DEEP WATER

4 x 60' NEW HD

When the mutilated corpse of a young gay man is found in a smart Bondi beach apartment, Detectives Tori Lustigman and Nick Manning are assigned the case. Is this brutal murder a domestic, a robbery gone wrong, or a gay hate crime?

With mounting evidence to suggest the perpetrator has killed before, they start digging through old investigations. The discovery is shocking. In the '80s and '90s they uncover up to 80 possible murders of gay men in New South Wales – unexplained deaths, 'suicides' and disappearances. Many of these killings were linked to youth gangs targeting and beating up gay men, a blood sport that went largely unpunished. Is this a result of shoddy police work, indifference, or something far more sinister – prejudice in an era of panic over HIV and AIDS?

When Tori was 11, her teenage brother disappeared after a family fight, one that Tori blames herself for. This event continues to haunt her thoughts. As Tori's fascination with the case turns to fixation, Nick starts to question her motives and judgement. Is she compromising the current case? Was her brother's drowning twenty-five years ago actually a murder?

With key witnesses reluctant to talk, fearing their identities will be exposed and still wary of perceived homophobia within the police force, the investigation stalls. Meanwhile, the killer circles in and witnesses end up dead.

But instinct pays off, and by reopening the cold cases, the detectives are finally able to reveal the truth about the past murders, bringing closure to the victim's families, and bringing the killers to justice.

NEW SERIES

Series 1 | The Enemy Within: 8 x 60'

Series 2 | The Invisible Wound: 8 x 60'

Series 3 | Playing Advantage: 8 x 60'

Senior Prosecutor Janet King takes on an array of courtroom battles across three compelling series, each unravelling its own complex web of corruption, sabotage, and murder.

In series one, Janet returns from a year of maternity leave, and is determined to prove her worth by convicting high ranking police officer, Steven Blakely. As the case develops, a complex web of vice and conspiracy is revealed, shaking the police, judiciary and government to their core.

In the second series, Janet returns to a Royal Commission case that delves deep into gun crime, and the murder of 25 year old Todd Wilson. As the case develops, she discovers an unexpected link to the murder of her partner Ash; a case in which the killer was never caught. Janet navigates the final twists and turns of Todd's murder, to uncover a crime of passion and mistaken identity that leaves her face to face with Ash's killer.

Janet returns in series three to investigate the death of a young cricketer, only to uncover that the professional sporting industry has an underworld of match fixing, performance enhancing drugs, money laundering, kickbacks and murder. # THE CODE

Series 1: 6 x 60'

Stretching from the spectacular red desert of Australia's outback to the cool corridors of power in Canberra, The Code tells the story of two very different brothers who unearth information those at the highest levels of political power will kill to keep secret.

In the middle of the outback, a stolen 4WD collides with a transport truck. Two local kids in the car are hurt. Badly. Someone should have called for help. But they didn't. They didn't because that 'someone' works for a major stakeholder in an international research project no-one talks about.

The kids' accident would have remained a mystery if it weren't for Ned and Jesse Banks – a young internet journalist desperate for a break, and his troubled hacker brother on a strict good-behaviour bond.

Ned and Jesse are gifted a poisoned chalice when a phone video of the outback accident arrives in their in-box. And posting it on-line will cost them more than they ever imagined. Together, they suddenly become the unlikely crusaders for democracy. The decision to dig deeper drags the brothers into the darkest heart of politics, and the web of black marketeers and the international agencies who monitor and manipulate them.

The question is just how far those in authority will go to keep their explosive secret safe. And just how far the two brothers will go to reveal the truth.

Series 2: 6 x 60'

Did Ned, Jesse and Hani really think they'd be able to just stroll away from the fire-storm they unleashed at the end of Series One, a little bruised, but essentially scot-free? As Series 2 opens, serious charges are being filed in an American court and Ned and Jesse Banks come face to face with the very real possibility of being extradited to the U.S. Fortunately for the brothers, the folks in National Security are sitting on a nut they just can't crack and Jesse Banks might be the man to do it... In exchange the government will hold off signing those extradition warrants and on the surface of things, the job doesn't look so hard to swallow.

Jesse will be tasked with luring out one of the most elusive players in the dark-net, Jan Parke. When a young boy goes missing, it appears that Parke's site is offering up his company for a price. The sale of the young boy has been the work of one of Parke's colleagues and Jesse and Ned are left hunting for just what Parke is really involved with, which has those in power so wound up about.

Ned, Jesse and Hani find themselves shoulder to shoulder with a man who is capable of backing up his threats with cyber-weaponry, which has the capacity to bring whole countries to their knees and it becomes clear that the handlers in National Security have not been telling Jesse and Ned the complete truth....

RAKE

Series 1: 8 x 60' | Series 2: 8 x 60'

Series 3: 8 x 60' | Series 4: 8 x 60'

Criminal barrister, Cleaver Greene, has a practice that somehow seems to be devoted to the most hopeless of hopeless cases – from cannibals to ‘dog lovers’ to suicide bombers. Even so, his professional affairs are still less chaotic than his personal ones. Cleaver is reckless, brilliant, self-destructive, funny, iconoclastic and bloody minded – a lawyer who is driven to win the unwinnable and defend the indefensible. The clients he loves the most – the cases that thrill him – are those that appear utterly hopeless. There’s something about being on the wrong side of conventional wisdom that just feels right to him, be it at the bar or the dinner table.

Twisting and weaving the ensemble stories of the characters we’ve grown to love over three stellar seasons, Season 4 continues the misadventures of dissolute Cleaver Greene and cast the fool’s gaze on all levels of politics, the legal system, and our wider fears and obsessions. When Cleaver crashes through the window of an old mentor, now Australia’s most wanted man, it triggers a maelstrom of events that sees the lives and loves of the ensemble cast thrown into chaos, and at its centre, the loveable unlikely hero fends off moral plague and pestilence and rises from the ashes, as the great hope of the downtrodden and oppressed.

