Annotation: "The regulation of Outsiders to Aboriginal Country is theorised by scholars as invasion and contact, race relations, frontiers and acculturation. In these theories Aboriginal People are represented as powerless and hopeless in the face of their inevitable assimilation. Aboriginal regulation of Outsiders is rarely investigated for Aboriginal agency. This research study investigated the agency of a Rainforest Aboriginal Community, the Burungu, Kuku-Yalanji of Far North Queensland, Australia in the regulation of Outsiders to their Country of past, present and future. A major feature of this research study is its development of an Indigenist research paradigm founded on the principles of cultural respect and cultural safety and embedded in Aboriginal ontology, epistemology and axiology. It is through an ontological premise of relatedness and with the use of traditional devices such as First Stories and visual Stories that this Indigenist research paradigm makes transparent the assumptions, theory, methodology and ethics of the research study." -Provided by publisher.

Annotation: "The Fire and the Story is a documentary developed by the grassroots Traditional Knowledge Revival Pathways project and is a bid to educate the broader public nationally and internationally about the benefits of reapplying Indigenous burning techniques. The range of chapters and stories that make up the film are real case studies, with Elders on country assessing the issue first hand. The areas involved are also practically re-engaging fire back into country which delivers an experience that will draw you closer to understanding fire both culturally and environmentally. The message in general is to recognise traditional knowledge as playing a leading role in the management of the Australian environment and to assist Indigenous led studies of fire for global warming solutions. One of the chapters has been shot with Native American people in California as well, to show and support the similarities of TK systems of indigenous people from other countries, and how they are based on the same principles of making country healthy and rich. The film also demonstrates Elders travelling to other areas of Australia to teach other groups how to read the country and restructure the traditional regime by bridging principles. Other clans and areas involved are Kuranda, Laura, Lakefield, Cape Tribulation, Gulf, Research outcomes and Pastoral properties." -- website.
