

"I can get it for you wholesale!"

In this country (and every country where workers are paid wages) every commodity is bought and sold on the market. We have the stock market, the potato market, fish market, the cattle market and the labor market. On the labor market, the workers sell their labor power (their capacity to perform work), and the capitalist buys it. To weaken the position of the workers as they try to get the highest price possible for their labor power, the capitalist class deals through a merchant—the labor faker. The labor faker induces the workers to go on accepting capitalism despite the fact that the workers can never win in the long run. They can only win by ending capitalism NOW!