Jack's world revolves around the racetrack, the local pub and the artisan woodwork shop where he's apprenticed himself to a master craftsman. When an Australian aid-worker is kidnapped by Muslim extremists, it pits East against West, crescent against cross, life against death. # THE SLAP

8 x 60'

The Slap is a bold, provocative television drama series that forensically examines the mores and morality of contemporary middleclass life. Based on Christos Tsiolkas' best selling novel, The Slap traces the shattering repercussions of a single event upon a group of family and friends.

At a backyard barbeque, a man slaps a child who is not his son. The boy's parents are so affronted by the assault, that they call the police and take the man to court. Friends and family are forced to take sides. One cousin is forced to testify against another. Couples are caught in the crossfire. Beliefs are tested and relationships strained.

The story unfolds through the points of view of eight characters as the court case proceeds, as affairs begin and end, as a pregnancy is decided and marriages morph and change. Each character's life is profoundly affected by 'the slap', and each character is in some way 'slapped' forcing them to face up to fundamental truths about themselves.

Stephen Ezard returns to England to attend the funeral of his brother Michael, and finds a world that has changed subtly but significantly from the one he left behind several years earlier. National security is tighter, and biometric ID cards are compulsory. Passenger profiling at all major transport hubs is common practice, public spaces are monitored 24 hours a day by digital cameras and armed police patrol the streets.

Caught between the expanding powers of government intelligence, the politics of global security and the murky world of illegal refugees and the new underclass of ID castaways, Stephen is forced to challenge his own complacencies about this new society.

DREAMLAND

Series 1: 8 x 30'

This highly amusing satire drama follows the difficult process of taking grand, uncosted, inadequately planned, fundamentally flawed schemes – and passing them off as “Nation Building”.

Set inside the offices of the “Nation Building Authority”, a newly created government organization responsible for overseeing major infrastructure projects, Dreamland explores that moment when bureaucracy and grand dreams collide!

The eight-part office politics mockumentary, follows the working lives of a tight-knit team in charge of guiding big building schemes from announcement to unveiling. Constant shifts in priorities are the order of the day as the staff are asked to come up with plans for everything from new roads and rail lines to airports and high rise urban developments. It's a tribute to those political leaders who have somehow managed to take a long-term vision and use it for short-term gain.

In short, Dreamland examines the forces that go into creating a very well-designed white elephant.

A MOODY CHRISTMAS

A Moody Christmas is a narrative comedy series focused on the lovable, yet seasonally dysfunctional Moody family. With each episode set around Christmas Day, we visit the Moody household once a year at Christmas time as they come together to share this festive season. But while most families bask in the warm glow of Christmas spirit, the Moody's seemingly disintegrate, cracking under the pressure of forced civility and their very unique brand of domestic politics.

The show is seen primarily through the eyes of youngest son, Daniel, who lives in London and with whom we journey home each year. Despite having moved halfway across the globe to get away from them, Dan does actually love his family dearly.

A Moody Christmas is stuffed to the brim of all the excitement Christmas brings, as well as the bad bits – bickering, inappropriate gifts, boring uncles, overbearing in-laws, shocking family secrets and bizarre eccentricities. You see, while in theory Christmas is a time for family to share and celebrate, in reality it's often a time spent with relatives you have nothing in common with, siblings who take pleasure in taunting and irritating, and parents who, no matter how hard you try, are never satisfied.

A Jungleboys Production in association with ABC Australia & Screen NSW

THE MOODYS

8 x 30'

Brace yourself as we follow the Moody family through eight family events that compile into a hilarious family album as they come together in support and in spite of each other.

Dan and Cora return home to Australia to set up house together. Now that they are back down under, everything in their lives is topsy turvy: the family home is for sale, Cora and Dan struggle to make ends meet, Sean's funeral fireworks business is going great guns – literally, Maree and Keu test the freewheeling lifestyle of the grey nomads, Bridget and Roger find out if there's friendship after divorce, and Uncle Terry is in a tangled love affair with Yvonne, a one-woman force of nature. We watch as a year of highs and lows unfold against a backdrop of Australia Day, Bridget's 40th Birthday, The Easter Long Weekend, Sean's Court Case and Terry's run for Council.

THE STRANGE CALLS

Coolum Beach. Quiet, friendly, idyllic. A perfectly ordinary Australian coastal town...

But when the sun goes down, weird things happen in this little slice of paradise. Strange, unexplainable things. Perhaps it has something to do with Mount Coolum, the enormous volcanic boulder that looms ominously over the town. Some say it's magnetic...that it draws strange things to it... Whatever the truth, the locals don't want to talk about it.

Enter Toby Banks, recently disgraced city cop who has been transferred to the Coolum Beach night duty desk. His office: a derelict caravan on the outskirts of town. His job: to answer the late night phone calls from locals.

Known as the 'strange calls', these moments of midnight madness reveal the bizarre truth of the town - a place where people turn into chickens, mermen go to the school dance and a mysterious radio jingle can transform you into a lawn mowing zombie. With the help of Gregor, Coolum's night security man, Banks wearily sets out to investigate the Strange Calls.

Part oddball comedy, part mystery, The Strange Calls paints a light-hearted portrait of Toby Banks - a lost young man, slowly and un-surely finding his place in the world. He's always known he was born to help people, he just didn't realise it would be these people, in this crazy town. And for Banks, the strangest thing of all is when he realises that he finally belongs...
