La. House hearings set for 'Angola 3' cases

4/29/2008, 5:32 p.m. CDT

By DOUG SIMPSON

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A legislative panel will hold hearings to investigate the case of former Black Panthers who spent three decades in solitary confinement at the state penitentiary at Angola, two of the so-called "Angola Three," the committee chairman said Tuesday.

Rep. Cedric Richmond, chairman of the House judicial committee, said his goal is to investigate the prosecution of Herman Wallace and Albert Woodfox, which he believes may have been mishandled. The two were in solitary confinement in Angola for 36 years before prison authorities in March transferred them into a dormitory with other prisoners.

Wallace and Woodfox were convicted of killing Brent Miller, an Angola guard, in 1972.

Civil rights activists worldwide have taken up their cases, arguing that the men are innocent and have endured cruel conditions at the prison because of their membership in the Black Panthers.

A federal magistrate has twice refused to recommend throwing out a lawsuit filed by Wallace and Woodfox, in which they argue their treatment amounts to cruel and unusual punishment. A U.S. district judge has yet to rule on whether the lawsuit will continue toward trial.

Richmond, D-New Orleans, said he knows of one sign of a bungled prosecution: a "bloody fingerprint" was found at the crime scene that didn't match either man, but there was no investigation of its source.

"When the crime happened in the prison there was a rush to judgment," leading to the convictions of Wallace and Woodfox, Richmond said at a news conference.

Richmond said the legislative hearings would begin next month.

Robert King, the other of the Angola Three group, had his conviction for killing another inmate overturned. He was released in 2001 after 29 years in solitary confinement. King formerly used the surname Wilkerson.

Lawmaker to hold hearing in 'Angola Three' case

by Jan Moller, The Times-Picayune

Tuesday April 29, 2008, 3:16 PM

BATON ROUGE -- The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee said Tuesday that he plans to hold a public hearing in the case of two New Orleans men who were kept in solitary confinement for 36 years at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola for a murder they say they did not commit.

Rep. Cedric Richmond, D-New Orleans, said the hearing will seek testimony from the state attorney general's office, Angola Warden Burl Cain and others on whether Herman Wallace and Albert Woodfox were properly convicted for the 1972 murder of prison guard Brent Miller.

Supporters of Wallace and Woodfox, who make up two-thirds of a group known to supporters as the "Angola Three," say that the convictions were at least partly because of the men's involvement with the Black Panther Party.

"Under this new governor's office, this new day, we are making sure we right the wrongs of yesterday," Richmond said.

Both Wallace and Woodfox are appealing their convictions.

A third member of the Angola Three, Robert King, has his conviction overturned in 2001 after serving 29 years in the killing of another inmate.

The case has drawn international attention in recent years. As Richmond addressed the media, a documentary film crew was on hand to record the proceedings and stacks of petitions bearing more than 25,000 signatures in support of Wallace and Woodfox were sitting on a committee-room dais.

Richmond said his effort has support from Miller's widow, Teenie Verrett. King, formerly known by the last name Wilkerson, appeared at the news conference and said he has traveled the country and the world in recent years speaking in favor of Wallace and Woodfox's innocence.

House panel to hold hearings in Angola 3 case

Published: Apr 30, 2008 - Page: 4A - UPDATED: 12:05 a.m.

The state House Judiciary Committee will begin holding hearings in May to demand answers in the case of two men imprisoned in solitary confinement for 36 years.

Judiciary Chairman Cedric Richmond, D-New Orleans, on Tuesday cited the “massive amount of evidence” indicating their innocence in the 1972 stabbing death of a guard during a riot at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola.

Prisoners Herman “Hooks” Wallace and Albert Woodfox, along with Robert King, who was released in 2001, are known as the “Angola 3.”

They claim they were illegally targeted for starting a prison Black Panthers chapter during the Civil Rights era and have unfairly paid for the injustice ever since.

Richmond brought about 25,000 petition signatures to Gov. Bobby Jindal’s office on Tuesday expressing the “concern and outrage” about the case worldwide.

In fact, a British film crew is making a documentary about the case.

“The state is too silent on this issue,” Richmond said. “So that’s what we’re going to have — official government action.

“We’re fresh off the Jena 6. Now, we’re on the Angola 3,” Richmond said. “At some point, we’re going to have to stand up as a state.”

Jindal did not respond Tuesday to two requests for comment.

His press secretary, Melissa Sellers, said Jindal is letting the court appeals and the state Pardon Board processes play out first.

Richmond said he wants Jindal to push for pardons for the men.

Richmond discussed evidence of a bloody fingerprint at the murder scene that did not match either Wallace’s or Woodfox’s prints.

“I know solitary confinement for 36 years is wrong. I know we want to find the real killer,” Richmond said. “What we don’t know is why the investigation didn’t run its course.”

Richmond was flanked Tuesday by state Rep. Avon Honey, D-Baton Rouge; Rep. Elbert Guillory, D-Opelousas; and King, who used to go by the last name Wilkerson.

Richmond said he will use all his committee’s subpoena power to get to the bottom of the case.

King, 65, said the case shows the state’s criminal justice system is not always “so set on justice.

“They are innocent,” King said, arguing that they were “railroaded” for being Black Panthers during turbulent times.

It was not until last month that Wallace and Woodfox were moved from solitary into Angola’s maximum-security dormitory.

They are appealing their convictions in the stabbing death of a guard, Brent Miller.

The 23-year-old corrections officer was stabbed 32 times.

All of the three are from the New Orleans area.

Nineteenth Judicial District Commissioner Rachel Morgan previously recommended that Wallace get a new trial. But that was rejected by state District Judge Mike Erwin and the case is pending in the state 1st Circuit Court of Appeal.

Woodfox is appealing in U.S. District Court in Baton Rouge.

U.S. House Judiciary Committee Chairman John Conyers, D-Mich., has even contended the men were wrongly convicted. The state Attorney General’s Office also is looking into the case.
