Indian Revolution:
The Roll Call of Honour

Communist Party of India (Maoist)

Foreword

On the occasion of the ten years celebrations of the formation of CPI(Maoist), as part of our endeavor for documentation of important materials of political and historical significance regarding the New Democratic Revolution (NDR) in India led by the party, we are publishing here a photo album of the ‘Martyrs of the Indian Revolution’ of the past decade.

In this decade since the formation of the CPI (Maoist), 2,332 comrades and revolutionary masses have laid down their invaluable lives in the path of protracted people’s war blazed by the fore-founder leaders of CPI(Maoist) and martyr comrades Charu Mazumdar and Kanhai Chatterji for the victory of NDR in our country and for the ultimate goal of reaching communism through socialism.

All these martyrs are the beloved daughters and sons of the toiling masses who worked and died for their liberation and for the liberation of humanity from all forms of exploitation and oppression. Their place is beside all those martyrs of the World Socialist Revolution who were martyred as part of revolutions for a new society in their countries.

The martyrs of the Indian revolution represent the scientific ideology of Marxism-Leninism-Maoism (MLM). They herald a new society, new politics, new economy and new culture and are forerunners of the new kind of human beings who would inhabit a communist society. They represent a great history. They represent all that is just, righteous, virtuous, moral and humane in human beings. The great values of selflessness, sacrifice, unflinching commitment to the revolution, placing the interest of the collective above individual interests, undaunted courage in facing the enemy, broadness in thinking, love for the people and comrades, steely determination to confront and overcome any number of difficulties, perseverance in the face of hardships, devotion to serving the people and many more such higher values have been imbibed and practiced by these martyrs. They have placed glorious models in front of us to emulate with the way they lived and died.

Knowing about them means knowing about the necessity for a revolution in our country and also who needs it the most. It means knowing how to make this revolution and what kind of grit goes into its making. It means knowing about how a communist revolution can unleash the creativity, courage and fighting spirit and produce genuine people's leaders at every level of the proletarian party and in every revolutionary organisation of the masses. It means knowing how class relations surpass blood relations. It means how an aspiration for a better world can make you selfless. It means knowing about how a scientific ideology can turn into a mighty force if it is applied correctly and creatively by a proletarian party according to the concrete conditions.

All the classes that need a NDR in our country for their liberation, i.e. the working class, landless, poor peasants, middle peasants, the petty bourgeoisie and even the rich peasants, constitute the class background of these martyrs. The overwhelming majority of them belonged to the most oppressed classes and sections of our society – the peasantry, particularly landless and poor peasants, working class and Adivasis, Dalits and women. The martyrs from a petty bourgeois background occupy the next place. The number of women martyrs in this decade is nearly 400 and this huge number is reflective of their aspiration for revolution. Suffice it will to say here that the huge number of women among the martyrs in a way indicates what a mighty force women are in the Indian revolution.

A very heart-rending feature about the martyrs is the presence of several children and very elderly persons among them. Almost all of them were killed by the state forces and their counter-revolutionary killer gangs/armed organisations in massacres or targeted killings.

We find comrades serving the revolution while fulfilling various levels of responsibilities among the martyrs i.e. the members of Central Committee, State, Regional, District, Area Committees and Gram (village) party committees (GPC), party cells and individual party members; members of Central Military Commission (CMC), various levels of Commands and Party Committees in PLGA, fighters of PLGA; leaders and activists of Revolutionary People's Committees (RPCs) and various mass organisations. Apart from them, we find several martyrs who broadly belong to the revolutionary camp who were killed in brutal massacres or by the enemy forces/counter-revolutionary gangs.

The martyrs came from various States along the length and breadth of India. They hail from Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Chhattisgarh, Bihar, Jharkhand, Paschim Banga, Maharashtra, Odisha, Karnataka, Asom, Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Gujarat, Haryana, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, and Uttarakhand states. They belonged to various nationalities, tribes, religions, spoke diverse languages and followed diverse cultural traditions. This diversity reflects the strength of the revolutionary movement and its deep-rootedness among the masses engaged in the process of building a new society. It is the ideology of MLM, a revolutionary proletarian party – the CPI(Maoist), a people’s army – the PLGA, the new organs of people’s political power – the RPCs and revolutionary and democratic mass organisations and trade unions that united all of them by millions upon millions of the masses to march along the path of PPW for the victory of NDR in our country.

While the great majority of comrades have been martyred in either our attacks on the enemy forces and their attacks on us or were killed in fake encounters after being caught by the enemy forces, a few have died of old age and/or health related problems and in accidents. Some like our beloved veteran comrade Sushil Roy (PBM) breathed their last due to the callous treatment of the rulers and we have to consider such deaths and deaths inside prisons and custodies as killings by the enemy. Whatever may have been the cause for their deaths, they have all lived and worked till their last breath for the revolution and became immortal. All their martyrdoms are loftier than the Himalayas.

