Europa 7 S.R.L. v. Italy

07.06.2012

The case concerned an Italian TV company's inability to broadcast, despite having a broadcasting licence, because no television frequencies were allocated to it.

Ben Khemais v. Italy

24.02.2009

Deportation of a Tunisian national suspected of being involved in Islamist terrorism despite the Court's indication to the Italian Government (under Rule 39 of the Rules of Court) that the order should be stayed pending its decision on the merits.

Sulejmanovic v. Italy

16.07.2009

The case concerned prison overcrowding.

Toumi v. Italy

05.04.2011

Removal of a terrorist from Italy to Tunisia notwithstanding the Court's indications and the risk of ill-treatment (see also Grand Chamber judgment Saadi v. Italy).

Torregiani and Others v. Italy

08.01.2013

The case concerned overcrowding in prisons in Italy.

The Court decided to apply the pilot-judgment procedure in view of the growing number of persons potentially concerned in Italy and of the judgments finding a violation liable to result from the applications in question.

Following up on Torregiani case, the Court received more than 4,200 similar applications which were declared inadmissible or struck out.

Contrada (No. 2) v. Italy

11.02.2014

The case concerned the authorities' repeated refusal of a prisoner's requests for a stay of execution of his sentence or for the sentence to be converted to house arrest on account of his numerous health problems.

Cestaro v. Italy

07.04.2015

The case concerned events which occurred at the end of the G8 summit in Genoa in July 2001, in a school made available by the municipal authorities to be used as a night shelter by demonstrators. An anti-riot police unit entered the building around midnight to carry out a search, leading to acts of violence.

The Court found that there had been a violation of Article 3 of the Convention on account of ill-treatment sustained by Mr Cestaro and of inadequate criminal legislation concerning the punishment of acts of torture which was not an effective deterrent to prevent the repetition of such acts.

After emphasising the structural nature of the problem, the Court pointed out that, as regards the remedial measures to be taken, the State's positive obligations under Article 3 might include the duty to introduce a properly adapted legal framework, including, in particular, effective criminal-law provisions.

Nasr and Ghali v. Italy

23.02.2016

The case concerned an instance of extrajudicial transfer (or "extraordinary rendition"), namely the abduction by CIA agents, with the cooperation of Italian officials, of the Egyptian imam Abu Omar, who had been granted political asylum in Italy, and his subsequent transfer to Egypt, where he was held in secret for several months.

In the present case the Court held that the legitimate principle of "State secrecy" had clearly been applied by the Italian executive in order to ensure that those responsible did not have to answer for their actions. The investigation and trial had not led to the punishment of those responsible, who had therefore ultimately been granted impunity.

Cases concerning the right to liberty and security (Article 5)

Violation of Article 5

Seferovic v. Italy

08.02.2011

Detention pending deportation of a woman who had recently given birth to a child who died at the hospital, despite the fact that Italian law prohibited the deportation of a woman within six months of giving birth.

Gallardo Sanchez v. Italy

24.03.2015

The case concerned the excessive length of a Venezuelan national's detention in Italy with a view to his extradition to Greece.

Cases concerning Article 6

Violations of Article 6 § 1

Guadagnino v. Italy and France

18.01.2011

Italian courts refused to hear industrial disputes concerning an employee of the French school in Rome.

De Luca v. Italy and Pennino v. Italy

24.09.2013

The two cases concerned the impossibility for the applicants to have a final judgment enforced in order to recover money owed to them by a municipal authority which had become insolvent.

Right to a fair hearing

Violations of Article 6 § 1

Cordova v. Italy

30.01.2003

Applicant (former public prosecutor in Sicily) filed criminal complaints against a Senator and an MP, but their alleged offences were covered by parliamentary immunity.

C.G.I.L. and Cofferati v. Italy

(no. 46967/07)

24.02.2009

Savino and Others v. Italy

28.04.2009

Question whether the Judicial Committee and Judicial Section for officials of the Chamber of Deputies were independent and impartial tribunals.

