Annotation: 'Traces the history of Aboriginal people along Sydney's Georges River from the early periods of white settlement to the present. Telling the stories of the river people, it offers insights into Aboriginal history in an urban setting. For centuries Aboriginal people lived along the Georges River. With colonisation, the river's geography forced settlers to leapfrog over its rugged and swampy bends in search of arable land. Aboriginal people retained a hold over some of the land and maintained communities - despite changes caused by the city's growth. Two leading historians investigate Aboriginal communities in this densely settled, but often overlooked, suburban area' -- back cover

Physical descrip: xxviii, 380 p. : ill., maps ; 30 cm.
Series: (Terra Australis ; 27)
Bibliography note: Bibliography: p. 352-380.
Contents Note: Introduction -- The Sydney Basin - Environmental context -- Social context -- Archaeological context -- The rock art of the Sydney basin -- Excavations at Yengo 1 and Yengo 2 -- Excavation at the Great Mackerel Rockshelter -- Excavatiions at Upside-down-man -- The contemporaneity of art and deposit -- diachronic variations in the art of the Sydney basin -- Synchronic variation: Sydney basin engraved art -- Regional synchronic variation: shelter art -- Dreamtime superhighway: modelling with a regional style
Annotation: "Presents a thorough and original contextualization of the rock art and archaeology of the Sydney Basin. By combining excavation results with rock art analysis it demontrates that a true archaeology of rock art can provide insights into rock art image-making in people's social and cultural lives. Based on a PhD dissertation, this monograph is a significantly revised and updated study which draws forcefully on rich and new data from extensive recent research - much of it by McDonald herself. Mcdonald has developed a model that suggests that visual culture - such as rock art making and its images and forms - could be understood as a system of communication, as a way of signaling group identifying behaviour." -- cover.

Annotation: The focus of Saltwater People - Sydney's Southern Beaches is on the shoreline - that high energy intersection between sea and land where waves, whipped-up by wind and storms, sometimes thousands of kilometers out to sea, announce their arrival in a final dramatic explosion, or caress it with a gentle cascade. This constant, hypnotic dance with the shore can be calming, and it can be confronting. When the swell appears excitement grows and the coastline becomes energized. The surfzone both attracts and influences us - and in turn our presence affects this playground on the edge of the vast Pacific. It is not just surfers that are attracted to this zone. Sydney's magnificent beaches have produced some truly unique individuals and some incredible stories. They are home of the world's most recognized painters, potters, writers, poets, photographers, film-makers, musicians and architects. Saltwater People - Sydney's Southern Beaches pays homage to those remarkable people who have made this coastline home.
