2013 Legislative Voting Record

Background

Coming out of the 2012 elections, human rights issues faced an uphill battle at the legislature. An anti-immigrant ballot measure (LR-121) had passed by a large margin, and the makeup of the legislature did not foster confidence in progressive policy victories.

The 2013 legislative session in Montana had split control of power, with Democrats holding the Governor's office and Republicans continuing to dominate the state House and state Senate. While Republicans held a smaller margin in the Senate (29-21), the House GOP held a super majority (61-39). Democrats made gains in both chambers during the 2013 General Election compared to the 2011 session (a net gain of six seats); maintained control of the Governor's office (Steve Bullock), Secretary of State (Linda McCulloch), State Auditor (Monica Lindeen), and Superintendent of Public Instruction (Denise Juneau); but they lost control of the Attorney General's office (Tim Fox).

The party divide was not, however, the division that made the largest waves of the session. The division amongst the Republican Party was the bigger story. While much of the Republican Party continued to move further right, a fraction broke off in favor of more moderate economic policies and some social issues.

The Human Rights Network is a multi-issue organization that lobbied for and against numerous bills during the 2013 legislative session. Many bills on a variety of human rights issues were introduced in the legislature, but very few made it out of the committee in which they were initially heard. Two notable bills the Network supported that died in committee were HB 370 and HB 481. House Bill 370 sought to abolish the death penalty and replace it with life without parole. It was sponsored in the House by Rep. Doug Kary (R-Billings), with co-sponsorship by Rep. Margaret MacDonald (D-Billings), Sen. Dave Wanzenried (D-Missoula), and Sen. Matt Rosendale (R-Glendive). House Bill 481 was sponsored by Rep. Edith McClafferty (D-Butte) and would have added sexual orientation and gender identity/expression to the Human Rights Act, our state’s bedrock civil rights law.

Many important bills that deserved a vote by the full legislature were not given the opportunity by committees. Some of these committees, like House Judiciary, were stacked with conservative legislators that, not only opposed good policy, but refused to allow the issues to undergo the full democratic process.

The following voting record displays how Montana legislators voted on numerous bills on which the Montana Human Rights Network advocated for or against during the session.

Terms Used in Voting Record

Tabling a Bill: The committee hearing a bill generally takes one of two actions. It can pass the bill on to its respective full chamber (the House or Senate), or it can table the legislation. Tabling signals that a majority of the committee does not support the bill.

Blasting a Bill: Just because a bill is tabled in committee does not mean it is dead. A lawmaker can make a “blast” motion on the floor. This motion is to take a bill from a committee and bring it to the floor for debate. A blast motion in the House requires 60 votes to pass, while in the Senate it only takes a simple majority.

Summary of Bills

Support

Healthcare Access Bills

The Montana Legislature missed multiple opportunities to expand healthcare access for 70,000 lower-income Montanans. Legislators could’ve expanded Medicaid eligibility to people at or below 138% of the poverty level ($26,000/year for a family of three). The entire cost would've been covered by federal dollars for three years, after which the state would pay a small portion (10% by 2020). Expansion would've made our communities healthier, given financial security to rural hospitals and clinics, and been an economic stimulus for our state.

HB 590 - "Medicaid Expansion"

Rep. Chuck Hunter (D-Helena)

Advocates attempted to blast the bill out of the House Human Services Committee where it had been tabled. While the motion received a simple majority (52-44), it failed to reach the required 60 "yes" votes.

SB 395 - "Medicaid Expansion"

Sen. David Wanzenried (D-Missoula)

This bill was transmitted to the House after a narrow passage in the Senate (26-24) that included all Democratic Senators and four key Republicans: Taylor Brown (Billings), Ed Buttrey (Great Falls), Jim Peterson (Buffalo), and Bruce Tutvedt (Kalispell). The House failed to pass the legislation (49-51) and thus failed to expand access to health-care for tens of thousands of Montanans.

LGBT Equality Bills

The Network has led the efforts for LGBT equality at the Montana Legislature for many sessions. The momentum and energy of Network members who had recently engaged in two successful local non-discrimination ordinance campaigns carried into the session, and Montana passed the first two LGBT legislative victories in 2013.