Lombardi Vallauri v. Italy

20.10.2009

Refusal by Milan Catholic University to employ a lecturer who was not approved by the Congregation for Catholic Education.

Maggio and Others v. Italy

31.05.2011

Re-adjustment of pensions of Italians who worked abroad.

Agrati and Others v. Italy

07.06.2011

The applicants were 125 Italian nationals who complained about the retrospective application of a new law to ongoing judicial proceedings, on the calculation of their length of service as civil servants.

Arras and Others v. Italy

14.02.2012

The case concerned legislative amendments which affected pending civil proceedings the applicants had brought concerning their pension adjustments. The applicants were pensioners and former employees of the Banco Di Napoli, a banking group which was originally public and was later privatised.

M.C. and Others v. Italy (no. 5376/11)

03.09.2013 – Pilot judgment¹

¹ Since 2004 and in response to the large number of cases deriving from systemic or structural problems in certain countries the Court has developed a

The case concerned the fact that it was impossible for 162 Italian nationals to obtain an annual adjustment of the supplementary part of a compensation allowance paid to them following accidental contamination as a result of blood transfusions or the administration of blood derivatives.

The Court held that the Government's enactment of the emergency legislative decree, which ruled on the disputed issue of adjustment of the supplementary part of the allowance, had infringed the principle of the rule of law and the applicants' right to a fair hearing, had imposed "an abnormal and excessive burden" on them and, lastly, had disproportionately infringed their property rights.

Dhahbi v. Italy

08.04.2014

The case concerned the inability of an immigrant worker of Tunisian origin to obtain payment from the Italian public authorities of a family allowance under the association agreement between the European Union (EU) and Tunisia (Euro-Mediterranean Agreement).

Azienda Agricola Silverfunghi S.A.S. and Others v. Italy

24.06.2014

The case concerned proceedings before the Italian courts brought by a number of Italian agricultural companies based on their possible entitlement to a two-fold reduction of social security contributions. Pending these proceedings the Italian legislator passed a new retrospective law which determined that their benefits would be calculated alternatively, and not cumulatively.

No violation of Article 6 § 1

pilot-judgment procedure. This consists in identifying in a single judgment systemic problems underlying a violation of the European Convention on Human Rights and indicating in that judgment the remedial measures required to resolve such situations. The pilot-judgment procedure is not only intended to facilitate effective implementation by respondent states of individual and general measures necessary to comply with the Court's judgments, but also induces the respondent State to resolve large numbers of individual cases arising from the same structural problem at domestic level, thus reinforcing the principle of subsidiarity which underpins the Convention system.

Trevisanato v. Italy

15.09.2016

The case concerned the inadmissibility of an appeal to the Court of Cassation for failure to formulate a point of law (quesito di diritto) in a satisfactory and appropriate manner.

Right to a fair hearing within a reasonable time

Grande Stevens and Others v. Italy

04.03.2014

The case concerned the applicants' appeal against the administrative penalty imposed on them by the Italian Companies and Stock Exchange Commission (hereafter "Consob"²) and the criminal proceedings to which they are currently subject after having been accused of market manipulation in the context of a financial operation involving the car manufacturer FIAT.

Violation of Article 6 § 1

No violation of Article 6 § 3 (a) (right to be informed promptly of the accusation) and (c) (right to the assistance of a lawyer) in respect of Mr Grande Stevens

No violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property)

Violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 7 (right not to be tried or punished twice)

The Court also held that the respondent State was to ensure that the new criminal proceedings brought against the applicants, in violation of Article 4 of Protocol No. 7, which, according to the most recent information received, were still pending in respect of Mr Gabietti and Mr Grande Stevens, were closed as rapidly as possible.

Excessive length of proceedings, delay in payment of "Pinto" compensation

Simaldone v. Italy

31.03.2009

Delay in payment of compensation awarded under "Pinto Act".

