

THE PROBLEM

* is that anyone could wield so much power in the first place. If government and the market didn't concentrate so much power in the hands of so few, a man like Donald Trump could never be so dangerous.

All of the taxes that good liberals paid hoping that the state would take care of the elderly and ill just put more bullets in the guns of the police. All the faith invested in Obama's promises of Hope and Change just strengthened the institutions that will imprison and deport and surveil. Relying on the government to solve our problems just legitimizes weapons that will ultimately be used against us. We will be at the mercy of men like Donald Trump until we become capable of preventing them from carrying out their agendas even when they hold office.

Whoever is elected, we are ungovernable
