Personal Author: Adler, Nicholas
Title: Portraits from an uninhabited land / Nicholas Adler.
Publication info: Sydney : Bantam, 1988.
Physical descrip: aca 140 p. : chiefly ill., map, ports. ; 34 cm
ISBN: 094718927
Annotation: With his portable 'bush studio', photographer Nicholas Adler has captured a haunting and confronting series of portraits of Aboriginal people from Western Australia. From the rugged, lush northern Kimberley to the harshness of the Gibson Desert, people from twenty different communities were invited to sit for the camera - not as exotic or academic snapshot-fodder, but as formally and proudly as any sitters in the classical tradition of portraiture. Defiance, pleasure, pride, even tragedy, will be found in this unique collection - none of these faces will easily be forgotten.

Title: Tjakin-Njikena, the changing patterns of food taboos in the south-west Kimberley region of Western Australia Publication info: 1975
Annotation: Tjakin-Njikena or meat avoidance was traditionally limited to the flesh of marsupials by people in the Broome, Luma & La Grange areas and was practiced during times of mourning as a voluntary sign of being sorry for the deceased; Today the practice has changed so that the choice of what food is to be avoided and for how long is a matter of individual choice; Subjects from Walmatjeri, Mangala, Njikene, Karadjeri and Njangamata tribes

Title: We only want our rights and freedom : the Pilbara pastoral workers strike, 1946-1949 / Anne Scrimgeour
Publication date: 2014
Annotation: "On 1 May 1946 Aboriginal workers on Pilbara sheep and cattle stations staged a sit-down strike for better wages and conditions. Over the following months people began moving away from stations to form two new independent communities. Why did the sit-down? strike become a walk-off? This article examines the conditions of Aboriginal labour in the Pilbara in the years leading up to the strike to develop an understanding of how labour conditions influence the form of industrial action available to workers. It also examines the extent to which the establishment of independent communities was a means of achieving better labour conditions on stations, and the extent to which autonomy itself became the strikers? goal'. [author's abstract]; discusses rationing as a means of colonial governance; mentions Bungalow Station, Mulyie Station, Corunna Downs Station, Mount Edgar Station, Muccan Station; establishment of independent communitites and first schools run by Indigenous Australians

Annotation: Compares three languages in Western Australia: Karajarri, Mangala and Nyangumarta, collectively termed Marrngu; presents a comparative study of 300 cognate sets as well as the pronominal systems; presents evidence that the abberant phonotactics and phoneme distribution of the Marrngu langauges is the result of a high number of loanwords from neighbouring Nyulnyulan languages; also suggests that the verbal conjugational and inflectional systems have remained relatively stable in Marrngu and are also evidence for relatedness
