No. 124.—CLEVELAND BAY.

BY ARTHUR R. JOHNSTONE, Esq., AND MONTAGU CURR, Esq.

THE following vocabularies, which were forwarded to me, the one by Mr. Arthur Johnstone and the other by my brother, Mr. Montagu Curr, are both assigned to Cleveland Bay, and belong no doubt to the dialects of two tribes in that locality.

Mr. Johnstone informs me that when a Black of this tribe dies he is buried and a large fire made over his grave. Whilst it is burning, a gigantic man, it is believed, comes and takes away all the remains of the dead man with the