People always cherish the memories of their beloved martyrs. During decades long waging of PPW in our country, many families have lost more than one or more of their near and dear in this war. Any symbols that keep the memories of martyrs alive are preserved by the people and cherished as treasures, as a legacy to be handed over to the next generations. It is one of the bounden duties of the revolutionary movement to record for posterity the photographs of martyrs, materials used by them, their writings, audio and video materials where their voices are recorded or were filmed etc. The future generations would come to know through such mementos too about those martyrs who made this earth a better place to live for them, to get inspired from them and to carry forward their unfulfilled dreams.

As part of fulfilling this duty, we are publishing this photo album of the ‘Martyrs of Indian Revolution’ of the past decade. Looking at the photographs makes them more real and alive than when you just read about them. They no longer remain anonymous or distant and even those who cannot read can identify with them and feel closer to them and get inspired by looking at their photos. Their faces become etched in our minds along with their contributions when we look at the photographs while reading about them. A considerable number of the martyrs were young revolutionaries brimming with zeal for life, revolutionary fervor and great confidence in the path of people’s war. Taken at different periods of their lives and expressing various shades of emotions, the photographs of the martyrs bring us both joy and sorrow. To know that the enemy has cruelly killed them or death snatched them away from the revolution prematurely pains us and at the same time inspires us to continue resolutely to fulfill their aspirations for a new society free from all forms of class exploitation and oppression.

However, we have to make a self-criticism that we are unable to make all the photographs of our beloved martyrs available here. The non-availability of photos is also the reason why we are obliged to include images of dead bodies of a few martyrs. The main reason for this paucity is the severe repressive conditions we are facing as part of the 'war on people' launched by the ruling classes on our movement. Moreover, the armed forces of the state regularly destroy the photos, mementos and memorials of the martyrs by attacking their houses and villages in an attempt to exterminate their memories. But reclaiming the memories of our beloved martyrs from those who are bent on destroying them is very much a part of the resistance war and we vow to carry on our battle on this front too.

Though we could not get all the photographs to make this photo album complete, we have tried to put together a comprehensive list of all the martyrs which is being published separately. However there are gaps in information in this regard too. We promise to try our best in the future to fill such gaps as well as to correct any errors which may have inadvertently crept in inspite of our best efforts regarding the details of the martyrs with the help and involvement of our comrades and the people.

We are hopeful that the photo album will help the readers get a closer understanding of the revolutionary movement led by CPI(Maoist) through a glimpse of those who have nurtured it with their blood. We appeal to the readers to propagate about the martyrs as widely as possible so that each person gets an opportunity to know and decide which path to take for changing their lives, the society and the world.

“How then do we justify the encouragement of heroic sacrifice in war? Every war exacts a price, sometimes an extremely high one. Is this not in contradiction with "preserving oneself"? In fact, there is no contradiction at all; to put it more exactly; sacrifice and self-preservation are both opposite and complementary to each other. For such sacrifice is essential not only for destroying the enemy but also for preserving oneself—partial and temporary "non-preservation" (sacrifice, or paying the price) is necessary for the sake of general and permanent preservation”.

Martyred Democrats and Friends of Indian Revolution

'Comrade Bethune's spirit, his utter devotion to others without any thought of self, was shown in his great sense of responsibility in his work and his great warm-heartedness towards all comrades and the people... We must all learn the spirit of absolute selflessness from him. With this spirit everyone can be very useful to the people. A man's ability may be great or small, but if he has this spirit, he is already noble-minded and pure, a man of moral integrity and above vulgar interests, a man who is of value to the people.'

– Mao Tse-tung, 'In Memory of Norman Bethune'

Martyrs of Indian Revolution: The Roll Call of Honour

The martyrs of the Indian revolution represent the scientific ideology of Marxism-Leninism-Maoism (MLM). They herald a new society, new politics, new economy and new culture and are forerunners of the new kind of human beings who would inhabit a communist society. They represent a great history. They represent all that is just, righteous, virtuous, moral and humane in human beings. The great values of selflessness, sacrifice, unflinching commitment to the revolution, placing the interest of the collective above individual interests, undaunted courage in facing the enemy, broadness in thinking, love for the people and comrades, steely determination to confront and overcome any number of difficulties, perseverance in the face of hardships, devotion to serving the people and many more such higher values have been imbibed and practiced by these martyrs. They have placed glorious models in front of us to emulate with the way they lived and died.

Knowing about them means knowing about the necessity for a revolution in our country and also who needs it the most. It means knowing how to make this revolution and what kind of grit goes into its making. It means knowing about how a communist revolution can unleash the creativity, courage and fighting spirit and produce genuine people's leaders at every level of the proletarian party and in every revolutionary organisation of the masses. It means knowing how class relations surpass blood relations. It means how an aspiration for a better world can make you selfless. It means knowing about how a scientific ideology can turn into a mighty force if it is applied correctly and creatively by a proletarian party according to the concrete conditions.
