POETRY

The following poem, by Geo. W. Corcoran, of Cambridge, Mass., was published in the Liberator, Sept. 1, 1860, and thereupon published with the name of the author. It is the lyric of the century. — Geo. W. Corcoran.

THE SONG OF STEAM

Hear me down with your iron bands;
Hear me down with your iron bands;
I am the power of your iron bands,
As the trumpet sounds a strain.

REFLECTORY

Of Association.
That soul which is the center of mankind,
In favor of their own immediate relatives or dependents,
By a natural instinct, is amplified and extended.

MISCELLANY

TRAVELS IN PERU.
BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE for August is an interesting number.
It contains a very interesting article on Peru,
written by a gentleman who has just returned from a tour of observation.

THE SINGING BIRD

When the morning comes, and the sun is up,
And the birds are singing,
I sit and listen to their sweet voices,
And my heart is glad.

THE SINGING BIRD

When the morning comes, and the sun is up,
And the birds are singing,
I sit and listen to their sweet voices,
And my heart is glad.

THE FINE TREE

Written on hearing that the Anti-Slavery Bazaar of Boston & Philadelphia had been rejected by the Convention of the Year 1860.

PROS GRATIUS FOR MURDER

From the Christian Register of Oct. 1, 1860.
A man who has been convicted of murder,
and sentenced to the gallows,
is often asked,
"Will you forgive me?"
