

Scavenger Hunt

Sunday's News Break challenges you to hunt through the Sunday, March 5, 2017 print replica of The Seattle Times to find answers to the following questions.

1. China said Saturday that its military budget would rise by about 7 percent this year, apparently the lowest increase in seven years, signaling what? (MAIN)
2. On December 16, 2016, President Barack Obama signed the Water Infrastructure Improvements for the Nation Act, which included a brief section that transferred control of the contested 9,000-year-old skeleton to five claimant tribes. Last week, the tribes reburied the Ancient One, as they call him, in a grave not far from where he was found along the Columbia River. What other name is this skeleton known as? (MAIN)
3. Somalia's prime minister said Saturday that 110 people have died from hunger in 48 hours in a single region — what is threatening millions in their country? (MAIN)
4. North Korean weapons barred by U.N. sanctions ended up in the hands of U.N. peacekeepers in Africa, a confidential report says. That incident and others in more than a half dozen African nations show what? (MAIN)
5. For the past two decades, scientists have found a number of easy ways to make significant changes in people's behavior. What did they suggest to get voters to the polls? (NW SUNDAY)
6. On Monday, the Senate Transportation Committee will discuss Senate Bill 5851. What does this bill entail? (NW SUNDAY)
7. How many absences does the state count for a student to be labeled as chronically absent? (NW SUNDAY)
8. Seattle's hoops history is rich, Seattle's hoops history is proud. So when you can say you played on the best high-school basketball team to ever come out of the 206, that's a pretty distinct honor. What high-school team are they referring to? (SPORTS)
9. NFL COMBINE: A former Husky receiver sets NFL combine record in the 40-yard dash. Who was it and what was his time? (SPORTS)
10. A drive along the upper deck, offers Seattle drivers a beautiful sunset view. "When you're on it, you get to see the majesty of what we've built as well as the natural setting we live in," says MOHAI executive director Leonard Garfield. What roadway are they talking about (Pacific NW Insert)

News Break is posted to the Web on Wednesday and Friday. Please share this NIE News Break program with other teachers. To sign-up for the print replica for your class, please call 206/652-6290 or toll-free 1-888/775-2655. Copyright © 2017 The Seattle Times Company