SB 107 - “Repeal Deviate Sexual Conduct”

Sen. Tom Facey (D-Missoula)

Although a 1997 Montana Supreme Court ruling called it unconstitutional, the “deviate sexual conduct code” criminalizing lesbian and gay relationships remained on the books. The repeal bill passed the Senate (38-11), was tabled by the House Judiciary Committee, but was successfully blasted to the House floor, and eventually passed the full House (64-35). The Network proudly coordinated this effort to pass the LGBT community’s first explicit victory in the Montana Legislature.

SB 306 - “Inclusive Family Assault Laws”

Sen. Alan Olson (R-Roundup)

Revised the definition of “partners” under the offense of partner family member assault to include same-sex relationships. The bill was co-sponsored by Sen. Christine Kaufmann (D-Helena) and Sen. Cliff Larsen (D-Missoula) and was a substantial victory for the Montana Coalition Against Sexual and Domestic Violence. The bill passed the Senate (44-6) and the House (58-40) and was signed into law by the Governor.

American Indian Rights Bills

The Network plays a supporting role to the American Indian Caucus in its efforts to strengthen Native rights in the state. This role has included repealing English as the only official language in the state and resolutions supporting the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People.

HB 110 - “Strengthen State-Tribal Relations”

Rep. Carolyn Pease-Lopez (D-Billings)

Successfully strengthened tribal sovereignty and the government-to-government relationship between the state and tribes. It requires the state document it considered guiding principles when a policy has a direct tribal implication. The principles include: a commitment to cooperation and collaboration; mutual understanding and respect; regular and communication; a process of accountability; and preservation of the tribal-state relationship. It passed the House (95-5) and Senate (30-18) and was signed into law.

Rep. Carolyn Pease-Lopez

Other Bills

HJ 13 - “Violence Against Women Act”

Rep. Frosty Calf Boss Ribs (D-Heart Butte)

This resolution urged Congress to reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act. The Act addresses the needs of victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. First enacted in 1994, the reauthorization extended provisions to protect LGBT persons, Native Americans living on reservations, and undocumented individuals who are victims of domestic violence. The Montana House passed the resolution (70-28), and the following day the US Congress reauthorized the Act. The Senate Judiciary Committee tabled the Montana resolution.

Oppose

Anti-Immigrant Bills

There were a few bills aimed at demonizing, harassing, and penalizing new immigrants to Montana. Rep. David Howard (R-Park City) sponsored two measures, continuing his trend of targeting the immigrant community. Back in 2011, he sponsored the referendum that became LR-121 that appeared on the 2012 General Election ballot.

Rep. David Howard not only carried anti-immigrant legislation, but supported Chck-Fil-A for their anti-gay stance.

HB 50 - “Prohibit Sanctuary Cities”

Rep. David Howard (R-Park City)

Prohibited municipalities from becoming “sanctuary cities,” denied funding to cities passing such ordinances, and encouraged lawsuits to be filed against them. The bill passed the House (60-36) and Senate (28-21). However, Governor Bullock vetoed it for undermining the ability of local law enforcement to set priorities to address the needs in their community.

HB 297 - “Criminalize Employment”

Rep. David Howard (R-Park City)

Made hiring an undocumented worker a crime under Montana law. The bill passed the House (63-37) and Senate (29-21). However, it was vetoed by Governor Bullock, who stated it would “duplicate and may interfere with federal enforcement of federal law.”

Anti-Gay Bills

HB 239 - “Anti-Sex Ed /Ban LGBT Discussions” Rep. Cary Smith (R-Billings)

Limited student access to sexuality education classes to only those whose parents submitted written consent. The bill was the Religious Right’s response to the Helena School District passing a comprehensive sex education curriculum. Although the bill was a direct assault on reproductive rights by restricting education on topics like contraception, it also specifically targeted the gay community by prohibiting any discussion of positive LGBT role models in literature, history, or health enhancement curricula. The Network stood with the Reproductive Rights Coalition in opposition to the bill, as well as with the Montana Library Association, which believed it would lead to banning or restricting books depicting any LGBT characters. The bill passed the House (56-41) and Senate (28-22). Governor Bullock vetoed it, saying it intruded on the constitutional authority of the Board of Public Education and local school boards.

Anti-Government “Patriot” Bills

Numerous bills touted traditional beliefs of the anti-government “patriot” movement. One hot and confusing topic of the session was coordination, the new term for county supremacy. Supporters like Rep. Kerry White (R-Bozeman) claim county commissioners can demand that federal agencies work with them to implement local plans for federal public lands. There is no basis in federal law for “coordination.” The following bills were used in the voting record.