Violation of Article 6 § 1 (right to a fair hearing within a reasonable time) and Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property)

² "Consob" is a Commission charged, in particular, with protecting investors and ensuring the transparency and development of the stock markets.

The judgment referred to a growing number of applications concerning delayed payment of "Pinto" compensation.

Gaglione and Others v. Italy

21.12.2010

Delay by the Italian authorities in paying compensation in 475 "Pinto" applications (applications lodged to complain of the length of civil proceedings) – a delay of at least 19 months in 65% of the applications. Violation of Article 6 § 1 (enforcement of judicial decisions within a reasonable time); violation of Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property)

The Court observed a widespread problem relating to the enforcement of Pinto decisions in Italy (at 7 December 2010, more than 3,900 applications concerning, among other things, delays in paying compensation under the Pinto Act were pending before the Court). It found that general measures were required to remedy malfunctioning of "Pinto" applications.

It disagreed with the assertion that the applicants had not suffered a significant disadvantage and dismissed for the first time a request for application of the new admissibility criterion introduced by Protocol No. 14 (no significant disadvantage).

Cases dealing with Article 7 (no punishment without law)

Sud fondi Srl and Others v. Italy

20.01.2009

Court-ordered confiscation of property following illegal development on a protected site ("Punta Perrotta"), although the Court of Cassation, in the criminal proceedings, had found the landowners and their representatives to have committed an "inevitable and excusable error".

Violation of Article 7

Contrada v. Italy (no. 3)

14.04.2015

The case concerned the issue of whether the actions for which the applicant was convicted and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment constituted a criminal offence at the time when they were committed.

Violation of Article 7

The Court held that the offence of "aiding and abetting a mafia-type organisation from the outside” had resulted from a development in the case-law which had begun toward the end of the 1980s and was consolidated in 1994, and that it was not therefore sufficiently clear and foreseeable for Mr Contrada at the time of the events in respect of which he was charged (1979-1988).

Cases concerning the right to respect for private and family life (Article 8)

Violations of Article 8

Moretti and Benedetti v. Italy

27.04.2010

Shortcomings in adoption proceedings: failure to respect foster parents’ rights.

Piazzini v. Italy

02.11.2010

The case concerned the applicant’s inability, for more than seven years, to exercise his right of access in respect of his son, under the conditions laid down by the courts, on account of the alleged failure by the social services to take the necessary measures.

Di Sarno and Others v. Italy

10.01.2012

The case concerned the state of emergency (from 11 February 1994 to 31 December 2009) in relation to waste collection, treatment and disposal in the Campania region of Italy where the applicants lived and/or worked, including a period of five months in which rubbish piled up in the streets.

Costa and Pavan v. Italy

28.08.2012

The case concerned an Italian couple who are healthy carriers of cystic fibrosis and wanted, with the help of medically-assisted procreation and genetic screening, to avoid transmitting the disease to their offspring.

Godelli v. Italy (no. 33783/09)

25.09.2012

The case concerned the confidentiality of information concerning a child’s birth and the inability of a person abandoned by her mother to find out about her origins.

Zhou v. Italy

21.01.2014

The case concerned the placement of the applicant’s third child, a toddler, with a foster family with a view to adoption and the fact that Ms. Zhou had not had any contact with her child for ten months.

Manuello and Nevi v. Italy

20.01.2015

The case concerned the applicants’ inability to see their granddaughter, firstly because of the non-enforcement of court decisions authorising meetings and secondly on account of a court decision suspending those meetings.

Oliari and Others v. Italy

21.07.2015

The case concerned the complaint by three homosexual couples that under Italian legislation they do not have the possibility to get married or enter into any other type of civil union.

Bondavalli v. Italy

17.11.2015

The case concerned the Mr Bondavalli’s inability to exercise fully his right of contact with his son on account of negative reports by the Scandiano social services, with which the mother had professional links.

