

united we win

We are part of the international capitalist economy. Company profits come from our work. Capitalists are competing with each other and always need higher profits. There is no limit to their pursuit of profits. This is why capitalists demand new laws from their governments, to make it easier to sack workers, to pay lower wages, to spend less on health & safety. For workers this is a race to the bottom, where most of us will lose.

Workers in France were on the streets for many weeks in April. They won against laws to make it easy to sack young workers.

One million workers in Indonesia marched on the first of May of this year. They were protesting against proposed new laws to make it easier to sack workers.

The new Australian laws make it easier to sack workers. They also reduce our wages and conditions. They restrict our right to organise collectively and belong to unions. They are trying to break us. This attack must be defeated.

Our strength as workers is our unity. Our power is the ability to meet together, build unions, stop work, and act in solidarity. When we organise we have the power to make changes. This fight is a major struggle that involves all workers in the world. Together we can defeat these laws.