HB 290 - “Jury Nullification” Rep. Jerry O’Neil (R-Columbia Falls)

Promoted “jury nullification,” which claims that jurors have the right to judge the law when reaching verdicts. In essence, it encourages jurors to ignore laws they don't like and set defendants free regardless of evidence to the contrary. The group most closely associated with promoting "jury nullification," the Fully Informed Jury Association, infamously supported a white supremacist (whom it called a "war hero") on trial for murdering a civil rights activist, saying jurors should make "the right decision when the law is wrong." The bill failed Second Reading in the House (38-62).

Sen. Dave Lewis (R-Helena) again brought a bill (HJ 7) encouraging the US to withdraw from the United Nations, an idea popular amongst anti-government activists.

HB 303 - "Sheriff's First"

Rep. Krayton Kerns (R-Laurel)

Promoted the supremacy of the county sheriff. Since the 1970s, white supremacist and anti-government groups have claimed it's up to the sheriff to fight off any perceived encroachment by federal institutions, especially when it comes to income taxes, firearm regulations, and environmental protection. The bill required federal agents to get written permission from the sheriff before taking any action in a county and called on the county attorney to prosecute any agent that didn't. The bill failed Third Reading in the House (47-53).

Anti-Reproductive Rights Bills

Many bills tried to undermine the reproductive freedom of women, in addition to restricting the rights of young people. As an active member in the Montana Reproductive Rights Coalition, the Network opposed these bills. The following is used in the voting record:

HB 391 - "Weaken Access to Abortion"

Rep. Gerry Bennett (R-Libby)

Required a minor under the age of 18 to get notarized parental consent before obtaining an abortion. The bill passed the House (57-41) and Senate (30-20) and was allowed to become law. Governor Bullock announced he let the bill become law to nullify an identical referendum also sponsored by Bennett. Instead of having the referendum appear on the 2014 General Election ballot, Bullock's action allowed HB 391 to be challenged immediately in court.

Gun Bills

Numerous bills tried to erode Montana's already-lax gun laws and arm the populace in the name of anti-government sentiment. The bills were often a tool to not only increase access to weapons, but to further a right-wing, anti-government agenda. For a more detailed examination of the connection between the "gun rights" and anti-government movements, see the Network's report Shooting for Respectability: Firearms, False Patriots, and Politics in Montana.

Rep. Krayton Kerns (left) and Gary Marbut (right) of the Montana Shooting Sports Association work together at the legislature to pass bills promoting more access to weapons.

HB 240 - "Guns on Campus"

Rep. Cary Smith (R-Billings)

Allowed college students to openly carry weapons on campus. While it passed the House (61-39) and Senate (28-22), Governor Steve Bullock vetoed the measure, stating that "common sense dictates that guns and college campuses do not mix."

HB 302 - "Anti Federal Semi-Automatic Ban"

Rep. Krayton Kerns (R-Laurel)

Made it illegal for Montana peace officers to enforce any federal law banning semi-automatic weapons. The bill passed the House (62-35) and Senate (28-21), but Governor Bullock vetoed it, calling it "unnecessary political theater."

HB 304 - "Permitless Concealed Carry"

Rep. Krayton Kerns (R-Laurel)

Effectively eliminated Montana's concealed weapons permitting process by allowing almost anyone to carry a concealed weapon without a permit. The bill passed the House (58-41) and Senate (30-19), but Governor Bullock vetoed it, saying he couldn't "support an absurd concept that threatens the safety of our communities."

HB 358 - “Weaken Concealed Weapons Laws”

Rep. Krayton Kerns (R-Laurel)

Allowed concealed weapon permit holders to carry firearms in banks, government buildings, restaurants, and places that serve alcohol. The bill failed Second Reading in the House (48-52).

SB 210 - “Guns in the Capitol”

Sen. Verdell Jackson (R-Kalispell)

Allowed legislators with permits to carry concealed weapons in the Capitol. The bill failed Second Reading in the Senate (21-29).

Other Bills

HB 30 - “Erode Voter Rights”

Rep. Ted Washburn (R-Bozeman)

Eliminated same-day voter registration, making it more difficult to exercise the right to vote. Same-day voter registration allowed more than 8,000 Montanans to vote in the 2012 General Election. It is frequently used by seniors, students, American Indians, and low-income people. The bill passed the House (60-38) and Senate (29-21), but Governor Bullock vetoed the measure.