Giorgioni v. Italy

15.09.2016

The case concerned the effectiveness of the measures taken by the Italian authorities to ensure that a father could exercise fully his contact rights in respect of his son despite a situation of conflict with the child’s mother.

Cases on freedom of expression (Article 10)

Brambilla and Others v. Italy

23.06.2016

02.04.2013

The case concerned eight students' complaints about the restrictions imposed on them by Italian legislation aimed at limiting access to universities, following their unsuccessful attempts to obtain a place in the faculties of medicine and dentistry.

No violation of Article 2 of Protocol No. 1 \(right to education\)

For the first time the Court has had to assess the compatibility with the right to education in the tertiary sector of the operation of a numerus clausus (the maximum number of candidates allowed to enter a university) coupled with an entrance examination. The Court concluded that the State had not exceeded its wide discretion to decide on such a matter as regulating access to education. It essentially found that there existed a right to access education only in so far as a university had the capacity and resources and in so far as society had a need for a particular profession, unemployment representing further expenditure for society at large.

³ The "Dublin" system serves to determine which European Union (EU) Member State is responsible for examining an asylum application lodged in one of the Member States by a third-country national.

The Dublin Regulation establishes the principle that only one Member State is responsible for examining an asylum application. The objective is to avoid asylum seekers from being sent from one country to another, and also to prevent abuse of the system by the submission of several applications for asylum by one person.

children did not disclose a sufficiently real and imminent risk of hardship severe enough to fall within the scope of Article 3.

Sharifi and Others v. Italy and Greece

21.10.2014

The case concerned 32 Afghan nationals, two Sudanese nationals and one Eritrean national, who alleged, in particular that they had entered Italy illegally from Greece and been returned to that country immediately, with the fear of subsequent deportation to their respective countries of origin, where they faced the risk of death, torture or inhuman or degrading treatment.

The Court held, concerning four of the applicants, Reza Karimi, Yasir Zaidi, Mozamil Azimi and Najeeb Heideri (also known as Nagib Haidari), who had maintained regular contact with their lawyer in the proceedings before the Court, that there had been:

a violation by Greece of Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) combined with Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment) on account of the lack of access to the asylum procedure for the above-named applicants and the risk of deportation to Afghanistan, where they were likely to be subjected to ill-treatment a violation by Italy of Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 (prohibition of collective expulsion of aliens)

a violation by Italy of Article 3, as the Italian authorities, by returning these applicants to Greece had exposed them to the risks arising from the shortcomings in that country's asylum procedure;

a violation by Italy of Article 13 combined with Article 3 of the Convention and Article 4 of Protocol No. 4 on account of the lack of access to the asylum procedure or to any other remedy in the port of Ancona

Allegations of ill-treatment during the G8 summit in Genoa

Azzolina and Others v. Italy and Kutschkau and Others v. Italy (nos. 28923/09 and 67599/10)

Cases communicated to the parties in December 2012

In these three cases, the applicants allege that they were subjected to ill-treatment in the context of clashes at the G8 Summit held in Genoa in 2001. They rely in particular on Articles 3 (prohibition of inhuman and degrading treatment) and 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention.

Bartesaghi Gallo and Others v. Italy (no. 12131/13) and Albrecht and Others v. Italy (no. 43390/13)

Cases communicated to the parties in November 2015

These cases concern the events occurring at the end of the July 2001 G8 summit in Genoa at the Diaz-Pertini school, which had been made available by the municipal authorities as overnight accommodation for demonstrators.

Relying mainly on Articles 3 (prohibition of torture and/or inhuman or degrading treatment) and 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention, the applicants allege that they were ill-treated by police units that had entered the premises to carry out a search, and complain that they have no effective remedy in respect of their complaints of ill-treatment.

Orlandi and Others v. Italy (no. 26431/12)

Communicated to the parties in December 2013

The case concerns the refusal by the Italian authorities to recognise the applicants' marriages, which were entered into abroad. It also relates to the lack of any other form of recognition for same-sex couples in the Italian legal system. The applicants rely on Articles 8 (right to respect for private and family life), 12 (right to marry) and 14 (prohibition of discrimination) of the Convention.

