

THE PHILADELPHIA RIOTS.

From the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette of Aug. 2.

Riot and Bloodshed.

Yesterday morning there were arrangements for a procession by the colored people attached to an association called the 'Moyamensing Temperance Society.'

In Shippen, between Fifth and Sixth streets, a disturbance arose, how caused we could not ascertain, but understood that it was the result of some interference with the procession by boys or lads. This led to further violence, and a disturbance was caused, which called to the attention of the police.

The Mayor proceeded at once to increase his establishment, by swearing a large number of police men, sending them, with proper badges, to the place of disturbance. Meantime the rioters were assaulting the houses of the blacks in the vicinity of Lombard street, between Fifth and Eighth streets.

About half-past four o'clock, one or two blacks rushed from a small house in a place called Bradford's alley, a court extending west from Seventh street, parallel with, and north of, St. Mary's street, and discharged a gun at a crowd of boys.

The riot fled into the upper room of the house, where he was beset by a number of men, who broke open the windows, and split down one or two doors. The black attempted to escape by the roof, but was prevented by the police.

Another person took the other side of the man, and he was pelted with bricks and stones. Several persons attempted to save him from the violence of the persons who were pursuing him so hotly.

They crossed Washington square; but the mob headed them at the north-east gate, and beat the black most awfully. Thousands and thousands were assembled to witness the scene.

Another colored man, called George, was brought to the police office with a terrible swelling on his forehead, and his head fractured above his forehead, so severely beaten as to endanger his life.

At a quarter past six o'clock, an attack was made on two houses on Lombard between Seventh and Eighth streets. In one there were no inmates, but the windows and furniture were destroyed.

At a quarter before nine o'clock, an alarm of fire was given on the spot; but no fire was perceptible, however, made the building. The flames shortly, however, made their appearance in the rear of the building, and in a short time the whole mass was completely enveloped in flames.

For a time every part of the streets within two squares north, south, and west, were blocked up, and a number of the tenements occupied by colored persons assailed with stones.

During the severest contest, two white men were stabbed, one in the face, who also had one of his arms broken, and the other in the abdomen. The latter expected to recover from his wounds.

About dinner time, the Mayor and his police officers came on the ground, and made several arrests, which had the effect to disperse the crowd to some extent. Subsequently, the crowd became more numerous, and the aspect of things looked more lowering.

Another one, supposed to be one of those who fired the guns, was also taken by an officer, and on his way to the office was almost killed by the mob. About dinner time the crowds in the several streets had increased to an alarming extent, when every colored person seen in the street was attacked.

On this time up to nine o'clock, there appeared no indication of violence on the part of the mob, which seemed to be divided at several points in the neighborhood. But at that hour a mob of persons entered in the large new brick building, near Lombard street, in Lombard-street, below Seventh, called the Beneficial Hall, and a few moments, the whole building was wrapped in flames, and entirely destroyed.

Shortly after, and while the other fire was still raging, the brick church for colored Presbyterians, on St. Mary street, was set on fire, which was also consumed. During the burning of these buildings, the mob lessened, and finally dispersed, and violence seemed to be stayed. The dwelling in the Hall were injured by the walls which fell upon them, and also more or less by the fire.

This is not a solitary instance—it is but one among a thousand.

Alderman Hoffman committed yesterday nine blacks, who had been found with loaded fire-arms, the day and night before.

Twelve persons were at the Hospital, who had received injuries during Monday's riot, and four persons were brought in yesterday—some of the latter being the individuals mentioned as injured in the statement given above.

The streets in the vicinity of the late riot were blocked by large forces of the city police, Lombard, Seventh and Pine, and Sixth and the command of the Mayor, Alderman Hoffman, and the High Constable of the Court Sessions, and the Deputy Sheriff.

prompt and effectual action in the matter. The outrages which are casting so foul a reproach upon our city, must, and will be put down at all hazards, and let the consequences be what they may.

Riot. Our reporters have, we believe, gathered up particulars which could of the most disgraceful riot in our city yesterday. We saw a portion of the proceedings, to which reference is made in the statement above, and we certainly never saw more ferocious as were those who beat the blacks, after the gun had been discharged at the white boys.

force which followed two colored men, who had been engaged in sawing up a barrel, and were attacked by the sticks of wood seized and used as weapons, and the unoffending men were beaten before they were rescued.

Another row took place in Baker-street, (between Seventh and Eighth, and Shippen and Fitzwater streets) in which several houses were broken in before the Moyamensing Police and citizens, headed by Alderman Campbell, effected the dispersion of the rioters.

In Clymer-street, (between Fifth and Sixth, and Fitzwater and Catherine-streets), there was also an attack upon some houses tenanted by blacks, purely unprovoked; but officer McGarry called some good citizens to his aid, and succeeded in quelling the disturbance and stopping the destruction of property.

At Little Oak-street, (running south from Shippen below Sixth-street) an attack was made by a mob on the houses of some whites; and here Alderman Hoffman, with some other citizens, soon succeeded in quelling the outbreak.

At late as nightfall, the above were all the disturbances in the city, in which several houses were broken in, and the rioters were dispersed. The rioters' post at this time were stationed at the office of Alderman Rodman, Sixth near Pine street; the Mayor's were under his immediate command at the office; and the military were stationed at their several armories.

The following named men were arrested during the day, up to four o'clock in the afternoon, and committed to prison for want of bail: Henry Smith, John Quinlan, Josiah Schulz, Joseph Carr, Henry Hartwick, Samuel Ewing, for each $5000 bail deposited with Robert Schuchitz, Edward McLean, William Roberts, Bernard Kelly, John Wells, John Sinclair, and John Kelly—charged with disturbing the peace.
