

Appendix A - Range of Southern Resident orca community

The typical range of the Southern Resident orca community (Lolita's extended family) encompasses the entire inland waterways of the Salish Sea. They are also known to travel along the coasts of Washington and Oregon and rarely as far south as Monterey CA, along Vancouver Island to the north, up to approximately 50 miles offshore in the Pacific Ocean. They usually swim from 75 to 100 miles every 24 hours.