Richmond Yaw and Others v. Italy

(nos. 3342/11, 3391/11, 3408/11 and 3447/11)

Communicated to the parties in March 2015

The applications concern the detention of the applicants, who are Guinean nationals, with a view to executing a removal order. The applicants reply on Article 5 § 1 (right to liberty and security), Article 5 § 4 (right to speedy review of the lawfulness of detention) and Article 5 § 5 (right to liberty and security) of the Convention.

Talpis v. Italy (no. 41237/14)

Communicated to the parties in August 2015

The application concerns, in particular, the alleged failure by the Respondent State to provide protection and support to the applicant following violence inflicted by her husband, which ended with the murder of the applicant's son and the attempted murder of the applicant.

The applicant relies on Articles 2 (right to life), 3 (prohibition of inhuman or degrading treatment), 8 (right to respect for private and family life), 13 (right to an effective remedy) and 14 (prohibition of discrimination) of the Convention.

Cirino v. Italy (no. 2539/13) and Renne v. Italy (no.4705/13)

Communicated to the parties in September 2015

The applicants complain of the ill-treatment to which they were allegedly subjected during their detention, amounting, in their view, to torture. In particular, they complain that they were subjected to acts of violence and were deprived of food and sleep. They also allege that, given that the offence of torture does not exist in Italian criminal law, the perpetrators of the alleged ill-treatment were prosecuted for less serious offences, which became time-barred during the criminal proceedings.

The applicants rely on Articles 3 (prohibition of torture) and 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention.

Francesco Cordella and Others v. Italy (no. 54414/13) and Lina Ambrogio Melle and Others v. Italy (no. 54264/15)

Cases communicated to the parties in April 2016

These applications concern the pollutant emissions from the Ilva steelworks in the city of Taranto. The applicants live (or lived) in the city or the surrounding area. The Ilva plant is the largest steelworks in Europe, and has been the focus of a long-running debate about the effects of its emissions on the environment and the health of the local population.

Relying on Articles 2 (right to life) and 8 (right to respect for private and family life) of the Convention, the applicants complain that the State failed to take all the necessary legal, regulatory and public information measures to protect the environment and the local residents' health. Under Article 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention, they also complain that they have no effective domestic remedy in respect of those grievances.

Amanda Marie Knox v. Italy
(no. 76577/13)

Case communicated to the parties in April 2016
This case concerns criminal proceedings in which Ms Knox was found guilty of making a false accusation. The offending statements were taken while she was being questioned in the context of criminal proceedings for the murder and sexual assault of her flatmate. The applicant was accused of implicating another person whom she knew to be innocent. Ms Knox alleges that the criminal proceedings in which she was convicted were unfair, relying on Article 6 §§ 1 and 3 (a) (right to a fair trial – right to be informed promptly of the charge), (c) (right to legal assistance), (e) (right to assistance from an interpreter), Article 3 (prohibition of inhuman and degrading treatment) and Article 8 (right to respect for private and family life) of the Convention.

Barahona Guachamin and 8 other cases
v. Italy (nos. 33295/15)

Cases communicated to the parties in May 2016
These applications concern the evacuation of the applicants and the demolition of their homes, which had been built illegally on public land. Relying on Articles 6 (right to a fair hearing), 8 (right to respect for private and family life) and 13 (right to an effective remedy) of the Convention, the applicants complain of a violation of their right to a court, alleging that the demolition of their homes and the destruction of their possessions infringed their right to respect for their private and family life and home and that no effective remedy is available in respect of their allegations. Relying on Article 1 of Protocol No. 1 (protection of property) to the Convention, the applicants allege a violation of their right to the peaceful enjoyment of their possessions as a result of the demolition of the buildings and the loss of the items inside them.
