

Japan's "Abandoned People" in the Wake of Fukushima

Brian Earl

Asia-Pacific Journal: Japan Focus

Course Reader no. 6
2013

Japan's "Abandoned People" in the Wake of Fukushima

Introduction

Hiroshi ONITSUKA

Hiroshi Onitsuka, "Hooked on Nuclear Power: Japanese State-Local Relations and the Vicious Cycle of Nuclear Dependence," The Asia-Pacific Journal 10.3.1, January 16, 2012.

Satoko Oka NORIMATSU

Satoko Oka Norimatsu, "Fukushima and Okinawa – the 'Abandoned People,' and Civic Empowerment," The Asia-Pacific Journal 9.47.3, November 21, 2011.

Justin Aukema

Justin Aukema, "A Problem for all Humanity: Nagasaki Writer Hayashi Kyoko Probes the Dangers of Nuclear Energy," The Asia-Pacific Journal 9.52.3, December 26, 2011.

Christopher S. Thompson

Christopher S. Thompson, "Local Perspectives On the Tsunami Disaster: Untold Stories From the Sanriku Coast," The Asia-Pacific Journal 10.10.5, March 5, 2012.

Gayle Greene

Gayle Greene, "Science with a Skew: The Nuclear Power Industry After Chernobyl and Fukushima," The Asia-Pacific Journal 10.1.3, January 2, 2012.

Chris Busby

Chris Busby, "Fukushima Children at Risk of Heart Disease," The Asia-Pacific Journal 9.39.4, September 26, 2011.

Timothy S. George

Timothy S. George, "Fukushima in Light of Minamata," The Asia-Pacific Journal 10.11.5, March 12, 2012.

Shoko YONEYAMA

Shoko Yoneyama, "Life-world: Beyond Fukushima and Minamata," The Asia-Pacific Journal 10.42.2, October 15, 2012.

Recommended for Further Reading