Introduction to Bibliography

Bibliography of the IISH in the Twentieth and Twenty-first Century - Introduction

The first title in this bibliography establishes a tradition in the writings about the history and the activities of the Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis. 'A Historical Salvage Institute' is the title of the contribution in Das Neu Tage-Buch of 27 March 1937. The article was written to report the official opening of the Institute which took place on 11 March 1937, one year and 3 months after the official founding. Only then the first staff was able to find the time for this sort of event. That they were busy is an understatement if you look at the results which are already presented in this first article. The article mentions collections of Menshevik and Bolshevik activists. It mentions the burglary and theft of Trotzki-documents in the Paris branch on 6 November 1936. It mentions the magnitude of the library (100.000 volumes then).<sup>1</sup>

The years following March 1937 were of course full of turmoil as the tensions in Europe grew and the moment approached when Hitler launched his war. That part of the Institute's history is well documented as it speaks to the imagination. Collections were brought to safety in Amsterdam, Paris and Oxford. Subsequently collections were confiscated by the Nazi occupiers of the Netherlands and France. Brought to Germany and Austria to form the nucleus of Nazi higher education institutions; they fell into the hands of the Allies in 1945. The Americans and Britains returned the collections to Amsterdam from 1946 onwards. The whereabouts in the Sovietzone were more secretive and unclear, resulting in a slow and incomplete return.

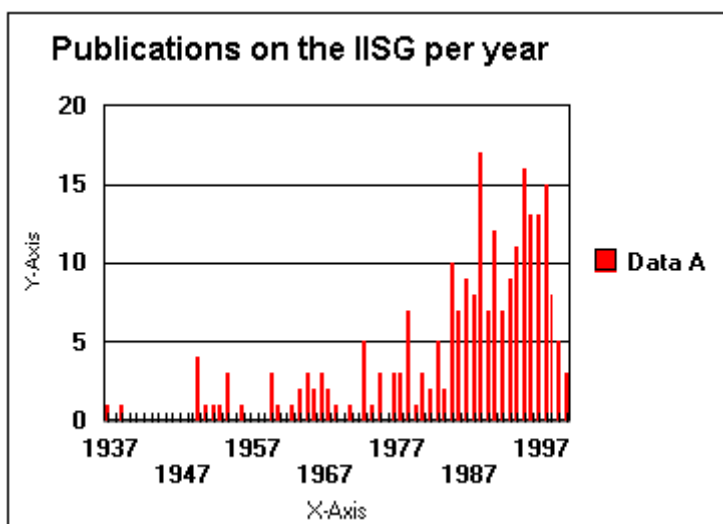

The period of reconstruction was long and unspectacular; however, it made possible for the Institute to blossom from the 1980s onwards.

The history of the Institute is reflected in the data of this bibliography. In graphical form it looks as follows:<sup>2</sup>

---

<sup>2</sup> Publications on the IISG per year: 1937:1 1939:1 1950:4 1951:1 1952:1 1953:1 1954:3 1956:1 1960:3 1961:1 1963:1 1964:2 1965:3 1966:2 1967:3 1968:2 1969:1 1971:1 1973:5 1974:1 1975:3 1977:3 1978:3 1979:7 1980:1 1981:3 1982:2 1983:5 1984:2 1985:10 1986:7 1987:9 1988:8 1989:17 1990:7 1991:12 1992:7 1993:9 1994:11 1995:16 1996:13 1997:13 1998:15 1999:8 2000:5 2001:3 nd:1

The publications listed in this bibliography are as diverse as the activities and holdings in the Institute. The 238 titles presented here (not counting periodicals, series and video's) come from a wide range of sources. Most of them are to be found in serial publications. All in all 96 serial publications carried one or more articles on the work of the Institute. Needless to say that this information is spread out over a wide range of titles: from journals on architecture to professional historical journals. The 'International' in the Institutes name can be seen in the languages in which these titles are published:<sup>3</sup>

English	47
German	31
French	10
Italian	5
Spanish	4
Turkish	4
Russian	2
Finnish	1
Swedish	1
Persian	1
Urdu	1
Dutch	132
Total	239

The bibliography aims to give a complete overview of all publications relevant to the subject, with a few important exceptions (see below). Of course there is no guarantee that everything published everywhere has been found. I would welcome additions.

The main categories in this bibliography are: general publications, publications on the Institute's history, publications on archives and collections, publications on important persons related to the Institute, publications on techniques in the Collection department, on research policy, and publications on the organization of the Institute. The main emphasis is chosen, but of course a many publications do treat more than one aspect of the Institute's work. There are a few categories not listed in this bibliography. They are: newspaper articles, inventories and lists published in the series 'Working Papers' and 'Research Papers', the series of source publications, and microform publications. The name of the series are given at the end of this bibliography. The reason for the omission, relative to newspaper articles, is because these are too numerous and vary in length and quality. The titles in the series Working Papers and Research Papers are published on our Internet site under the heading of Publications so listing them here would double the contents. With regard to the source publications the information is available with the publishers. Microform publications are also listed on the website.

The form of the titles is evident. The titles are sorted according to year of publication, with the exception of the titles in the chapter 'People'. The titles in this chapter are sorted by the name of the person treated in the listed publication. The names are printed bold. Within a year, the titles are sorted on the words in the title. If there is no subject-word mentioned it means the publication is a general description of all the activities of the Institute. The language of the publication is given as a remark. Where a call number is given, it is the call number of the IISG's copy.

This bibliography lists printed publications. Texts on our fast growing Internet site, or on those of others, are not listed here. It is evident that we are on the threshold of a new structure in the world of information gathering, storing and retrieving. For this moment, the limitation is still not bothersome for this subject. That will not be the case anymore after two or three years. So this bibliography in a way is a farewell to the 66 years of the pre-Internet world in which the Institute grew up.
