

30 years of Earth First!

Southeast speaking tour with Karen Coulter

WHERE:

WHEN:

“Celebrating 30 years of putting the Earth First!”

A history of the movement through slides, video, story and poetry, from someone who's been there for nearly all of it...

Karen has been involved in Earth First! since 1984 and is the current director of the Blue Mountains Biodiversity Project, a grassroots organization which monitors Federal agencies policy's of logging and toxic herbicide-spraying on public lands in Eastern Oregon. She has been an activist on environmental, anti-nuclear and social justice issues since 1980, working for groups such as the American Friends Service Committee against the MX missile.

Coulter is author of the book The Rule of Property, co-author of poetry collection Branded With Desire and a contributor to the Earth First! Journal. She is currently working on a new book exploring the role of property in the rise of corporate power.

Presented by the Earth First! Speakers Bureau
www.speakers.earthfirstjournal.org

Hosted by (Local Contact):

